Clay Denies Shift in German Policy

Du Pont Tax Bill Stalls Adjournment

Congress Extends Session as GOP Insists on Action

WASHINGTON (AP)—An unexpected parliamentary wrench jammed the legislative machinery Saturday afternoon just as Congress appeared to be rolling to adjournment.

A Republican maneuver on an appropriations bill stalled the adjournment drive but the real issue seemed to lie in a special tax bill affecting the huge Du Pont corporation.

The Senate had emerged from a vest-pocket filibuster, passed one of three remaining appropriations bills and seemed fairly headed for the finish line. Then Majority Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana suddenly broke the news that means this session can not end before Monday—and may run well into next week.

* * * *

MANSFIELD explained he had been advised by the Republican side that an objection would be made to taking up the $1-billion supplemental appropriations bill approved Friday by the Senate Appropriations Committee. Under Senate rules, money bills cannot be passed until three days after committee approval unless there is unanimous consent to waive the rules.

The Democratic leader earlier had thought he had assurances there would be no objection. When he learned unanimous consent would not be forthcoming he at once got an order for the Senate to meet again Monday.

* * * *

IT APPEARED the sudden slowdown traces to a pending bill to ease the tax impact of a court-ordered disposal of General Motors stock held by the E. I. Du Pont de Nemours Co.

Mansfield had planned to lay aside this legislation in order to call up the supplemental appropriations bill, but a Republican ground swell developed against this procedure.

Sen. Everett M. Dirksen, the Republican leader from Illinois, made this clear when he said the session now probably will last "deep into next week" and promptly added that adjournment will not come until after passage of the Du Pont tax bill.

Reds Seek Big 4 U.N. Chief Talks

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—The Soviet Union was reported Saturday to have proposed a meeting of Big Four diplomats to discuss the question of temporary U.N. leadership to replace the late Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold.

Bullets in Body on Dag Plane

NDOLA, Northern Rhodesia (AP) — The Rhodesian federal government said Saturday bullets were found in one of the bodies in the crash that killed Dag Hammarskjold but said they were not fired from any weapon.

The statement, by Lt. Col. Maurice Barber, the Rhodesian federation's director of civil aviation, said:

"In regard to press reports that bullets were found in one of the bodies at the scene of the Ndola air crash, this is correct but is of no significance, as it is known that the aircraft had on board arms and ammunition which were exploded in the intense fire that followed the crash.

"The bullets found in the body of one of the guards were definitely not fired from any weapon."

Diplomatic sources said Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Valerian A. Zorin had given the proposal to a middle-of-the-road intermediary for relay to U. N. ambassadors Adlai E. Stevenson of the United States, Sir Patrick Dean of Britain and Armand Berard of France.

* * * *

BUT THEY said that in making it, Zorin stated that the temporary leadership of the U. N. secretariat should be a troika consisting of U. N. under secretaries Ralph J. Bunche of the United States, Georgy P. Arkadev of the Soviet Union and Chakravarthi V. Narasimhan of India.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk is on record against a troika "in any form and at any level of the secretariat." He told foreign correspondents in New York Friday such an arrangement "would paralyze the executive of the United Nations and weaken it irreparably."

The troika is the name given to Soviet Premier Khrushchev's plan to abolish the office of U. N. secretary-general and put in its place a board of three men representing Communist, Western-Allied and neutralist countries,

Tells Bonn: Face Reality on Germany

See Limited U.S. Recognition for Rights in Berlin

BERLIN (AP) — Gen. Lucius D. Clay, President Kennedy's special envoy to Berlin, asserted Saturday there has been no change in U. S. policy on Germany and that the West is determined to maintain its rights in divided Berlin.

At the same time it was disclosed that Clay had advised West Germany to face up to the reality of Communist East Germany.

* * * *

CLAY CAME out with the advice Friday in a private talk with reporters and West Berlin publishers. Clay insisted that he should not be quoted, but the story created such a furor in Western political circles that his name quickly became connected with it.

The general called in reporters Saturday to issue a statement declaring "there has been no change in U. S. policy and no change was announced by a U. S. spokesman in Berlin."

Informed sources said it is clear that the United States has not made any decision at this stage to give any recognition to the East German Communist regime. But the new line taken by Clay apparently was intended to set the stage for a Western package proposal in forthcoming negotiations with Russia on Berlin.

* * * *

SUCH A proposal may seek to trade some limited recognition of East Germany for a formal confirmation by both the Soviets and East Germans of Western rights in Berlin and on the access routes to the isolated city.

A proposal of this nature would constitute a major concession intended to safeguard the freedom of West Berlin.

Informants said the U. S. government evidently believed West Germany would have to be prepared for any such fundamental change in the

1,000 to Guard Kennedy at U.N.

NEW YORK (AP) — More than 1,000 uniformed police were assigned Sunday to guard President Kennedy during his visit here to address the United Nations General Assembly.

They will be augmented by an undisclosed number of police detectives and Secret Service and other federal agents in plain clothes.

Kennedy will arrive by plane late tonight from Hyannis Port, Mass. He will address the U.N. on Monday and will leave the city Tuesday morning.

Titan Hits Mark; First to Use Silo

VANDENBERG AIR FORCE BASE (AP)—A Titan missile fired from here Saturday dropped its mock warhead "in the general area downrange" 4,500 miles away near Wake Island, the Air Force said Saturday night.

The Titan—a 97-foot, 110-ton monster—is this country's mightiest missile. It was fired from here at 12:36 p. m.

It was the first firing of a combat-type Titan from what is called an armored combat launch site—where the missile rises from an underground silo and then is fired toward its target.

* * * *

THE EXACT distance covered wasn't given. Said the Air Force:

The Air Force spokesman added:

"We're extremely happy with the entire test, this being the first Titan launched from an operational-type facility."

The firing followed the operations system for Titan shots:

The two-stage rocket lifted from the ground. Soon afterward the first stage booster fell away. The second stage carried the nose cone to an area above the target zone. Then the nose cone—which would carry a nuclear weapon in a combat situation—plunged toward the target.

* * * *

MAIN GOAL of the test was a successful firing under conditions comparable to those at various Titan bases being rushed to completion in western and central states.

Not only the missile itself but also its lair, a bombproof silo from which it was elevated just before firing, was on trial.

Titans of the type launched Saturday are designed, like the already operational Atlas, to fire on 15 minutes warning. They are fueled in their silos and must be elevated to the surface for launching.

A follow-on version called Titan II can be stored fueled indefinitely and be fired from the bottom of the silo.

Turk Plane Crashes; 29 Feared Dead

ANKARA, Turkey (AP) — A twin-engine Turkish airliner crashed in torrential rain near here Saturday night. Airline officials said all 25 passengers and the crew of four were believed killed.

The passengers included one American, Bernard Havens, an oil company employ whose home town was unavailable. The crash occurred soon after 2 p.m. (EDT) near Ensenboga Airport which serves this captial city.

The plane, a Fairchild propjet passenger liner, was en route from Adana, near Turkey's southern coast, to Ankara.

The crash was the first at Ensenboga since January 19, 1960, when a French Caravelle jet flew into a mountain, killing all 42 aboard.

The last message from the plane was received a little more than five minutes before the plane was scheduled to land. The pilot reported all was normal.

Ship Tieup Seen Likely by Tuesday

Tieup of shipping along the Pacific Coast appears likely by Tuesday morning, barring an 11th-hour settlement, labor officials warned Saturday night.

A spokesman for the Masters, Mates and Pilots Union pointed to these factors as a weathervane toward a strike:

1. The MMP and the Pacific Maritime Association still have not settled their differences despite the 80-day Taft-Hartley injunction halting the original walkout.

2. Endorsement by Pacific Coast union members of their leaders' policy of "no contract, no work."

3. Plans by the union to ask a federal judge in New York to lift the injunction Monday morning.

In the face of these odds, federal mediators late Saturday emphasized that they will seek to bring both bargaining parties together Monday for a possible last-minute settlement.

7 Missing as Plane Ditches

NORFOLK, Va. (AP) — A merchant ship has picked up three survivors of a Navy plane which broke up on impact. Seven others are missing. The survivors were picked up by the merchant ship African Pilot.

Earlier a Coast Guard plane reported sighting flares and two rafts with survivors.

The plane, a Marlin P5M patrol bomber, was operating out of Bermuda with a 10-man crew in the Navy exercise Fishplay. The pilot radioed that one of the plane's engines had gone out.

The Navy identified the seven missing men and their next of kin as: plane commander, Lt. Cmdr. Albert John Tait, (wife in Bermuda); Lt. (j.g.) Robert Frederick Carroll (wife in Bermuda); Lt. (j.g.) Cameron Page Cooper (wife in Bermuda); ADR/2 Charles Roy Dunaway (wife in Bermuda); AE3 Erwin Dewey Thompson (wife in Bermuda); AN Charles Turner (mother, Essie Mae Turner, Montclair, N.J.) and ATN/3 Davis William Wood (parents, Mr. and Mrs. John E. 2,500 Flee Lava River in Hawaii

HILO, Hawaii (UPI) — A new volcano eruption Saturday sent a river of molten lava coursing towards four Hawaii Island villages which were hastily abandoned by their 2,500 residents.

The Ilewa volcano, which caused widespread damage in a 1955 eruption, renewed her violence with a tremendous explosion sending a 300-foot high fountain of red hot rock into the sky.

National Guard trucks brought the residents 20 miles to Hilo where emergency quarters were set up in a school.

What Urban Renewal Can Do for L.B.

By DON OHL
(Third of a Series)

What an urban renewal or redevelopment program could mean to the city's downtown water front can be foretold somewhat by looking at two Long Beach areas where big public improvements recently have been constructed.

These areas—one in the vicinity of the marina and the other in the vicinity of the Memorial Hospital and Osteopathic Hospital—are developing rapidly through private investments.

The $14-million marina has attracted more than $11 million in major new private construction.

Included in this is a new shopping center near the intersection of Pacific Coast Highway and Second Street. Major structures in the area now are Buffums' marina store, a Lucky Stores market and Hof's Hut restaurant.

A 200-unit motel is almost ready for construction there. A dining hall that will seat more than 1,000 should be under way soon, along with assorted small shops.

Another 100-unit motel with convention facilities is planned a few blocks away. A large private marina is already operating. An extensive mobile home park is under development.

A major luxury development is under construction near the marine stadium and a luxury multi-story apartment house is ready to go.

In addition to these projects, considerable private development has taken place throughout the whole section of the city surrounding the marina.

Seal Beach has benefited from this, too, with numerous fine home developments near the marine facility.

Near the two new hospitals, which are located between Spring and Willow and Atlantic and Pacific, some $4 million in new investments have been triggered by these developments.

Among the improvements are several medical buildings, doctors' offices, motels, apartments and shops. A number of existing businesses and living units have been considerably spruced up.

It might be well to recall that only a few years ago this section of the Signal Hill oil field was called the frog pond.

The picture in the west beach area south of Ocean and between Magnolia and the flood-control channel is somewhat different.

This area, incidentally, is the first choice on most planners' lists as the Long Beach area which most urgently needs redeveloping.

The west beach area has about 20 acres; houses some 1,100 persons, many of them transients.

* * * *

A MAJORITY of the buildings in the area could be officially labeled substandard because of poor lighting, ven-

L.A.C. Says:

Foreign Aid and Birth Control

A large advertisement signed by over 100 well known citizens over the nation, appeared in the Wall Street Journal. It was a warning that our foreign aid to backward countries is being nullified by the spiraling population growth in those countries. It was in support of foreign aid—but said "if not accompanied by aid in population control, it may well compound the problem."

The president of the World Bank reported to the United Nations and Economic and Social Council that "population growth threatens to nullify all our efforts to raise living standards in the poorer countries—unless population growth can be restrained we may have to abandon for this generation our hopes of economic progress in the crowded lands of Africa, Asia and the Middle East."

It is estimated the number of people in Latin America will rise from 200 million to 600 million in the next 30 years. It is this area to which our new program of $20 billion of foreign aid is directed. But it is pointed out that the increased population will mean even greater poverty than that existing today. It can only be avoided if there is a curb placed on that increase.

It is pointed out that this population explosion in these backward countries is largely due to our well-meant interference with the controlling laws of nature. From the most humanitarian motives we have drastically lowered the death rates in these countries —but have neglected to exert compensating influence on the birth rates.

The suggestion is made to President Kennedy that along with our federal aid we develop a constructive population control program to go with it. This was included in the Draper report of 1959 which called for population planning for friendly nations upon their request. There is evidence that many of these nations would welcome such information. But the reluctance to take any action on birth control leaves the problem unsolved.

Referring to the situation in Asia, Sen. Fulbright said: "The Indians and Pakistanians have both very frankly said something has to be done. This is fundamental to the success of the economic program. I do not see why the government should be so reluctant about it."

It may be well said that the United States faces a tremendous population increase over the next 30 years. It is probable we will double our present population by the year 2000. But we have the resources and resourcefulness to take care of such an increase —providing we do not dissipate them. But because of their already great numbers, the Asian and African areas will increase almost twice as fast as we will. We cannot hope to supply them with the necessities of life and hope to maintain anything like our own present living standards.

It is a very controversial subject. But it will not be solved by ignoring it. Japan has solved its overcrowding problem by a birth control program. It is apparent the United States cannot hope to overcome poverty for the world's present population when the numbers will double during the next 10 to 15 years.

Several speeches for and against the DuPont bill were made but no action of any kind was taken.

Before recessing, the House gave 251-50 approval to a new arms-control and disarmament agency urgently asked by President Kennedy and 228-71 passage to a measure to boost the number of government employes who may draw top-bracket pay.

The Senate later completed action on both bills by voice vote, sending them to the White House.

ASSIST MOTORISTS IN RED LAND

Army Fortifies Patrol on Berlin-West Road

BERLIN (AP)—The U.S. Army sent extra jeep patrols along the autobahn lifeline between Berlin and the West Saturday to protect soldier motorists.

An Army spokesman said the action was taken "to assist American military travelers" along the 110-mile highway across Communist territory.

Informed sources said the extra patrols were ordered by Gen. Lucius D. Clay, President Kennedy's special envoy in Berlin.

THE EXTRA PATROLS were ordered by Gen. Lucius D. Clay after two U.S. soldiers had been held six hours by Communist police in an autobahn incident last Thursday.

Thursday, two U.S. soldiers were stopped by Communist police and forced out of their privately owned car although it bore U.S. Army license plates. They were taken to Potsdam and held for six hours until a Soviet officer arrived. They were then allowed to continue their journey to Helmstedt.

Western position.

Western policy since the war has been based on the principle that the East German regime is illegal and that there can be no official dealings with it.

* * * *

CLAY'S TALK with reporters Friday was described as a background briefing. More than 100 Western newsmen, including several West Berlin publishers, attended the 90-minute session at Clay's lakeside residence.

Clay talked freely of the U.S. view of forthcoming negotiations with the Soviet Union, on the understanding that his remarks would not be attributed to him. In the subsequent uproar over what he had said, one West Berlin newspaper (Der Tagesspiegel) directly implied that Clay was the source.

The disclosure then spread to other papers and to an American radio network.

* * * *

CLAY IN his public statement Saturday recalled that the reunification of Germany remains the ultimate goal of U.S. policy on Germany. He did not say how or when this could be achieved.

The general also reaffirmed U.S. determination to keep open the air corridors to this Communist-encircled city.

"We are in Berlin by right of victory," he said, "and we propose to maintain rights of access on the ground for Allied personnel and to keep the use of the air corridors completely free."

West German President Heinrich Luebke and Mayor Willy Brandt of West Berlin conferred here following the disclosure that West German officials are being advised to face up to the existence of Communist East Germany, whether they like it or not.

* * * *

INFORMED circles said German officials regard this as the prelude to a more elastic U.S. attitude in future attempts to gets an East-West settlement of the Berlin and German problems.

(Tass, the Soviet news agency, took note of the reports emanating from Berlin Saturday, quoting dispatches as saying "the two German States are a reality and West Germany should accept that fact." Tass also noted that the Berlin newspaper Der Tagespiegel had connected the reports to Gen. Clay and that the U.S. State Department had called the reports "highly inaccurate.")

JFK Readies U.N. Speech for Monday

HYANNIS PORT, Mass. (UPI) — President Kennedy Saturday worked on the key address he will deliver to the United Nations General Assembly Monday in which he will explain the U. S. position on Berlin and reaffirm faith in the world peace organization.

It was reported the U. S. chief executive planned to issue a firm summons for nations to stand and be counted in their support of the United Nations following the death of Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold in a plane crash.

* * * *

KENNEDY also was expected to reassert the need for Western firmness in the face of Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev's threats against West Berlin, while making clear to the assembly that the door was open for any "reasonable" settlement with Russia.

The speech also will point up new Western disarmament proposals, it was understood.

Kennedy will fly to New York today, arriving at La Guardia Field around 6:30 p.m. EDT. He will motor to the Hotel Carlysle where he will put the finishing touches on his U. N. address.

* * * *

KHRUSHCHEV unveiled the plan before the U. N. General Assembly a year ago. Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko is expected to push it when he speaks to the assembly Tuesday morning, 24 hours after President Kennedy. Britain and France oppose it as strongly as the United States.

President John F. Kennedy's address Monday before the morning session of the United Nations General Assembly will be telecast live on all networks at a time expected to be about 7:30 a.m. (PST), or shortly thereafter.

The address will be seen on KNXT, channel 2; KRCA, channel 4; and KABC—TV, channel 7, and broadcast at the same hour on radio stations KABC, KMPC, KNX and KFI.

Informants said there was a chance one or more of the Western ambassadors might meet Zorin Tuesday to discuss an interim arrangement for the U. N.'s top level.

Zorin's theory, it was said, is that the Big Four could make an interim arrangement among themselves without a meeting of either the Security Council or the General Assembly.

* * * *

HE GAVE HIS views Friday night to Liberian Ambassador Nathan Barnes, president of the Security Council. Barnes conferred with Zorin on behalf of a dozen middle-of-the-road countries that want the assembly to name one man to take charge of the secretariat till a new secretary-general can be chosen.

The middle-of-the-road countries are afraid if the council met now to recommend a permanent secretary-general, the Russians would veto him because they want the troika.

But they argue that there is nothing in the charter to prevent the assembly from naming a temporary head of the secretariat by itself without bringing the council into the thing and running into a veto.

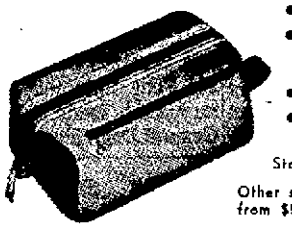

They are working on a resolution for this purpose.

Among those mentioned for the job are under secretary Narasimhan; Raul Prebisch of Argentina, executive secretary of the economic commission for Latin America; B. K. Nehru, Indian ambassador to Washington; Mongi Slim of Tunisia, president of the assembly; Boland, last year's president, and U Thant, Burma's U. N. ambassador.

Jets on Way to Congo to Back Up U.N.

By WILLIAM ANDERSON

LEOPOLDVILLE (UPI) — The United Nations announced Saturday that jet fighters and bombers — composing the world organization's first offensive Air Force since the Korean war—would arrive in the Congo Monday.

Ireland's Gen. Sean McKeown, U.N. Congo military commander, told a news conference that 13 warplanes are being sent by Sweden, India and Ethiopia.

He said Ethiopian jets will arrive on Monday as will four Swedish Lansen jets. Indian Canberra bomber-interceptors will fly in later in the week, he added.

* * * *

McKEOWN SAID the jets will be used primarily to escort U.N. transport planes—including American-manned cargo carriers placed at U.N. disposal by the United States—on trips in the Congo.

However, during the conference, McKeown referred to the attacks on U.N. forces by a single Katanga jet during the fighting in the secessionist province of the Congo.

U.N. spokesmen reported that calm generally prevailed throughout Katanga, with both sides honoring the cease-fire which went into effect three days ago. The only shooting reported was sporadic sniping by Katangese on the Baluba refugee camps outside of Elisabethville.

* * * *

HUNDREDS of hunger-crazed Baluba tribesmen invaded Elisabethville Saturday in search of food. They were dispersed by Katanga police.

McKeown told the news conference that the United Nations always had the situation under control and could have won the battle for Katanga had it wanted.

Ringleader Identified in Mexico Plot

MEXICO CITY (AP) — The government said Saturday that last weekend's bloody Independence Day uprisings stemmed from a retired army general's plot to overthrow the government.

The attorney general's office said the ringleaders have been arrested and the plot broken up. They said the situation is calm throughout Mexico.

Gen. Celestino Gasca Villasenor, a retired officer and prominent in politics in 1952, was named as the master mind behind the plot. In all, 29 persons have been formally charged and are being moved to a federal prison today.

The disturbances erupted in 10 states Sept. 15 as President Adolfo Lopez Mateos launched a three-day holiday commemorating Mexico's independence.

There were reports of gun battles in at least two dozen towns and villages. The death toll was believed to be about 40, although some sources said it was much higher.

JFK Names Peace Corps Deputy Chief

HYANNIS PORT, Mass. (AP) — President Kennedy Saturday announced his appointment of Paul Geren, 47, as deputy director of the Peace Corps which is headed by his brother-in-law, R. Sargent Shriver.

Geren, a career foreign service officer, now is deputy director of the Office of International Financial and Development Affairs in the Department of State.

Geren's salary is to be set by the President with a limitation at $19,500 a year. Shriver is serving without salary.

* * * *

GEREN, a native of El Dorado, Ark., was in Burma at the time of Pearl Harbor, and served with the Chinese army there and later joined the Burma surgeon, Dr. Gordon Seagrave.

He is married and the father of three daughters.

OK for Kennedy Disarm Agency

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Congress Saturday sent to President Kennedy legislation setting up a new agency to help him shape disarmament policy.

The legislation, strongly requested by the White House, authorized $10 million to run the agency in its first year of operation.

* * * *

THE SENATE approved the bill soon after the House passed it by a roll call vote of 251 to 50.

In appealing for passage of the bill, Rep. Walter H. Judd of Minnesota, a top Republican on the House Foreign Affairs Committee, said it did not foreshadow any weakening of U.S. defenses.

"Our allies should understand this," he said, "and so should (Soviet Premier Nikita) Khrushchev."

* * * *

THE COMPROMISE, worked out only Friday by a joint House-Senate Conference Committee, provides that the agency will be called "the United States Arms Control and Disarmament Agency."

It authorized $10 million to run the agency the first year.

The House originally balked at putting the word "disarmament" in the title on grounds this might be interpreted as a softening of U.S. policy in the tense international situation.

* * * *

BUT FOREIGN Affairs Chairman Thomas E. Morgan, D-Pa., assured the House the bill contained safeguards against major U.S. disarmament moves without specific congressional consent.

The bill was tailored to meet House demands that the agency be semi-independent of the State Department by giving the director the right to go directly to the chief executive.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The 251-50 vote by which the House Saturday passed a compromise bill creating a new arms control and disarmament agency included:

Extra Day for GM Bargaining

DETROIT (AP)—The United Auto Workers of America Saturday night gave 10 holdout locals blocking final settlement of a two-week-old General Motors strike one more day at least to negotiate new at-the-plant working agreements.

Agreement on a new national economic package, which the union estimates is worth more than 12 cents hourly in take-home pay, was reached Sept. 6, but local unions were given authority to strike in support of their at-the-plant demands at 10 a.m. Sept. 11 and GM has been crippled since.

* * * *

AT ONE TIME, 92 of GM's 129 plants were idled by strikes and more than 260,000 of GM's 350,000 hourly paid workers off the job. Local settlements gradually have whittled down the totals.

Only 10 plants lacked local-level settlements at 10 p.m., and the board could, if it chose, order workers at them to return Monday, agreement or not. There had been some indications that the board might order the holdouts back at Saturday night's meeting.

Hunt Bandits Who Robbed L.B. Jeweler

Sheriff's deputies Saturday were searching for two bandits who robbed a Long Beach jeweler and his wife of $6,655 in jewelry and $48 in cash at their home in Rossmoor.

Robbed by the bandits Friday night were Mr. and Mrs. David Daniel Ungar, of 12022 Montecito Road. Ungar, 63, is owner of Daniel's Jewelry, 17 Pine Ave.

The robbers, who wore feature-distorting silk stockings over their heads, took a $2,500 diamond ring, a $1,250 wrist watch and other jewelry.

STOCKHOLM (UPI)—Princess Desiree of Sweden will announce her engagement to Swedish Baron Nils Silverschild after the Christmas holidays, the newspaper Expressen reported Saturday.

Cambodia Road-Job Bunglers Assailed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A House investigating subcommittee charged Saturday a U.S. roadbuilding project in Cambodia was "so badly bungled" that Justice Department action may be warranted.

The report said the $34-million Cambodian-American Friendship Road was so poorly constructed it has become a source of Communist propaganda in the Far East.

* * * *

ACCORDING TO the investigation by the government operations subcommittee, the highway built with foreign-aid funds began falling apart almost immediately after it was completed two years ago.

The subcommittee demanded that responsibility be fixed and, if findings warrant, that the case be turned over to the Justice Department for possible prosecution or damage claims.

The congressmen said the American contractor, the American engineer, and American foreign-aid officials all made major mistakes which could and should have been prevented.

"The road, which was intended to be a showcase of American 'know-how', was so badly bungled that it has damaged our prestige, burdened us with costly repairs, and supplied the Communists with an effective source of anti-American propaganda," they said.

The report on the 132-mile highway was issued by a subcommittee headed by Rep. Porter W. Hardy, D-Va.

It said more than one-third of the road will require major repairs or rebuilding.

Death Takes Actor John D. Eldridge

LAGUNA BEACH (UPI — John D. Eldridge, 56, veteran stage, movie and television actor, died Saturday while believed to be recuperating from a heart attack.

For several years, he played the role of the father on the "Meet Corliss Archer" television program. He appeared in such films as "Flirtation Walk" and "His Brother's Wife," and in the Los Angeles Civic Opera production "Annie Get Your Gun."

New Karen Clue Peters Out

A mounted search of sections of Griffith Park Saturday failed to uncover any trace of Karen Lynn Tompkins, 11, of Torrance, who disappeared last month while returning to her home from a playground.

The search by 14 mounted sheriff's posse riders was organized after a burglary suspect claimed he saw a man hurl Karen's body over a cliff in a desolate area of the park.

Clarence E. McDonald, 29, told officers that he saw the young girl's body thrown off a cliff "near the observatory."

WORLD NEWS BRIEFS

Castro Executes Yank, 5 Cubans

HAVANA (AP)—An American citizen charged with counter-revolutionary activities was executed by a Castro firing squad Saturday. Another firing squad took the lives of five Cubans accused of working for U.S. intelligence agents in last April's abortive rebel invasion.

The American was identified as William Patten Tabares, 70, a longtime Cuban resident and branch official of a French shipping firm.

EVA B. ADAMS
Niece of L. B. Man

Frank Patten, a New York resident who identified himself as the slain man's brother, said William Patten had been employed by Pan-American Airways in Camaguey in eastern Cuba.

New Mint Boss

WASHINGTON (AP) — Eva B. Adams, a longtime congressional aide and a former educator, was confirmed by the Senate Saturday as director of the Mint. Approval was by voice vote.

Miss Adams, a native of Wonder, Nev., lists Reno, Nev., as her home but has been in the Washington area since 1940. In that year she joined the staff of the late Sen. Pat McCarran of Nevada, and is now administrative assistant to Sen. Alan Bible, D-Nev., who succeeded McCarran.

Before coming to Washington, she was assistant dean of women at the University of Nevada in Reno.

Survivor of Dag Crash Dies

NDOLA, Northern Rhodesia (AP)—The sole survivor of the plane crash that killed Dag Hammarskjold died Saturday, ending investigators' hopes that he could supply a first-hand account of the tragedy.

Harold (Harry) M. Julien, an American U.N. security guard, died at Ndola Hospital. He had suffered multiple injuries and severe burns in Monday's crash. His death raised the toll to 16.

Negro Named to High U.S. Court

Marshall, who has argued the civil rights case for Negroes in court since 1938, was chosen for the U.S. 2nd Circuit Court of Appeals in New York.

Sinatra Goes Boating with JFK

HYANNIS PORT, Mass. (AP)—President Kennedy took a 3½ hour boat trip Saturday with singer Frank Sinatra as one of his guests.

Also aboard with the President and Mrs. Kennedy were nine or ten other guests, including his brother-in-law, actor Peter Lawford.

Singer Hurt in Fatal Air Crash

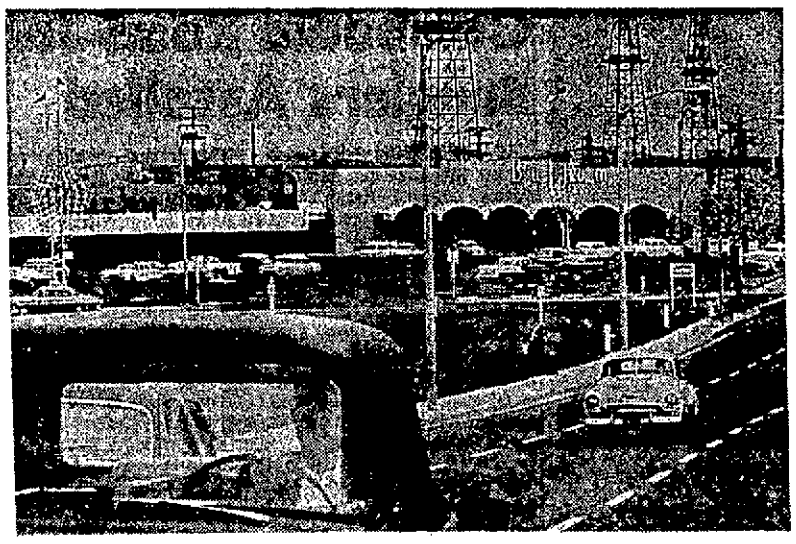

MIDLAND, Tex. (UPI)—Baritone singer Charlie Applewhite, his face smashed and a leg broken in many places by a plane crash that killed his wife and an oilman, wavered between survival and death in a Midland hospital Saturday.

Besides the face and leg injuries, he suffered possible skull and internal injuries. The crash late Friday night killed his second wife, Nancy, 29, and Robert H. McGannon, 35, president of the Republic (oil-well) Mud Co.

San Fernando Fire Kills 2

SAN FERNANDO (UPI)—A mother and her two sons were rescued by a neighbor and passerby early Saturday from a fire that killed two other members of the family.

Bernard Cox, 38, and his daughter, Susan, 7, were fatally burned in the fire which razed the suburban Cox home. But Mrs. Patricia Cox, 35, and her sons, Stephen, 6 months, and Douglas, 4 years, were rescued although the younger boy was near death.

AN IDEA FOR URBAN RENEWAL
This new shopping center near the intersection of Pacific Coast Highway and Second Street gives evidence what the city could do in revamping the downtown water front. Stores in the center include Buffums', a Lucky Stores market and Hof's Hut restaurant. A 200-unit motel is under construction.—

tilation, dangerous electrical systems, inadequate plumbing and gas facilities and because of general disrepair.

Some, of course, are above minimum standards and others could be brought up to those standards, although most buildings in the area cannot meet earthquake construction requirements.

Building department officials estimate that about 20 per cent of the structures are so far below standards that they should be demolished now.

* * * *

IN TERMS OF police and health services this area is the most difficult to cope with and by far the most costly to the city.

Chief William Mooney said the west beach area has the highest incidence of crime in Long Beach and requires the greatest amount of patrolling.

"In the last nine months," Mooney said, "there have been 527 arrests in the west beach area. The rest of the city had 10,897 arrests."

The arrest rate for the city was about 29 per 1,000 population. In the west beach area the ratio was 527 arrests per 1,100 population.

* * * *

DR. I. D. LITWACK, city health officer, pointed to the west beach area as a major breeding ground of venereal diseases and tuberculosis.

In 1960 the city had a total of 635 VD cases reported. Of this number 71 originated in the west beach area and a half-dozen adjacent blocks to the north and east.

Already this year there have been 38 new cases in the area.

In 1960 the area had seven of the city's 126 tuberculosis cases, almost at the top of the 61 reporting districts. Only two other districts were higher—8 cases in each—and they are located just northeast of the downtown area.

ASIDE FROM the human misery, what does all this cost the city?

"Plenty" is the best guess anyone can give.

A couple of figures might tell the story better: the assessed valuation of the area for 1961-62 is $1,216,810. City taxes from that area amount to only $16,719 per year.

That $16,719 is less than half what it costs to place one police patrol unit in the area for a year.

Redevelopment of this area could mean these things:

—Virtual elimination of the police problem there.

—A vastly improved health situation.

—An assessed valuation of some $15 million with a tax income to city government of $150,000 to $200,000 per year, plus up to $500,000 to the Long Beach Unified School District and other taxing agencies.

GRADE CARD

Aids to Better School Work

By HARRY KARNS
School Research Associates

One of the questions which teachers hear most often from parents is: "What can we do at home to improve our child's school work?"

The teacher's answer depends largely on the particular problems of the child involved. But here is a helpful answer she can give any parent:

Provide your child an incentive—a reason—for doing good work.

Learning should be a stimulating and rewarding experience.

"MOTIVATION IS an essential and important factor in the learning process," states Dr. Arnold Tjomsland of the State Board of Education, Olympia, Wash. "Few learning theorists would deny its significance. Such things as emotions, attitudes, incentives, interest, and others are involved in motivation. Most of what the student needs to learn must come through motivated learning."

Two dentists have their offices on the same hall of a professional building. Both specialize in dental work for children. One has numerous patients, the other relatively few. The answer is simple: The first dentist rewards his young patients by letting them dip into a grab bag for a toy. Children naturally prefer him; some are even eager to go to see him.

THIS IS NOT to suggest that you give your child a toy or money or other tangible reward for hard study and good grades. Your incentive system must be much more subtle and offer enduring satisfaction.

Here are some suggestions:

1. Show him where successful learning leads—to good jobs, good pay, positions of leadership in society.

2. Help him establish goals to work toward so his effort has long-range meaning to him.

They should be definite, goals which are attainable and which therefore can hold his interest and justify his hope.

3. RELATE HIS learning to his own life.

Show him how to apply his reading, his spelling, his math to the problems and activities of his own everyday living. If he has a paper route, for example, encourage him to set up a bookkeeping system and use the knowledge he has acquired at school in maintaining it.

4. Introduce him to specific subjects within his interest range.

"A child can't read reading," says Dr. Helen Heffernan. "Children must read about something—trains or trucks, stars or satellites, ducks or geese, cows or horses, Indians or cowboys."

5. REWARD HIM with praise when he does good work, when he brings home a good report card.

Educational research has shown that praise normally produces far better results than criticism.

6. Approach learning as an adventure.

When you do, you will find your child joining the fun. Eventually, without your suggestion, he will be looking up words and consulting the encyclopedia in the spirit of a true explorer—a scholar on a safari in the quest of knowledge.

(Want to help your child do good work in school? Mail questions and requests to Harry Karns, Room 403, Independent, Press-Telegram. Letters cannot be answered individually, but some will be answered in the "Grade Card" column.)

Russian A-Tests Spur U.S. Shelter Interest

By JACK V. FOX
UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL

Americans by the hundreds of thousands have swamped Civil Defense offices across the nation in the past few weeks with questions about building their own family nuclear bomb shelters.

But the number of those who have actually started digging is exceedingly small.

Those are the two main facts emerging from a UPI survey of Civil Defense offices from coast to coast.

* * * *

RUSSIA'S resumption of nuclear tests put the final spur to a surge of public anxiety that followed President Kennedy's warning last month about protection and the grim developments in Berlin.

In Los Angeles, for example, there are six trunk telephone lines into the CD office. The switchboard has been so overrun that plans are being made to install 20 lines.

No figures are available on the number of shelters actually being started there. But in the city of Chicago, only two building permits have been issued for construction of shelters.

* * * *

AND IN THE building permit office of New York City —with more than 7 million people—there is not a single application for a permit for shelter construction!

There are indications, however, that people are about to do more than think about protecting their families.

In Philadelphia, a model shelter was built in Fairmount Park with visiting hours 1 to 4 p.m. five days a week. Since the Russian tests started, crowds have become so great the exhibit is open seven days a week.

* * * *

"We're suffering from prosperity but we love it," he said. "We've been trying for years to get our message across. Looks like Khrushchev did it for us."

The survey could not measure families who have started shelters without asking for permits or housewives who have stocked food and water, transistor radios, candles and other essentials in their basements.

* * * *

HOWEVER, CLEVELAND Civil Defense Director John Pokornty believes basement shelters are not the answer because of the danger of the house above catching fire. He is one of those who advocates evacuation of cities.

W. A. Weatherford of Jacksonville, Fla., president of the National Civilian Defense Council, says nuclear shelter building firms have "sprung up like mushrooms."

His remarks were borne out by Director Don Carleton of Milwaukee who called a meeting of contractors interested in building shelters.

"I expected 50 and got 250," he said.

* * * *

IN LOS ALAMOS, N.M., birthplace of the A-bomb, the Atomic Energy Commission has announced it will assign fallout shelter space for every family by Jan. 1.

The town of Glendo, Wyo., last week bought a 65x400 foot potato storage cellar which it is going to convert into a shelter for the town's population of 215.

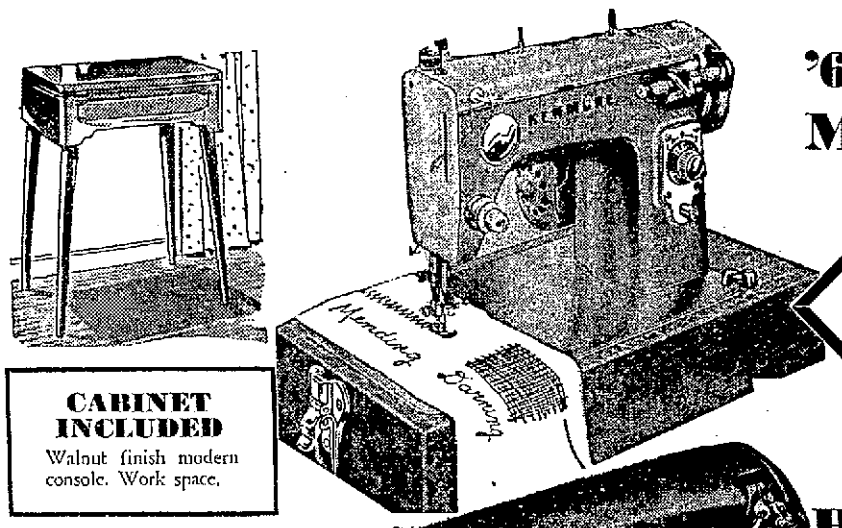

Adm. A. G. Cook, director of the San Francisco Disaster Council says there has been a constant stream of persons coming to his offices—some 2,000 in the past month.

"They are not panic stricken," he said. "They have a quiet determination not to put up with any foolishness from Russia. They are approving our government's attitude."

MEDICINE AND YOU

What Is Your Fatigue Type?

By BEN ZINSER AND GEORGE X. TRIMBLE, M.D.

A Cleveland Clinic psychiatrist explains the difference between physical and mental fatigue and tells how to deal with each in Cleveland Clinic Quarterly.

The doctor, A. Dixon Weatherhead, says physical fatigue is that resulting from excessive physical exertion—a feeling he says is healthy and desirable. Such fatigue is not harmful, he explains, because there is no fear or anxiety associated with it.

You can dispel such fatigue, he says, by taking a warm bath, massaging tired muscles and getting some rest or sleep.

MENTAL FATIGUE results from acute or chronic emotional stress.

Acute stress stems from fear. Examples: the combat fatigue of soldiers, the flying fatigue of pilots under stress, the exhaustion of disaster victims.

Chronic emotional stress results from prolonged internal conflicts and tensions that can't be resolved. The victim puts shameful, undersirable or disgusting thoughts out of his conscious mind, but his effort to suppress these unwelcome thoughts consumes mental energy. Exhaustion follows.

The medical term for such chronic emotional stress is neurasthenia. But, says the doctor, this is just another way of saying, "I'm pooped all the time."

Specifically, the neurasthenic patient suffers from lack of energy, difficulty in concentrating, poor appetite, fear of work, irritability, low blood pressure and irregular bowels. In addition, he may experience low back pain, headache, dizziness and diminished sexual potency.

DR. WEATHERHEAD suggests three steps to alleviate mental fatigue:

1. Planned activities as remote as possible from job activities. Examples: golf, swimming, gym workouts, long walks.

2. Entertainment that provides laughter. Laughter is an excellent way to relieve tensions.

3. Adequate rest. A restful environment should be sought. The mentally fatigued person should avoid the noise of television and radio and the chatter of small children.

Dr. Weatherhead reminds that fatigue sometimes can be a symptom of disease. Fatigue can be associated with such conditions as anemia, tuberculosis, fever, diabetes, hepatitis and myxedema (a thyroid condition). Your doctor should be the one to determine your type of fatigue.

CHRONICALLY ILL persons often neglect to take their pills, usually through forgetfulness. A solution to the problem is offered by Cornell University researchers: a pill calendar.

In a study at Many Farms, Ariz., researchers gave 29 Navajos, all outpatients with tuberculosis, a cardboard calendar with isoniazid tablets attached. The tablets were enclosed in little cellophane envelopes stapled to the calendar's date squares.

After three months the Indians reported their preferences. Twenty-five of the 29 said they had less trouble remembering to take their pills when they used the calendar. One patient was neutral. The remaining three said they preferred a pill bottle, mainly because the calendar was a hindrance while traveling.

The researchers' conclusion: The regularity of self-administration of drugs is improved with a pill calendar.

The report is in the American Review of Respiratory Diseases.

METERS LIKE CRAZY

Accuracy is the watchword at the Long Beach Water Department's meter maintenance shop. Jack Morales, 37 (above), is an old hand at riding herd on household meters. For 15 years he has calibrated them in keeping with rigid national standards.

L.B. Water Meter Maintenance Cited

Letters of inquiry from other water departments across the land and visiting delegations attest to this fact, according to Harold E. Wilson, 47, divisional engineer in charge of water distribution here.

Meter shop foreman Lincoln F. Rogers says there are close to 82,000 meters in use in the local system. The majority of these are household meters.

ANNUALLY, 14,000 meters are replaced in the lines by meters which have been renovated at the shop. Those removed are brought in for sandblasting, cleaning, repairing and recalibration.

Rogers calls this "preventive maintenance."

Only after individual meters are completely checked are they put back in service. The rotational cycle enables the checking of an individual meter about once every six years.

TV to Offer Course in Government

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Thousands of Americans will rise early for the next few months to learn more about their government.

From 6:30 to 7 a.m. (local time) each weekday morning, they will join the "Continental Classroom" of the NBC television network for a college-level course on American government. The course begins Monday.

It will be conducted by Dr. Peter Odegard, chairman of the department of political science at the University of California at Berkeley. In addition to the daily half-hour televised lecture, the students will do homework in a special textbook prepared under Dr. Odegard's leadership and published by Holt, Rinehart and Winston.

* * * *

MORE THAN 300 U. S. colleges and universities will grant full academic credit for the course. It is directed primarily to college students and to teachers who wish to brush up their knowledge of the U. S. Constitution and government. But past experience indicates many other adults will be in the TV "classroom."

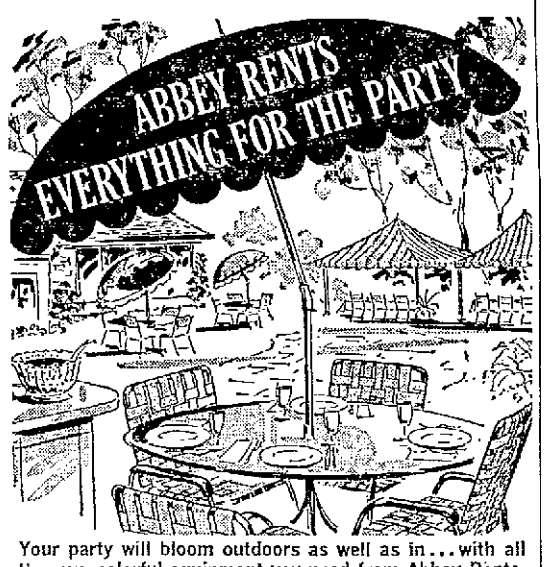

This will be the fourth year "Continental Classroom" has been on the air. In previous years, when science courses were offered, its weekly audience was estimated at 1,200,000 persons.

MANILA (AP) — President Carlos P. Garcia opened Manila's new International Airport Friday even though the building, five years in the making, is still only half completed. Officials say when it is finished at an estimated cost of 11 million pesos ($5.5 million), it will be the largest and most attractive in the Far East. A jet flight from Saigon was the first to use the new facilities.

NASA Shifts to Speed Up Moon Flight

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The National Aeronautics and Space administration Saturday announced a streamlining of its organizational setup in an effort to speed a man to the moon.

The changes focus NASA's major efforts on its office of manned space flight programs.

Earlier last week the agency announced appointment of D. Brainerd Holmes, general manager of Radio Corp. of America's major defense systems division, as director of the manned space flight office. It chose Houston, Tex., as its "man-to-the-moon" center.

The changes and appointments, effective Nov. 1, define other responsibilities to provide greater emphasis of NASA's other major programs.

NASA Administrator James Webb emphasized that the shakeup was keyed to a stepped-up civilian space program, "including manned lunar exploration."

Personnel changes were:

Ira H. Abbott, director of the Office of Advanced Research Programs, to become director of the Office of Advance Research and Technology.

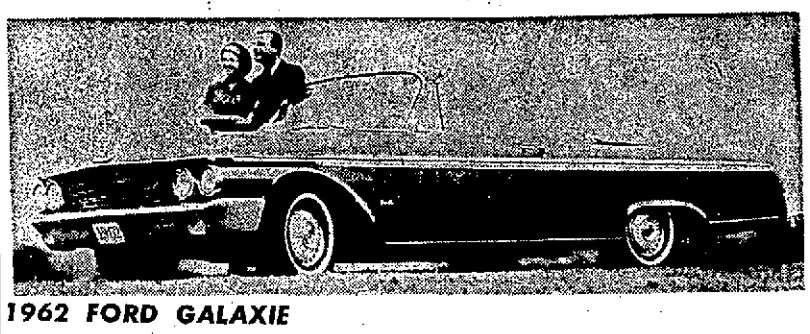

Dr. Homer E. Newell, deputy director of the Office of Space Flight Programs, as director of the Office of Space Sciences.

Thomas F. Dixon, named last month as director of the Office of Launch Vehicle Programs, as deputy associate administrator.

Dr. Abe Silverstein, director of the Office of Space Flight Programs, as director of the Lewis Research Center, Cleveland, Ohio, a position now vacant.

Holy War Threatened Over Mohammed Film

TEHREN, Iran (AP)—A religious furor blew up Saturday over reports that an Italian film firm is furtively making a movie about Mohammed. Italian movie men and diplomats denied any such movie was in the works.

"They cannot fool us," cried Ayatullah Behbehani, elderly head of the Islamic faith in Iran. He said he had heard that American film star Ava Gardner was being cast in the role of the prophet's first wife.

* * * *

IN IRAN, where a foreigner can get stoned for taking a snapshot of a mosque, Moslems regard as a sacrilege any statue or picture of the prophet who founded Islam 1,300 years ago.

About 200 bearded and turbaned mullahs convened to warn the Italian government that making profits from the prophet would be a religious violation.

"The Italian government and people will make an enemy of millions of Moslems with this film," declared a spokesman. "It will create regret, anger, hatred. We will declare a jehad (holy war) against this film."

At the height of the excited meeting word came from Gen. Hassan Pakrevan, deputy premier and head of security, that he intended to fly to Rome to stop the alleged production.

At the golden-domed holy city of Qum, 75 miles south of Tehran, irate Iranians threatened to close down the bazaar to show their anger.

* * * *

NEITHER mullahs nor the Italian embassy had any firm details about the film or the company supposedly making it. An embassy spokesman said, however, "it is absolutely impossible" that such a picture was being made.

In Rome, major Italian film studios said they knew of no plans for such a movie.

Land Entry Banned in Arid Areas

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Agricultural land entries into public lands with declining water tables will no longer be allowed, Interior Secretary L. Udall announced Saturday.

He said the new policy was intended to protect farmers and other users near federal lands.

He said a need for the policy became apparent after the Bureau of Land Management turned down about 300 applications for 160-acre homestads in Arizona.

"WE ARE MOVING rapidly in states such as Arizona into a period of acute water crisis if present growth rates continue," Udall said.

Seagoing Blood Bank Set Up by Red Cross

The Long Beach Chapter of the American Red Cross has a new approach to blood donors.

Mobile blood banks have gone to large groups of donors at various plants before, but last week the Red Cross took a new route—the S. S. Catalina to Avalon.

The big steamer's ballroom was converted to a blood bank in Avalon harbor. Seventy-two Avalon residents came to give blood; 60 were accepted as donors; all were members of the Avalon Hospital Blood donors group and represented most walks of life on the island.

Build Up NATO, ---Wedemeyer

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP)—Retired Gen. A. C. Wedemeyer said Saturday North Atlantic Treaty forces must be strengthened so as to have 100 effective combat divisions and 100,000 tactical planes available to defend western Europe.

"The West German, if they feel that the situation in Central Europe is so dangerous, instead of criticizing the President about appeasing the Communists, should get busy and provide 50 fully equipped divisions for NATO," said Wedemeyer, commander of the China Theater in World War II and later commander of the U.S. Sixth Army.

Mercury Hits 90 in New York City

NEW YORK (AP) — New York City, which was positively chilly a few days ago in Hurricane Esther's wake, had a high temperature of 90 degrees Saturday.

Saturday was the 29th day of 90-or-above temperatures this year. The record for any one year is 33 days.

FAA Tests Jetliner Stop Gear

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Federal Aviation Agency (FAA) Saturday unveiled a long-awaited weapon against air crashes—a device to prevent runway overshooting by big jets.

The agency announced the first successful "live" tests of an arresting gear designed to stop even the largest jetliner. The gear is a first cousin of the arresting devices the Navy has used on aircraft carriers for years.

* * * *

THE TESTS WERE conducted by an FAA Boeing 720 jetliner at the Lakehurst, N. J., Naval Air Test Facility.

In normal flight, the hook would be latched snugly against the fuselage. In an emergency, a pilot would release it to fall near the runway and catch the arresting cable stretched a few inches above the runway surface.

YM Under Way for Fall, Winter

An action-packed autumn and winter program was launched this past week at all five branches of the Long Beach YMCA with special emphasis on activities for high school youth.

While physical fitness classes, athletics, hobby clubs, recreation pursuits and counseling continue as the backbone of the citywide program, a relatively new feature of YMCA endeavor is meeting with popular acceptance here, according to Harry J. Moore, president of the Long Beach YMCA.

"This is the social-educational group concept which has expressed itself here in a series of individual clubs," Moore said.

* * * *

"TO FOSTER this movement and at the same time provide the necessary guidance and counseling, the Long Beach YMCA has literally taken its program into the neighborhoods of the community," Moore declared.

"We are meeting in schools, churches and various other neighborhood gathering places in order to satisfy the demands for space," he said.

"Right today the Long Beach YMCA sponsors 271 neighborhood-related youth groups with a participating membership of 4,024 boys and girls," Moore stated.

* * * *

THE YMCA president said decentralization of activities, while accepted as a temporary expedient, has pointed up a critical need to develop YMCA youth centers.

"This is particularly true," he said, "in the Los Altos area where more than 2,000 young people are active participants in the YMCA program."

This Is It, Says McLean After Seven Resignations

George F. McLean, 67, execulive secretary of the Armed Service YMCA, has been resigning every year for the past seven years.

This time, though, he means it, said McLean, a ready man with a chuckle.

Sept. 30, he winds up 42 years of YMCA work—17 of them in Long Beach.

"I'm going to just be a bum for three months—take a trip east to visit some shirttail relatives, cross over into Canada and then go over to Hawaii before coming back to Long Beach," he said.

* * * *

McLEAN has had only one job in his entire working life. He was in the World War I Army in Europe when he walked into a Y.

"The Y official treated me like an individual," said McLean, who was impressed after his anonymity as a soldier. "I decided to do that kind of work." He went to work for the YMCA after being shipped back to the U. S. and has been in it ever since.

Technically, a worker in the Y resigns at 60. However, Y workers are covered by Social Security, so he has submitted a technical resignation annually (not accepted) and continued working. At 65, the mandatory retirement age, he again submitted his resignation, but by this time it looked like the new Armed Services Y here was a certainty and Y officials asked him to remain because he was familiar with the operation and was the best man to see the new structure completed.

* * * *

THE NEW building opened a year ago this month at 520 W. Seaside Blvd. After a year's shakedown, McLean is certain the operation is what it should be.

"The vastly increased use of the facility by the service groups convinces me we had the right idea. In July we had 45,000 people use the facility."

Retirement poses no problem for him. He's clearing out of official Y work, but when he comes back from his "bumming around" he'll be active on committees for the Y and in other community work. "I've been working with people all my life. I don't think retirement will change that. I'll continue to work with people."

Looking back, he says he's glad he went into the work. "I got satisfaction out of the job I don't think I could have got even if I were a millionaire."

IBC Worth $13 Million in Publicity, Exec Says

By JIM McCAULEY

An advertising executive here estimated Saturday that International Beauty Congress netted Long Beach $13,250,000 in publicity during the past year.

Bill Becker, partner in Max Becker Advertising Agency, said he figures each of the 53 Miss International delegates landed $250,000 in publicity.

Becker reached his estimate by multiplying 53 times $250,000. "And it is conservative," he said.

Nobody ever will know exactly just how much those 36-24-36 figures are worth at pageant time. But Becker is accustomed to paying thousands of dollars for a newspaper ad or radio-television time.

* * * *

THE POINT: if it hadn't been for IBC, it would have cost millions of dollars to advertise Long Beach as a beautiful glamour capital.

Commented George Taubman, IBC president:

"The Long Beach dateline on a picture or a news item should be like a blood transfusion to the citizens and business leaders of Long Beach."

Oscar Meinhardt, IBC executive producer, said the 1961 coverage included:

1. An invasion by 114 foreign correspondents, representing magazines and newspapers throughout the world.

2. An audience of several million on live television in Southern California.

3. Intensive coverage by United Press International, Associated Press, Reuters—world news gathering organizations.

4. A half-page picture in Life Magazine.

5. Unprecedented local-level publicity in local-level contests which were preliminaries to Miss International here. Fifty thousand girls competed throughout the world.

Meinhardt said the cost would be prohibitive to research what happened in each specific country. But he spot-checked several countries, including:

Japan — Three thousand girls competed for the Miss Japan crown, and a crowd of 50,000 watched the finals.

Canada—John C. J. Bruno, executive producer of Canadian Beauty Spectaculars, estimated IBC got 35 per cent more publicity than Miss Universe.

Hong Kong—Henry Chan, editor New Life Evening Post, said Hong Kong newspapers carried 10,547 inches about Miss International.

Brazil—A folder on Miss International publicity measures 3 inches thick and includes colored pictures of Miss International on several magazines.

Meinhardt, his desk piled high with clippings about the 1961 IBC, declared:

"IBC in future years can be even a greater attraction by giving a variety of day-

Artist Sketches Capture Mood

Nearly everything that stood still for any length of time was Fair game for Independent, Press-Telegram staff artist Dick Wallmeyer's sketchbook reproduced above.

But for the most part, it's a fair in motion.

Miles of displays, thousands of entrants competing for $200,000 in cash awards (some of the contests are in milking, crocheting, butter-churning, hog-calling, pie-eating) are on the days' calendar of events.

Not so easily captured in a black and white drawing are the landscapes and the floral displays in dazzling colors.

THE BEST OF EVERYTHING in the state is on show: livestock, agricultural wealth, domestic and fine arts buildings, birds, racing, minerals, entertainment. As Wallmeyer's sketches show, even some of the people are interesting to watch.

The atomic age and the good old days are depicted in exhibits of old cars and space-rocket projects.

It's an all-day outing just to take a look at all possibilities for enjoyment.

Name Group Chairman for Chest Campaign

Group chairmen for the Community Chest $1 million campaign were named by three business division leaders Saturday and quotas for sections listed.

Malcolm Epley's government and education with 11 sections has a combined total quota of $82,214. His section chairmen and individual goals are: John Osler, federal employees, $8,500; Morris Shoup, Signal Hill city employes, $314; Barney Walzak, Long Beach city employes, $4,800; Adm. F. Julian Becton, naval ships afloat, $28,000; Capt. M. A. Peel, Naval Base, $4,700; A. R. Jarrett, Naval Shipyard, $24,000; Adm. Ned W. Sprow, Coast Guard, $1,000; Harold Judson, public school, $8,500; Everett Hosking, Air Force—Army, $300; Reverend John Keenan, Catholic parochial schools, $1,000; William George, private and protestant parochial schools, $600.

In Belmont Shore, George Duekmejian reports two business soliciting teams of 19 men and women has been organized by David Camp and Otto Ross as group chairmen with a combined goal of $3,042.

Professional division, headed by Samuel C. Penalties, Juries, Reds Bar Meet Agenda Topics

By DON MADDOCK

Proposals that new alternative penalties be set up for the crimes of murder and kidnaping, that trial juries have less members and that Communist Party members be disbarred will be considered by California attorneys at the annual State Bar convention in Monterey Monday.

Those recommendations are among dozens which the Conference of State Bar delegates will debate Monday and Tuesday. Any which are approved will be studied further before being presented to the State Legislature.

* * * *

THE LAWYERS' CLUB of Los Angeles County suggested murder-kidnaping penalty changes.

The group feels life imprisonment without possibility of parole should join execution in the gas chamber and life imprisonment with parole as a first degree murder penalty, and life imprisonment with parole should be added to the present kidnaping for ransom penalties of such imprisonment without parole, and execution.

* * * *

THE REASON is that "the ends of justice, as well as the dictates of logic and common sense, require that the range of punishment (for kidnaping) be at least no more severe than that provided for first degree murder."

* * * *

A SAN FRANCISCO attorney suggested the anti-Communist move.

"There is a fundamental and fatal conflict between the oath and obligation of an attorney at law in this state, and the avowed purpose of the Communist Party," he wrote.

He pointed out that the state American Legion unanimously adopted such a resolution at its convention here in July.

THE fair, as always, is great. The vast array of exhibits not only reflect the glories of Los Angeles County, including its still substantial agricultural activity, but many other counties and communities have provided interesting displays. Mountain counties like Nevada, Alpine and Mono have their exhibits designed to lure Southern Californians to spend time and money there in pleasant recreational pursuits.

For city kids, and for older folk who remember other years in the country, the Story Book Farm is one of the big fairgrounds' best attractions. It even has an old-fashioned red barn with the inevitable hay window at the gable, and the unmistakable aroma.

Some little girls kept running away from a family group and patting the horse on the cheek and neck. It was obviously the first horse-patting they'd ever done, and it was followed by shrill cries of excitement as they'd run back to mama's skirts. It's things like that which make it a true county fair.

IT was Long Beach Day and at the races, Mayor Ed Wade, backed up by Councilman Bill Graham, presented the silver tray to the feature race winner. The Long Beach Municipal Band gave the opening concert and drew enthusiastic applause. Even Lady Luck smiled on people from Long Beach, and the fellows near me — Atty. Henry NeCasek, Insurance Man Fred Hawkins, Realtor Lloyd Leedom, did o.k. at the mutuels. Even I, a notoriously poor picker of the horses, left the grandstand with a few extra shekels in my pockets.

It was a happy day.

HARDLY anybody will bemoan growth and development, but it's sort of sad what it does to the rural scene.

Going to the fair at Pomona, I took an old favorite route: Out Garden Grove Blvd. to Hwy. 39, north on 39 to East Rd. in the La Habra Hills, east through the Hacienda Country Club, into the Puente Valley by Fullerton Road, on into Pomona on Valley Blvd.

It's a route I took scores of times years ago, but, retracing those steps Friday, I could hardly call it familiar.

GONE, for instance, are the orange trees that dropped so close to the road at Hwy. 39 and Whittier Blvd. that one could reach out and pick some fruit as he passed. Gone are some grand old houses that one used to glimpse through the citrus. Gone are some fine old trees that were familiar landmarks in the old days.

At places along the way which once offered scenes of rural charm are big areas of blacktop in front of shopping centers, service stations, the barren roofs of big housing projects. Some citrus orchards are dying, others are being removed. At Fifth Ave. and Otterbein near Puente there were great fires as grubbed-out trees were consumed in flames. some old houses in that area have been shorn of surrounding floral adornment and stand, bare and decaying.

To be sure, a lot of landscaping is going on. Shrubs and new trees are growing and grassy plots replace some one-time weed-covered meadows. The new Southland "back country" will become increasingly attractive, but the current transition period leaves something to be desired. And for those who knew it in other days, it's something of a shock.

A PROGRAM to improve Long Beach's appearance is about to be undertaken by official and voluntary agencies.

So far there is no bill of particulars, only a recognition that various areas of the city, both public and private, wear an untidy or downright frowsy look that ought not to be tolerated.

Specific projects will come later, it is expected, when the City Park Commission, the Chamber of Commerce, Downtown Long Beach Associates and other groups get down to organization and planning. They made a start last week at an informal discussion before the park board.

SOME OF THE activities within the scope of the campaign are more tree planting in sidewalks and the center strips of roadways; sidewalk repair; more liberal use of water, soap and paint in the maintenance of buildings, especially business properties; more attractive street-name signs; better control of rubbish and improved arrangements for sweeping streets that are crowded most of the time with parked cars.

These may seem to be small items, but they can add up to a big total in giving a city a brighter face. Further, one small project often leads to another that hadn't been thought of at the start.

Such a program can prove successful only if it has a broad base of volunteer push in addition to whatever personnel and money the city can spare. The Long Beach Beautiful group, which pioneered efforts of this kind, and the new women's auxiliary of the chamber can help supply the persistence necessary for permanent results.

IN ADDITION, there are beautification plans at city hall that should be dusted off for a long new look. The Elwood Allen report, for which the Long Beach Beautiful group deserves much of the credit, may still be useful in some particulars, especially its projections of tree-lined vistas transforming dowdy streets.

The Park Commission and other city agencies have for years talked of improving the looks of the center strip of Ocean Boulevard east of the bluff, a thoroughfare that should be a showcase for beach visitors. And if the proposed Belmont Plaza development goes through as recommended by the Mayor and City Council's Advisory Public Improvement Committee, the pressure to jam a shoreline street with parked cars will be eased.

OTHER IMPROVEMENTS envisioned through urban renewal and community redevelopment also will take on greater value if backed by a city-wide beautification campaign.

Such a program, however, deserves support on its own merits. These are both esthetic and economic. It is wrong to permit Long Beach to become less pleasant because of slovenly housekeeping. In a tourist and convention city it also can become extremely costly.

Believes Time Bomb Aboard Dag's Plane

EDITOR:

If I were a Communist determined to enslave the world, if I were in fact a top level Communist able to issue orders to the "comrades," and the world situation as it is:

I would have issued orders to put a time bomb aboard Dag Hammarskjold's plane as it left Leopoldville, and to time it to go off just as it touched down at its destination. This would make it look to the world as if Tshombe were a ruthless man, and public opinion would demand that he be put down.

The Communists would then take over the Congo in its entirety. The United Nations would be even more completely in the Communist control, and Berlin would fall.

I believe that a top level Communist would issue those orders. I believe that a top level Communist DID issue those orders.

Citizens Too Timid to Insist on Peace

EDITOR:

We hear so much these days in praise of the men who founded our country, usually followed by the assumption that we are carrying on their great ideals. But it seems to me that we forget the first principle upon which they stood: the dignity and importance of the individual. To them, the individual's rights of life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness were so important that no government had the right to infringe upon them —they therefore rose against the established government.

Today, our people seem to me to be too timid or indifferent or uninformed to interfere at all in what the government is doing in the foreign field. We, who cried out against being taxed without having a voice in government, wait to see if we and our children will die. We do so, however, this time, without a whimper.

Let us tell our present leaders that we must find another way, not war, to work out our problems. Let us live to solve them in the name of all mankind.

Deplores Ike, Dick Darts at Kennedy

EDITOR:

One thing I can't understand is why Ike and Dick go around the country saying such awful things about Kennedy. No wonder things are like they are. Ike and Dick had their chance to make this country better.

I did not like Kennedy at first, but I think he is a man with a heart and doing all he can to straighten out the mess this world is in.

So it is better to have respect. I am all for Kennedy and so are a lot of people that know what is right.

Pro-Red Victory Forecast in Peru Election Next May

WASHINGTON — President Manuel Prado of Peru has just finished the usual Washington routine of being wined and dined at the White House, laying a wreath on the tomb of the Unknown Soldier and conferring with the VIP's of the nation's capital. He comes from a country friendly to the United States and deserved this tribute.

PEARSON

But what few people realized who pumped the hand of President Prado is that come next May, he is almost certain to be replaced by a pro-Communist left-wing government of Peru.

This is about as certain as the unvarying routine for entertaining distinguished visitors in Washington. And there isn't much the United States can do at this late date to prevent it. Furthermore there isn't much the Soviet needs to do to encourage it.

What's happening in Peru, plus other Latin countries, is the harvest of long years of neglect, misrule and failure by both the South American ruling class and the North American business class to head off social revolt.

Social revolt started to come gradually in Peru two decades ago when Victor Hoya de la Torre became the champion of the downtrodden Indians. He was forced into exile, also was forced to take refuge in a foreign embassy in Lima. Meanwhile his social reforms gathered dust.

* * * *

IN THE MOUNTAINS of Peru native Indians have been living in virtual economic slavery for the past 100 years, and the Peruvian government, until last year, had done nothing about it. It was last year that enlightened Prime Minister Pedro Baltran pushed through a land reform bill and got the long-delayed cooperation of the United States in lending money to back it.

Even today, however, 250 miles east of Lima you will find no vestige of the Peruvian government except for a few military outposts. And there has been no tax reform, no basic social reform to spread the wealth of the 12 per cent upper bracket population.

This is why Peru's elections next May will find Belaunde Terry, a pro-Castro egotist, rolling up a tremendous vote and probably taking over the government.

Note—American business firms, especially the copper companies, have a big stake in Peru. Despite this, most American business executives have failed miserably to identify themselves with the life of the country. They sit in their own clubs, see always the same people. Only 1 per cent of the people of Peru run the country, and American businessmen find it convenient to know only them. It's the easiest way. But it gives them no roots when the Castro storm threatens to take over.

THE EXECUTIVE office across the street from the White House was built 73 years ago when gingerbread architecture reigned supreme. Ornamental iron work and cast-iron chimneys were the height of elegance.

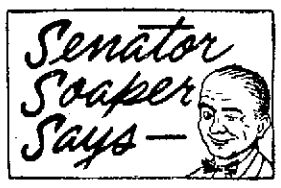

Though modern heating no longer requires such chimneys, 10 of them, long outmoded and long unused, adorn the hips of the roof.

General Services Administration, fearful lest any of this mass topple and bean an innocent passerby into another world, decided that the ornamental cast-iron chimneys be removed.

But in government, the simplest, most logical things are often the most difficult. GSA found the Fine Arts commission adamant. The material must be replaced exactly as it was, ruled the commission, even though it no longer served a useful function.

Replacement cost of a cast-iron chimney these days was found to be about equal to a platinum one.

GSA said it so advised the Fine Arts Commission, which then agreed to accept a sheet sheet-metal substitute provided it be made to appear identical to the original so as to preserve the building's historical appearance.

BOB HOUSER

Like Iceberg, Redistricting Gets Worse Below Surface

STARTING almost now we can look forward to 15 months of being churned in a maelstrom of interregnums and interstices.

More simply, it means sizable chunks of our congressional district will be "country without a man," or we may not be certain who or what our man in Sacramento is.

HOUSER

It's like this. The 1961 state legislature drew us into new congressional and assembly districts. Their work was signed into law July 7. Assemblyman Joe Kennick's West Long Beach 44th District gained Lakewood and a westerly extension into the Dominguez area to Avalon Boulevard. Kennick's whole new package is still called the 44th.

Assemblyman Bill Grant's East Long Beach 70th District lost Lakewood. And its number was changed to 39. Now the population balances whereas Grant's district was much the larger before.

Now comes the overlap flap. Kennick will still be representing his old 44th and Grant his old 70th (including Lakewood) when they go back to Sacramento for the 1962 budget session. At the same time, field hands of both parties will be campaigning for your votes in the new 44th and the new 39th.

LAKEWOOD REPUBLICANS who have voted for Bill Grant for years will be flooded with appeals to support the GOP opponent of Joe Kennick in the 1962 elections. "But my man in Sacramento is Grant," they'll say correctly. That's true, and he'll he your man until January 1963 when the new Assembly sits.

Transitional problems get more difficult among active party workers. Democrats hold their congressional district council convention here next Saturday. It's the 18th CD but becomes the 32nd CD in 1963.

Chief convention business is reorganization to accommodate the new Assembly district configurations. It will create a new 32nd CD Council comprised of all clubs chartered by the county committee, including both California Democratic Council (CDC) and non-affiliated clubs. The convention then will create its 44th Assembly District council, extending club representation to the new area of Lakewood. And finally the new 39th AD council. This reorganization takes care of unofficial party organization.

BUT PLANS MUST also be laid for the official party organization, the elective county central committee. They will be elected at the June primary in 1962 for the new districts. Thus, they will be functioning groups for Assembly districts yet to come.

Bill Grant's district, which had been "safe" for his repeated election even when it included Lakewood's big Democratic registration, becomes even more safe as his territory disengages from Lakewood.

Kennick admits the problem may be confusing to the public at large but says he and party workers have simplified it from the inside. The two Assembly district councils have been conducting joint meetings to keep perspective.

ON REPRESENTATION matters, Kennick says any matters "referred to me by people in the newly-drawn 44th District, I'll be happy to handle. I think serving them, if they request it, is good practice and I will continue to do so."

Election of the official county central committee here—seven members from each of the new Assembly districts — poses another interesting situation.

It so happens that most of the incumbent committeemen live in the new 44th. At election time there will be only three incumbents on the ballot in the new 39th. Some 13 Democrats thus will be seeking committee posts in the new 44th, while in the 39th the election may go to write-ins.

LANGUAGES in the NEWS
By Charles F. Berlitz and Robert Strumpen-Darcie

Questions from our readers:

"How do you say "coexistence" in French, Spanish, German, Chinese and Russian?"—Diana Vriend, West Sacramento, Calif.

It is coexistence, coexistencia, Koexistenz, gung chuan, and Sosusshestvoanie in that order. (In Russian even to say it is difficult!)

"What is the derivation of "Liverpool" — A. C. Tschwend, Long Beach, Calif.

"Can you tell me what my name means?" — William Bernheim, Lake Charles, La.

Heim means "home" while Bern, the capital of Switzerland, is thought to be derived from the plural of "bear." Therefore, Bernheim could mean "home of the bears."

WHAT OTHERS ARE SAYING

It is only fair that states with a rapid growing population should have more representative, but not at the expense of other states when we can avoid such a drastic shift.

WALTER LIPPMANN

Dag Tried Daring Innovation in U. N.

OVER THE YEARS I have often wondered whether Dag Hammarskjold belonged to an age that is passing or to one that is being born. He was a bold innovator in world affairs, and he opened up a future, having carried further than it has ever been carried before the principle of international action to promote peace. Yet he was himself the fine flower of the European tradition of civility which, if it is not dying, certainly is not flourishing today.

LIPPMANN

He was altogether not the mass man of our times. He could be a very good friend, but there was a deep reserve in his character which few if any can have penetrated. In the great public world where the white lights blazed upon him, he lived an inner life of contemplation and esthetic experience that had nothing to do with power and popularity and publicity. His diplomacy had a finesse and a courtliness in the great traditions of Europe. Never before, and perhaps never again, has any man used the intense art of diplomacy for such unconventional and such novel experiments.

THE BIGGEST EXPERIMENT, for which in the end he gave his life, was to move the international society of the United Nations from having to choose between a very difficult police action in Korea and sole reliance on debate and verbal expression. He moved the U.N. onto the plane of executive action without large-scale war as in Korea.

I knew Dag Hammarskjold long enough and well enough, I think, to understand why he accepted the risks of opening up new paths in such wild and unchartered country. He saw no alternative to intervention by the United Nations in a crisis where there was a bitter confrontation in the cold war.

NO CAUTIOUS AND TIMID man would have dreamed of staking the prestige and perhaps the future of the United Nations, as well as his personal reputation and his office, on the attempt to pacify the Congo. But great as were the risks of intervention, the risks of letting events run their course were much greater. If the United Nations now fails in what Hammarskjold inaugurated, the prospects are that the terrible racial struggle between Europeans and Africans will become deeply entangled in the conflict between the Western powers and the Communist powers.

It was to avert and to prevent this fatal entanglement that Hammarskjold dared to use the powers of the United Nations. The outcome is as yet unknown. But what we do know is that his unprecedented innovation in world affairs has run into fearful resistance both in the East and in the West. Hammarskjold's use of the U.N. to isolate and disinfect the Congo brought on him and the U.N. the implacable hatred of the Soviet government. At the same time Hammarskjold did not have the full support of the Western powers.

THERE IS NO DOUBT that in the administration of the new U.N. policy there have been mistakes. But let us keep it in mind that the cause of the two-sided opposition to the U.N. action is not the mistakes. The cause of the opposition from East and West is a determination not to have the U.N. succeed in what it is attempting to do. For if the U.N. succeeds, there will not be a Communist government in the Congo. That is what Khrushchev hates about Hammarskjold and the Secretary General's office. And if the U.N. succeeds, there will not be a restoration of white supremacy in the Congo, and that is why money, propaganda, and clandestine intervention are being employed to frustrate the U.N.

No one knows today who can come after Hammarskjold, and there are signs that he is in fact irreplaceable. For Hammarskjold was made Secretary General at a time when the U.N. was really no more than a debating society.

IT IS EASY TO SAY that the world is not ready for international action to establish peace, and it would be hard to refute such a statement. Hammarskjold, under the fearful pressure of circumstances, resorted to international action. With his extraordinary diplomatic elegance and finesse, he used successfully international action at Suez, in Palestine, and in Laos. As compared with these the Congo presented a new order of difficulty, and the outcome, now that Hammarskjold is dead, is in the gravest doubt.

QUESTIONS, ANSWERS

Power to Legislate

Q. By what authority do such bodies as the Interstate Commerce Commission get power to make rules which are enforceable as law, when Congress is supposed to enact all Federal laws? F. W.

A. These special-purpose administrative bodies are given by Congress the power to sub-legislate. That is, they are authorized to make specific rules and regulations to put into effect and enforce the general intent and will of Congress as expressed in the legislation which creates the body. Each regulation must be based, essentially, on some authority delegated to the body by Congress.

CHANGE LOCAL DISTRICTS

Demos Meet Saturday

By BOB HOUSER
Political Editor

Some 300 Democrats of the Long Beach-Lakewood-Signal Hill 18th Congressional District will meet in convention here Saturday to reorganize their Assembly and Congressional district Democratic councils to conform to new district boundaries.

The reorganization was made necessary by the state legislature's reapportionment based on the 1960 decennial census. The changes: The local 18th CD becomes the 32nd CD and extends its area and population slightly on both west and east boundaries.

The 44th AD (West Long Beach) keeps its number, gains Lakewood and the westerly extension to Avalon Boulevard and loses a couple of blocks in the downtown area. The incumbent is Joseph M. Kennick.

The 70th AD (East Long Beach-Lakewood) changes its number to the 39th AD, loses Lakewood, gains a couple of downtown blocks. The incumbent is William S. Grant.

Meeting in the Labor Temple, 1231 Locust Ave., will be delegates from all Democratic clubs chartered by the county central committee, state and county committee members, partisan office holders, California Democratic Council congressional and assembly district representatives.

Delegate registration will start at 9:30 a.m. Wells will address the AD conventions which are scheduled 10 a.m. to noon. Richards will address the CD convention which starts at 1:30 p.m.

Business of the meetings, held under the guidance of the CDC, will include reorganizing the councils, electing new council exccutive officers and adopting bylaws.

A luncheon honoring guest speakers and guest chairmen will be held during the noon recess period.

Port Chiefs of Nation Meet Here

The American Association of Port Authorities will begin its 50th annual convention in the Lafayette Hotel today.

More than 500 delegates and their wives are expected to attend the convention which ends next Friday.

Today's schedule includes registration and a get-acquainted reception with the main business of the convention getting under way Monday.

Luncheon to Honor Kennick

Gov. Edmund G. Brown will address a $100-a-plate testimonial luncheon for Assemblyman Joseph M. Kennick Oct. 9 in the Wilton Hotel Skyroom, host and organizer David Selcer said Saturday.

Atty. Joseph A. Ball, general chairman, said David Feuer, manager of Insurance Securities Inc., will be master of ceremonies.

* * * *

BALL'S arrangements committee also will include Selcer, Atty. J. Merrill Lilley, newly appointed Superior Court Judge Charles C. Stratton, City Atty. Gerald Desmond, Martin A. Nishkian and Atty. Walter Desmond.

Selcer said he believes the testimonial will be the first $100-a-plate luncheon affair in the city's history. Tickets may be obtained by writing Selcer, 401 Long Beach Blvd., or by phoning HE 2-3692.

$305,000 in Balm Asked

A $305,000 wrongful death suit was filed in Superior Court at Long Beach for the mother of a Wilmington man who fell to his death from the "crow's nest" of a merchant ship.

The plaintiff, Louisa Ortega, 1519 N. Marine Ave., Wilmington, named Mine Safety Appliances Co., Quality Machine & Boiler Works, the Matson Navigation Co. as defendants.

Her attorney, James C. Webb, said the victim, David Ortega, fell 44 feet to a deck while working for Quality aboard the Hawaiian Builder at a Wilmington dock Sept. 27, 1960. The complaint blamed a defective safety belt for the accident.

LAGGARDS, TAKE HOPE

Do You Read Only a Page a Minute?

By BOB GIEVET

For those who stumble through their books, there is hope.

Instead of taking a month to find out who won the girl, if it was the butler who murdered his master, how to get an algebraic formula or rocket to the moon, you might do it in a day.

A revolutionary new method of high-speed scanning—they call it "reading dynamics"—will make its debut in Santa Ana next Thursday, as the first class starts for 30 persons of divedsified interests, training, and background—and ages.

Originated by Mrs. Evelyn N. Wood, an assistant professor at University of Delaware, the new method is claimed to step up speed reading of anyone from four to 10 times his normal capacity.

Her "Reading Dynamics Institute," at 2006 N. Broadway, will have daily classes, each 2½ hours long and each for a 12-week series. The classes will be taught by V. Herrick Hanson and Miss Pat Lewis.

* * * *

THEY SAID that the average person reads about 250 words per minute, and the college student—with a background of pursuit of the printed page—about 350 words per minute. Unless the reading speed is stepped up to 2,500 words per minute, the teachers are unhappy. They're personally disturbed if a pupil does no better than 1,000 words per minute.

Not everybody is a college student; the registration includes a 10-year-old boy and a 70-year-old woman, and there's a smattering of doctors, insurance agents and whatnot in the list.

The institute printed its own texts, and they get the plodding reader into orbit. Then he brings in his own material—anything from Plato's Republic to treatises on the life cycle of iguana lizards.

Before long, the pupil probably will begin to get stoop-shouldered from carrying books; he should do one a night. This might make a run on the libraries, but they still have many untouched volumes.

Hanson explained that the interest of the person in his subject "somewhat controls" his ability to read the dynamic new way—and to comprehend what is read.

He insisted that retention of subject matter is high; it's tested regularly.

* * * *

THE NEW SCHOOL expects to limit is enrollment to 300 for the present fall session. Succeeding sessions will be about the same, and so will class sizes.

That permits individual instruction to the reader-student; he learns to "scan" the printed page with his eyes following his finger down the center of the page. It eliminates constant shifting of the eyes, "backtracking" of the mind and the unconscious but common habit of saying, hearing and thinking of the sound of words while reading, Hanson explained.

In effect, he added, the new method of high-speed reading "is to train students to note patterns of meaning on a page, rather than individual words."

Hanson and Miss Lewis said a similar institute is planned for Long Beach. They opened interviews Friday night in two sessions.

Brown Urges Expansion in Youth Jobs

SACRAMENTO (AP)—Gov. Brown Saturday said California leads the nation in providing jobs for 16-to 18-year-olds. But he added that even greater efforts are needed.

Citing estimates that the number of youths in that age group will increase from 251,000 to 432,000 within the next 10 years, the governor said:

"We will have to work together more effectively than ever before to develop and expand worthwhile job counseling and placement programs."

He praised an Employment Department guide for organized efforts to find work for youngsters.

Sen. Bridges Better, His Doctor Reports

CONCORD, N.H. (UPI)—The condition of U.S. Sen. Styles Bridges, R-N.H., who suffered a heart seizure Wednesday, was reported as "definitely improved" late Saturday, according to his physician.

Dr. J. Dunbar Shields also said the 63-year-old lawmaker "spent a much more comfortable night."

Does U.S. Have a Chance in Space Sweepstakes?

By BEM PRICE

HUNTSVILLE, Ala. (AP) — Does the United States, now firmly and officially in the space sweepstakes against Russia, have a chance to win the race to the moon?

Yes, a "sporting chance," but a chance nonetheless.

That is the opinion of Dr. Wernher Von Braun—and no one has yet accused this German-born missile and space expert of misty-eyed optimism.

Von Braun is director of the National Aeronautic and Space Administration's (NASA) George C. Marshall space flight center here.

After a 70-minute, wide-ranging interview with Von Braun it also can be reported:

The emphasis in the U.S. approach to the space race has undergone a radical shift from the purely scientific to the practical.

One time-and money-consuming step in the development of big boosters will probably be skipped, cutting perhaps as much as two years from the moon landing schedule.

President Kennedy affirmed the United States was in the space race in a special message to Congress on May 25.

But words do not build space ships. There have been no outward signs of a major speedup in the space program since May 25.

"The United States—NASA—did not have a crash program to go to the moon at the time the President made that speech," Von Braun said.

"We have had these months, however," he continued, "to come up with a plan and we are now coming up with one. We now know pretty well which way we are going.

* * * *

"I AM not conceding defeat at this point. We have a sporting chance. We and the Russian need to develop new equipment. Both nations need to develop a new technology all the way."

This is the American program:

The first is a 1.5-million-pound thrust first stage with a 90,000-pound thrust second stage. This is known as configuration 1, abbreviated to C-1.

With this two-stage missile, the United States can put a 20,000-pound payload into a 300-mile high orbit.

* * * *

THE SECOND missile, or C-2, is a three-stage affair with the same first stage as the C-1, an 800,000-pound thrust second stage and a 90,000-pound thrust third stage.

The C-2 could hurl 45,000 pounds into earth orbit, send a manned vehicle on an orbit around the moon or put a load of instruments on the moon, venus or mars.

The C-3 will have a spanking new, 3-million-pound thrust first stage and the same upper stages as the C-2.

This last "bid" obviously can do everything the C-2 can do and more. It can send a three-man capsule into orbit around the moon.

With its 30-ton-plus payload capacity, it can be used to assemble a moon landing rocket in space. It cannot land a man on the moon and bring him back.

A DIRECT manned flight to the moon and return will have to await development of the 12-million pound thrust Nova.

Von Braun slumped deeper into his chair at the conference table in his paneled office.

"I think," he said, "you have to define what you mean by being ahead in space. There are areas in which we are ahead.

"The Russians, for example, have never exhibited the slightest interest in communication and weather satellites. I would say the satellites we have put up have produced far more scientific knowledge.

* * * *

"THE OBVIOUS Russian lead," he continued, "is in manned space flight and long haul capabilities.

"They have had a lot more growth potential because their equipment was built with standard techniques, using standard equipment. I disagree violently with those who say their missile are fatter but ours are smarter.

"We miniaturized our equipment—and miniaturization cuts into reliability. I think I must agree that in the area of manned space flight we are substantially behind, years behind."

Kennedy has now been in office seven months. What has happened?

"Something rather fundamental has happened Von Braun said. NASA under President Eisenhower had a mission to develop an orderly, step-by-step scientific program. No race with the Russians was admitted.

* * * *

"AS A RESULT, the scientific interests came first. There was no recognition of the psychological affect on the world. This was a consistent and honest approach.

"I think the fundamental thing now is that President Kennedy has committed this country to the sweepstakes and we mean to win.

So who's ahead?

"Well," said Von Braun, "...in the earlier objectives (orbital travel) they have a clear lead. Our chance lies in the long range projects where both sides need new equipment and new techniques. Even if the Russian do beat us, we simply cannot afford to have anything less than an energetic program."

What can the United States do to develop more speed in the race?

* * * *

"THERE ARE some areas," said Von Braun, "in which we should take a good hard look at procedures. Contracting is one of them.

"In comparing us with Russia, I am saying this: there is no private industry in Russia and conflicts of interest don't exist....

"Another area in which we have to take a hard look is the question of safety. You can rule yourself out of the space race by demanding unrealistic criteria.

* * * *

"Charles Lindbergh flew the Atlantic in a single-engine plane. If Lindbergh had submitted a flight plan to some of our safety people, they wouldn't have let him go. They would have demanded that he wait until the development of a four-engine airplane...."

Before approving a NASA budget for 1962 of $1.671 billion, Congress whittled $75 million off the fund for research and development and cut $20 million from the salary and expense allowance.

* * * *

IN RELATION to the total budget, these appear as minor reductions. Von Braun doesn't think so. In terms of personnel, the cut means that NASA will not hire some 600 extra people.

What about the reduction in research funds? Von Braun puckered wryly.

"We are damaged in that what was a continuous plan in which everything dovetailed will have to be reshuffled and this ties up a lot of people."

As result of these seemingly small cuts there will be some undetermined slippage in the moon trip timetables.

Congress ordered the cuts on Aug. 7—the day Russia's major Gherman Titov completed 17 trips around the earth in a space capsule.

Plane Takeoff Kills Airman

POINT MUGU (AP) — A Navy airman was killed Saturday when a jet plane preparing to take off ran over him.

Lt. Cmdr. E. G. Callas said he was in the plane and preparing to take off when he pulled out of the area and felt a bump. He said he looked back and saw McTavich lying on the runway. McTavich died three hours later.

Kuchel Urges Increase in Cotton Crop

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Thomas H. Kuchel, R-Calif., joined Saturday in demands that more cotton be planted to avoid any shortage such as occurred during the Korean war.

The Republican Whip urged a higher acreage base for the 1962 crop in letters to President Kennedy and Agriculture Secretary Orville L. Freeman.

"I wish to associate myself with those who are in favor of a materially larger acreage for next season," Kuchel said. He said U.S. and world cotton stocks were at a low level at the outbreak of hostilities in Korea and that it had been necessary to place an embargo on U.S. exports.

* * * *

"I FEEL WE must take positive steps to assure a completely adequate and dependable supply to meet our own domestic requirements and to fill the demands of our free world allies," he said.

Kuchel said cotton stocks outside the Soviet Bloc were "at the lowest level since World War II, with the exception of a period during the Korean war."

He termed the situation most critical in California where, he said, the only supplies available were those growing in the fields or being picked.

"In the view of industry leaders, California could sell at least three times the quantity of cotton being produced this year," he said. He asked that a "fair proportion" of any increased acreage be assigned to California.

Kuchel said the cotton carry-over for July 31, 1962, had been predicted at 6,300,000 bales. He termed this as "considerably below the margin of safety."

A three-months-old boy, who reportedly was adopted by the foster parents of Carolyn Page, has been placed temporarily with a private family pending adoption, the Los Angeles County Bureau of Adoptions said Saturday.

The bureau said little Allen Lee had not been adopted by Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Van Buren of La Mirada as the couple earlier had claimed.

They are in jail awaiting grand jury action in the strangulation of 5-year-old Carolyn last Aug. 13. The child was tied in a shower stall with wire for "misbehaving."

Canada Mission

What you see above is known as "white space." It's what newspaper advertisers buy. It's what they bought to the tune of $3,650,000,000 in 1960. They bought it for one purpose—to sell more goods and services. Must be a good investment, because advertisers put more money into newspaper white space last year than ever before, more than in television, radio, magazines and outdoor combined.*

An all-time high of almost 59,000,000 newspapers are published on an average day and 9 out of 10 families get a daily newspaper on an average day. It follows that practically every sale of every product or service is made to a newspaper reader.

Television	$1,595,000,000
Magazines	938,000,000
Radio	672,000,000
Outdoor	203,000,000

Driver Hurt as Car Dives Into Ravine

A 19-year-old Wilmington youth was injured critically Saturday when he drove his car off a road in a precipitous part of the Portuguese Bend landslide area.

The victim was identified as Richard N. Alarcon of 617 Island Ave., Wilmington. He was treated for a possible broken neck, head and other injuries in San Pedro Community Hospital.

* * * *

A GARDENER working in the vicinity told highway patrolmen he saw Alarcon driving down the rough, winding lane at about 70 miles an hour. He said the youth's car shot off the road at a curve and plunged to the bottom of a steep ravine.

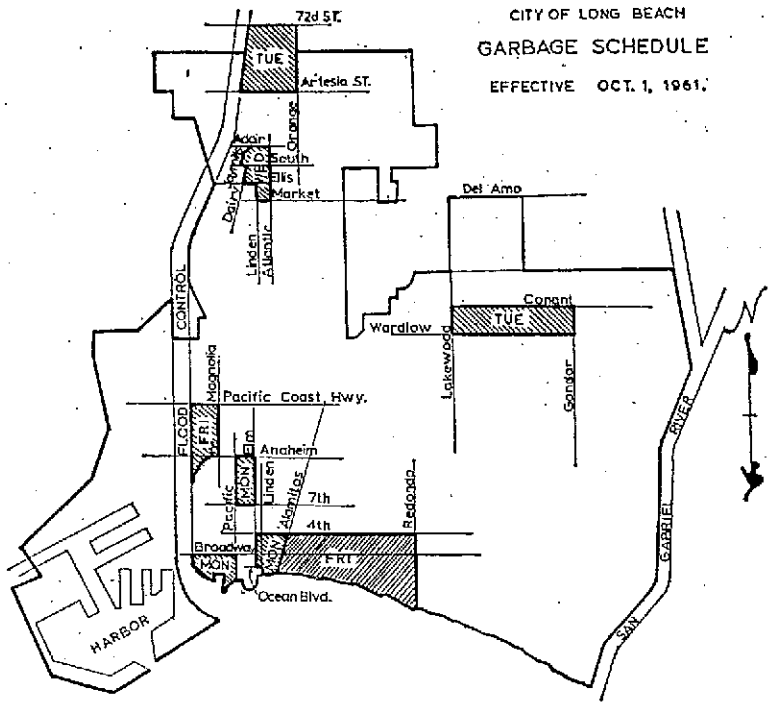

Highway Patrolman Frank S. Runyon, aided by members of the Sheriff's Mounted Posse, carried the victim out of the steep canyon in a basket stretcher.

GARBAGE COLLECTION CHART

Beginning Oct. 1 garbage collections will be made once a week only in all areas of Long Beach. In the unshaded area of the above map, garbage will be collected on regular rubbish collection day. In the eight shaded areas, garbage will be collected on the day indicated.

Weekly Collection of Garbage Oct. 1

Beginning Oct. 1, garbage collections will be made once a week only in all residential areas of Long Beach.

Garbage tonnage in Long Beach has dropped sharply during the past eight years. Total tons collected in 1952 was 28,593.95, total tons in 1960—17,321.65. Since 1952, this represents a reduction in total garbage generated in excess of 39 per cent. Per capita generation of garbage has decreased 54 per cent since 1950.

The change in schedule will enable the city to cover all pickups by operating on a 45 crew week schedule as compared with a 79-crew week schedule at the present time. This will reflect a payroll saving of approximately $71,144.32 per year which, coupled with equipment savings, totals about $86,000 annually. These savings do not take into account savings resulting from eliminating the need for further capital investment.

Radioactive Fallout Low in Orange

SANTA ANA — Results of air sampling to detect radioactive fallout in Orange County show that less than 0.5 mircomicrocuries per cubic meter of air was present during the days after atomic explosions occurred in Russia.

Dr. Edward Lee Russell, county health officer, said the air sampling was done as part of a statewide monitoring program under the auspices of the California Disaster Office.

He said samples taken Sept. 16 and 17 show gross beta and gamma radioactivity in the air in Orange County to be negligible.

The readings are well below the maximum permissible continuous exposure level of 100 mircomicrocuries per cubic meter of air, he said.

Developer Bids for Huge Tract

Sale of 4,000 acres of the Moulton Ranch in eastern Orange County to developer Ross W. Cortese, for a figure which may top $7 million, is under negotiation.

Cortese, who developed the 2,500-home Rossmoor project near Los Alamitos and now is building Leisure World for retired couples near there, is negotiating with the Lewis F. Moulton family to buy the ranch holdings.

A Santa Ana bank is representing the heirs in the negotiations which may be concluded by Tuesday, it was learned.

* * * *

THE MOULTON Ranch holdings sought by Cortese lie along Santa Ana Freeway and Laguna Canyon Road. Most of the land is rolling country studded with some rugged, brush-covered hills.

It is considered among the most picturesque — and most valuable — ranch property in Orange County.

Officials of the bank and of Cortese's enterprises confirmed the negotiations, but indicated that there is disagreement as to price, a difference that they hinted might be resolved early next week.

CAP Trains for Survey of Fallout

Fifty members of Long Beach Group 7 of the Civil Air Patrol Saturday participated in tests aimed at measuring radioactive fallout in the local area from an imaginary air attack.

At four-hour intervals during the day, the group's aircraft were sent aloft at alternate altitudes to record imaginary fallout.

Similar missions were conducted Saturday by units of the Pacific Region of CAP.

"The enthusiasm for a pretty girl will always exist and will in time bring concrete, tangible results to Long Beach when merchandised properly. . ."

MEINHARDT predicted Long Beach ultimately will become the summer capital of the world "because the pageant contains the seeds of greatness."

Song festivals, foreign government-subsidized exhibits, fashion shows, international folk and song festivals and other attractions all are likely in the future, he declared.

Meinhardt credited success of the IBC for creating the right climate for attracting the 1966 World's Fair and other major events to Long Beach.

Garden Grove Girl, 4, Drowns in Illinois

Katherine Elaine Kellogg, 4, of 12501 Maybee Court, Garden Grove, drowned Saturday in a cistern near Bloomington, Ill., while en route home with her grandparents and mother following a vacation holiday.

The child fell into the cistern after wandering away from her mother at an automobile service station where the group had halted temporarily.

Mrs. Kellog told officers they had stopped at the station and, that while the women were in a rest room, Katherine and her 3-year-old sister slipped out.

The younger child appeared later and told her mother and grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Parrish, that "Kathy has fallen into a hole."

A search for the girl led to the cistern where her body was recovered 45 minutes later. An inquest will be held Monday.

U.S.-Made Tiny Autos on Way

By BEN PHLEGAR

DETROIT (AP)—American manufacturers are continuing work on cars smaller than anything now built in the United States.

They won't be introduced with the 1962 models which are beginning to appear in dealer showrooms now. They may never be introduced in this country. But usually reliable informants claim at least one such car will be rolling from an American assembly line by next June.

This would be the long-rumored Ford Cardinal, although it could have another name when it comes to market. Manufacturers often use code names to hide advance projects. Current code name for the Cardinal-type car now under development by Ford in Europe is the Archbishop.

* * * *

THE FACT FORD is working on small cars on two continents has added to the confusion. Some reports says the Cardinal will be assembled in the United States from components made abroad. Others claim only a foreign version will be built.

The Cardinal is said to have a wheelbase of about 95 inches, 5 inches shorter than the Rambler American, now the shortest car in domestic production. The overall length is reported to be about 165 inches, 8 inches less than the Rambler model.

This would make the Cardinal fractionally larger than the Volkswagen, its main marketing target. The VW has a 94.5-inch wheelbase and is 160.6 inches long.

Ford declines comment on all speculation regarding a small car. So do all other domestic manufacturers with one exception — Studebaker-Packard.

Sherwood Egbert, president of Studebaker, said recently: "We have a prototype of a small car. I don't like the looks of it. We do like the engine very much and we are pushing it. We won't push the car unless others go first and it looks like we need it."

* * * *

CARL H. HAHN, general manager of Volkswagen of America, says he is convinced the Cardinal will appear on schedule. He is equally positive its introduction will not dent Volkswagen sales in this country.

"What I do wonder," he said in an interview, "is how long it will be before the other companies make a smaller one too."

Chevrolet is said to have developed prototypes for small cars and has made some inquiries among suppliers. Ed Cole, Chevrolet's general manager, insists there are no plans to market such a vehicle.

Hahn said he believes Chevrolet will rush to production as soon as possible after Ford introduces the Cardinal.

* * * *

ASKED WHETHER he thought there was a market for a smaller domestic car, Hahn replied, "Definitely, why not?" But he questioned whether the potential was great enough for everybody to jump in.

Hahn said he doesn't believe the Cardinal would affect this prediction. He views it as a "different car, much as the Corvair is a different car, and not one to take sales away from us."

Drive on E. German Dissidents

By EDWARD SHIELDS

BERLIN (UPI) — Willi Busch has a private nightmare: his two sons shooting at each other across the east-west German border.

Busch, an elderly chemical worker, has a teen-age son living with him at home in Halle, East Germany. His elder son is in West Germany.

"If my younger son goes into the army," Busch told his fellow workers, "he becomes the foe of his brother who is in the West."

"A man should not allow that," he said. "I want to bring up my son properly and not allow him to learn murderous crafts."

* * * *

BUSCH TOLD his teen-age son if he volunteered for the East German armed forces, "you needn't let me see you again."

For his outspoken views, Busch was downgraded at an employes meeting to a low paid job in the giant Leuna chemical factory where he works in East Germany. A Communist army reserve officer called Busch's views "shocking."

The meeting which condemned Busch to a low-paid job was only one of dozens in a Communist reign of terror throughout East Germany's nationalized industries.

* * * *

THE EAST German press carries daily reports of "workers tribunals" — kangaroo-courts backed by the police power of the Red regime.

A Meissen factory worker identified only as Stein was placed under arrest by police after a workers court heard that he attacked the factory leadership. Stein, objecting to cancellation of a factory outing so that production quotas could be filled, reportedly said "whoever cancelled this outing should be gassed."

The newspaper Saechsischen Volkzeitung said a worker named Herman was put in a low-paid job for asking for an exit visa to West Germany unless he received better housing. The newspaper said Herman also threatened to send pictures of his present housing to West Germany.

* * * *

IT ALSO reported the case of an engineer named Lindner, ordered arrested by a workers court for advocating denationalization of industry and decollectivization of farms as a way toward German reunification.

The Erfurt Communist newspaper Das Volk said a man named Treppschuh was turned over to security forces for telling party functionaries "you should be careful when the reckoning comes."

A Dresden Party newspaper reported a chemistry lecturer at the Dresden Technical School named Horn was expelled from the Party for saying the border-closing measures in Berlin "were unnecessary and directed against our own people."

Step Up Plans for Rooting Out Rebels in Java

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP)—Intensified operations for rooting out vestiges of the faltering Dar ul Islam rebel movement in West Java are being launched by the Air Force, the government has announced.

The Air Force said helicopters, bombers, fighter and reconnaissance planes are supporting ground operations by paratroopers against the movement, which has advocated for the last decade an Islamic state for Indonesia.

Planes dropped leaflets over vast jungle areas, urging the rebel leader, Jartosuwirjo, to surrender. President Sukarno last month issued an amnesty to all rebels if they surrendered before Oct. 5.

SECURE AND SALTY

This is a view of a huge cavern carved 650 feet underground near Hutchison, Kan., by salt mining. The area includes 125 rooms, each 50x300 feet, separated by 10-foot walls of solid salt. The area is being leased for record storage and emergency space as a nuclear bomb shelter.—(AP photo.)

NATURE'S NUCLEAR BOMB SHELTER

Firm Leases Kansas Salt Mine for Record Storage Center

By FRANK K. TIFFANY

HUTCHINSON (AP) — Millions of years ago Mother Nature began building a nuclear bomb shelter in this

It's 650 feet underground now, with some help from man, and is being developed commercially as a records storage center in this era of world crises.

Underground Vaults & Storage, Inc. has more than 70 business and industrial clients so far in 17 states, each putting paper records, microfilms, blueprints, even x-rays of patients (forwarded by a medical clinic) into guarded, steel-barred underground rooms.

* * * *

THE WICHITA Art Museum recently stored valuable oil paintings here—to prevent deterioration.

There is some federal agency business, too. The Federal Reserve Bank of Kansas City, serving seven states, has signed up for records storage and emergency working space. The Federal Home Loan Bank at Topeka also has signed for records storage space.

Under a soil and rock cap of some 350 feet there are another 300 feet of rock-solid salt. Miners began taking out the salt 37 years ago. The possible haven for people and records they dug is a by-product, and they're still adding to it.

* * * *

JOHN H. SCHUL, president of Underground, says the firm has more than 5½ million square feet under 99-year lease with renewal options. That's 130 acres, but only a small part of the total salt cavern.

The space is air-conditioned by nature. It was made safe and secure against water seepage by careful mining.

The temperature never varies more than one degree from 68 degrees fahrenheit. Humidity ranges from 57 to 59 per cent. Ceilings are 10 feet high.

Underground's lease covers 125 rooms, each 50 by 300 feet. Between them are solid walls of salt 10 feet thick.

* * * *

SCHUL HAS set up a full-scale underground apartment with kitchen—just to show possibilities. It's fully electric, with latest appliances. It already has a limited stock of foodstuffs, a planned assortment of packaged, canned foods suggested by Kansas Civil Defense officials. More than 300 conventioning members of the National Press Photographers Association were served a turkey dinner there in June.

Fresh air is pressured into these underground spaces from the surface. There is air movement throughout the vast complex of mined tunnels—and enough oxygen to sustain life for weeks even if the surface supply were cut off. There's one elevator shaft now that takes you down to the developed level in 75 seconds. Development as a nuclear refuge would, of course, provide alternate elevator and air shafts.

* * * *

THE KANSAS Civil Defense Council met in Schul's underground space recently and promptly urged the state to move vital records from the Statehouse basement and offices in Topeka into secure —presumably underground— storage.

Schul said if the state government would undertake such storage with his firm it would donate 15,000 square feet of emergency working space.

More deep salt mines are available about 30 miles to the northwest, in the Lyons area. They and the Hutchinson Mines were inspected by 60 federal, state and local officials a year ago. Rep. J. Floyd Breeding, D-Kan., told them such mines would be ideal for surplus crop storage.

Schul concurs—says grain and food stuffs so stored "would be free of contamination and available for shipment to other areas." There are, incidentally, no rodents or insects because of the salt, he says.

Two Yanks Plan Dive for Gems

JOHANNESBURG (UPI)—Two American oilmen are investigating a scheme to mine diamonds from the bottom of the sea off the coast of South West Africa.

The men, Emerson Kailey, of Freeport, Ill., and Sam Collins of Port Lavaca, Tex., plan to invest heavily in the $5,600,000 venture.

"It is a speculative venture," Kailey said. "American, British and South African interests are participating."

The men hope to mine diamonds at depths of 100 feet and up to 3 miles offshore. The site they intend prospecting borders the famed diamond coast on South West Africa, where diamonds are literally found on the beaches.

Collins said this type of mining has never been attempted.

"We will put down a rubber pipe and will agitate the sea bottom with jets of air. Then we suck the soil on deck, a sort of giant vacuum cleaner," he said.

Collins is the head of a submarine engineering concern currently laying an oil pipeline from the Sahara to France, under the Mediterranean.

Wait Decision on Steel Price

By JACK LEFLER

NEW YORK (AP)—The controversy over whether there should be a steel price increase steamed closer to the boiling point this week.

More steel executives commented on President Kennedy's request for price stabilization despite a wage increase due next week, but it still wasn't clear what the industry is going to do.

Major interest shifted to the steel situation when General Motors Corp. and the United Auto Workers union agreed on a three-year contract for the company's 350,000 hourly workers.

* * * *

AVERY C. ADAMS, chairman of Jones & Laughlin Steel Corp., contended a freeze on steel prices would result in a further profit squeeze, fewer and poorer tools of production, less productivity, more unemployment and less job security.

He said the Presidential stand against a price increase —aimed at curtailing inflation—concerned him more than anything that has happened in his 42 years in the steel business.

Alwin F. Franz, president of Colorado Fuel & Iron Co., replying to the President's request, urged government measures to help the smaller steel companies, which he said have been hard hit by foreign competition.

* * * *

AND HE SAID five of 19 integrated steel companies lost money in the first half of this year, seven did not earn their regular dividend, some have not paid a common stock dividend for some time and several returned a small and inadequate profit.

The steelworkers get a wage boost Oct. 1. It will be the third since there was an increase in the price of steel.

Steel production last week held even with the previous week at 2,032,000 tons, about 69.5 per cent of estimated capacity. Labor difficulties in the automobile industry were expected to cut severely into September steel shipments.

PEOPLE BLOSSOM UNDER HER MAGIC

Comely Psychiatrist Treats Only the Well

By DALPH DIGHTON

LOS ANGELES (AP) — People come away from Loriene Johnston's couch with memories of never-never worlds — where fantasy is real, where drudgery turns into freedom, where ecstasy is routine.

And they go back again and again for more of the same, until Loriene Johnston, Ph. D., decides they've had enough.

Sound like magic?

It is magic, in a way, the blonde magic of one of the most unusual personalities ever to blossom in this land where unusual personalities thrive like orchids in a hot house.

* * * *

HERE, during office hours, she practices a new kind of psychiatry — treating not the sick but only the well.

And here, off duty, she reigns as the pampered bride of a millionaire.

If you watch the Art Linkletter television show you've probably seen her: a tall, shapely radiant blonde who admits she's 40 but looks 10 years younger. On the show she interprets dreams of members of the audience with a professional air so much in contrast with her looks that you wonder if she's a fake.

She isn't. Loriene Johnston is a bona fide psychotherapist. She won her Ph. D. at the University of Southern California in 1953, specializing in speech pathology.

* * * *

FOR SEVERAL years she worked with the bruised emotions of physically and mentally handicapped children. Then, four years ago, she branched off in an entirely new direction.

"You can help disturbed people only so far," she explains now. "You're lucky if you can just bring them up to normal.

"But healthy, superior people need help, too, to break down the inhibitions that keep them from becoming even greater than they are.

"The future of the world depends on our superior people, not the ordinary ones. If the superior people are frustrated or misguided, they could lead the world to doom. If they are happy, well adjusted, growing to their fullest, the world will be a better place for all of us."

* * * *

"I WANT to get across, through whatever medium I can, the idea that the unconscious is not a snake pit — it's the place where the whole wealth of our feelings is stored.

"Fears, some big, some little, keep us from tapping this wealth."

These are fairly standard ideas among modern psychotherapists. The thing that makes Dr. Johnston unusually successful — she has become almost a fad among harried West Coast executives — is her way of breaking down the barriers of real and imagined fears.

In addition to the usual couch and soft music of her profession, Dr. Johnston employs what she calls a "psychic energizer."

* * * *

ACTUALLY, this is a comparatively new drug called LSD. In large doses LSD produces hallucinations. Dr. Johnston says she uses very small doses, just enough to help the patient break away from the grim realities of everyday life; in other words, from fear."

Dr. Johnston says she has more than 150 case histories in the past four years of superior individuals—community leaders, professional men—who credit her "psychic energizer" with helping them achieve new honors.

The case of the professor, she says, is typical.

He was always bookish, inclined to place more confidence in academic knowledge than in people. Over the years he became more and more introverted. He turned away from his wife and children, lost personal contact with his students — their youth and vigor frightened him.

* * * *

BY THE time he went to Dr. Johnston, he was little more than a vegetable, dying on the vine. Because he trusted only his brain, his outer senses began to atrophy.

Once he loved flowers, but over the years he lost his sense of smell. Once he loved good music, but now he had become hard of hearing.

Then one day, after a series of treatments, he suddenly burst into tears.

"What is it?" asked Dr. Johnston gently.

"That odor," he gasped. "It's fresh-mown grass, isn't it?"

She looked out the window, saw the gardener, and nodded.

* * * *

"THIS IS the first time I've been able to smell anything," the professor said, "in I don't know how many years. I feel alive . . . alive . . . ".

Later his hearing returned.

Instead of being cold and frightened, he became warm and outgoing.

"The last time I saw him," says Dr. Johnston, "he had just received an important presidential appointment."

Loriene taught navigation to Navy fliers during the war, later married her university professor, who died in 1957.

Last March she married millionaire industrialist Allen Chase.

"No," she smiles, "he was never a patient. He has never taken the energizer — he doesn't need it."

Housewives Start 4-Day Gripe Parley

CHICAGO (UPI)—Selected homemakers from the 50 states settled down today for a four-day gripe session at the fifth annual Congress on Better Living.

They will sound off on such pet peeves as cans with keys that get off the track so "you have to get a pair of pliers to get the stuff out," the cost of living and husbands.

They also plan to discuss the pros and cons of private fallout shelters, the "ideal" car, food and family fitness and home furnishings and appliances.

* * * *

GENERAL THEME of this year's congress is "the new American family." Principal speaker is Mrs. Elizabeth Rudel Smith, treasurer of the United States. She will speak at a reception and dinner Tuesday evening.

H. Merle Smith, staff vice president and director of field service for the United States Savings and Loan League will address the group Wednesday at a luncheon. Both speakers will discuss family finances.

Delegates will air their own views on this and other subjects at a total of seven round-table discussions.

Touchy subjects expected to come up at the discussions of family finances include the question of who really controls the money (many surveys indicate the women do), the desirability of charge accounts and installment buying.

President's War Stand Is Defended

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Sen. Stuart Symington, D-Mo., Saturday challenged a Republican senator's contention that President Kennedy evidently lacked the will to fight with nuclear weapons.

Symington, a leading administration spokesman on defense, said Kennedy's moves to bolster conventional forces has not weakened the U.S. nuclear deterrent or his will to use it is necessary.

The former Air Force secretary disputed statements by Sen. Margaret Chase Smith, R-Maine, that the President seemed to be overcautious about backing his brave words to defend Berlin with brave actions.

* * * *

MRS. SMITH had suggested in a major Senate speech Thursday that Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev was becoming increasingly aggressive because he did not fully believe Kennedy's words of warning.

She said administration emphasis on conventional forces to fight limited war may increase the temptation for Khrushchev to threaten the West.

Symington said all elements of national defense—nuclear forces, convention forces and civil defense—had been strengthened in recent months.

"President Kennedy has made it very clear that the freedom of West Berlin is not negotiable," he declared. "If Mr. Khruchev does not believe his statement, in his disbelief lies the greatest danger to world peace."

Symington said this country faces steadily mounting Communist pressures because of its past comfortable and complacent ways. He said President Kennedy asked for and received far more money to build up nuclear striking power than did former President Dwight D. Eisenhower.

* * * *

BUT HE SAID strategic and even tactical nuclear weapons would be of little help in such places as Viet Nam.

Meantime, a spokesman for Mrs. Smith said former Vice President Richard M. Nixon telephoned her from California Saturday and praised her speech as "eloquent, brilliant and tremendous."

Nixon reportedly told her he felt the people welcomed her position and that the speech inspired a strong response in his part of the country.

Anti-Red Priest Dies in Mystery

JUAREZ, Mexico (UPI)—The body of a youthful anti-Communist Catholic priest was found in a Juarez theater Saturday and police theorized he may have been thrown to his death from the balcony.

The victim, Father Leo Labrador made a strongly anti-Communist speech to a Latin-American audience at the celebration of Mexican Independence Sept. 16 in El Paso Coliseum.

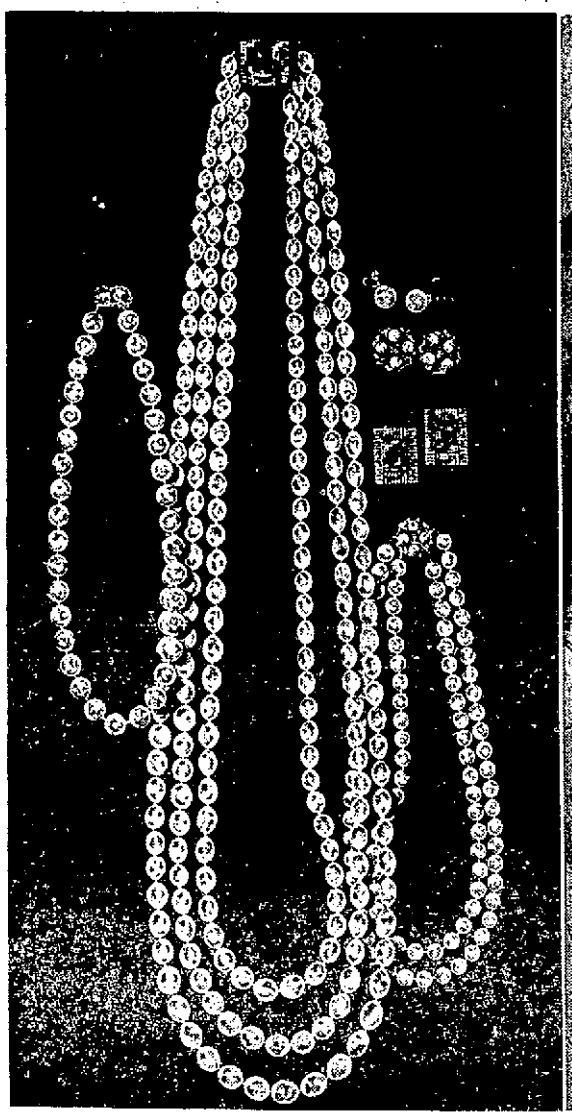

$250,000 Fire Hits Los Angeles Plant

One of four shown here in a jewel cardigan neck. White, pink, blue, grey and beige. Sizes 32-38, 6.98

Wade Leads Bears Over Rams, 21-17

Becoming Routine: 49ers Beaten in Final Minute, 14-9

By AL LARSON
I. P-T Staff Writer

SAN FRANCISCO—Coach Don Reed must have entertained thoughts of diving off the Golden Gate Bridge late Saturday afternoon.

For the second successive week, Long Beach State lost a football game in the final two minutes. This time San Francisco State stormed back from a 9-0 deficit to snatch a 14-9 victory from the 49ers in the final 55 seconds of play before 5,300 partisan fans at Cox Stadium.

* * * *

CURTIS BENNETT'S dazzling 42-yard punt return set up the touchdown, marking the first time in four years Long Beach has crossed S.F.'s goal line.

Then with 1:06 remaining in the third period, defensive hawk Don Montgomery spilled reserve quarterback Duane O'Connor in the end zone for a seven-yard loss and a key safety. This gave the 49ers a cozy 9-0 margin.

But the Golden Gators roared back in the final quarter and marched 54 yards with fullback Bob Burnett bulling the final yard. Bob Baird converted with 5:40 to go in the game.

It was now up to Long Beach to hang on to the ball, make one or two first downs and merely run out the clock. But the Gators snapped the door shut on the visitors on three successive plays and forced Pete Yoder to punt for the eighth time.

* * * *

THERE WAS now 3:49 left as starting quarterback Dick Valois, a slick passer, went to work from midfield.

He carved up Long Beach's secondary with four completions as the 49ers' defense elected to float rather than hurl a fierce rush.

With first and goal on the six, Valois hit Jesse Racines in the end zone for the clincher. Baird booted the extra point and Long Beach's almost certain victory vanished again. Last week, the 49ers lost to UOP with only two minutes remaining in the game.

Line coach Jim Pullman praised the outstanding play of Gene Farrell and Lynn Hoyem, while Williams' running was the most pleasant surprise of the day.

The former El Camino flash ripped off 54 yards on 16 cracks. Steve Hartman was next leading gainer for the 49ers with 34 yards on nine carries.

Touchdown Tom Held to Five

TOUCHDOWN TOM WILSON of Rams penetrates Chicago Bear wall for five yards before being flung to turf by end Doug Atkins and safetyman Harlon Hill (87). Rams watching from ringside are Frank Varrichione (70) and Jon Arnett (26).

Sparks 2nd Half Splurge

By JERRY WYNN

Bill Wade made a triumphant return to the Coliseum Saturday night as he paced the Chicago Rams to a 21-17 victory over the Rams.

Once the darling of the fans when he quarterbacked the Rams, Wade was the villain of a crowd of 53,315 in his first Los Angeles appearance with the Bears. He came off the bench to run for one touchdown and pass for another in the second half to overcome a 10-7 Chicago halftime deficit.

Wade's fine showing (he completed 7 of 8 passes for 98 yards and had no interceptions) rubbed salt in the wounds of the Rams. Besides depriving them of a badly-needed win, he obtained personal revenge for the trade that sent him to Chicago last winter.

* * * *

THE DEFEAT was the second straight for the Rams, and just as last Sunday in Baltimore, they came away mystified as to what formula it takes to come out in front.

The Bears were supposed to be weak meat. They were the same team that lost to the Vikings, 37-13, last week.

But the winning combination for Chicago Saturday night was the passing of Wade, the always dangerous running of Willie Galimore and the ferocious play of linebacker Bill George.

The Rams tried everything on offense from their lone-some end to employing Jon Arnett and Dick Bass in the same backfield, but all they could muster were two touchdown drives. Zeke Bratkowski had a good night with 18 completions in 27 attempts for 235 yards, and Jim Phillips sparkled with nine receptions for 163 yards and some dazzling bits of running.

* * * *

ON DEFENSE, LaMar Lundy was a tremendous performer, and Bob Long and Ed Meador were other standouts.

Taking over for Ed Brown at the start of the second half, Wade moved the Bears to a touchdown with only 5:44 gone in the third quarter.

The drive started on the Ram 41 after Bratkowski had been forced to punt from his end zone. Wade passed to Galimore for a first down on the 28, and then hit Mike Ditka on a 20-yarder to the 5. Galimore and John Adams carried to the one, from where Wade rolled around left end for the touchdown.

AFTER AN exchange of downs, Wade delivered what

BOBBY SMITH SCORES 3 TDs

UCLA Breezes Over AF, 19-6

DENVER (UPI) — Tailback Bobby Smith touched off a personal three-touchdown spree with a 60-yard dash Saturday night to propel powerful UCLA to a 19-6 victory over the Air Force Academy in a drizzling rain.

The swift and powerful 189-pound Smith, taking over adequately for the departed Bill Kilmer, scored all of UCLA's points. He went 60 yards and two yards behind devastating single-wing blocking on end sweeps for touchdowns in the second period.

He smashed four yards in the final period before the Air Force could muster a scoring drive.

The Falcons, playing before 27,500 at Denver University's Hilltop Stadium, their biggest home crowd ever, put across a face-saving touchdown later in the final period. Fullback Nick Arshinkoff smashed four yards for the TD, ending a 49-yard march. The only other time the outmanned Falcons really threatened against the rugged UCLA defenses was after Smith's 60-yard run in the second period.

Falcon halfback Terry Issacson ran 34 yards to the UCLA 33, but a blocked field goal ended that threat.

STATISTICS	UCLA	Air Force

Passing yardage	23	37
Passes	2-3	3-5
Passes intercepted by	0	0
Punts	2-53	7-39
Fumbles lost	2	0

The teams swapped crucial fumbles in the third period.

Although Smith was outstanding, UCLA's interior linemen and powerful blocking made the difference. Fullback Alphonse Thompson and Smith were able to rip the middle and sweep the ends behind the blocking generated by coach Bill Barnes' single wing.

Smith took off behind three blockers, swept around right end and picked up a key block by Vena on the 22 in his dazzling 60-yard sprint. The wet ball was fumbled on the conversion attempt.

His two-yard trek around right end climaxed an eight-play, 36-yard drive for UCLA's 12-0 halftime lead. His final touchdown, four yards over right tackle, ended a nine-play, 54-yard UCLA drive. He dragged two tacklers into the end zone.

Purdue Upends Huskies

SEATTLE (UPI) — A reserve lineman kicked two field goals Saturday and halfback Dave Miller scored on a 30-yard romp as Purdue defeated Washington, 13-6, to end the West Coast club's two-year domination of Big Ten football teams.

Skip Ohl made his field goals from 24 and 33 yards out in the first half, and Miller's touchdown was scored two plays after Ohl's first three-pointer.

Washington's Bob Monroe had fumbled the kickoff return on his own 30 and Boilermaker right guard Tom Krysinski fell on the ball. Miller broke through left tackle on the next play and went all the way.

The Husky score came early in the final period on a 15-yard pass from second-string quarterback Bill Siler to fullback Tim Stiger, and the partisan sellout crowd of 55,000 fans went wild, but it was about the only chance they had to do so.

* * * *

WASHINGTON was unable to do anything against a fine Purdue line throughout most of the first half and the Boilermakers played the Husky forwards off their feet.

Washington did manage to get one drive going in the first period but it ended on Purdue's five.

Washington came back strong after the halftime intermission, however, and most of the second half was played in Purdue territory.

The Huskies also penetrated to Purdue's six-yard line in the third period, but a 15-yard penalty nullified that threat. The opportunity was set up when halfback Dave Kopay punted 56 yards to Purdue's four. The Huskies held and gained 16 yards on an exchange of punts.

The loss ended an eight-game Washington winning streak and gave the Big Ten some revenge on a team that defeated their representatives in two consecutive Rose Bowl games.

Snead, Six Others Draw Suspension

PORTLAND (UPI) — The Professional Golfers Assn. Saturday night announced it has fined seven of its playing members, including Sam Snead, $500 and suspended them for six months for playing in a Cincinnati pro-amateur tournament Saturday without permission.

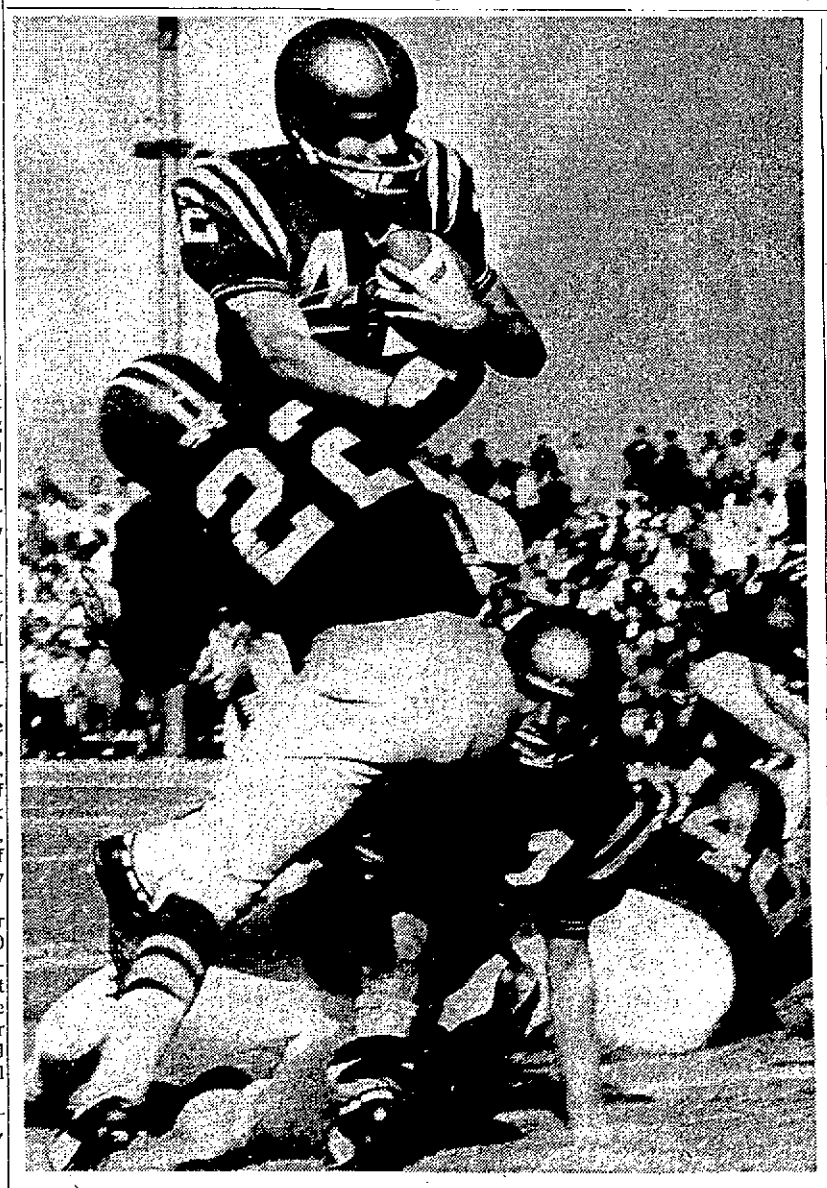

The action was taken because the two-day event at the Los Antiville Country Club in Cincinnati conflicted with the PGA-sponsored Portland Open.

The other players disciplined by the PGA were Tommy Bolt of Crystal River, Fla.; Dick Mayer of La Jolla, Calif.; Walter Burkemo of Franklin Hills, Mich.; Chick Harbert of Port St. Lucie, Fla.; Hillman Robbins of Memphis, Tenn., and Lew Worsham of Oakmont, Pa.

Snead, the 49-year-old star who has won more than 100 tournaments, told PGA officials here by telephone that he was withdrawing from the Cincinnati tournament after the first day's play and "will get a good lawyer and appeal the ruling."

TULANE TUMBLED, 9-7

Stanford Ends Losing Streak

PALO ALTO (AP)—Unsung senior substitutes Chuck Butler and Larry Royse hooked up on a 47-yard fourth quarter scoring pass Saturday, giving Stanford a 9-7 victory over Tulane and breaking an 11-game losing string.

The jubilant Indians, who hadn't won since Nov. 14, 1959, hoisted coach Jack Curtice on their shoulders and took him to the student body section for a victory talk.

STATISTICS	Stan.	Tulane

Butler, a non-letterman third stringer, took over at quarterback in the final stanza after Tulane went ahead, 7-3, capitalizing on its only scoring opportunity of the day.

He moved his team from the 20 into Tulane territory. Then with second down and 15 to go at the 47, he pitched to halfback Royse, ex-student body president who played just enough to letter last year.

Royse took the pass going backward and ended on his back in the end zone.

Tulane didn't penetrate past midfield in the first half and had gone only to the 29 in the third period.

But with Stanford at its own seven, sophomore quarterback Steve Thorlow of the Indians tossed a wobbly pitchout lateral that fell free, and Tulane sophomore end Tommy Cato fell on it at the two.

Fullback Lenny Stein bulled over two plays later and Chuck Connell converted.

After the decisive touchdown, that came after four minutes, 34 seconds of the final period, Stanford reached the Tulane 23 before Butler fumbled and Jim Schoonmaker recovered for the Green Wave.

DEFENSE WON IT FOR US ---CURTICE

PALO ALTO (UPI)—"Our defense won it; it doesn't have to take its hat off to anyone," Stanford coach Jack Curtice said Saturday after the surprise 9-7 victory over Tulane.

"We stopped a powerful team. Our pass secondary was real good," Curtice added.

Tulane coach Andy Pilner declared, "We were okay defensively until we fell down on that long pass. My center got lost in there.

"I'm not happy we were the ones to break Stanford's losing streak, but Stanford looked strong, hustling and wanting to win."

Is Georgia Tech That Good?

Enough has been written during the past 24 hours of how miserable the "new look" Trojans performed during Friday night's 27-7 drubbing by Georgia Tech.

This piece, therefore, will attempt to probe the brighter side of the Trojan picture — even if it involves more investigating than a House Committee checking out subversives.

JOHN McKAY
Was Wreck Toughest?

Boss John McKay hoped he tapped the nail on the head Saturday when he commented the Yellow Jackets "might be the toughest club we'll meet all season." He sure could be right. Georgia Tech looked like a squad in perfect midseason form — indeed, the Wreck rambled as if it had been working out since Memorial Day instead of the required Labor Day.

Whether the Yellow Jackets are one of the nation's better clubs — or the Trojans are one of the feeblest — will be ascertained in the next few weeks.

Rather surprisingly, the Trojans exhibited a fine passing attack (18 completions in 29 attempts). Their running game, however, was as inept as anything the Ebell Club might have devised. In short, it was nonexistent.

Actually, the aerial offensive was more the work of two receivers than either Trojan quarterback. Willie Brown, the Poly product, and Frank Buncom, who moved from tackle to end when Jim Bates was wounded, hauled in eight and four passes each — and most of their receptions bordered on the Lenny Moore-Ray Berry variety.

Brown's college debut was satisfactory in the defensive department, too, for the ex-Hare made six tackles, twice the number of any other USC back.

Only other Trojan who caught this observer's eye was a beltin' substitute left half named Ben Wilson, who wandered to Figueroa St. via Houston, Texas. The 215-pounder hit his tacklers from Atlanta like Joe Perry crumpled Rams last Sunday.

Why isn't Wilson a first-stringer?

"He's a bad fumbler," explained McKay. "His fumbles look like forward passes — when they spurt from his hands, they spiral and take off!"

At least Wilson's the only fumbler who can carry four tacklers 10 yards when he doesn't have the ball . . . and you can't hardly find them kind any more.

LONG BEACH CITY COLLEGE painted a much brighter picture Friday night when the Vikes belted another powerful Cerritos team, 44-30.

Even though he gets irritated when newspapermen and well-wishers insist he has another Jr. Rose Bowl potential at City College, coach Jim Stangeland is going to have to live with that constant reminder another week.

I can't blame Jim for his irritation, but even with the unpredictable bounces of footballs, a City College club with Andrews, Irvin and Martin has to be recognized as one of the nation's finest.

How UCLA let Andrews escape from its extension school is beyond comprehension. But the Westwood mistake turned into a Long Beach bonanza. It is hoped the vein will continue for three more years at Long Beach State College, with no regrets whatsoever from this corner for UCLA.

LITTLE SERMONS ON SUNDAY:

. . . Even though Georgia Tech is regarded as one of the nation's finest engineering schools, the Atlanta school still is cognizant it must secure football players to perpetuate its good name. Hence, it's of little surprise that 23 of the 36 players pictured in its program are majors in industrial management, whatsoever that means!

. . . Anyone interested in (and capable of) playing Class "A" City League basketball is urged to report immediately to Joe Jost's bar, 2803 E. Anaheim. Joe's top inducement: "The greatest training table in the world." (Despite the inducement, the coach has requested columnist Bob Wells not apply.)

. . . City College baseball coach Joe Hicks is eyeing the pro football commercials with more than usual alertness. Reason? He's the man behind the wheel in the Thunderbird shots — and he wants to make certain he receives ALL his royalties.

. . . Using Saturday night's game (perhaps) as a better gauge, pro football fans are reminded that this is the final week to cast a vote for the "most indispensable Ram". Votes thus far have been recorded for Les Richter, Art Hunter, Eddie Meador, John Lo Vetere, Ollie Matson, Danny Villaneuva and Lamar Lundy, surprisingly a small circle. The decision will be based on the correct player (by coaches' standards) and the best reasoning. (Incidentally, it's interesting to read the various letters and to realize how much the average fan really misses when viewing a football game. Joe Fan is cognizant only of the spectacular.)

Bailey Boots Bump Giants

CINCINNATI (AP) — The Cincinnati Reds came up with lusty hitting Saturday including two home runs by Gordon Coleman and three doubles by Don Blasingame and moved closer to a National League pennant with a 10-6 victory over the San Francisco Giants.

The Reds also had a little assistance from their former catcher, Ed Bailey. He bumped into third baseman Jim Davenport to let a foul pop fall safely, which opened the gates for one run.

He also ran to the dugout after forcing Davenport in the seventh and was tagged out. He apparently either thought it was the third out or that he also had been retired.

Rally for 4 in 8th, 8-5

By GEORGE LEDERER
I. P-T Staff Writer

ST. LOUIS — The Dodgers refused to become sacrificial pennant lambs Saturday. They scored their first three runs on sacrifice flies, then routed long-time nemesis Larry Jackson in the eighth inning and hung on for a 8-5 victory over St. Louis.

While league-leading Cincinnati trimmed the magic number to three by conquering the Giants, the Dodgers cannot be eliminated before Monday night at Pittsburgh. The Dodgers, with seven games to play, trail by four. The Reds have five games remaining and are three up on the losing side.

Saturday's Dodger victory was made easier by four St. Louis errors of the cardinal variety. Rookie shortstop Jerry Buchek, filling in for the injured Bob Lillis, bobbled two chances and handed the Dodgers two unearned runs in the seventh inning.

* * * *

DUKE SNIDER'S two-run triple featured the Dodgers' four-run eighth inning, enhanced by Julian Javier's muff of a double play ball and a passed ball charged to catcher Gene Oliver.

Ed Roebuck, continuing along the comeback trail, was credited with his second win, although he needed help from Dick Farrell in the last two rounds.

Jackson, who had won 11 of his last 12 decisions and owned a 10-1 lifetime record over the Dodgers at St. Louis, had a 3-2 edge until Buchek caught the jitters.

Maury Wills started the Dodgers seventh with a single and scored the tying run after Buchek's first error, a fielder's choice and Snider's sacrifice fly. Ron Fairly was safe on Buchek's second boot and Norm Larker's second double put the Dodgers in front, 4-3.

* * * *

JOHNNY PODRES, making his first start in 12 days, was treated roughly in the first four innings. He allowed nine hits, but, with the help of two double plays, escaped with a minimum damage of two runs.

Larry Sherry, also rusty, yielded an uncarned run in the fifth on a walk, a passed ball by John Roseboro and a single by Gene Oliver.

Roebuck (2-0) held the Cards scoreless through the seventh, but was dismissed when a double by Carl Warwick and pinch singles by Joe Cunningham and Doug Clemens made it 8-4.

Angels Clinch 8th Spot in Losing to Tigers Again, 4-2

By ROSS NEWHAN

As they lost their sixth successive game Saturday, the Angels clinched eigth place.

While it was little consolation to manager Bill Rigney, whose club was being whipped by Detroit, Cleveland defeated Kansas City, 9-5, thus insuring the Angels of an eighth-place finish.

Although Rigney still hopes to get his castoffs into seventh place, in quarters where it was predicted the Angels would win but 30 games the eighth-place windup is a distinct surprise and to general manager Fred Haney a distinct pleasure.

With seven games remaining on the schedule, the Angels still have a shot at 70 victories — now four away. Especially so since today's meeting with Detroit will be the last.

The Tigers have clawed the wings off the Angels. Saturday's victory was Detroit's fourth straight and their 13th in 17 meetings with the Seraphs.

Although there is no comparison between the club which opened the year and the one which is closing it, unfortunately the Angels are ending the season exactly the way they opened it.

* * * *

AFTER winning the season opener at Baltimore, the Angels dropped eight straight. Now, they are only two shy of that losing streak and three shy of their longest winless skein of nine recorded on the road in June.

While the Detroit automobile industry favors the policy of "cash and carry," the Detroit baseball club continues to make hay with the policy of "Cash and Colavito."

The C-boys provided the offense and Jim Bunning the defense as the Tigers scored their fifth decision in eight games at Wrigley.

* * * *

BUNNING was provided with two runs in the first inning, shook off his own first-inning wildness and went on to register his 17th victory against 11 defeats with a five-hit effort. The rocket-arm struck out eight before tiring while working his way out of an eighth-inning jam and Terry Fox came on to pitch a perfect ninth.

While the C-Boys did not contribute to the first inning offensive, they provided the deciding runs. In the fourth, Colavito slammed his 43rd home run over the left field wall and in the sixth Cash followed Al Kaline's double with a single, driving home his 126th run.

With two hits, Cash raised his league-leading average to .356.

* * * *

AFTER being tagged for Dick McAuliffe's triple, Billy Bruton's single and Steve Boros' double in the first inning, Angel hurler Ken McBride allowed just three run-producing hits before coming out for a pinch-hitter in the seventh.

Although the defeat was McBride's 15th against 12 wins, it was only his third loss in 14 Wrigley decisions.

The Angels scored their runs in singles with Leon Wagner's 24th homer accounting for one in the fourth and Bunning's wild pitch with the bases loaded in the eighth.

Angel Angels: UCLA basketball and baseball prospect, Tom Sapp, broke his arm throwing while working out with the Angels before the game. A first-string frosh basketball star last year, Sapp is considered an outstanding baseball prospect.

Angel second baseman Billy Moran was sent to his Augusta, Georgia home for the remainder of the season to allow his sprained back to recuperate fully.

ANGEL OF THE DAY

LEON WAGNER slammed 24th homer of season in Angels' 4-2 loss to Detroit.

Phillies Win in 16

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — A homer by Wes Covington off ElRoy Face in the 16th inning gave the Philadelphia Phillies a 5-4 victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates Saturday night at Connie Mack Stadium.

Mantle Homers, Maris Doesn't

BOSTON (UPI) — Roger Maris was blanked again in a bid for his 60th homer Saturday, but he drove in a run with an eighth-inning single, and Mickey Mantle hit his 54th homer to help the New York Yankees beat the Boston Red Sox, 8-3.

Maris collected only one single in three official trips. He also drew two walks off loser Don Schwall, who was roundly booed by a crowd of 28,128, most of whom came out hoping to see Maris smash his 60th in the Yankees' 156th game of the season.

Mantle provided the Yankees with a quick three run lead when he connected with two on in the first innings. It was his first since Sept. 10.

Elston Howard and pinch-hitter Bob Cerv also homered for the Yankees in the ninth. Howard's homer was his 21st and Cerv's his eighth.

Whitey Ford registered his 25th victory of the year although he was nicked for nine of Boston's 11 hits, including homers by Don Gile and Carl Yastrzemski before yielding to Jim Coates in the sixth.

Mathews Pokes Pair, Cracks Ott's Record

MILWAUKEE, (AP) — Eddie Mathews hit two home runs and Joe Adcock one Saturday to drive in all of Milwaukee's runs as the Braves scored a 6-3 victory over the Chicago Cubs.

The game was called at the end of six and one-half innings because of rain.

Rookie Tony Cloninger went the distance for the Braves, pitching five-hit ball for his seventh victory against two defeats and his sixth in a row. He was scored on only in the third inning, when his pitching victim, Jack Curtis, started a three-run uprising with a home run.

Mathew's two homers gave him 30 or more for the ninth time and enabled him to break a tie with the late Mel Ott for the National League record. He also improved on his own mark by reaching that figure for the ninth year in succession.

SHOW GIRLS STEAL SHOW AT CAL GAME

BERKELEY (UPI)—University of Texas rooters disrupted the Cal-Texas football game Saturday by hiring a half-dozen chorus girls from a San Francisco nightclub to act as cheerleaders.

The girls, scantily clad in lowcut playsuits, and wearing high heels, attracted nearly as much attention from the 41,500 fans as did the football players.

During the times-outs and half time ceremonies, thousands of binoculars stayed glued on the field to watch the girls.

Pascual Hurls 8th Shutout as Twins, Senators Divide

MINNEAPOLIS - ST. PAUL (UPI)—Camilo Pascual hurled a two-hit shutout, his eighth of the season, to lead Minnesota to a 10-0 victory over Washington in the second game of a doubleheader Saturday after the Senators won the first, 6-4.

Pascual raised his league-leading strikeout total to 215 and brought his won-loss record even at 15-15.

HIGH-STEPPING STRUTTERS PERFORM BEFORE 17,000

17,000 See Poly Rout Wilson, Tie Millikan

By DOUG IVES

Poly High gave notice it intends to regain its lost football prestige as it trounced rival Wilson, 12-0; and outplayed but was held to a scoreless tie by Millikan in the 14th annual PTA Milk Bowl Carnival at Veterans Stadium Saturday.

A record crowd of 17,000 watched the Hares, who slipped to a 4-4 record last year after winning two straight CIF titles, run Wilson ragged and keep Millikan under constant pressure.

Millikan shared top honors by whipping Lakewood, 7-0, and tying the Rabbits, but the Rams were on the defensive for 10 minutes against Poly. A penalty nullified a Rabbit TD.

For the two games, Poly had the ball for 39 plays, rushed and passed for 155 net yards and made 11 first downs. Its opponents ran only nine plays, gained 10 net yards and didn't make a first down.

Wilson and Jordan earned a split of their two games while Lakewood came up empty-handed. Wilson crushed the Lancers, 13-0, and Jordan beat them on Mike Rubick's long TD run, 7-0.

Poly's Joe Pearson was the day's top ground-gainer, carrying 12 times for 95 yards and scoring twice. Wilson's Paul Albus netted 52 yards on 10 tries.

Wilson 13, Jordan 0

Wilson took the opening kickoff and marched 70 yards in four plays to score. Fullback Paul Albus picked up the first 18 and QB Jack Smitheran raced the final 52 on a keeper play. Fred Atkinson converted.

After Jordan failed to move, the Bruins started another drive midway in the game, but 20 yards in penalties slowed the march and Tom Miller's interception killed it.

Millikan 7, Lancers 0

After Lakewood bogged down, Millikan rambled 70 yards in 10 plays for the game's only score. A John Thiesen-to-Gary Lucas pass covered 18 yards, but the rest came on the ground.

John Champlin, Gary Lyon and Lucas picked up all the yardage on the march with Lucas getting the six points by hitting off tackle for three yards. Champlin ran over for the PAT.

Poly 12, Wilson 0

Poly cracked inside and outside and used 12 plays to grind out 60 yards and a touchdown after taking the opening kickoff. Joe Pearson gained 43 yards and followed Jeff Smith's block into paydirt from 2 yards out.

Wilson could gain only six net yards when it got the ball and punted. Poly again started one of its grind-em-out, time-consuming drives. This one covered 63 yards in eight plays.

Pearson, Gary Furuta and Charles Young shared the rushing honors, but Pearson again got the six points by again following Smith's block from the one-yard line.

Jordan 7, Lakewood 0

This game was decided on the first play from scrimmage when Jordan's Mike Rubick took a handoff, cut off tackle, eluded one man at the line of scrimmage and galloped 64 yards for the score. He also converted.

Neither team could get untracked in the next 10 minutes, but Jordan made another serious TD bid late in the game. Sparked by Doug Dick's 15-yard pass to Rich Croson and Fred Hillis' 13-yard run, Jordan reached the Lakewood 15 only to fail when Lancer Frank Adams intercepted a pass.

Poly 0, Millikan 0

Millikan took the kickoff and failed to move and then Poly started another one of those line-cracking marches. They appeared headed for an easy score, but a combination of penalties and a stiff Millikan defense foiled the march.

Poly got as far as the Ram 31, but 25 yards in penalties and Randy Valenzuela's key tackle on a fourth down found the Hares yielding the ball way back on their own 48. One of the penalties nullified a touchdown.

BERKELEY (AP)—The Longhorns of Texas ground out a 28-3 victory over a stubborn but outclassed California team Saturday in their football opener before 41,500 sun-drenched fans.

The Golden Bears, expected to be the doormats of the Big 5, recovered four Texas fumbles and intercepted a pair of Longhorn passes to prevent a more lop-sided thrashing.

One fumble recovery and one interception were in the California end zone.

Cook scored the second touchdown on a sweet 29-yard scamper in which nobody laid a hand on him. That run, after a 13-yard California punt, proved the decisive score of the game.

The Bears, unable to move except for sophomore halfback Rudy Carvajal, held the favored Longhorns to 7-3 at halftime, then sagged in the late going.

Texas fullback Ray Poage, who lost the ball twice on fumbles, scored the opening touchdown on a plunge of less than one foot on a fourth-down play in the first period.

The Bears had stopped the Longhorns on their 9 after Texas had moved 65 yards in the opening series.

Jim Ferguson's 13-yard field goal with 49 seconds left in the first half provided the only California score.

The Texas line, out-played by the Bears in the first half, held Cal to minus 12 yards rushing in the second half. Mike Cotten and Johnny Genung, the Texas quarterbacks, didn't get their passing arms working until midway in the third quarter. Each passed for a fourth-quarter touchdown.

Eldon Moritz kicked the first three conversions and Tony Crosby booted the fourth.

EUGENE, Ore. (UPI)—The lightning-quick Oregon Ducks exploded for six second-half touchdowns to post a 51-0 victory over undermanned Idaho before 17,300 opening-day football fans Saturday.

ALERT DEFENSE PAYS OFF

Syracuse Trundles to 19-8 Victory Over Oregon State

PORTLAND (UPI) — Syracuse's alert defenders set up two touchdowns by all-America halfback Ernie Davis Saturday as the powerful Orangemen defeated Oregon State, 19-8, in an intersectional football opener before 35,729.

Davis, who played little more than half the time on offense, broke off tackle for a 16-yard scoring run in the first period and packed the ball five times for the final Syracuse touchdown.

Oregon State, operating out of the T-formation for the first time under coach Tommy Prothro, got its only score on a great 36-yard run by quarterback Terry Baker.

That touchdown and Baker's two-point conversion put Oregon State ahead 8-7 in the first period.

But Syracuse got back in the lead in short order after tackle Stan Sokol recovered a fumble on the Oregon State 15. Quarterback Steve Sarette scored from a yard out.

It was another fumble recovery — this one by guard Leonard Slaby—that led to the first Syracuse touchdown. Slaby got the ball on the Oregon State 21 and after fullback Gary Fallon made five, Davis raced in to score.

Syracuse put Oregon State in the hole early in the second half when halfback Dick Easterly intercepted Baker's pass on the Oregon State 41.

Twice the Easterners drove inside the Oregon State 10 but were held off. Then Easterly returned a punt 17 yards to the Beaver 18 and Davis took it over.

He ran for gains of four, four, five and three yards and carried the ball in from the two.

COUGARS FUMBLE

Missouri Romps to 28-6 Victory

COLUMBIA, Mo. (UPI) — Missouri's hard-hitting line and cat-quick backs teamed up Saturday to score an impressive 28-6 victory over Washington State in an intersectional football game played before 37,000 fans—the biggest crowd here for a season opener since 1948.

Junior quarterback Ron Taylor scored two of Orange Bowl champion Missouri's four touchdowns, both on sneaks from one yard out. His passes kept the Tigers in Washington State territory for most of the game.

Washington State's touted passing attack fell flat as Missouri intercepted four aerials, recovered three fumbles and capitalized on its own passing game.

Missouri guard Paul Garvis recovered a Washington State fumble in the first period on the Cougar 39-yard line and six plays later Taylor went over the goal line.

The most spectacular play of the game was a 26-yard pass from Missouri's Mike Hunter to end Bill Tobin in the end zone. Hunter threw the ball after Taylor had fed him a nifty lateral after sweeping end.

Ole Miss Unveils New QB Star in Easy 16-0 Victory

JACKSON, Miss. (UPI) — Doug Elmore, after playing two years as an understudy to all-America Jake Gibbs, made a stout bid for fame Saturday by leading Mississippi to a 16-0 victory over Arkansas in a battle of defending champions.

The big question concerning Mississippi's chances of producing another powerhouse had been how it would fare without Gibbs, the top college quarterback in the nation last year.

With a national television audience and a sellout crowd of 46,000 watching, Elmore gave every indication Ole Miss had little to worry about at quarterback. The rugged senior directed the Rebels on three long scoring drives.

The first, covering 68 yards in six plays, was climaxed with a 35-yard pass from Elmore to end Woody Dabbs.

Arkansas, the defending Southwest Conference champion, was supposed to have one of the nation's most explosive backfields, led by all-America prospect Lance Alworth.

Arkansas, despite 89-degree weather, played its first unit most of the game. Mississippi, the defending Southeastern Conference champion, had its first unit in chiefly on offense and the second unit was used mostly on defense.

Rossi Scores TKO Over Donnelly in 2

BOSTON (AP)—Balding Paolo Rosi used a bombing right hand Saturday night and scored a bloody two-round technical knockout over hopeful young Jackie Donnelly and possibly paved the way for a rematch with lightweight champion Joe Brown.

Rosi, an Italian-born veteran from New York, weighed 135¾, three-quarters of a pound more than his 22-year-old Buffalo, N. Y., opponent.

Trojan Followers Again Disappointed

Georgia Tech coach Bobby Dodd described USC as being "as good as any average team in our conference" after his Engineers dismantled the Trojans, 27-7, in Friday night's opener.

An average team by Southeastern Conference standards usually means a pretty good ball club.

But in the case of USC, that isn't enough. The Trojans will continue to wage a losing battle in the bitter struggle for the entertainment dollar and fan interest in Southern California with "average" teams.

DAVE LEWIS
Trojans Sloppy

There was a day not long ago when an intersectional struggle the caliber of USC-Georgia Tech would have drawn around 90,000 to the Coliseum. The crowd Friday was a disappointing 36,950.

And the prospect of much "repeat business" is not encouraging. Trojan followers are keenly disappointed.

Things are bound to get better, though, as the season progresses. For one thing, Georgia Tech has a fine team . . . a quick, hard-hitting, aggressive outfit that blocks and tackles with the crispness of a bowl-bound club. Furthermore, the Engineers were superbly conditioned and ready for the opening game. The Trojans, unfortunately, weren't.

IT WAS A BLUNDERING, stumbling Trojan squad most of the night. Mental and mechanical mistakes were numerous . . . far too numerous, in fact, to pass off lightly. They reflected on the coaching because there is not anywhere near 20 points difference between the personnel of the two squads.

One drive stalled on the Tech two-yard line after the quarterback used up too much time calling audibles on the line of scrimmage. Even the Trojan's lone scoring sortie almost was stopped by a 15-yard penalty. And on many occasions, Troy backs or recievers didn't know what to do or in what direction to go when they broke into the clear momentarily.

In the game's two most basic fundamentals — blocking and tackling — the Trojans were quite sloppy and ineffective at times. Tech players were astounded by this.

One Georgia player declared that the tackling, in particular, was far below the standard of Southeastern Conference teams. And halfback Billy Williamson said that "USC didn't show me the type of blocking and tackling that the good-coached teams in our section of the country has."

THE TROJANS DID SHOW some flashes of brilliance. For instance, they showed they could move the ball through the air . . . finally accounting for 240 yards despite having a net of MINUS four yards in the first 23 minutes of play.

And Long Beach's Willie Brown demonstrated he is going to be a great one. Although he rolled three naturals in the running department — seven carries, seven yards gained and seven yards lost for an average of 0.00 — the ex-Poly flash grabbed eight passes for 87 yards and set up the Trojans' lone TD.

Tech players were high in their praise of Brown's potential. Williamson, who had to defend Willie from time to time, admitted "we were afraid of him every moment."

It is obvious that USC's offensive hopes against the stronger teams this year will be based on its aerial game. Whether or not it will be as effective as it appeared in the second half — especially the third quarter — remains to be seen.

Because, as Williamson explained, "USC played better ball in the second half, but we helped them. We were instructed to let them have the short passes and protect our big first-half lead." Linebacker Bobby Caldwell confirmed this. "We gave them a lot of ground on the short passes in the final half."

IF TECH HADN'T WRAPPED up the decision with the big 24-point splurge in the first half, the Engineers would have played it differently. As Williamson pointed out, "after they finally scored in the third period, we quickly took command again by playing ball control through the fourth quarter."

The Georgia Tech squad and veteran observers alike agreed that the forward wall is USC's most pressing problem.

Guard Rufe Guthrie, Tech's leading candidate for sectional and national honors, declared that "USC's middle line needs a lot of work. The men don't show good drive and they tried to second guess a lot . . . which was a big mistake. They'll have to move the ball through the air because any good defensive line will give them trouble."

Caldwell summed up USC's situation thusly: "there is nothing wrong with the Trojan players as individuals, but as a unit they are second rate. They have the backs to really ramble, but don't have the support to get them into the open consistently enough."

Fullback Mike McNames added that "the Trojans hit hard and showed good pursuit, but they play as individuals . . . and are not coordinated as a unit."

And so, back to Bovard Field for more fundamentals and polish for the Trojans . . . whose next start Friday night against Southern Methodist should be a bit less strenuous—thank goodness.

Look Who's Taking NFL Spotlight — 2 Upstarts

By Associated Press

Look who's hogging the National Football League spotlight today—the Minnesota Vikings and Dallas Cowboys, the circuit's newest clubs.

The Vikings and the Cowboys, both of whom sprung surprises in opening league games a week ago, tangle in the Cotton Bowl at Dallas today.

Minnesota, playing its first NFL season, shocked the Chicago Bears last Sunday, 37-13. Dallas, unable to win a single game in its maiden campaign, launched its 1961 season by nipping the Pittsburgh Steelers, 27-24.

Both the Vikings and the Cowboys will be out to convince the doubtful that their opening victories weren't just flashes out of the sky.

Dallas figures it has the best one-two quarterback punch in the league in young Don Meredith and old pro Eddie LeBaron. Meredith connected on 10 of 26 passes for 161 yards and one touchdown against the Steelers. LeBaron completed nine of 13 for 166 yards and two touchdowns and wound up the first week of play as the league's No. 5 passer.

Meredith and LeBaron, however, may have to improve if they hope to outsparkle Minnesota's quarterback, rookie Fran Tarkenton from Georgia. Tarkenton's aerial prowess last weekend made him the circuit's No. 1 passer. He completed 17 of 23 for 250 yards and four touchdowns. For good measure, the youngster scored once himself.

Only other tilt pairing two unbeaten teams is the Detroit-Baltimore affair. The Lions undoubtedly will find the Colts a bit angry, Detroit having won six games in a row going back to 1960. The Lions beat the Colts both times last year. Both possess a strong passing game and are getting a lot of mileage out of their fullbacks, Nick Pietrosante of the Lions and rejuvenated Joe Perry of the Colts.

A replay of last fall's championship game comes up when Houston and San Diego meet at San Diego in the headline clash of the American Football League.

San Diego was known as Los Angeles then and it was all Houston could do to beat the Chargers, 26-14, and take the AFL's first title.

HOUSTON (UPI)—Quarterback Billy Cox struck at the precise time for two touchdown passes Saturday night to guide Rice University to a 16-3 victory over Louisiana State University before a record crowd of 73,000.

Cox failed to fill the air with passes as some had expected, but when he chose to pass, he picked the exact time in the two touchdown efforts by the Owls while LSU's defense appeared to be at its weakest.

In addition to the two scoring drives, the Owls' Butch Blume made good a 27-yard field goal toward the end of the final period. The Tigers' only score was a field goal climaxing their finest scoring effort that opened the second half.

On that drive, which featured passes of 11 and 15 yards by LSU quarterback Lynn Amedee to halfback Jerry Stovall, the Tigers penetrated to the Rice 14 and Wendell Harris completed the 25-yard field goal after three attempts to reach the goal failed.

Cox's masterful passes that made the difference included a speedy jump aerial in the end zone to end Johnny Burrell from the four, and a 47-yard pass play to fullback Roland Jackson who had slipped behind the LSU defense early in the fourth period.

In the latter, LSU's Harris caught up with Jackson around the three yard line, but Jackson's momentum was so great that the tackle carried both over the goal line.

TCU Surprises Kansas, 17-16

WITH FOURTH-PERIOD UPRISING

Giant quarterback Sonny Gibbs set up the field goal when he drove the Frogs from their own 44 to the Kansas 18. With a fourth and six situation, Spearman came in and kicked the three-pointer that made the difference.

TCU went into the fourth quarter trailing 16-7 after Kansas punched over a first-period touchdown and field goal and another touchdown in the third period.

TCU pulled that up to 16-14 with 9:03 left when Gibbs capped an 80-yard, 11-play drive by tossing 24 yards to halfback Roy Dent behind two defenders in the end zone.

Going into the final period, the 6-foot, 7-inch Gibbs had passed only twice during the game. During the touchdown drive and the series that led to the field goal, he threw 10 times and completed four, the big one the scoring toss to Dent.

Kansas took an early lead when Kent Staab jumped on a Frog fumble on the TCU 44 on the fourth play of the game. Ten plays later, Kansas quarterback John Hadl pitched out to halfback Lee Flachbarth who went one yard for the score.

Terps Nip Stubborn SMU, 14-6

DALLAS (UPI) — Quarterback Dick Novak and halfback Dennis Condie teamed to give favored Maryland a hard-earned 14-6 victory over surprisingly stubborn Southern Methodist before a meager crowd of 17,000 Saturday night.

Novak, a speedy 170-pound senior, rolled out five unmolested yards for a first-quarter Maryland touchdown surge with the opening kickoff, then flipped an 18-yard scoring pass to halfback Jim Davidson in the second quarter, while Condie's great running kept SMU off balance.

From then on, however, the touted Terrapins had to scrap every inch of the way to subdue the sophomore-studded Methodists, who scrapped on more than even terms throughout the second half and scored in the third quarter on a 30-yard burst through guard by Pennsylvania-born sophomore halfback Tom Sherwin.

Houston Deadlocked by Texas A&M Surge

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (UPI)—Quarterback Jim Keller plunged two yards for a Texas A&M touchdown in the final quarter Saturday night and the Aggies tied the University of Houston, 7-7.

Defensive stands by Houston halted A&M drives on the three and six.

Houston missed two chances to win the game as field goals fell short from the Aggie 41 and 35-yard lines.

Keller, playing his first varsity game after lettering in basketball, sparked the tying drive with runs of six yards and a pass of 11. The Aggies went 54 yards in 11 plays and Daryle Keeling kicked the tying point with 12:14 left to play.

Little Ken Bolin scored Houston's first-half touchdown on a three-yard charge around right end. The 5-11, 165-pound halfback had set up the score by recovering a Ronnie Brice fumble on the Aggie 8. Brice had dropped a 54-yard punt by Larry Lindsey.

Eddie Mitchamore of Houston kicked the extra point. He missed a field goal from the 36 after the Aggies tied it up.

OULTON PARK, England (UPI)—Stirling Moss of Britain, driving a new Ferguson four-wheel drive racing car, today won the International Gold Cup.

Defeat for Rams

proved to be the winning touchdown at the start of the fourth quarter on a 34-yard pass to John Farrington.

Now trailing, 21-10, the Rams made a game effort to pull the game out of the fire. They took the ensuing kickoff and drove 83 yards in 10 plays for a touchdown, and had another long advance killed in the final moments of play.

Passes from Bratkowski to Phillips for 12, 16 and 19 keyed the touchdown drive that was climaxed by Arnett's one-yard slant off tackle.

Fired by their aroused offense and the cheering of the fans, the Ram defense then dug in and held the Bears deep in Chicago territory.

* * * *

THE RAMS took over on the Bear 48. A great diving catch by Arnett of a 20-yard third-down pass gave them a first down on the 34. But with a third and one on the 25, Arnett was trapped for a five-yard loss on a pitchout, and a fourth down pass was intercepted by Richie Petitbon.

It gave the Bears a 14-10 lead.

On Chicago's next series, Wade again excelled. Trapped deep in Bear territory, he threaded his way through the Ram secondary for 29 yards to the Bear 43.

The Rams were the first to strike long, but a 43-yard pass from Zeke Bratkowski to Carroll Dale that carried to the Bear 30 was nullified by a holding penalty early in the first quarter.

Chicago took over on the Ram 47, and scored in one perfect play. Behind great protection, Ed Brown lofted a pass to Mike Ditka that Ditka corraled from in between defenders Lindon Crow and Clendon Thomas on the Ram 15, and the rookie end sauntered into the end zone.

Roger Leclerc added the extra point, and the Bears led, 7-0, with 8:33 gone.

* * * *

THE RAMS moved to the Bear 44 on a 31-yard pass from Bratkowski to Jim Phillips, but Tom Wilson fumbled on the next play, and Harlon Hill recovered for the Bears.

Pinned deep in their territory, the Rams brought the big crowd to its feet with an electrifying pass from Bratkowski to Phillips. With a third down from his own 6, Brat faded deep into the end zone, and shot a 50-yard arrow to Phillips racing down the sideline. Phillips nabbed the ball on the run and went to the Bear 31 for a 62-yard gain.

* * * *

BUT THE Rams were held for no gain on the next three downs, and Danny Villanueva kicked a 38-yard field goal with 14:40 elapsed, and the Rams trailed 7-3.

Charlie Bivens returned the ensuing kickoff 50 yards, and might have been touchdown-bound if not for a desperation dive by Eddie Meador. Brown passed to Ditka for 21 yards to the Ram 25. The Rams held, and a field goal from the 25 by LeClerc was wide.

Taking over on the 20, the Rams struck for a touchdown in seven plays.

* * * *

A PASS to Phillips gained six and an interference penalty made it a first down on the Bear 46. Jon Arnett gained 6, and Dick Bass wiggled through a hole for 17 yards, tripping over his own feet to go down on the 23.

Bratowski hit Dale on a look-in to the one-yard line, and Arnett bucked over right guard for the touchdown. Villanueva converted, and the Rams were in the lead, 10-7, with 5:05 gone in the second period.

DUKE RALLIES FOR 7-6 TRIUMPH

COLUMBIA, S. C. (AP)—Duke survived an attack of fumbles and scored with two minutes left Saturday night to whip underdog South Carolina, 7-6, in the Atlantic Coast Conference opener for both teams.

Reserve halfback Dean Findley kicked 26 and 37-yard field goals for South Carolina, in the first and fourth periods, to give the battling Gamecocks what appeared to be a safe lead.

With two minutes to play however, quarterback Walt Rappold directed the Dukes on a 50-yard march that ended with fullback Red Burch plunging over from the three for a touchdown. Halfback Bill Reynolds kicked the extra point that gave the Blue Devils their victory.

OYSTER BAY, N.Y. (AP)—Fred Olsen, 32-year-old Norwegian, has won the international one-design world sailing championship. The final official standings announced Saturday gave Olsen 34¾ points in the competition that ended Friday.

BUFFALO, N. Y. (AP)—Two quick third-period touchdowns and Cino Cappelletti's three field goals provided the Boston patriots with a 23-21 victory over the Buffalo Bills in an American Football League game Saturday night.

Trailing 7-6 at the intermission, the Patriots roared into the lead on Larry Garron's 67-yard scoring dash and a 62-yard drive capped by Butch Songin's one-yard pitch to end Tom Stephens.

Baylor Cakewalks Over Deacons, 31-0

WACO, Tex. (AP) — Baylor mauled Wake Forest 31-0 Saturday night with a crushing performance that kept bright the Bears' pre-season rating as a Southwest Conference favorite.

The two thrusts by Bull nevertheless left his ability untested. He played only a fraction of the game.

Baylor scored the first three times it got the ball, and tallied in each quarter.

Badgers Eke Past Utes, 7-0

MADISON, Wis. (AP)—Wisconsin's highly touted passing combination of Ron Miller and Pat Richter clicked on a five-yard scoring maneuver enabling the Badgers to edge stubborn Utah, 7-0, Saturday in a sloppy football meeting on a rain-soaked field.

Miller, a senior quarterback who led the Big Ten in passing and in total offense last season, lobbed a soft aerial to Richter in the second period and Wisconsin made the touchdown stand up for a triumph in its 1961 opener.

The payoff toss capped a 27-yard march in five plays after Bill Hess intercepted a Utah pass late in the first quarter. Hess picked off a loose ball on the 31 after halfback Jerry Overton apparently had the pass knocked out of his hands. Wisconsin was unable to capitalize on several other scoring chances. Its attack sputtered at key times and Jim Bakken, the place-kicking specialist, missed five field goal attempts from the 46, 12, 16, 39 and 27.

In addition, Miller had two passes intercepted when the Badgers had the ball deep in Utah territory in the final period.

Utah, which rolled over Colorado State 40-0 in its opener a week ago, was unable to crack the Wisconsin defense. The Utes also were handicapped by penalties, especially in the second period when they reached the Wisconsin 16 and then were set back on two straight 15-yard infractions.

PORTRAIT OF USC COACH IN 'SOUTHLAND'

A timely article about USC coach John McKay, titled "I'm Glad I'm a Blankety-Blank Football Coach," is in today's Southland Magazine, Sunday feature of The Independent, Press-Telegram.

"Sure, coaches have been unjustly fired, but who hasn't?" asks McKay in the revealing picture protrait by I, P-T sports staff writer Jerome Hall.

McKay, whose team was defeated 27-7 Friday night, calls a high-pressure coaching career, "Really quite a good life."

Middies Prove Tough but Penn State Tougher, 20-10

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa. (UPI)—Halfback Don Jonas kicked second half field goals of 31 and 25 yards to spark Penn State to a 20-10 victory over surprisingly strong Navy Saturday before nearly 40,000 fans.

Jonas' initial effort in the third quarter, the first field goal ever kicked by State's hard-running senior halfback from Scranton, Pa., gave the Nittany Lions the impetus needed to overcome a 10-7 lead built up by Navy in the first half.

The Middies got their edge when Greg Mather kicked a 45-yard field goal in the final seconds of the half. It was the longest three-pointer in Navy history. Mather kicked a 42-yard goal to beat Washington last year, 15-14, for the previous record.

The Nittany Lions also unveiled a new star in sophomore quarterback Don Caum, of Harrisburg, Pa. He made a vital run to set up Jonas' second field goal.

INDIANA UPSET BY KANSAS STATE, 14-8

The Kansas City, Kan., youngster tossed only four times but two of them were good for touchdowns.

An incredulous crowd of 7,800 saw the sophomore-laden Wildcats, two touchdown underdogs, turn the first visit of a Big Ten team to a Kansas school's stadium into a disaster. The Hoosiers were unable to score until the final two minutes of the game, and threatened seriously only one other time.

K-State, like Indiana winner of only one game in 1960, converted a Hoosier fumble into a first quarter touchdown and moved 54 yards in the third quarter for the clincher.

Georgia No Match for 'Bama

ATHENS, Ga. (UPI)—Fullback Mike Fracchia, ripping off yardage with reckless abandon, set the stage for Alabama Saturday as the Crimson Tide opened its bid for the Southeastern Conference championship with an easy 32-6 victory over outclassed Georgia.

Most of the fans in a near-capacity crowd of 44,000 sat in silence as Alabama completely dominated play, rolling up the largest margin by Alabama against the Bulldogs since 1926.

Fracchia scored two touchdowns, the first on a one-yard plunge in the second period after he had helped set up the score on a 12-yard run; the second from two yards out at the start of the fourth period.

Fracchia had to share some of the glory with Alabama quarterback Pat Trammell, who threw a 37-yard touchdown pass to halfback Butch Wilson in the third period and kept the Bulldogs defense guessing with a fine display of ball handling.

Wilson's touchdown came after he had intercepted a Georgia pass on the previous play.

Hill Takes 2-Shot Lead at Portland

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI)—Dave Hill, the 25-year-old Denver Open champion, regained the lead in the $25,000 Portland Open golf tournament Saturday with a 54-hole total of 203.

Hill, who shared the lead after the second day, shot a three-under-par 69 in the third round to take a two-stroke lead over the field.

Three were tied at 205—Jerry Steelsmith of Glendale, Calif., who had a 71 Saturday; Bruce Crampton of Sydney, Australia, who shot a 68, and Gordon Jones of Orlando, Fla., with a 67.

Jerry Barber, the PGA champion who shared a three-way tie for the lead at the halfway mark, slipped to a 73 and was four strokes off the pace at 207.

Bill Casper, Jr., Apple Valley, Calif., shot himself into a strong position to win the open for the third consecutive year. He had a five-under-par 67 Saturday for a three-day total of 206.

The day's play was featured by the 10th hole-in-one of the 1961 professional tour.

It was scored by Buddy Sullivan of Yuba City, Calif., with a two iron on the 204-yard second hole. Sullivan finished with a 33-35—68 for a 216 total even par.

There were two eagles, one by Tommy Aaron of Gainesville, Ga., on the par five fifth hole and the other by Masters champion Gary Player on the par five 10th.

SPUTTERING ARMY SLIPS BY RICHMOND

WEST POINT, N.Y. (UPI)—Army's football's Cadets bogged down often Saturday—once having 12 men on the field—but the running of Al Rushatz and the passing of Dick Eckert carried the Cadets to a 24-6 victory over Richmond.

George Pappas of Chester, Pa., led the Cadets scorers with two touchdowns before 11,250 spectators basking shirt-sleeved in 87-degree heat. Tom Culver of Indianapolis scored the other Army touchdown and Dick Heydt of Palmerton, Pa., added a field goal and three extra points.

Cornhuskers in Frolic, 33-0

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP)—Nebraska's Cornhuskers, drawing heavily on the versatility of sophomore quarterback Dennis Claridge, tomahawked the Sioux of North Dakota U., 33-0, Saturday in Nebraska's football opener before 22,000.

Claridge field-marshaled Nebraska to three of its touchdowns, loosened North Dakota defenses with effective passes and ran and kicked when the occasion demanded.

MISS. STATE SQUEAKS BY TEXAS TECH

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — Mississippi State, playing its usual brand of rugged defensive football, showed signs of promise for the 1961 season Saturday night by downing Texas Tech, 6-0.

The Southeastern Conference Maroons displayed a potential attack but couldn't punch a touchdown across until late in the third period when quarterback Charlie Furlow rammed over from the one.

Miami Scores on Long Drive to Tip Kentuck

LEXINGTON, Ky. (UPI)—Sophomore sensation George Mira injured in the first period, came back in the second half Saturday night to drive Miami of Florida 91 yards for the touchdown that beat Kentuck, 14-7.

The Hurricane quarterback re-entered the game when tackle Bill Watts recovered a fumble by halfback Gary Stewart that choked off a Kentucky touchdown on the Miami 9 midway in the third period. Mira fired a pass that carried to the Kentucky 43 and three plays later flipped a 5-yard TD aerial to Bill Miller.

Kentucky scored the first time it got the ball with Gary Cochran slicing over from the 11.

Sighted Shark---Lost It

The Camp Pendleton Marine Field Archers went to sea the other day—shark-hunting with bow and arrow—and thereby may have started something.

Boarding the picket boat Retreat Hell at the Del Mar Basin, the club, headed by its president, S/Sgt. Rudy Folds, sighted the first shark 14 miles out. Marines lured the shark close to the boat with hunks of raw meat. Then an archer put an arrow into the fish with such force that part of the shaft protruded on the opposite side.

The shark sounded and the 90-pound-test line started to sing. It was connected to a ballast can which was thrown overboard. When all the line paid out, it snapped like a small explosion.

The Marine archers hit three more sharks before the trip ended, but, sadly to relate, results were the same in each instance.

Folds says that they are planning another trip and that they intend to equip themselves with 500-pound-test line. "We just scared the sharks this time," said Folds. "Next time we hope to put a dent in the population."

IF YOU ARE LOOKING for planted trout, eight inches to two pounds, you'd better try Big Bear Lake before Oct. 7. Plants made by the Big Bear Lake Park District and the Department of Fish and Game through the late summer have ended, but DF&G men say there are many fish left. However, on Oct. 7, Big Bear and the DF&G plan another poisoning gamble.

Big Bear is low enough to permit a thorough job this time. Rotenone will be used to kill all the fish in the small lake. The department hopes to end the goldfish problem there for all time.

Inasmuch as rotenone smothers fish, the trout that float to the surface will be edible and, no doubt, there will be plenty of anglers (excuse the use of that word in this sense) who wil scoop up the rainbow.

It would be far better to catch all trout possible before the rotenone cleanout starts. Then, let's hope that last year's dry winter isn't repeated. If so, the water might remain toxic for many months to come. A wet winter would put the lake in good shape and permit a heavy planting of trout in the spring.

SALTON SEA TEMPERATURES have dropped below the grin-and-bear-it level and, as a result, more and more anglers are heading for the sea and the Colorado River resorts. For those who have the patience, there will be ample rewards at the sea. Population of corvina, sargo and Bairdiella croakers are up and the DF&G is pleased with recent test-seining results.

Robert G. Hulquist, in charge of the recent seining survey team, said that tests turned up the greatest sampling of young corvina in the history of the sea. Mature corvina taken in deeper parts of the sea weighed from six to eight pounds and were in excellent condition despite a high water temperature through the summer.

Similar reports were made on the sargo and croakers. Why should the DF&G be so pleased? Its biologists were responsible for starting the corvina, sargo and croaker fisheries in a sea where most people thought fish would never live.

OUTDOORS IN CAPSULES—Mrs. Nina McEwen, 11261 Loch Lomond Rd., Los Alamitos, won a first-place award in the canned goods divisions of the domestic arts department of the Los Angeles County Fair. It was albacore, naturally, inasmuch as her husband is Eddie McEwen, one of the owners of Pacific Landing. You can be certain that Eddie is proud of the accomplishment.

One of the year's top social events for sportsmen takes place Saturday night at the Lafayette Hotel when the Ocean Fish Protective Association is host to the California Wildlife Federation. The CWF is meeting here Saturday and Sunday.

The dinner-dance is $4.50 and tickets are available at the door. Reservations should be made with Mildred Young (NE 7-0923) or Sam Haas (GA 3-1394). The event is open to all interested sportsmen.

ELGIN GATES, president, and Don Graves, vice president, of Seaboard Inc., 2313 S. Susan St., Santa Ana, are busy travelers these days. Seaboard, leading distributor of Mercury outboards in the nation, now represents the largest area in the U. S. it has acquired, a distributor-wholesaler outlet in Northern California and now serves all of California, Nevada and Arizona.

Seaboard expects to start showing the 1962 line of Mercury motors within a week. Graves says that dealers have evidenced great interest in the all-new 100-horsepower model 1000, now the largest in the outboard field. Even so, the 1000 is as small as the 1961 85-horsepower model and the weight is practically the same.

Another interesting model for 1962 is the 110, a 9.8-horsepower motor that weighs just 55 pounds, designed particularly for the fisherman.

REVEL EQUALS TRACK RECORD

Beldame to Airmans Guide

(Compiled From Wire Services)

Hugh A. Grant's Airmans Guide furthered her bid for the 1961 hadicap mare of the year award Saturday by scampering to a three-quarter length victory over Craftiness in the $96,000 Beldame Stakes at Belmont Park.

The brilliant 4-year-old daughter of One Count now has won six of eight starts this year including a romp victory over Royal Native in the Delaware Handicap her last time out.

* * * *

PRIMONETTA, the outstanding daughter of Swaps who has won 10 of 12 lifetime starts, set the pace over the middle distances of the mile and one-eighth test, but she tired badly in the stretch and fell back to third. Berlo was fourth in the field of 12 fillies and mares.

Airmans Guide ran a strong race and always was well-paced. After letting Primonetta set the pace until the three-quarter mark, she easily moved to the front to stay at the top of the stretch.

Howard Grant rode the popular Airmans Guide over the distance in 1:49 2/5 and the winner returned $9.30, $5.70 and $3.80. Craftiness, winner of the Diana Handicap, paid $12.30 and $6.20 and Primonetta paid $3.30.

* * * *

MRS. EDITH L. Price's Yes You Will just managed to stave off a brilliant stretch drive by Polylad to win the $29,800 Broadwalk Handicap by a neck at Atlantic City.

Yes You Will enjoyed a seemingly comfortable four-length margin at the head of the stretch, but Polylad, dead last for the first half of the race, brought the crowd of 23,098 to its feet with his driving run that just missed catching Yes You Will at the wire.

* * * *

RARE RICE was another three lengths back in third place and Dress Up was fourth.

Yes You Will carried high weight of 117 pounds although he had failed to win a stakes race this year. The Maryland-bred son of Rough's Tumble was an outstanding performer in 1960, however, when he earned $148,091 while capturing four stakes.

Sent off at odds of 8-1, Yes You Will returned $18.00, $7.60 and $5.00 as he negotiated the mile and one-sixteenth in 1:41 4/5 under a good ride by Tommy Lee. Polylad paid $6.20 and $3.40 and Rare Rice paid $5.40.

* * * *

REVEL, owned by Helen L. Kenaston of Palm Springs, Calif., carried 128 pounds to victory in the $10,000 added Mapes Hotel Handicap at Bay Meadows.

In beating Nagea and Chase Eddie, Revel equalled the six-furlong track record of 1:08 3/5 set Sept. 8, 1958, by Little Moon carrying 115 pounds.

Revel returned $5.20, $3.40 and $3. Nagea paid $9.40 and $5.80, and Chase Eddie $6.40.

Physician Wins . . . Just Like Silky

By MAC McGUIRE

Running from off the pace some 20 lengths behind, a stretch-running phenomenon named Physician came barreling down the stretch in the mile and one-sixteenth $11,175 C. B. Afflerbaugh Memorial Handicap to win by five and one-half lengths over Rob Bob, the Pomona champion.

With a half-mile to go, and still trailing the field, Physician looked like a poor risk to his betting followers. But then on the backstretch, the second time, he began to move, passing horses like they were tied to a post. He caught Rob Bob at the head of the stretch and never broke stride as he won going away. El Tandilero was third.

The time was 1:45 and Physician paid $12.60, $6 and $4. Rob Bob returned $3.80 and $2.80 and El Tandilero $4.60.

Carol May Be '61 Top Show Business Girl

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK—Carol Lawrence, turning 27 the other week, faced the happy fact that she may be Show Business' outstanding Young Woman of 1961.

CAROL

Around Christmas, the name Carol Lawrence should be sparkling from two Broadway marquees — the new David Merrick musical, "Subways Are for Sleeping," and the new Arthur Miller movie, "A View From the Bridge."

Her French poodle "Cleopatra" sat on her knee in Carol's mid-Fifties apartment the other evening. Carol had just hopped in from Hollywood where, in a week, she'd recorded an entire album for Fred Astaire's new company, "Choreo." In a few hours she would be rehearsing for a new TV chore, dancing her head off practically in "The Magic Nutcracker." She had been sleeping all day recovering from the Hollywood recording chore.

* * * *

"WHAT WILL YOU be doing with all your wealth?" I asked her.

"Going to buy more paintings," she said, nodding toward her wall. "There's a Daumier I have my eye on in Paris . . . a little water color . . ."

"You're about to be a big star," I said. "Sarah Bernhardt's supposed to have said that an actress shouldn't fall in love till after she's a star because once she's a star she can choose her lovers and have anybody she wants."

Carol thought that was ridiculous.

"And it's untrue," she said. "If you wait that long, you'd find that the men you'd want, if they're MEN, would be married!"

* * * *

THE YOUNG lady who would seem to have everything she needs professionally looked a wee bit wistful.

"It's hard to live alone," she said. "Nothing is important if you can't share it with someone. I, for example, would like to find someone."

"And how are you doing?"

"You'll be the second to know. I hope I'm the first to know."

* * * *

CAROL'S CAREER has zoomed since "West Side Story." In Hollywood, she had dinner with Fred Astaire who, she says, is surprisingly shy.

"You think of him as being suave and debonair but he's so shy he can hardly look at you. He's 63 and he says the newspapers won't get off his back about his age. He told me that after he read what some of them said he felt he should go lie don and take a good rest.

"Listen," Carol said, "there are some 22-year-olds who are so old, dull and uninteresting that you wouldn't want to spend a minute with them."

* * * *

THE WEEKEND WINDUP: They were talking about the David Susskind show about Frank Sinatra, and a wit said, "What'll he have next — how can he lower that?" . . . One of Hollywood's husbands almost wept to friends about how he can't stand it much longer, because he's no longer a man but a messenger.

Richard Burton told Mos

Richard Burton told Moss Hart asked: "Shaw's or Shakespeare's?" "Neither," said Burton,"—Joe Mankiewicz's". . . . Producer Carmen Capalbo and actress Phyllis Kirk will wed when his touring "Threepenny Opera" (with Gypsy Rose Lee) gets under way . . . Singer Jacques Foti, at the Fontaine Bleau in H'wood, is Shelley Winters' current beau . . . Hume Cronyn, who grew a beard for "Cleopatra," asked at the Four Seasons: "Do you tuck a napkin over or under a beard?"

* * * *

EARL'S PEARLS: When a girl laughs at everything her boy friend says, you can be sure of one thing—she has attractive teeth.

TODAY'S BEST LAUGH: The teen-agers are holding in their hands the future of this country—and its telephones, too.

WISH I'D SAID THAT: Winifred Wolfe's book, "If A Man Answers," has this line: "Most men develop appetites when they are 12, muscles when they are 16, and principles only after they're married."

That Russian astronaut circled the earth at lightning speed, notes Dick Gregory, but he had the same problem we have here—he's still waiting at the airport for his luggage . . . That's earl, brother.

Calif. Democrats Back Political Ban on Military

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Support of the stand of the U. S. secretary of defense that "military men should stay out of politics" was voted Saturday by the executive committee of the Democratic State Central Committee.

The unanimously adopted resolution said "We are convinced that the John Birchers and other right-wing crackpots have done their utmost to confuse the American people as to the issues involved and we charged that those who accuse Defense Secretary McNamara of encouraging or fostering communism are guilty of criminal fraud."

Isolate Africa Area Pending Elections

USUMBURA, Ruanda-Urundi (AP)—The borders of this Belgian-administered U.N. trusteeship will be closed through Monday while parliamentary elections are held, Belgian authorities announced.

The measure is aimed at preventing infiltration of elements which might attempt to create incidents. The pre-election period has been marked by unrest.

CONDITIONED REFLEX

Long Walk in Bikini for Yvette

By JAMES BACON

Alone.

Within the last year, says the blonde beauty, she logged a 50-mile jaunt along England's Cornish coast, and another almost as long up Italy's Mediterrancan coast.

* * * *

She was in London last year for interiors on "Light in the Piazza."

"I had a week off, so I spent it walking, except for an 11-hour train trip to Cornwall.

* * * *

"IT WAS wonderful. I walked all by myself through country that is as primitive as some we have in California. The Cornish coast, in fact, reminds me of the rugged California coast, with huge cliffs right down to the sea.

"At night, I'd stop at a farmhouse for bed and breakfast."

How about the Cornish farmers? What did they think about a Hollywood actress galivanting around like that?

* * * *

"HEAVENS," she exclaimed. "I never told them I was an actress. First of all, they wouldn't have known who I was and it would have been too hard to explain. I just told them I was an American student.

"Hiking is a very popular sport in Europe. These bed and breakfast farmhouses get hiking students every night. I was no novelty."

MELLOW LIKE A CELLO

Crosby, at 57, Relaxed as Outfielder's Glove

By EDDY GILMORE

LONDON (AP)—Harry Lillis Bing Crosby at the age of 57, has probably given as much pleasure to other people as any man alive.

"Don't know about that," rumbled Crosby in that unmistakable voice, as mellow as a well-worn cello. "but reckon I've been around a little. More than most."

At any given hour of the day or night, somewhere a radio, jukebox, TV sound box or cinema screen is reproducing his very unusual voice, a voice which the late Lawrence Tibett called "the most melodious in the world."

* * * *

LIKE YANKEE Stadium, Bing Crosby has become an American institution.

"Oh, no, oh, no," he laughed off the comparison. "Anyhow, the stadium's in lot better condition. Look at me."

Looking as relaxed as an old outfielder's glove, he lounged in his tiny trailer dressing room, 50 feet from an elaborate setting for his new picture with Bob Hope.

It's called "The Road to Hong Kong."

* * * *

HOW DID he stay slim and without a double chin or that turkey-gobbler fold of flesh hanging beneath the chin of most men nearing 60?

"Back away. Just back away from those groceries."

Crosby diets like a dedicated man and takes an enormous amount of exercise playing golf.

* * * *

"OF ALL the songs you've sung," he was asked, "which is your favorite?"

"Can't really say. "White Christmas;" he said, raising his eyebrows almost to the point where his toupee began, "'Please. 'Thanks.' 'I Surrender, Dear.' Been a lot of good ones."

He pointed to a mirror above him.

"That's the family," he said. Around the mirror's edges he's stuck up a number of snapshots of his children.

* * * *

"MY BOYS," he said, indicating his grown sons, Gary, Philip, Dennis and Lindsay. "Doing a TV show."

There came a faraway look in those eyes, the color of faded jeans.

The boys were born to Bing and his first wife, the late Dixie, who died of cancer in 1952.

They say that Bing to his intimates has sometimes blamed himself for not being a better father.

* * * *

"THAT'S nonsense," said a man in show business who has known Crosby since his days as a singer with Paul Whiteman's band.

"At times, one or two of them have been a bit like Bing was at their age. Growing up, Bing was no angel, you know."

The faraway look faded and his eyes focused on photographs of Harry Lillis Crosby III and little Mary Frances.

* * * *

THEIR MOTHER is the former Kathryn Grant, who is 30 years younger than Bing. She is expecting her third child in October.

Both of Bing's wives have been Southerners.

An assistant director knocked on the door.

"Time, Bing," he said.

"O.K. Be rights with you."

DIRECTOR Norman Panama asked Crosby, Hope aad Joan Collins to rehearse a scene.

While Hope and Joan did a scene together, Crosby relaxed in a chair.

"Once I got away from show business I might vegetate. Don't want that to happen. No, sir." He looked at Hope.

"Look at that Hope," he laughed. "He's never going to retire."

Police Deliver Baby

NEW YORK (AP) — There are two good reasons why the baby born to Anatolio and Carmen Libalo will be named Francesca. One is Frank Barry and the other Frank Maruna, the patrolmen who delivered the child in the Libalos' apartment.

SAVE YOURSELF BOTH TIME AND MONEY

Here's How To Proceed If You Plan Fallout Shelter

By JIM McCAULEY

Here is how you can arrange to build a family fallout shelter with a minimum of time and cost:

1. Get your plans from a Civil Defense design that already has been approved by the City Building Department. That saves time and confusion—also avoids an architect's fee.

2. Submit the design to several contractors for bids. That may save money.

3. Make sure that the application for a building permit states that your addition is a fallout shelter. That gives you a free engineering bonus.

AS A CIVIL DEFENSE service, city building engineers now automatically check to see whether any new projected fallout shelter meets minimum standards for protection against radiation.

Blueprints on the approved shelter are available for 60 cents at Ace Blue Print Co., 2491 Long Beach Blvd., and Long Beach Blue Print Co., 250 Locust Ave.

City Manager John R. Mansell, who also is Civil Defense director here, said he hopes that eventually the city can offer the blueprints free.

THE CITY Building Department has approved a basement shelter plan as outlined in the Federal Civil Defense booklet "NP15 Family Fallout Shelter."

An above-ground shelter also is being studied. Mansell said plans on an approved above-ground shelter should be available locally in a month.

Long Beach residents also can hire an architect or an engineer to modify one of the other Civil Defense plans—though the final blueprints must meet Long Beach structural and zoning standards.

SOME AREAS of Long Beach may not be able to construct a basement shelter economically due to water seepage. The upcoming approval of an above-ground shelter may help these low-landers.

But another problem: present land-use laws here ban additional structures above ground on some small lots. However, the Planning Commission can issue special permits to waive the land-use regulations.

Meanwhile, the City Building Department has issued six shelter permits in the past two weeks—twice as many as were issued in the whole previous year. Twelve other shelter permits are waiting to be picked up.

U.S. National Bank Is Rushing New Downtown Office Work

U. S. National Bank, downtown Long Beach's newest financial institution, Saturday revealed plans for a modernized four-story regional headquarters building at 130 Pine Ave.

Reconstruction of the edifice, the former Humphreys Music Building, began earlier this month.

U. S. National said it will speed construction to open its doors by November. Its charter for a downtown Long Beach bank has a deadline that expires in two months.

* * * *

"WE WILL WORK construction crews around the clock if necessary," a bank spokesman said.

A bank official said the project is far more than a facelifting. Only the pillars and skeleton of the structure are being left intact, he said.

Cost was estimated unofficially at more than a half million dollars.

First floor of the building will be the downtown office of the bank and also serve as regional headquarters for U.S. National in the Long Beach and harbor area.

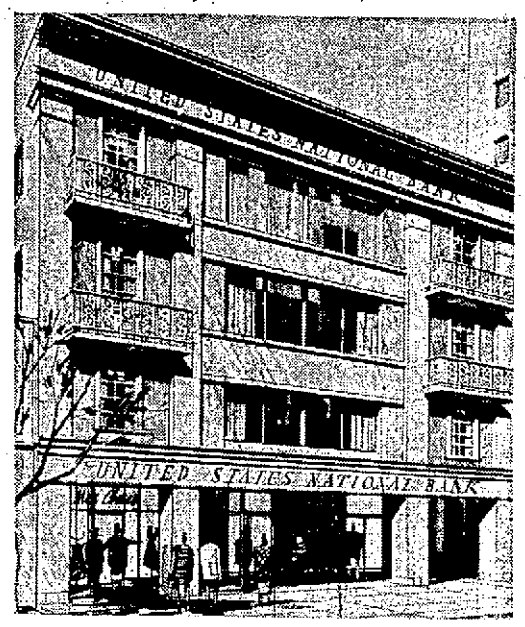

* * * *

THE THREE TOP FLOORS, to be served by a new high-speed elevator, are being leased for office space. The building has 25,000 square feet — 5,000 feet on each floor and the basement. There also is a rear parking lot which extends to Locust Avenue.

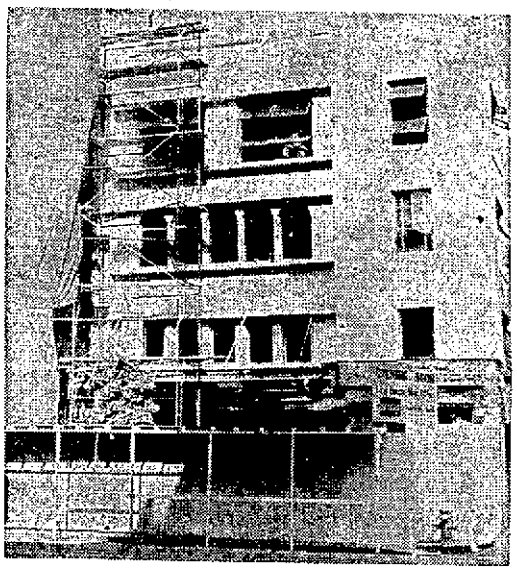

U. S. National, headquartered in San Diego, has Long Beach branches in Los Altos and North Long Beach.

Voler L. Viles, regional vice president, issued this statement when the bank originally announced it was moving into downtown Long Beach:

"Our bank feels that to really be a part of a community we must be located in the heart of the downtown area."

Dr. Weldon A. Williamson, veteran of 24 years' service with the United States Public Health Service, has been named director of the medical center at Rossmoor Leisure World, the senior citizen development now under construction at Seal Beach.

Dr. Williamson will assume his new post Oct. 1, Lewis M. Letson, administrator of the Golden Rain Foundation, the non-profit organization which will administer the medical facilities at the community, said.

"This new post provides a most challenging and unusual assignment," said Dr. Williamson, "because of the nature of the community and the fact that it is being sponsored by free enterprise rather than governmental agencies."

Many New Model Homes Will Be Opened Today

National Home Week, which began Saturday and continues through Oct. 1, will be observed in this area with an invitation to the public to personally see the many new pace-setting advances in home design and construction in the model display homes which members of the Home Builders Association will have open, announced Earl P. Snyder, HBA president.

Opening of the largest number of model display homes, nearly all of them furnished, to be presented in the area at one time in the history of home building here will be the major observance here of National Home Week.

* * * *

"NOW IS THE BEST time to buy a new home" is the theme for National Home Week.

"Southern California's leadership in developing new ideas and new thinking in creating advance homes will be displayed in these models, many of which have been especially scheduled for National Home Week," Snyder stated. "We hope potential home buyers will turn out to review with us the magnificent improvements our builders have made in homes of today.

"The Southern California home is a pace setter. Designers, builders, developers look to this area for creative thinking. All these wonderful advances will be on display during National Home Week.

* * * *

"IT'S EASY to visit a model display home. You will find display homes near you regardless of where you live. Every major area will have model display homes open. Check the locations in the real estate sections of your newspaper.

"Kitchens of Southern California homes for many years have captured first honors and have set trends which other sections have followed—design, features, stepped-up efficiency, reduced work for the busy homemaker, more expertly organized to meet her special needs, according to Snyder. Many of these appealing kitchens will be featured in the model homes open during National Home Week.

"Leadership in patio design and outdoor living which Southern California builders have established and maintained, will also be shown in these display homes.

"STEADILY RISING costs of everything that goes into or involves a home emphasize the facts on which this year's theme is based, said Snyder.

"Economists are now agreed that interest rates for homes will go up appreciably in the near future, instead of going down, which adds another rising curve in home costs," he said. "Costs of land are going up, costs of the components are rising, labor costs are continually rising. Any potential home buyer who is thinking about home ownership will pay less for the new home of his choice now than at any time in the future which we can forsee."

Will Build Small Home for Elderly

Construction of the retirement homes surrounding the existing house models and recreation facilities of Sun Park, Hemet, starts Monday.

This $837,000 project presents a new approach to retirement living. Moderate sized Sun Park retirement subdivisions are being located by the developers, Frazar Brothers of Montrose, in communities renowned for their natural resources for gracious living. The Hemet area is called the "Foothills of Heaven."

* * * *

SUN PARKS follow the established restriction of one member of a family being 50 or older and all chidrlen must be at least 18.

Frazar Bros. create their subdivisions with homes of modest floor space, 970 to 1032 square feet, for easy upkeep. Then they install appliances, cabinets, fixtures, kitchens and baths to luxury standards of quality. Each home has its own yard, walled in back, to provide mild exercise for green thumbs and also to create privacy out of doors.

Centered within the development, with access possible only through member homes, is a $100,000 recreation center. The title and operation of these facilities belongs to Sun Park residents jointly. A heated pool, shuffleboard courts, an 18 hole putting green, large landscaped and grassed areas and a quite pretentious club house comprise the recreation package.

LAW IN THE NEWS

Some State Laws Have Mexican Roots

Though much of our law came from English common law, Californians lived under Mexican rule and Spanish law influences for years. Such laws as community property have Mexican roots.

In early California Mexicans often held large land holdings which the United States honored when Mexico ceded California. Water, then as now, was vital. Special laws dealt with water.

If a land owner got sole use of river water under the Mexican law, California could not take it away from him. Mexican land grants on navigable waters were likewise honored.

* * * *

PUEBLO WATER RIGHTS of Spanish origin are still in California law. This gives a city use of river water flowing through it, since the pueblo grew around a river. The city held prior water rights for its inhabitants (Pobladores) over any other users. The Spaniards set aside four square leagues (about 17,750 acres) on the bank of the river for cities. Los Angeles and San Diego still have these water rights.

In Los Angeles in 1810 mission priests acknowledged that the city people had water rights superior to other, non-pueblo users: If the city needed more water it could take for its expanded needs.

Congress confirmed these rights after Los Angeles became incorporated. San Diego had similar pueblo rights to the San Diego river in 1834.

* * * *

THE 1849 TREATY of Guadalupe Hidalgo said that land of private Mexicans should be "inviolably respected." Many early California courts disputed over how wide these grants were. In 1851, a three-member land commission came to California to settle many of these disputes. After years Congress settled these grants and their boundaries.

Under Spanish and Mexican law, pueblos had a right to four square leagues of land. The Mexican government "owned" the land as treaty for the city dwellers. Under the treaty, California got this "ownership." Ownership of city land by private persons had to come from the city or by government grant. In 1854 Los Angeles granted land to those who had occupied it for 12 years. Persons with grants of city land from the Mexican government had to have them confirmed by special laws or by court action.

Three Awards for Architectural Firm

WINNING HOME DESIGN

The local architectural firm of Killingsworth, Brady, Smith & Associates received the Honor Award in the Western Home Awards Program for this unique home built for John Robertson in Laguna Beach. One end of the glass pavilion is for studio living and the other for cooking, dining and sleeping. It is set in an old estate garden.

The Long Beach architectural firm of Kililngsworth, Brady, Smith & Associates is the winner of an Honor Award and two Awards of Merit in the 1961-1962 Western Home Awards Program, sponsored biennially by Sunset Magazine and the American Institute of Architects.

The firm received the Honor Award for its design of a custom house in Laguna Beach, owned by John Robertson. The Awards of Merit were given the architects for two custom projects houses in La Jolla.

* * * *

THE LAGUNA BEACH Honor Award winner was called "a very sensitive and successful design" by the awards jury. It is a glass pavilion set in a corner of an old estate garden. Glass walls open the interior to the garden area. One end of the home is used for studio-living, the other for cooking, dining and sleeping.

The two project houses in La Jolla were also highly commended by the jury. Both are wood houses, each built over a body of still water. The wood here is used in a "very sophisticated, dressy manner, rather than in a rustic manner." The jury called the detailing in these homes "very careful and adroit."

Killingsworth, Brady, Smith, along with the other winning architects in the competition, will be honored at the California Council, A.I.A. Convention at Coronado, Oct. 18-22. L. W. (Bill) Lane Jr., publisher of Sunset Magazine, and Malcolm Reynolds, regional director of the American Institute of Architects, will present the awards.

New Second Trust Deed Plan Offered

A new plan to move California's second trust deed market into sounder financial channels to further aid home buyers and stimulate the housing industry was announced by Roger A. Dunn, president of Community Savings and Loan Association.

Community is one of the eleven affiliates comprising Financial Federation, Inc. who will join in the new program of accepting applications for secondary financing following conventional first mortgage loans.

* * * *

EDWARD L. JOHNSON, president of Financial Federation, Inc. states: "The plan will be advantageous to everyone concerned, and will give the state administration an assist in its job of cleaning up the problems caused by the past operations of 'trust deed exchanges' in the second mortgage field."

The difficulties of the "trust deed exchanges" began to appear in 1956 when inexperienced investors were attracted by promised 10% yield on their money.

Under the new Financial Federation program the home buyer can carry on all transactions through one financial institution. A person may buy a home he might not be able to purchase without secondary financing, obtaining up to 90 percent of value through any one of Financial Federation's affiliates. He will make only one monthly payment for both loans.

The primary advantages of the program to affiliate members, will be that they can make many first mortgage loans that would be otherwise impossible without secondary financing, and their first loans will be better protected with seconds in the hands of an experienced company.

Plans for Opera Are Sidetracked

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Actress-singer Shirly Knight, who once aspired to be an opera singer, has lowered her sight.

She is content with pursuing an acting career, at the moment, as a convict in the Warner Bros. movie, "House of Women."

"At one time," says Miss Knight, "I aspired to become an opera singer. Then I heard the great Renata Tebaldi, I realized I never could approach her. It was then I decided to devote my energies to becoming the best possible actress."

To Start Filming Billy Budd Soon

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Executive producer Ronald Lubin is due soon in London for the start of filming of Allied Artists' "Billy Budd" at Elstree Studios.

Expands L.B. Plant

Monsanto Chemical Co's Long Beach plant is expanding facilities for manufacturing sodium tripolyphosphate, Johan J. Jansen, plant manager, announced.

"Our plant has grown continually since it was established 11 years ago," Jansen said. "This is another step in our growth which will help us to keep ahead of the needs of the West Coast. This expansion of our sodium phosphate facilities is the second for this unit within a few years, and will more than double our present phosphate salt capacity. The new production capability will enable Monsanto to meet all anticipated future needs of the West Coast customers for this product."

* * * *

THE WORK will be completed by the end of the year, Jansen said.

Sodium Tripolyphosphate is a white granular or powdered material, water-soluble, which has excellent water softening and detergent properties.

Tips Given on Use of Sanders

By MR. FIX
Written for Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Hand sanding is still the technique that gives the perfect finishing touch to any project in wood.

But hand sanding as a method to do all the necessary smoothing and finishing is made obsolete by modern, inexpensive methods of power sanding. You can power sand to the point where only a light once-over with hand sanding is needed. And on some jobs you can even skip that.

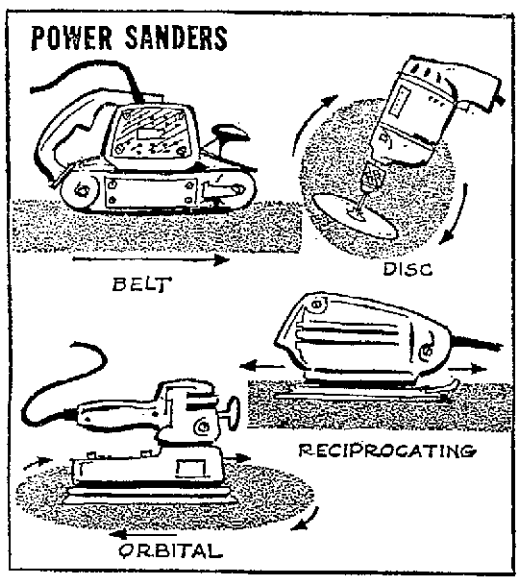

* * * *

MOST FAMILIAR is the disc sander, generally in the form of an attachment for an electric drill. This tool is inexpensive, efficient, fast, and it can ruin your work faster than any other type.

The tool is perfect for rough sanding, but since its rotary motion results in circular scars in your work it's not ideal for finishing. With careful handling you can avoid having surfaces that are too badly marked up, even during rough sanding.

Holding the disc sander in one spot too long will result in gouging—and it doesn't take long to dig out a deep gash. Too light a pressure results in a large number of broken marks as the disc flutters over the work.

Maintain an even, steady pressure. Tilting the tool so that only the outer third of the disk touches the surface will cut down on circular marks.

A disc sander can be dangerous, too. Watch your step when sanding anything where the disc might catch and snag. It will jerk the tool right out of your hand.

* * * *

THE BELT sander uses a continuous sanding belt that is fitted over revolving drums at each end. The belt moves in one direction so you needn't worry about cross-grain marks unless you apply the tool that way. This type of sander takes the surface down fast over a wide area.

Portable belt sanders are more expensive than other portable sanders, but they can be rented for an occasional big job.

If the surface you are sanding is narrower than the belt, avoid sanding along only one part of the belt. The belt will wear unevenly later.

* * * *

THE RECIPROCATING sander is a small hand tool with a surface that moves back and forth with a fast motion. The abrasive material is clipped to the moving surface. This does a fine job—it's easy to stay with the grain. But the reciprocating sander is slow, is best used in conjunction with other sanders or on small jobs.

The orbital sander is very much like the reciprocating sander except that as the sanding surface vibrates back and forth it also moves in a tight little orbit. Because of this motion it cuts fast, moves both across and with the grain. The finish won't be quite so good as with a reciprocating sander, and if you bear down you may get little circular marks.

Whatever type of sander you use (or even if you are hand sanding) use the finest grade abrasive you can to do the job. Deep scratches are hard to remove. If you must use a series of grits, start with the coarsest of the series and then use the next finest grit each time.

Iowa Needs Tax Hike But None Is in Sight

DES MOINES (UPI)—The 1961 Iowa Legislature took steps toward solving one of the state's main problems—the lack of industrial plants—but adopted a "standpat" attitude on other dilemmas.

The legislature, in a record 118-day session completed last May, avoided any increase in state taxes and approved a record high budget of nearly $194 million by dipping deeply into a $45 million surplus in the treasury.

In approving a budget almost $23 million higher than the current one, the Legislature made it nearly mandatory for some kind of a tax increase to be enacted at its next session, in 1963.

* * * *

THE MOST ADVOCATED form of a tax increase is to boost the two per cent sales tax to three per cent. It is estimated this would net the state between $32 and $38 million a year.

But Republican Gov. Norman A. Erbe prevented a sales tax increase this session by telling the GOP-controlled legislature he would veto it.

As a result, many legislators said the state had failed to live up to its pledge to increase aid to schools and, at the same time, provide property tax relief, especially in farm areas.

Aid to schools and local property tax relief have been called the two most critical state problems. The legislature did increase school aid by $6 million to $29.8 million per year.

* * * *

THIS WAS NOT even expected to keep pace with rising school costs.

Iowa's drive to establish a more favorable industrial climate in a predominately agricultural state was implemented by legislative action.

The General Assembly granted industries no major tax concessions, but gave the Iowa Development Commission about $75,000 more a year to entice more firms to the state.

This increased the annual appropriation to the commission to $300,400.

The legislature also earmarked $100,000 additionally for a special survey of a potentially rich mineral belt in the southwest, west and north-central sections of the state. Some geologists said preliminary studies indicate the possibility of extremely rich mineral deposits.

Life Underwriters Attend Meeting

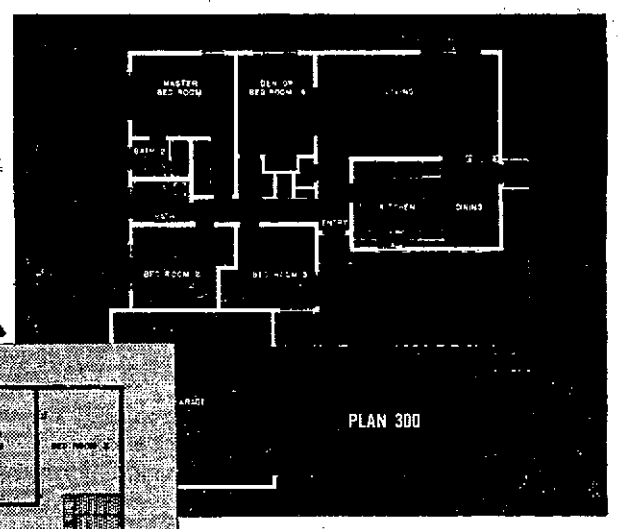

Bob Bowden, president of the Long Beach Life Underwriters Association and Herman Wulfburg, past president, were named to represent the group at the National Association of Life Underwriters meeting in Denver opening today.

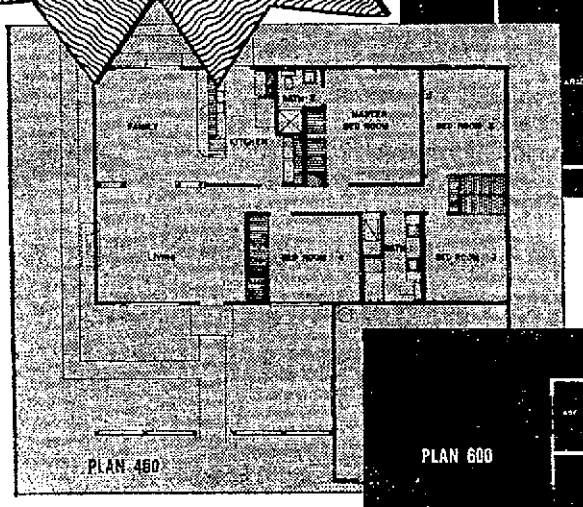

The theme of the convention is "Your doctor and your lawyer is a member of a professional association and so should you be."

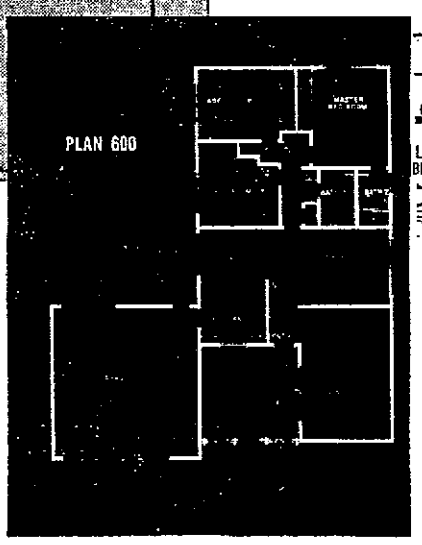

Bowden and Wulfburg will sit in on a conference reviewing federal legislative bulletins on health, care for the aged and other similar discussions.

The modern kitchen includes a deluxe built-in gas oven and island range with exhaust hood, fan and light, double sink with disposal unit and a wide breakfast bar separating the food preparation center from the dining area. Gift to Charity More Costly

NEW YORK (UPI)—The peak year for corporate philanthropy was 1953, when a $100 contribution to charity cost a high tax bracket corporation only $18, according to a recent study of a citizens committee on voluntary health and welfare agencies.

Changes in the tax structure have raised the cost of a $100 corporate contribution to $48 in 1961.

Corporate giving totaled $495 million in 1953, $395 million in 1958.

Desert Area Homes Open

Many families have already moved into Youngtowne Plaza, the new master planned retirement community in Apple Valley, according to Gordon Riches, of Key Land Co., sales agents.

Youngtowne Plaza is unique in that buyers may make changes in the basic two and three-bedroom, one bath plan. Prices start at $11,995 with 80% financing available to qualified buyers.

Features in these Gold Medallion all-electric homes include heat pumps for year around air conditioning and heating, covered patios, large view lots, built-in range and oven, fireplaces, large rooms.

Youngtowne Plaza is about a two hour drive from Los Angeles over the San Bernardino Freeway to Highway 395, north on 395 which becomes Route 66 to Victorville, east to Central Ave., north to South Rd., and right on South Rd. to models.

Cautious But Optimistic Now

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (UPI)—The American consumer now is "cautiously optimistic" about the nation's economic future, the University of Michigan Survey Research Center reports.

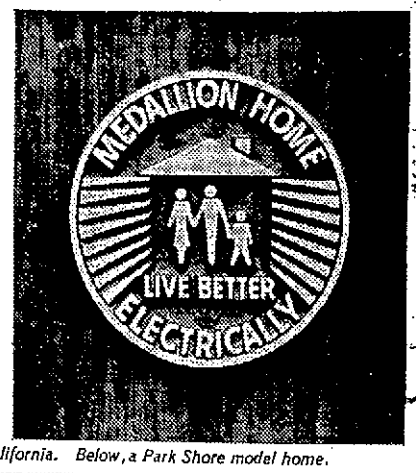

In a recent survey of consumer attitudes and inclinations to buy, the center reports people in every economic bracket realize business trends have turned up and they expect further improvement.

More persons plan to buy new automobiles, the survey showed. But it also disclosed that the optimism expressed by consumers had been tempered by restraint resulting from the recessions of 1958 and early 1961.

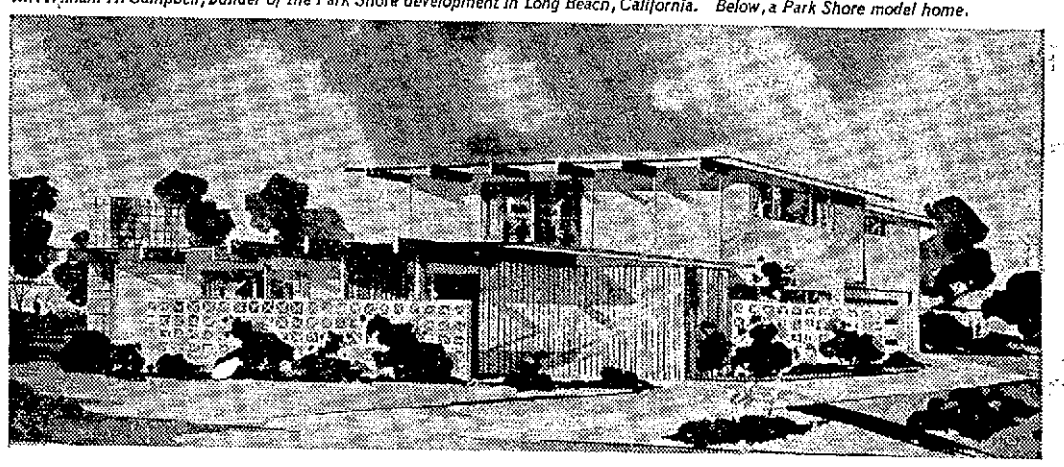

Bon (hic) Voyage

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—When a Matson Lines ship sails from San Francisco for a cruise to Hawaii, lots of people are bubbling with good cheer. Matson reports 500 bottles of champagne are consumed on a typical "bon voyage" sailing day.

Mr. William H. Campbell, builder of the Park Shore development in Long Beach, California. Below, a Park Shore model home.

"I BUILD ALL KINDS, BUT I LIVE IN A MEDALLION HOME"

"After twelve years of building thousands of homes, I find that today more and more people want the benefits of electric living found in Medallion Homes. That's why Park Shore homes are Medallion Homes," says Mr. Campbell.

The extra cleanliness, convenience and modernity of a Medallion Home are preferred by Mr. and Mrs. Campbell as well as their customers.

Why not be guided by the experience of expert builders such as Mr. Campbell? Choose a home that bears the Medallion Home Award.

Only one new home in five earns this distinction. These are the qualifications:

1. A flameless electric kitchen—cool, clean, modern. It comes equipped with major electric appliances, including automatic flameless electric range and oven.

2. Full "Housepower" wiring—only a home built to rigid Medallion Homes standards has the overall electrical capacity necessary for truly modern living.

3. Abundant lighting—planned for comfort, convenience and beauty.

A total-electric Gold Medallion Home gives you all these benefits plus:

4. Flameless electric space and water heating.

NEW PORTUGUESE BEND COMMUNITY

Although the original homes on Portuguese Bend in Palos Verdes encountered difficulty from land slippage, a new Portuguese Bend community is well developed as shown here. The former homes were in the area at lower right while the new homes are on a bluff north of the highway. At the far upper right is the South Shores development of many more new homes. This view was taken by Pacific Air Industries from an altitude of 1,000 feet facing the east.

HOW THE CRAWFORDS BOUGHT AN APARTMENT BUILDING WITH THE HOME THEY STILL OWN!

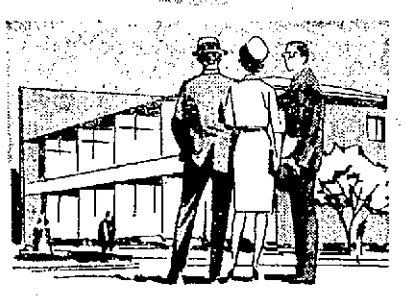

Let Mr. Crawford tell it: "We'd owned our home for quite some time. Had a nice equity built up in it. A few years ago, a good friend—a realtor—suggested that we 'put that equity to work.' We asked how."

"He advised us to 'refinance' our home—to use our home as security to borrow money. We could use part of the money to pay off our existing loan and the rest as a down payment on income property—like an apartment house."

"The new loan payments would be the same as the old ones; they'd just extend for a longer time. And the rent we got from the apartment building would pay off its trust deed and give us extra income, besides!"

"We asked our friend to help us with the arrangements. He was a real specialist...knew all about financing and had several apartment houses to show us. One seemed perfect—attractive, well-kept-up and reasonable."

"Our offer was accepted, so we 'opened an escrow.' The escrow officer was a specialist, too. She handled all money and documents, and suggested that we protect our property with a Title Insurance and Trust Company policy."

"We asked her why she was so sold on Title Insurance and Trust Company. She said because T.I. had the largest staff of title experts in America, and the best facilities for searching the titles of any land in California."

"We've been landlords for two years now. It's a nice feeling—to get extra income while you buy property. It's even nicer to know that your investment has the best protection possible—a Title Insurance and Trust Company title policy."

Like the Crawfords, most California property owners protect their investment with a T.I. policy. And no wonder, for such a policy is the best assurance that you really own the property you buy, and that your "ownership rights" will be insured for as long as you and your family own it. So when you buy or sell, remember to insist on the best—a policy issued by Title Insurance and Trust Company—America's largest title company.

Glaucoma Test Easier to Make

When placed against the eye-ball, the tonometer measures pressures exerted by fluids inside the eye. The readings previously were recorded by hand, a time-consuming job.

The new electronic recorder, developed by Leeds & Northrup Co., of Philadelphia, not only has speeded diagnosis, but has made mass examinations practical.

Moisture Meter Aid to Farming

TULSA (UPI)—A Tulsa firm has developed a device to take the farmer's muddy boots and guesswork out of irrigation.

Manufacturer Frank W. Murphy said a moisture meter is buried in the ground. If the soil is too dry, a radio signal notifies the irrigation pumps or canal and the water flow starts. A reverse action occurs when moisture content is good.

Murphy said it takes the human factor out of irrigation and ultimately could mean up to 75 more bushels of corn to an irrigated acre.

Tire(d) Thieves

CRANSTON, R. I. (UPI)—Thieves carted away 22 tires wrapped in paper from outside a service station one night but the proprietor was probably less upset than the thieves. Henry A. Serpa told police the tires were old and valueless. He explained he had used them for advertising purposes.

Gay Signed

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Russian-born actor Gregory Gay has been chosen to play Field Marshal Rommel in "Hitler," being filmed for Allied Artists.

Foreign Students Are Welcomed

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa. (UPI)—Foreign exchange students at Pennsylvania State University's College of Agriculture are encouraged to live for a week with a farm family.

Families who have been their hosts say they've learned more than the guests about the customs of a foreign country.

Trees Travel

KENT, Ohio (UPI) — Just standing still, a large tree covers a lot of mileage. A big spreading oak, for instance, has a total root and rootlet length of many hundreds of miles, according to Martin L. Davey Jr., the tree expert.

CHURCH PILLARS IN PLACE
Resembling a collection of giant Tiki heads, the wall pillars for the new Our Lady of Refuge Catholic Church await the siding. The church, located at Stearns Street and Los Coyotes Diagonal, will be of brick and concrete combined in contemporary design. It will seat 1,000, according to Rev. H. J. Vandenbergh, the pastor. A high tower will stand just to the left, separate from the church.—(Staff photo.)

New Robinson Hotel Adding More Rooms

Completing the third successful year of operating a "new way of life" for retired folks at the New Robinson Hotel, Harvey E. Miller announced Saturday he is building six additional guest rooms.

And, so successful has the venture been that he has another similar project under way at the Casa Del Rey Hotel at Santa Cruz.

A well known Realtor here, Miller was handling negotiations for the sale of the Robinson three years ago. When the sale failed to materialize Miller decided to buy the hotel and set it up for senior citizens. "I had felt for some time that too many times older folks were forced to live in old homes, not eating properly and missing companionship," said Miller.

In his "new way of life" he provided the retired folks with a furnished room, private bath close to the ocean. Nutritionists were obtained to provide well balanced meals for the guests. Staff members were hired to plan programs so the guests would never be bored or lonely.

The hotel has been running near capacity the past year and with the addition of six more rooms and a stag room for male guests, Miller said the need for guest rooms on the first floor will be filled.

There are no entry fees or contracts. All he requires is one month rent in advance. The price, he said, is within the average retirement income bracket.

State Spending Really Climbs

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI)—State government spending in Ohio during the past year was more than the state spent in the 35 years from 1900 to 1935.

State Auditor James A Rhodes reported spending in the fiscal year ended June 30 was more than $1.6 billion. He figured out this was $6.5 million per working day, or $13,430 per minute.

Musical Tree

KENT, Ohio (UPI) — The spruce trees make some of the world's most beguiling sounds. Antonius Stradivarius used only spruce for the now priceless violins he made. Old time fiddle makers preferred the spruce for its resonant qualities, state Davey tree researchers.

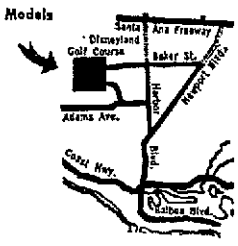

Own Tanker

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The SS Lurline, Matson Lines, carries 44,000 barrels of oil in her fuel tanks. It's enough to enable the ship to cruise 21,000 miles without refueling.

New Violinist

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Marie Josee Nat, who portrays Brigitte Bardot's sister in Columbia's "La Verite" (The Truth), liked playing the violin so well in her role that she has taken up the instrument seriously.

Low Monthly Payments Asked on Brentwood Gardens Homes

IN BRENTWOOD GARDENS
Priced as low as $15,700, homes such as this are offered in Brentwood Gardens to veterans on monthly payments as low as $87, principal and interest. The homes are only minutes from Long Beach.

Monthly payments from $87, including principal and interest, are helping draw crowds of veterans to Brentwood Gardens, situated 12 minutes from Long Beach and 20 minutes from Los Angeles central manufacturing, said Larry Weinberg, president of Larwin Co., builder-developers.

GI move-in costs total $95, Weinberg said, and there are no second trust deeds and no balloon payments.

Early comers may take advantage of minimal $1 veteran's move-in costs on a few credit rejects, he said.

PRICED AS low as $15,700, the homes include three or four bedrooms (or three bedrooms and family room) and two baths.

Weinberg points out that long-lasting value is guaranteed in the new homes by such quality features as expensive Kentile vinyl flooring, customized ceramic tile counter tops in kitchen, distinctive lighting fixtures, lath and plaster walls, acoustic plaster ceilings, decorator-selected wallpapers, forced air furnace, aluminum sliding doors, extra vents for forced air heating and cooling in bathroom, insulated foundation, roof insulation, 100-amp electrical service, and oversized gas water heater.

* * * *

SITUATED NEAR Knott's Berry Farm and Disneyland, Brentwood Gardens is also close to inviting beaches, parks, playgrounds, and fine country club golf courses. Serving the area are modern shopping centers, excellent schools, and churches of all denominations.

From Long Beach, Brentwood Gardens may be reached via Carson (which becomes Lincoln Ave.) east to Knott Ave., and the model homes.

ATTRACTIVE FIREPLACE
Homes in Bolsa Park are of sound construction and have many added features such as the floor-to-ceiling stone fireplace pictured here. Near the beach, they are priced from $19,250.

Bolsa Park Homes Lauded by Viewers

Crowds of buyers are expressing pleasure at finding lath and plaster construction in an ocean-close location at Bolsa Park, on Bolsa Chica Road at Bolsa Avenue in Huntington Beach, said builder Roger C. Werbel. According to Werbel, this kind of construction is seldom found so near the ocean.

Bolsa Park homes are offered with new 35-year, 5¼% FHA financing, as well as VA no-down-payment terms and 6% conventional financing. Pricing is from $19,250. Titles are insured.

Four new plans feature custom entry and loggia areas which give access to all rooms, minimizing wear-and-tear on living areas. A four-bedroom plan is proving especially popular with growing families, Werbel said.

OFFERED WITH three or four bedrooms, two full baths, and family-dining room, the Bolsa Park homes are situated on pool-sized lots within an average three minutes' drive of beaches, Werbel said. The homes include such features as: Floor-to-ceiling fireplace, shake, cedar shingle, or rock roofs; custom ash kitchen cabinets with raised panels; O'Keefe & Merritt colored gas range and double-window oven with rotisserie; garbage disposer; range hood with light and fan; automatic dishwasher; floor-to-ceiling sliding glass doors; 75,000 BTU forced air heating; concrete rear terrace, and copper plumbing throughout.

From Long Beach, the homes may be visited via East Seventh St. (which becomes Garden Grove Blvd.) to Bolsa Chica, turning right 2 miles.

Their Magic Is Music

...Long Beach Symphony Readies a Fine New Season of Concerts

Energy, ambition and foresight are three of the prime requirements necessary to raise more than $40,000 each year for good music.

Guaranteeing to provide all of this, plus an added measure of devotion to their cause, are Long Beach Symphony Association and auxiliary organizations, Symphony Guild and Symphonettes.

They will accomplish their goal through ticket sales, contributions and benefits. For 12 days, beginning with an "Overture" coffee hour Monday morning in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lorne Middough, 1121 El Mirador Ave., the story of Long Beach's own orchestra will be told over and over again.

* * * *

THE STORY begins with those pioneers in local community music who met more than 20 years ago to play together under the direction of the orchestra's founder-conductor. Robert Resta. Even with the help of the first president, Dr. Theodore Strang, it took almost two years to arrange for the first concert which was sponsored by the Recreation Commission.

The commission still sponsors the orchestra but now the County of Los Angeles and the Musicians' Association through the Recording Industries Trust Funds also give important financial support. Last season and again this spring, the symphony was the recipient of a substantial grant from the Union Pacific Foundation.

* * * *

FIVE YEARS ago Long Beach was ready for a giant step forward musically. A contributing membership fund was established with the moral and financial backing of such forward looking citizens as Mr. and Mrs. Herman Ridder, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Conrad and Mrs. Rex Hodges and the late Mr. Hodges, and the orchestra began to move into the ranks of important community orchestras.

Under the capable direction of the conductor. Lauris Jones, the season developed from four concerts to

HARRIET WOOD, harpist with Long Beach Symphony Orchestra, holds rapt attention of her youngsters, Marcia and Mark, just as full-orchestra does with hundreds of Long Beach children during free concerts each year. In addition to six concerts in regular season, symphony will be heard in seven concerts for children.—(All photos on page by Joe Risinger.)

BUST OF BEETHOVEN stands guard over instruments to be used by Long Beach Symphony Orchestra members when his Eighth Symphony is heard during 1961-62 concert series. Intensive drive for funds to achieve $40,000 goal to support orchestra will begin Monday with coffee hour in Lorne Middough home sponsored by Long Beach Symphony Association.

LONG BEACH 12, CALIF., SUNDAY, SEPTEMBER 24, 1961 SECTION W

BUSINESS CLUBS SPEARHEAD WEEK

Nation To Salute Working Women

Most productive "revolution" of the 20th Century has been the emergence of women into the business world . . . with 23 million women now a part of America's working force.

National Business Women's Week, with the theme "Womanpower—Dimension in Democracy" will be celebrated throughout the United States Oct. 1-7, as a salute to these millions and the part they play in the economic progress of this country.

In Long Beach the week's observances are traditionally sponsored by this city's Business and Professional Women's Club's in conjunction with the National Federation of BPW. Spearheading activities this year are Margaret Ives, Belmont Shore and Manela Nieto BPW Clubs.

HIGHLIGHT of the week again will be selection of a Long Beach "Business Woman of the Year." Companies and clubs are invited to nominate an outstanding woman from their ranks. A distinguished panel of judges makes the final selection after a careful study of the nominees' employment and civic record.

Winners of the four previous contests are: Vervyl Sumrall, executive secretary to the president of Star Kist Foods; Lois Smith, manager of classified advertising, Independent and Press-Telegram; Nell Gabler, California Department of Employment; and Marie Wells, assistant secretary, Board of Education.

THIS YEAR'S winner will be revealed before an expected capacity crowd of business and professional, civic and club leaders of this city during a banquet Oct. 2 at Lafayette Hotel.

Government endorsement of National Business Women's Week was expressed by Mrs. Esther Peterson, assistant to the secretary of labor and director of the Women's Bureau, who stated: "Qualified women will be wanted in the labor force of the future. Do everything you can to help women workers get the education and training they need. See that they are well equipped and then, see that they are given equal employment opportunities."

POINTING to the ever rising abilities of women employes, the BPW Clubs call attention to current statistics. Nine times as many women received college degrees in 1960 as did in 1920 to qualify for high level employment.

Looking forward, it is expected that by 1970 two out of every five adult women will be employed and that their average age will have increased to 41—promise of a mature, steady and capable labor force.

PAST WINNERS of citywide "Businesswoman of the Year" contest, Marie Wells (1960) and Nell Gabler (1959) "remember when" as they thumb through scrapbook of National Woman's Week, of which contest is a high light. City's Business and Professional Women's Clubs will again coordinate activities of celebrations slated first week of October.

THERE ISN'T ANY question in their minds (and they hope none in yours!) that October's most important dates are Oct. 1-7, National Businesswomen's Week. These three well-known businesswomen (left), Clara Christe, Octava Roquemore and Claris Sutton, are presidents, respectively, of Margaret Ives, Manuela Nieto and Belmont Shore Business and Professional Women's Clubs, sponsoring organizations for week-long celebrations in Long Beach. At right, Eugene Kirkpatrick, dean of judges for BPW's annual "Businesswoman of Year" contest, and Lilly Lee, general chairman of week's events, ponder which prominent local woman will be named as they begin tabulation of judges' votes. Winner and finalists will be presented at a banquet Oct. 2.

Leading women are Kathy Davis as Francis Parry in "The Lady Chooses;" Betty Kimber as Leona Samish in "The Time of the Cuckoo;" Audrey Share as Sheila Broadbent in "The Reluctant Debutante," and Barbara Petersen as Jinx in "Gangway."

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD

Don't Say 'I Do'

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD:

I have two older sisters who are unhappily married because my parents pushed them into marrying when they didn't want to.

I am 17 now, will graduate this year. My parents now are trying to persuade me to marry a third cousin of mine, ten years older than I am, because he has a business of his own and would give my two younger brothers jobs.

They say that with six other kids to support I ought to be willing to help them by marrying this "nice boy."

Mrs. M., I don't want to get married now. I want to finish school and get a job, and make something of myself. Maybe even go to college some day. But you don't know how heavy the family pressure is. Help me. —L.L.L.

DEAR L.L.L.

Listen, my dear, no one can sign the marriage certificate for you. No one can make you say "yes." So stop worrying.

GRANTED that battling the family pressure may be wearisome and worrisome, but believe me, entering unwillingly into marriage can be a darn sight worse.

Stick to your guns, young lady. See if you can't handle some sort of part time job while you're finishing school. This might relieve the home pressure.

But whatever you do, don't say "I do" until YOU want to.—M.M.

* * * *

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD:

My family are the most selfish people in the world. They downright resent my using the telephone. They can't see that it is only by calling up friends and chatting with them that a teenager can keep abreast of what's going on.

How can a girl be popular if she doesn't chat with the boys who call her? And what is wrong with her occasionally calling a boy if the call results in his asking for a date?

My family are old fashioned, narrow-minded, and completely out of step with the times.—MARILYN

DEAR MARILYN:

You are selfish, shortsighted, and inconsiderate. You are too filled with your own puffed-up sense of importance to realize that your family need the freedom of the phone far more than you do—and certainly for far more important reasons.

You, my pet, are both childish and churlish.—M.M.

* * * *

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD:

I came home last night and my wife had locked me out. I had a key but she had the door bolted from inside. And she wouldn't answer the phone when I called. This morning she answered but slammed the phone up in my face.

And do you know why? All because I went to a stag dinner given by my boss for the male employes, and stopped on the way home for late bowling, and had some beers and didn't get home until after two.

Women! They make me sick.—LES

DEAR LES:

You've probably made up by now. And I imagine your wife told you how sick men (you) make her.—M.M.

Exciting Symphony Season

the present ambitious program.

Tibor Zelig, violinist and brilliant new concertmaster of the symphony, will be soloist with the orchestra on Oct. 29. On Dec. 10, Marie Gibson, soprano, will be featured artist. Lauris Jones will conduct the orchestra in a program of major orchestral works on Feb. 11. The Nicolas Furjanick Memorial Concert will be given on March 4 and the grand winner of the annual Young Artists' Competition will be guest artist.

On April 15 Stanley Chaloupka, harpist with the Los Angeles Philharmonic Orchestra, will play a concerto with the symphony. The season will be brought to an exciting climax with a Festival Concert of American Music on May 6 with John Browning performing the McDowell Piano Concerto with the symphony.

* * * *

ALL CONCERTS will be given Sunday evenings at 8:30 in the Long Beach City College Auditorium with the exception of the Festival Concert which will be given in Convention Hall, Municipal Auditorium. Season tickets are $6 and $8, representing a saving on single ticket prices of almost 50 per cent. Special student rates are $4 and $6.

Reservations may be made with Mrs. Richard Matlock, ticket chairman, 1560 Ramillo Ave., or the Long Beach Symphony Association, 5336 Appian Way.

In addition, the symphony season includes a series of seven free concerts for children, and a scholarship project of importance to outstanding young artists.

* * * *

ANYONE interested in the musical welfare of Long Beach is invited to attend the coffee hour Monday when guest of honor will be Marie Gibson, soloist for the December concert. She will be interviewed by Mrs. Wallace Arntzen, chairman of the music committee. James E. Herley, president of the Symphony Association, will discuss symphony plans. Arrangements for the kickoff have been made by Mrs. Matlock and Mrs. John Christopher.

To Preview Art Exhibit

An event long-anticipated will take place Saturday evening when the Long Beach Museum Association previews "The Museum Association Collects" at the museum, 2300 E. Ocean Blvd. The exhibit will open to the public with a reception from 1 to 5 next Sunday.

Plans originated with the association's former president, Dr. Robert Buffum. The services of Mrs. Emmett Sullivan were enlisted to catalogue the private art collections of the membership. From these lists, Jack Carter, professor of design at UCLA and designer of exhibits at Dickinson Art Center there, was engaged to select those works which will be in the local show and to design the exhibit.

At dinner in the Sunset Room of the Pacific Coast Club before the preview, Carter will address the group and show slides illustrating "What Dictates a Creative Exhibit." Carter organized the Thonet Bentwood furniture show which opened at UCLA last Sunday. Thonet's famous designs evolved from the wood itself and its reaction to steaming and bending. Carter's approach to exhibit design is to use the materials as the theme, rather than imposing one.

* * * *

IN DESIGNING the Long Beach show, Carter selected cool shades of blue as dictates of "The Museum of the Pacific," and, in his words, "in doing this installation, we have tried to create something different within the existing gallery."

Struck with the wide variety of works available in members' collections, Carter made a representative selection which would fit the space and proportions of the Museum's Upstairs Gallery. One hundred and five works were so selected from the several hundreds catalogued.

Works run the gamut of art forms, ancient and modern, oriental and occidental, by local as well as internationally famous artists. Those loaning works for the show are: Dr. and Mrs. Grant Beckstrand, Mrs. George A. Brown, Dr. and Mrs. Robert Buffum, Mr. and Mrs. John G. Clock, Miss Dallas Conklin, Dr. and Mrs. William E. Fogg and Edward Frank.

Also Mr. and Mrs. James Kresl, Mr. and Mrs. Eric J. Laddey, Dr. and Mrs. John W. Olsen, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Person, Dr. and Mrs. Maurice Rosenbaum, Dr. and Mrs. Garland Sinow, Mr. and Mrs. Emmett Sullivan, Dr. and Mrs. Sumner E. Trent and Dr. Eugene Wallin.

* * * *

DR. JOHN W. Olsen, board member of the association and new chairman of the division of speech, drama, and fine arts at Orange County State College, served as liaison with Carter in the selection of works.

Working with the president, Mrs. James Kresl, are these members of the board: Mrs. Llewellyn Bixby Jr., Mrs. Robert Breckenfeld, Mrs. John M. Clark, Don E. Raney, Mrs. Herman Ridder, Mrs. Maurice Rosenbaum, Mrs. Herbert F. Waite and Mrs. Clifford Millspaugh.

* * * *

Preview dinners are a part of the association's program of cultural and social events for members. Anyone interested in participating is invited to contact the membership chairman, Mrs. John M. Clarke, 600 Los Altos Ave., Long Beach 14. A knowledge of art is not necessary for enjoyment of the group's activities.

The Wild Waves Say . .

By IOLA MASTERSON
I, P-T Women's Editor

SOME THINGS we got and some things we don't got and among the latter the later we get 'em the better if, as in this case they are, as I am, referring to hurricanes. (Don't try it in English class, kids; it don't even hardly make sense to the author). Nancy Winston had a letter from her mother, Ann Ruff, this week, advising her that she and Larry had landed in New York after their European vacation. What Nancy is glad she DIDN'T know until after it was over is that Ann and Larry, traveling by ship, were caught out on the Atlantic in hurricane Debbie. "Just awful" is the way Ann described it. Everything that was loose in their cabin, including chairs, hurtled every which way. It jest wasn't a fit night out for man, beast or boat. The Ruffs, now driving across country in their Volkswagen camper they bought in Germany will be here in about a week.

"Some blow"

IN THE REALM of higher learning, that institute of higher blood pressure, Samuel Merritt Hospital in Oakland has two of our cute gals in the freshman class at its school of nursing. Nightingales-in-training are Carol Green, daughter of Udell and Gareld, and Sue Haynes, daughter of Janet Haynes, all of Belmont Shore. Being sick won't be as bad as it used to be when they get through.

NOTES ABOUT people and events in this business are as valuable as green stamps in yours! Just because you don't paste 'em in the book doesn't mean you throw 'em away! Here's some leftovers. Everything is included but the dates, to protect the innocent. Virginia Country Club women golfers had a picnic tournament, combining both the 9 and 18 hole players. Ginnie Welch made arrangements for the day. Dixie Millie won the wedge shot contest with Kay Pearson taking second place.

It was on this day that Marge Middleton and Emma Brain won the title of the Gold Dust Twins. Not only did they discover they had bought identical handbags (big, bold ones) but they arrived wearing identical golf hats, wound up playing together and posted duplicate scores. They didn't do so well at golf but can console themselves with the knowledge they're good at hats and bags.

* * * *

ADD TO leftovers . . . . the trip taken by Optimists and families to Camp Oakes, the YMCA Camp above Big Bear, at the invitation of Al McCall. The Bob DeWalts with their guests, the Jack Kennedys, were there, so was Gene Bishop and his boys. Also Opti-Prez Paul Williamson with his dad as well as sons, Lorena and Dan Farnham and daughters, Mary Lou and Ed Sheridan, Marilyn and Hal Levich, Elizabeth and Russ Jackson, all with children, plus Caroline and Harry Moore and Louise and Court Prowell. If it was cold nights then (got down to around 30, they told me) you can bet it's colder now.

DUSTY but unbowed have been the heads of Assistance League Thrift Shop workers as they've manned their Locust Avenue store in and around the debris of tearing out a wall and remodelling. Betty Williams, chairman, tells us that the messy muss is now all cleaned up; the job complete.

YOU COOK for hours over a hot stove and whaddya get? Compliments, that's what, if it turns out like the dinner Marge Demler prepared when she and Ed entertained at a "Polynesian-Oriental" feast last weekend. Secondarily responsible for success of the party was daughter, Rae. She went to U of Hawaii this summer and took a course in "Foods of the Pacific" (well, lawsy me, what they say about curriculum in that school must be true!) Twelve privileged friends dined on such gourmet home cookery as bird's nest soup, a Korean beef and vegetable concoction (neither spellable nor pronounceable, but delicious!), and ended with a hot fruit soup dessert with homemade almond cookies. Such devotion to a kitchen range.

THE CASE of Lawyers vs. the City of Monterey will be tried and decided this week as the State Bar convention takes place in that coastal spot. Heading the Long Beach contingent will be L. B. Prez Bill Price and Helen. Long Beach Bar will keep a hospitality room open (that figures) under supervision of Norma and George Trammell.

SEVERAL shiny reminders why an old Olds or any other old bus just won't do for another year were previewed Wednesday night when Dick Browning entertained (with Verla's help, naturally, at a sales resistance busting cocktail and new car fender patters present were Otto Boll (Betty was busy elsewhere with their own son and their AFS son, Gert Riethus from West Berlin), Meriam and George Irwin, Gus Walker (he sat in one of those cars an awfully long time, Dick; looks like a live one), Norma and Bill Becker, "Rol" Robbins, Thelma and Bill Bryant, Ruth and Gordon Dougherty, Norma and Bill Harris, Betty and Larry Hunt (making sure for himself no doubt, that the rumor the new models have wings isn't true), and Bev and Dick Matlock.

BREAK OUT the welcome mats, Helen Young is coming to town. She's due Oct. 3, on her first trip here in three years, to visit her parents, Peg and Fred Wise, plus all other kith and kin. She and Jack, who isn't coming, just arrived back at their Newport, R. I. home about a month ago after three years duty in Italy. A major factor in her coming so soon after arrival from abroad is that daughter, Pamela, has just begun her freshman year at UC, Santa Barbara and Helen wants to check out how this young Young is getting along.

HOO, BOY! What they didn't talk about you should not know anyway. At least that seems a fair bet considering that Lou Hosking just returned from a two week visit with Atala Hanbery at Atala's Zephyr Cove resort home at Lake Tahoe. Lots of reminiscing, a little motor touring, mebbe a little wagering.

MEMBERS of Peg Akers bridge club were in the pink the other day, literally. She initiated their completely refurnished, now all pink fun room with this party. "House work" out of the way, understand she and Romaine are planning some little dinner parties.

This golfing quartet is getting in swing of things for Long Beach City Panhellenic Association party Saturday. From left are Mrs. Frank Courtney, Panhellenic treasurer; Mrs. Willis Blenkinsop, Tracy Brown and Mr. Blenkinsop. Day's activities will start with golf at 12:15 p.m. at Los Alamitos Golf Course. But that's just start of fun. Members and husbands will go on to home of Blenkinsops in Lakewood for a Parisienne Patio Party—including swimming, cocktails, dinner, dancing and bridge.—(Staff photo.)

Soroptimists to Celebrate Club's 40th Anniversary

Long Beach area Soroptimists are joining clubs throughout the United States and in 33 foreign countries in observance of the 40th anniversary of the organization's founding.

The local observance will take the form of a luncheon Friday in Red Velvet Room of Lafayette Hotel with Myrl Cypher, immediate past president, as chairman of the day. Darlene Capouch is president.

Speaker will be Edna Wirt Woods of Ventura, governor of the Pacific Region of Soroptimists which takes in 102 clubs in the southern portion of California and in Arizona, Nevada, New Mexico and Texas. She will speak on "The Future of Soroptimism."

In founding ceremonies, clubs will review services they have provided to their communities and countries.

* * * *

ON THE world-level, Soroptimists have worked for international goodwill and understanding through its Sister Club program, correspondence with members in other countries, financial and medical assistance and fellowships.

Its members have worked for better understanding of public affairs; for a better understanding of good government, for a better status for women at work and in public service.

* * * *

THE CITY of Long Beach has been beneficiary of service projects of Soroptimist Club since it was chartered locally in 1924, the eighth club to join the federation. Scholarships are maintained at Long Beach City and State Colleges; contributions made to Long Beach Symphony Association, Tichenor Orthopedic Clinic, needy families and children and to campership funds.

For the past four years its members have honored newly naturalized citizens of this area at a graduation party, an event which has grown in scope and interest.

Major achievement in recent years was the building of Soroptimist House on the campus at LBSC. Completed this spring, the $32,000 structure is used by the student body for meetings and social activities.

EMPHASIS ON SOCIAL ACTIVITY AT LBCC

Rushing, club organization, football rallies and other typical activities of this season are in high gear at both campuses of Long Beach City College. Textbooks and assignments are definitely in the picture, too—but this is still the carefree interlude before the first mid-term exams loom on the horizon.

Business & Technology

At the Business and Technology Division, all clubs held initial meetings last week to plan fall programs and elect officers. Latest addition to the campus scene is the Technical Publications Club. Presidents of all organizations will hold the first Inter-Club Council meeting this Tuesday.

MEMBERSHIP in the Associated Student Body at BTD reached an all-time high this fall. Among the groups serving in the ASB organization drive during registration were Christian Fellowship, Circle-K, Kisab, Norsemen, Sigma and Theta.

First assembly of the year, at 11 a. m. Wednesday in the BTD gymnasium, will feature Haitian calypso artist Jean Durand and his company. Admission is free to student body members.

Liberal Arts

Rushees of the Liberal Arts Division women's social clubs will attend the semi-annual formal rush tea this afternoon on the Carson St. campus. Then comes the biggest event of all, Joint Presents, this Friday night in the women's gymnasium.

STATE'S ALPHA PHI MOTHERS BUSY AGAIN

One of the busiest of the auxiliary organizations at Long Beach State last year promises to be just that again in 61-62 as we hear from the Alpha Phi Mothers Club that (1) the Pledge Mothers Tea will be held Oct. 1, in the sorority house; and (2) next meeting of the club will be Oct. 4, at 7:30 p. m. in the Soroptimist House with Mrs. H. S. Melvin and Mrs. A. A. Melton as hostesses.

Wednesday we spotted Colleen Logan of Califias (junior-senior women's honorary) looking real perky in Califias' new uniform: gold sweater vest with brown and gold emblem, brown pleated skirt, and white blouse. Colleen says Califias members will be so decked out each Wednesday.

Something new has been added to the planning for the leadership conference next month: no more ex-officio delegates. Instead each person interested in attending the three-day meet makes application and is screened in two interviewing sessions. Result should be a carefully chosen group of students who all are extremely interested in the subjects on the agenda.

We were impressed with the handbook and brochure which SCTA (Student California Teachers Association) is using to spread the word. SCTA does a good job of publicizing its program, and lots of campus groups could do worse than use SCTA as an example.

Unique Collage Neither Painting Nor Sculpture

Collage—that fascinating art form sometimes like painting, sometimes like sculpture—comes to Long Beach next Sunday.

"X: Collage," 10th in the Arts of Southern California series, will have its initial showing Sunday through Oct. 29 at the Long Beach Museum of Art, 2300 E. Ocean Blvd.

Thirty-six works of some two dozen artists will be in this exhibit that will later travel across the country under the auspices of the Western Association of Art Museums.

Collage offers a unique sort of art dimension. Miscellaneous materials, often wonderfully incongruous, put collage into an undefined category that is somewhere between painting and sculpture.

Spanning many modern art movements, it is considered equal to other longer established media. Its form has changed through the years, though, to a point where it has little visual likeness to the original. But artists have always shared the same enthusiasm in synthesizing sundry materials into wider, more original and dynamic fields of expression.

Originally, collage was the application of paper to a painting and was called "papier colle," or "pasted paper." It was first seen in Picasso's "Still Life with Chair Caning" and quickly was made a part of the cubist compositions. Many modern masters, such as Braque, Jean Arp, Max Ernst, Juan Gris, Matisse and Miro, adapted the medium to their own styles.

By 1920, such things as rusty hinges, plants, posters and playing cards were added to collage media. A new visual format had come to old objects, and there was no limit in the use of discards to create designs.

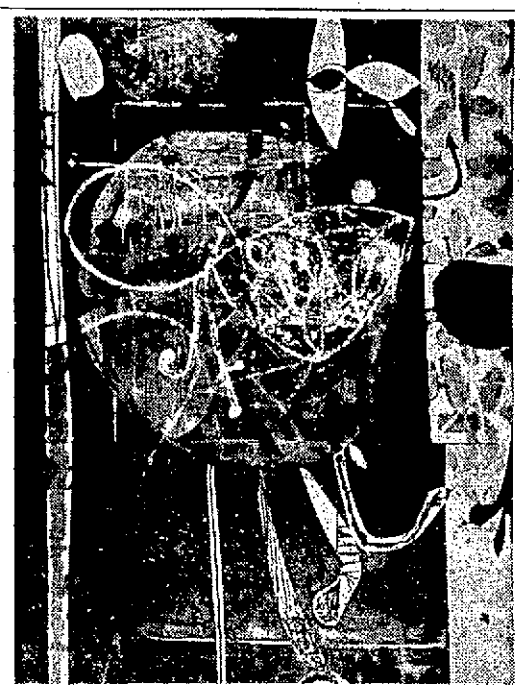

The natural character of the discards was the artist's main concern then. Today, the collage artist may completely obscure the material which he is using. Instead of salvage from the waste basket, he may use materials of such sophistication as hand-made Japanese papers. Generally, too, the pasted shapes fuse into a single image.

Gathered by the Long Beach Museum of Art, the display is sponsored by the Los Angeles county board of supervisors and formed with the assistance of these directors: Warren Beach, Fine Arts Gallery, San Diego; Don Brewer, Art Center, La Jolla; James Foster, Santa Barbara Museum of Art; Dr. Thomas Leavitt, Pasadena Art Museum; and Kenneth Ross, department of municipal art, Los Angeles.

Exhibitors include Jim O. Green and June Lavelle Smith, both of Long Beach; Ro Zabala, Lakewood; Betsy Zill, Seal Beach; Connor Everts, Torrance; Shirley Rousseau-Murphy, Rialto; and John Baldessari, National City.

Also, Clinton Adams, Robert Clutton, James Jarvaise, Agnes Kellogg, Charles LeMaire, Stephen von Huene, Jack Stuck and Elsa Warner, all of Los Angeles; Lucile Brokaw, Pacific Palisades; Gwenda Davies, Altadena; Robert Geiger, South Gate.

And, John Bernhardt, Santa Barbara; Sheldon Kirby, Encinitas; William Lumpkins, La Jolla; Richard A. Morris and Bruce and Mary Van Nostrand, San Diego.

"HONEY FLY," by James Jarvaise, is a colorful design of newspapers and oils on masonite. Like many of collages in the "X: Collage" show at Long Beach Museum of Art, it utilizes only a few elements and is essentially two dimensional. This is in contrast to early works of the 1920's which made such incongruous things as rusty hinges part of compositions.

"OREGON NO. 1," by Shirley Rousseau-Murphy, illustrates exciting possibilities of collage. Her composition, under close scrutiny, is found to include bits of wire, cement, gravel, cloth, burlap and an assortment of refuse mixed with the oil paints. Result is a handsome texturous effect.

GRACIE FIELDS TELLS OF RISE 'OOP IN WORLD

By RACHEL MORTON
I. P-T Music Critic

Like a veritable "Cinderella" reads the story of Gracie Fields as told in her autobiography, "Sing As We Go." And no fairy godmother ever produced more wonders than did Gracie's hard-working, ambitious mother. But unlike the story book Cinderella, Gracie really loved the humble things of life best. In the end, her Prince Charming came along and today she is a radiantly happy woman in her 60's living on the island of Capri.

Gracie Fields was born in Rochdale, Lancashire, England, in 1898 in a small mill town where her father worked as a mill hand. "With only 27 bob (shillings) a week coming in and with three kids to keep, anyone with less determination than my mother (Jenny) would have seen herself, and us, doomed to the factories and the back streets, but not Jenny," writes Gracie. "We're not stopping like this," she would say, "We're going 'oop in the world. 'Oop! Not Down!' I heard my Mumma say that all my life, right from the beginning," Gracie writes.

Mrs. Stansfield, Gracie's mother, always wanted to be a singing actress and when poverty and family prevented, she concentrated on Gracie. She did washing for the theatrical people so that she could get inside the theater. She and Gracie would watch the shows from the wings, after which Gracie could sing all the songs and mimic all the actors. It was the beginning of her love of the theater.

GRACIE helped her mother carry home the "left-overs" from the kitchens of the big houses where she went to work. She helped with a brush and duster when her mother scrubbed the stage of the Hippodrome and she cleaned outside lavatories for a halfpenny. But she always sang as she worked and one day a woman came rushing out of the house to ask, "Was that you singing, dear? You have a wonderful voice." That proved to be her first opportunity. The lady got an audition for Gracie at the Hippodrome where she won the prize—ten-and-sixpence! From then on, Gracie was in the theater on and off in vaudeville acts, although only 10 years old, with stretches of working at the mill in between and afternoons at school.

Hard work has been Gracie's life. At the height of her career she was not only doing nightly performances at the theater, but night club acts after the theater and making movies and recordings during the day. She amassed a fortune and received signal honors that seldom come to one human being. King George VI made her a Commander of the British Empire and a member of the Order of St. John of Jerusalem and she has had an orphanage and a ship named after her. When she was desperately ill in London the Prime Minister sent her roses.

SHE MARRIED three times. Archie Pitt, the impresario, dominated her and they were finally divorced. She had a happy marital companionship with Monty Banks. But third husband, Boris Alperovici, half Russian and half Italian, whom she married in her mid-fifties, has been the awakening Prince Charming of her life and her fondest dreams have all come true.

Her life was summed up on the last page—"Often we were down to our last ha' penny, but it never made any difference to Mumma. So long as you didn't get soft and give in, you could always have a laugh the next minute, and a bit of a song. And you could always say your prayers and hope for something better."

A NEW ART class is being offered under the aegis of the Artist's League of Seal Beach.

Marjorie Vanderlip, instructor at Long Beach City College, will teach a teenager beginning drawing and painting class Wednesday evenings, from 7 to 10, at the Recreation Center in Seal Beach.

Mrs. Vanderlip, a former teacher at Chouinard Art Institute and at the University of Hawaii, will also give instruction in beginning drawing and in costume and fashion design to adults interested in attending the Wednesday sessions.

* * * *

GREAT THINGS may be heard one day about a local young artist, Richard White. A recent graduate of Polytechnic, Richard has won a year's scholarship to Chouinard Art Institute and is recipient of Caerulea Art Award. He's also been a winner in the Bank of America zone competitions, given two one-man shows at Poly and had his works exhibited in New York City and abroad by the International Red Cross.

Samples of his talent are now on display in the lobby of the Magnolia Theatre.

* * * *

NEW EXHIBITION space at the Los Angeles County Museum has made it possible to display a large number of new gifts and loans, as well as many works which have been in storage.

The eight 20th Century Galleries of the museum have been reinstalled and exhibition space has been extended into a portion of the outdoor sculpture court, according to James Elliott, assistant chief curator of art and curator of modern art. One of the major galleries has also been completely refurbished.

Loans include paintings by Yves Klein, Larry Rivers, Antonio Saura, Hassel Smith and Clyfford Still. New sculptural works include pieces by Robert Cremean, Herbert Garbe, Aristide Maillol, Mirko and Peter Voulkos.

TWO MORE art classes are starting next week, both under the direction of Virginia Garner of the Boutique Club. She will inaugurate a class Tuesday, 7:30 to 10 p.m. at the YWCA, with sessions to meet every Tuesday evening for eight weeks. Interested parties may register at the YW. Another class will meet, starting Friday, from 1 to 2 p.m. at the Sunset Club.

EXHIBITION of the Long Beach Museum of Art permanent collection and paintings by Noriko Yamamoto will close after today. Museum galleries will be temporarily closed next week for installation of October exhibits.

High-Caliber Exhibit at La Poule Rouge

By VIRGINIA H. LADDEY

An arresting group show is offered at La Poule Rouge Gallery in Seal Beach: Linn Carr, woodcuts; Harriet Wolpin, ceramics; Marvin Saltzman, paintings, prints and graphics, and Marcus White, sculpture. In line with La Poule's standards, the works are of high caliber.

Linn Carr's woodcuts, both hung and in an available portfolio, are very fine. Here is a sincere affirmation of that old cliche, "honest with the materials," employed with tremendous skill and pictorial intricacy. Mrs. Carr is not only a fine craftsman, she creates with intellect as well as great sensitivity.

Harriet Wolpin, whose arresting ceramic sculpture "Equation" is a prize-winner at the current Los Angeles County Museum show, is represented here by several lovely pots of interesting form and unusual colors. A particularly striking one has a candlestick-like lid, incised and applied floral design, and is glazed in soft pink, lavender, green and blue. There is also an abstract Wolpin in the show with interesting views from every side in open and closed form.

Marvin Saltzman, familiar to Long Beach gallery-goers, has added some interesting ink drawings which show a strong command of medium and technique. His work in graphics and the several colorful oils illustrate this artist's versatility.

Shard-like iron forms welded together by Marcus White give witty and intriguing suggestions though they are abstract. These are around 3 inches high. "Vessel of Transformation" is in almost known shapes. "The Sentinel" gives a strong sense of being armed.

La Poule Rouge is to be commended on the consistency and quality of the shows they bring to the local public.

Film-Lectures to Start Soon

Tuition tickets for the Long Beach City College General Adult Division's 1961-62 International Film Series go on sale Monday at eight locations.

First of the new film-lecture season will be Nicol Smith's "New Zealand," to be presented the week of Oct. 2-6 at local high school auditoriums. Six additional programs will cover the Caribbean, India, the Alpine countries, Italy, England and Sweden.

Season tickets will be available during the day at the main General Adult Division office, 4901 E. Carson St.; West Adult Center, 1794 Cedar Ave.; and the Business and Technology Division bookstore, 1305 E. Pacific Coast Hwy.

Hours will be 1-10 p. m. Monday through Thursday at Polytechnic Adult Center and 6-10 p.m. at Lakewood, Millikan, Wilson and Jordan adult division offices.

'Pleasure of His Company' in Premiere Friday Night

"The Pleasure of His Company," a comedy by Samuel Taylor, will have its formal first night performance Friday at Long Beach Community Playhouse, 5021 E. Anahcim St.

There will be an informal opening Saturday, followed by seven weeks of performances Thursdays, Fridays and Saturdays.

Florence Cole and Marvin Cloyd will take the leading roles. They appeared together last year in "Susan and God."

The play, which opened in New York in 1958 and starred Cornelia Otis Skinner and Cyril Ritchard, was released to little theater production this fall. A drawing room comedy of manners, it has been praised for its surface shimmer and underlying sound philosophy.

Others in the cast are Joan Mathews, Dan Baurac, Anthony Savowitz, Keith Houdyshell and Jerome Weyland.

Larry Johns is director.

Movie Showings of 'Il Travatore'

Verdi's grand opera "Il Trovatore" comes to Long Beach via film. This favorite classic will be shown Tuesday through Thursday at the Bay Theatre in Seal Beach.

The movie stars Italian singers Enzo Mascherini and Gianna Pederzini. Overtures preceding the 8 p.m. curtain will be Schubert's "Unfinished Symphony" and Strauss' "Blue Danube."

Opera Funds

A goal of $75,000 has been set for the fund-raising campaign now underway for the 1962 spring season of the Los Angeles Opera Company. Promoted by the Los Angeles Opera Associates, the drive will continue through October.

Park Program

Gabriel Bartold will conduct at a free band concert this afternoon from 2 to 4 at Point Fermin, San Pedro. The program is co-sponsored by the Los Angeles Bureau of Music and Musician's Union Local 47.

Classics on Film Series Schedule

Long Beach Museum of Art 1961-62 Film Series gets underway Oct. 13 with the showing of two French films, "Carnival in Flanders" and "The Red Balloon." The twin billing will be filmed at 3 p.m. and again at 8. There is no admission charge.

Past Film Series themes have been determined by the schedule of exhibitions at the Museum of Art. This year, in a change from previous policies, classics have been selected from all over the world and from countries seldom thought of as movie centers.

Ten countries will be represented in the new series, according to Jason Wong, promotion assistant at the museum, and Nina Boyle of the Long Beach Public Library Film Service. The series will run through May.

"Carnival in France," directed by Jacques Feyder, deals with the Spanish invasion of Flanders, charmingly heroic wives and terrified burgher husbands.

Louis Owens in Program

Louis Owens, dramatic baritone, will appear in a benefit program of popular ballads and spirituals next Sunday at 3 p.m. in the Starlight Room of the Lafayette.

Owens, whose voice has attracted the attention of Hollywood notables, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Owens, 1036 Lime Ave. A graduate of Polytechnic High School, where he was a well-known athlete, he has studied at Long Beach State College and the University of Arizona.

Tickets may be purchased at Clef's Music Co., 324 Pine Ave., and at the door on the day of the program.

On Stage--

COMMUNITY PLAYHOUSE, 5021 E. Anaheim St., "The Pleasure of His Company," 8:30 p.m. Friday and Saturday.
MAGNOLIA THEATRE, 2400 Magnolia Ave., "Send Me No Flowers," 8:30 p.m. Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

Grammarian, Junior Grade

DEAR ABBY: I am 14 and have a problem. My mother and I disagree about correcting people when they make a mistake in pronouncing words, or use them in the wrong place. My mother says it is wrong to correct your mother or father or any elderly person in private or in front of others.

I said I didn't think there was anything wrong with correcting people in a polite way in private or in front of people. I don't think anybody is ever too old to learn. Who is right?—"PERFECTIONIST."

DEAR PERFECTIONIST: Your mother is wrong, honey, but she is still your mother. The pride of older people suffers when they are corrected by children, even if the correction is offered politely and in private (as it should be). So drop the practice and remember—you may have a "perfectionist" of your own some day.

* * * *

DEAR ABBY: A rather irate woman wrote to tell you that a child today can name all the players on the Yankee and Giant teams, but ask him who God is and he doesn't know.

If this remarkably well-informed lady will tell me or anyone else just who God is, she will have answered a question that has remained unanswered for thousands of years. Sincerely—LYNNE.

* * * *

DEAR ABBY: Recently my brother passed away. He left a wife and two step-children (when he married this woman she was a widow with two children). She had been married to my brother less than two years, but this is what she did. She had him buried in a plot next to her first husband! When my parents found out where he was being buried they almost went into shock. As though this wasn't bad enough, this plot is a family plot for HER family. We wanted our brother buried with HIS family. Did she have a right to do this? Can we take legal action against her?

—UP IN ARMS.

DEAR UP: Calm down. There is nothing you can do.

Safety Is Best Policy

North's one diamond response is in accordance with the best modern principles.

Unless South can produce four spades North has no desire to play any spade contract.

Playing at four spades South ruffs the second heart and lays down the ace of spades. Both opponents follow whereupon many South players will simply lead another high spade. If both opponents follow they will make five odd, whether or not the queen drops. When West shows out they will wind up going down three tricks and blame the loss on bad luck.

* * * *

ACTUALLY, it will be bad play. South should enter dummy with a club, lead a spade and finesse the jack. If the finesse loses South will still make four odd. He will refuse to trump the third heart lead and will trump the fourth heart lead in dummy. After that he will be able to pick up the ten of trumps and make all his clubs.

After the finesse wins, South is not hurt by the bad trump break. He simply leads out clubs. East trumps the third lead and will play another heart. South must discard a diamond on this third heart and ruff a fourth heart lead in dummy. Again he will be able to pull the last trump and run his clubs.

GUEST CHEF OF THE WEEK

Women- ALL Experts

By TOM R. GILLIAM
Director Public Relations, Memorial Hospital

Tom R. Gilliam

Women are wonderful. But then I'm prejudiced, I guess.

I've always liked girls. Tall girls, thin girls, chubby, short, blondes, brunettes, red heads and non-descripts.

Seems that with all their good qualities though, women can be obnoxious on this food business. Every woman is an expert.

Here at Memorial Hospital for instance, patients can't complain about the way we take an X-ray, because a great majority of them have never taken an X-ray.

But when it comes to food —Oh, Boy!!

Like I said, these women are experts. They've been eating food all their life—and cooking it, too. They know good food. Whenever we get the least bit away from what they know is top culinary practice, do our dieticians ever hear about it! Wow!

The other day I asked Pat Hill, our head dietician and Erwin Oplatka, our food service manager, what food was moving the best.

Guess? You probably have—good old ground beef on a hot bun served with sweet relish, catsup and crisp chips—in other words —hamburger.

Of course, that's one of the selections at lunch. In the evening grilled chopped steak on a hot bun served with mushrooms and gravy is the best item—which is another way of saying—hamburger steak.

* * * *

AND THIS brings us to our second point.

These women, bless every heart in their little old bodies, are super saleswomen at home.

They have to be. Junior is a hamburger and hot dog aficionada from way back. So's Dad.

What happens when Mom comes up with something besides the same old fare?

She has to be a saleswoman. She has to doll it up and call it by a name that will intrigue Dad and Junior so that they'll want to try it.

Same problem at hospitals.

We just came out with a new menu that gives the patient up to seven entree selections. Now, the dietary department was planning on one of these on a certain day to be tuna fish casserole. So if you're sick and the thought of food doesn't do much for you this doesn't particularly send you.

Solution—dress up the wording. On the menu it comes out "Tidbits of Tuna with old-fashioned Noodles en Casserole." Amazing how the selection of tuna fish casserole has picked up.

Of course, the best liked salad continues to be tossed green salad with fresh fruit cup a popular dessert.

* * * *

WHILE some things move well at the hospital, others are slow. Yet some people like them and we want a patient to have a choice. Slowest mover at the moment seems to be Veal Scallopini—perhaps because many people are not sure what it is.

One thing I would like to point out. If you are a patient it just might be that your doctor has you on a special diet. This is pretty restrictive and can get pretty monotonous. We do our best to make it tasty and interesting but you can get awfully tired of a straight liquid diet or whatever else it may be.

To paraphrase a well-known saying, "You can please all the people some of the time and some of the people all of the time, but you can't please all the people all of the time."

It's an old Long Beach custom to end this column with a recipe, so I picked up one from the dietary department at Memorial. Only one precaution—its for 400 servings, so if you are making it for four people be sure and divide it by 100.

Recipe to serve 400:

BEEF STROGANOFF

100 lbs. tenderloin tails, cut into ½"x3" strips
28 lbs. minced onion
12 cloves minced garlic
2 lbs. bacon fat
4 No. 10 cans tomato puree
Enough flavorful beef stock to cover
5 oz. prepared mustard, pepper, salt
4 No. 10 cans mushrooms
2½ gallons sour cream
1 quart sherry
Chopped parsley

Brown cubed meat in ½ pound bacon fat in heavy bottomed skillet. Saute minced onion separately in 1½ pounds bacon fat adding minced garlic and cooking until onions are golden. Add puree, beef stock, salt and pepper, and mustard and cook for five minutes. Add browned beef and slowly cook until tender. Mix in canned mushrooms and adjust seasoning. Draw off two gallons of liquid and mix in sour cream until smooth. Return to mixture and heat well but do not boil. Adjust color with kitchen bouquet and four ounces of MSG and sherry. Serve over rice sprinkled with chopped parsley.

Claretian Party

Claretian Guild will sponsor a dessert luncheon and card party, offering tables of canasta, 500, bridge and pinochle, Wednesday noon in Machinists Hall. Mrs. Harold Poole is chairman. The public is welcome.

Alumnae Meeting

Alpha Chi Omega Alumnae will meet Tuesday evening in the home of Mrs. Gordon Aumack, 3853 Cedar Ave. Mmes. Kermit Parker, Wayne Linscott, and Martha Ford will assist the hostess.

Jacobs, prior to living in Argentina for six years, was active in the North Long Beach Democratic Club and a member of the Coordinating Council of the 18th Congressional District.

* * * *

THE PUBLIC is invited to the morning session and luncheon. Reservations may be made with Mrs. Verne Glood, 2104 E. 65th St., North Long Beach.

Gaveleers to Seat Mrs. Nelson Torpey

Mrs. Nelson Torpey will be installed president of Gaveleers Tuesday noon in the Elks Club, 4101 E. Willow St.

Others to take office will be Mmes. P. C. Vilander and Vinton Pease. Mrs. Ruel Hird will be installing officer.

* * * *

GAVELEERS, past presidents of North Long Beach Women's Club, will assist the Women's Club in preparing and serving its annual tea at Veterans Administration Hospital May 6.

Plans for the coming year will be made at the luncheon according to Mrs. Claton F. Watson, retiring president.

FLUID OR FITTED; FURRED OR FRINGED

The Big Fashion Flare-ups for Fall

By MARY ELLIS
I. P-T Fashion Editor

Fashions for fall are nervy and noticeable, vervy and vivacious — designed artfully to change your mind AND your wardrobe.

They're fluid or fitted, feathered or furred, fringed or flounced — always feminine.

With more flair than many a season, the look for fall 1961 has dashing appeal. And there are as many silhouettes as their are personalities to wear them.

* * * *

WHEN BUYING your new fall wardrobe, here are the looks to look for:

The exciting coat — sometimes fitted, sometimes cape shape—over the bland dress. With it: the side-tilt hat, perhaps of fur OR the new sleek-look snakeskin that fashion's so bitten with now.

The little fur necklace or the fur hat to be worn with coat, suit or dress.

Other fur flurries: the little fur jacket that's most of a suit look. Fur hems. Flat furs added to suits.

Inner strength in linings. Once the cheapest fabric in a coat or suit, linings this year strengthen the coat (but weaken the budget) with mink, cat, chinchilla or ermine.

* * * *

THE NOTHING DRESS, a garment that has become high fashion by reduction to its lowest common denominator with subtraction of sleeves, collars and shortened hemline. It will continue barely and shiveringly through the winter months.

Also, nothing colors that swing the fashion pendulum from summer's fad of florid prints and vivid hues to new earth tones. These are murky, mossy, bronze-y and black, or nearly so.

Straight stoles, often fringed; sometimes appearing with their own dresses, suits or coats.

The flip-back jacket, a style newcomer, short in front with a gentle flyaway movement or back flare.

* * * *

FABRIC SURFACES that are ridged, puffed, blistered, double-woven, sculptured and printed. Crepes, this year staging a comeback. Plaids, bold and beautiful, for evening clothes as well as sportswear.

A SWOOP OF RED and green plaided wool, fringed and beaded, gives as-of-now look to evening shaft reminiscent of movie siren days. A slither of black wool, dress has 1961 bloused bodice. By California designer William Pearson; at Chrysteen's, 4518 Atlantic Ave.

'SHIMMER AND SHAPE'

Fashion Shines at Night

"Shimmer and shape" is the most fitting way to describe new evening clothes for fall and winter.

Fabrics shimmer from their own satin and metallic finishes, or with three-dimensional glitter of overall beading, sequins or jeweled embroidery.

The shape for evening is as clingy at the siren dresses of the 30s, when Jean Harlow, Marlene Dietrich and Carole Lombard were in their movie heyday.

* * * *

SOME OF the formals are such narrow columns that to take a long step is dangerous! But some designers thoughtfully have put slits at the sides or center front.

feathers.

Many formal fabrics have gold and silver threading mingled, and some of the paillette and stone decorations are so dazzling and intricate they look like a jeweler had set them. Many are so sparkling they rival the blinking neons of Broadway.

Also, there are many bias-cut fabrics, especially crepes, in evening dresses reminiscent of the 30s. Other fabrics: chiffon, matte jersey, crepe, brocade and more metallics.

* * * *

FRINGE, FUR and feathers also add to night life spendor. One designer uses beaded fringe to make a tiered, shimmering, silvery sheath.

Another gives a ninth life to that tired old leopard pattern of past seasons—this time sequined and rhinestone-studded, fashioned into a slinky, feline dress.

What's the trend that's ahead in hats? Mostly it's the chapeau that becomes YOU. Just so it tilts.

- There are glamorous, bulky hats in beavers, velours and deep-pile or softly-shaggy surfaces.
- Small-brimmed hats that flare back from the hairline.
- Pert profiles and berets that hang on one ear.
- High-crowned hats that are draped and manipulated in many ways.
- Genuine or make-believe furs in big and little silhouettes.
- Evening hats in jewels, feathers, rings of fur or with the glitter of jewels and rich furs.

* * * *

BUT MOST OF ALL, your profile counts when you go shopping for a new fall hat. Because this IS the year for the tilt.

Most of the hats you see will have the tilt built in. Cloche, turban, toque or roller, they'll all make the most of a pretty face. No hat ever invented is as flattering as the profile hat.

High soft crowns that have been draped, tucked or arched are typical of autumn. Some have a true global roundness. But all take on character through manipulation.

Fur fakeries spell out a lot of luxury this year. Felts with a fluffy angora surface cannot, at a short distance, be distinguished from its jungle cousin. Even mink and sable have taken on some unusual hues.

BIRDS OF A feather also flock together on new fall chapeaux. Fluffy ostrich is clipped to look like fur. Or it's curled. Coz feathers blend with velvet.

Velvety, blacks and rich browns are, of course, sound fashion. But you may also pick from brick, carnelian, gold, coral, grey, green and orangey shades. Magenta, too, is high fashion.

Altogether, the mood is of the 30s. But the tilt is pure 1961.

Fashions pictured in this section, except for a few trend shots, all are from local stores.

What IS Fall Fashion Flair?

- ☆ This fall, flair is flare—especially in short flared skirts; sometimes rippled, sometimes flounced, sometimes funneled.
- ☆ Flair is a spanse of coat that whirls and ripples . . . OR it's a shell of a cover that glides past the body to a widened hem.
- ☆ Flair is the almost-fitted suit, often melted to a fit in front, flared out and away in back . . . or it's a costume with all-in-one styling.
- ☆ Flair is lizard in unexpected places . . . or it's fringe at waistlines, hemlines or necklines; also, glitter for evening from head to toe.
- ☆ Flair is the new day-drop earring . . . the domed pin, flashily fake . . . or it's a necklace of fur riding on suit, coat or dress.
- ☆ Flair is the three-dimensional eye, shadowed above the lid . . . lips that come alive with brighter, clearer coloring . . . also coifs that sweep to the side—and hats that tilt.

For Fall: Like Father, Like Son

It's a well-known fact that little boys like to look like their dads, and fall styles take note of this.

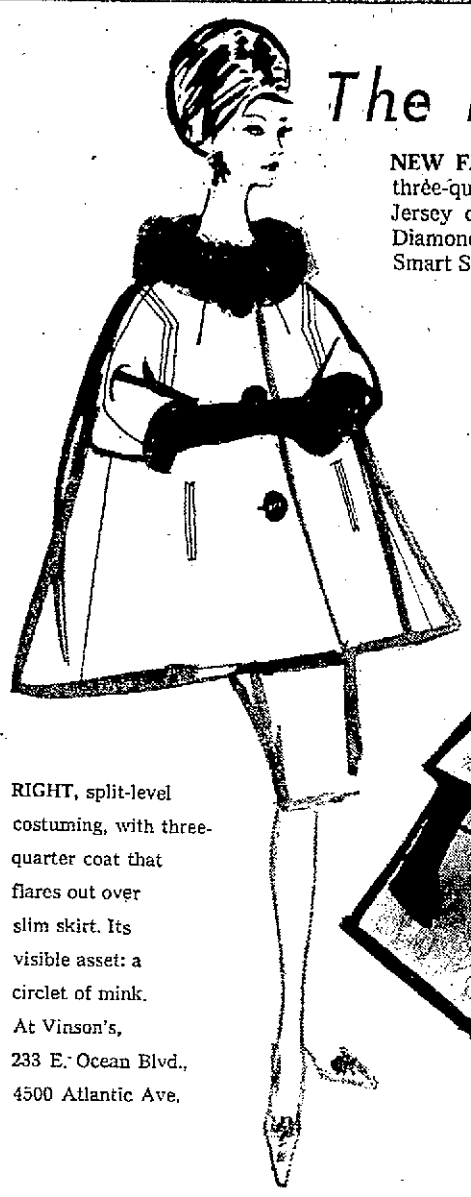

For example, boys like to wear "long pants," and nowadays they also accept sports shirts in "walk" lengths, because dad goes for them, too.

Also, they approve knitted shirts, fashion-collar shirts and boat neck types along with button-down collar models.

The Flare-Away Coat

NEW FASHION FLAIR, below, in a costume with three-quarter coat; foam-lined for lightness, warmth. Jersey dress has new side-wrap detailing. By Lilly Diamond; in black, brandy, emerald green. At Gene's Smart Shop, 450 Pine Ave.

RIGHT, split-level costuming, with three-quarter coat that flares out over slim skirt. Its visible asset: a circlet of mink. At Vinson's, 233 E. Ocean Blvd., 4500 Atlantic Ave.

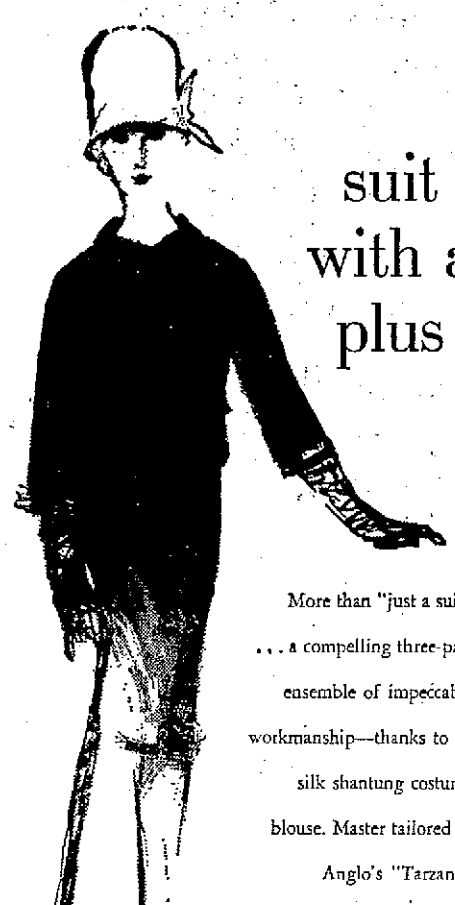

Three-Cornered Shadows

The newest angle on eye makeup is the triangle.

Shadowed in with flaring outward tilt, it draws out the eyes for a wide-set look.

A soft cone of shadow, center eyelid, opens the eyes.

Or, an inward tilt to the new isosceles triangle—based on the lash-line—gives more intense coloring. But the latter is not for women with close-together eyes.

'Foam' Has Solid Fashion Outlook

Laminated clothes are the latest addition to the world of women's fashions.

And this is just the beginning of what one observer believes is a new era in apparel making.

The "observer" is John Paul Goebel, designer and consultant to 15 textile mills serving all the major clothing manufacturers and pioneer of laminated clothing.

* * * *

ALREADY laminated clothes — which started in men's and boys' outerwear —are a $100 million a year business, he said. The potential is staggering.

"I can see the day," said Goebel, "when mills will press buttons and stamp out synthetic fabrics the way a press turns out a newspaper. These won't be knitted or woven. We eventually will laminate paper for high-style clothes, not for throw-aways."

* * * *

GOEBEL said laminates have two major advantages: tremendous windbreak qualities and, as a result, warmth with less weight.

His firm recommends a plastic backing no thicker than three thirty-seconds of an inch. The "foam," as the industry calls it, weighs no more than three ounces to the linear yard.

A woman's laminated wool coat with satin lining would weigh from 18 to 20 ounces a linear yard. Before lamination, the weight ran 20 to 25 ounces.

* * * *

FIRST, woven fabrics were laminated. Then, the knits. Now, said Goebel, lamination is possible with almost any fabric. One of his textile firm clients developed a laminated print silk for a New York designer who wanted to make the fabric into overblouses for winter lounge wear.

It is used against mohairs, piles, velours and some designers are pioneering its use in shantungs and velvets for theater coats.

Eventually, the laminates will move into the whole high fashion field," Goebel predicted.

Two (or Three) for the Money

There are fashion bonuses in suit ensembles or ensembles that look like suits!

Take, for instance, classic two-piece suits which often take bona fide coat tops. Handsome coordinated overblouses make welcome third parties.

Also, a slim but well-shaped dress looks like a dressmaker, or even a tailleur suit, when topped with a neat jacket top. Many such tops take fur collars, fur cuffs or both.

NO FUR-ORE, PLEASE

Petite? Then Select Neat, Chic Coat

If you are medium height or petite (and this takes in a majority of American women), shop for your winter coat with great care.

Great gobs of fox or other long, fluffy furs are not for you. They're perfect for the long-stemmed beauties. But they're overpowering on smaller women.

* * * *

SHOP FOR A winter coat in which the fur has been handled with discretion. And since this will be a big winter for fur-trimmed coats, you should have no trouble in finding what you want.

If the collar is flat, wideway, or the fur is set-in, the coat will not appear top-heavy. The ring or circle treatment of fur is perfect for you. Even sable, which can be counted with the fluffy furs, is not too much when it's handled in this fashion.

* * * *

FOR THE REST, look for nearly straight or slightly flared body lines. They'll aid in making you look taller. Rectangular pockets set horizontally also carry out this illusion.

A fabric that is not overly bulky is the right one for you. There are many lightweight fleeces with just enough texture to provide surface interest. Look for these and don't be tempted by those gorgeous, heavy fabrics that look as if they were made of a combination of coal lumps and twigs. They're not for you.

Leather--Whether Casual or Dress

Leather swaggers into town this fall in high fashion costumes and casual separates.

Brilliantly-hued leather coats, jackets, dresses and skirts which follow fall's fluid fashion lines are designed to flash on city streets and suburban lanes.

* * * *

FOR TOWN wear there are full-cut, flowing cape coats and redingote costumes in cabrettas, suedes and ranch hides. The lightweight "body" of fall leathers makes them adaptable to coats cut with funnel or bell sleeves.

For evening; leather coats take on a luxurious look in cabretta, clitskin and other smooth leathers. Frequently trimmed with fur and detailed in jeweled patterns, leather coats for after-five wear often sport tuxedo fronts.

* * * *

KNIT - AND - LEATHER suits make a-day in town a fashion occasion. Cut simply for the woman who likes tailored fashion, they are highlighted with color at collar, cuffs and waistband.

Among leather "add-ons" are bandstand skirts, divided skirts, shorts and shirts in nappy suedes and lightly etched grain leathers.

The car coat comes in a whole range of bright leather colors and new styles. Dressmaker detailing—yokes, pockets and cuff designs — add style to utility.

A full range of blued reds and plum into purple are seen in town and casual garments. Combinations of leather and fabrics appear in mauves, lilacs and avocado greens.

HALO NECKLACE, right, with the twinkle of tiny rhinestones doubles as necklace for theater or a tiara for party. By Judith McCann, necklace is feather light.

WRAPPING IT UP for fall: a soft, genuine kidskin leather coat. Wear it free and open, or cinch with self belt. Cleaning? Simple. Just wipe with soap and water. Jo-Kaye, 401 Long Beach Blvd., has it in white, beige and variety of fall colors.

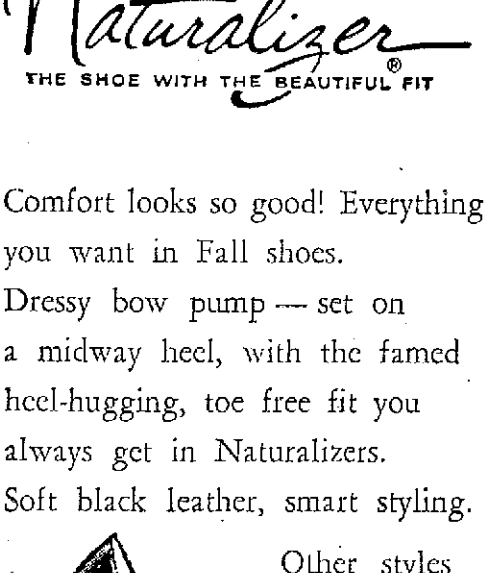

High Style Is Hemmed-In

Detail, rather than length, makes hemline news this season.

Dresses and coats have attention-getting accents at the lower level — godets, pleats that ripple from the knee and the new sudden hemline flares.

For after-five wear, starkly simple frocks have hem interest too.

Examples: fur bands that provide off-beat adornment for chiffon, glittery materials that accent sheer wools and fringes that glamorize silk crepe dresses.

THREE WOOL KNIT pieces that add up to an ensemble suit-able for town or traveling. Merino pin-dot knit suit has solid color overblouse that matches lining, collar and edging of three-button jacket. By Aled Originals; in gold or merengo with cocoa. At Town & Country Fashions, 4129 Long Beach Blvd.

The 'Suitable' Way: 1961

To suit your wardrobe this fall, look for:

- The body-conscious suit, with shaped front and eased back.
- The Chanel suit with jacket cut closer to the body.
- The 22-inch jacket suit, gently fitted.
- The costume suit with matching or contrasting dress and coat.
- The cutaway jacket suit with straight or flared skirt.

Suits Do a Double-Take

Fall costumes will be doing double duty, day and night.

Looking for all the world like two-piece dresses, many feature tunic-length jackets that double as overblouses. They cover sleeveless dresses that go solo after five.

Longer jackets are often tied with a soft tie sash, but are cut so the belt is optional.

Still another fashion double-take: the belted jackets are often collarless — making them ideal for accessorizing with either gay scarves, bold jewelry or fur accents.

Fancy Leg Work

Hosiery for fall has a new look of color.

There's an emphasis on pale pastels—such as misty golds, greys and apricots, as well as a line-up of deeply-shaped tones of orange-reds, magenta tones and brown to complement fall's exciting palette.

Mainbocher: 'Smarty Smart' Look Outdated

Few of us women can afford a Mainbocher label in our wardrobe. But the designer's advice on how to be chic is free for all.

Says the Chicago - born Mainbocher: "Simplicity and lack of clutter are still my lode star and my compass."

To Mainbocher, clothes should not make a woman look "desperate for attention." They should not make her look "smarty smart — that senseless false chic which today more than ever is not only old-fashioned, but indeed out of fashion altogether."

* * * *

The same heel height showed on black satin evening pumps, too.

One Mainbocher innovation which every woman may want to adopt is the satchel-size evening bag. Same fabric as the costumes, they ranged from black broadtail to embroidered satins.

By 'Word of Mouth'--the New Look for Fall Makeup

Beauty experts are doing an about face with makeup changes to keep pace with new clothes colors.

Waning is the wide hair-do, gone is the off-beat, no color look for lips; in are fresh, new hairstyles and bright new lipsticks.

Here are some of the new looks to look for:

* * * *

EYES HAVE IT for fall with paler shadows of misty blue, smoked violet, jewel green, applied in wedge shapes.

Here's how. Start at inner corner of lid, running up from eye to brow, then slanting down to outer corner. Experts say the new shadow shape gives illusion of natural depth to eyes, a new slenderness to the bridge of the nose.

* * * *

THE WORD OF MOUTH is that off-beat, no color lips have gone out of style. In their place: vibrant new lipstick tones—poppy pinks, vermillions, clovery mauves that respond beautifully to grey-lavender eye shadows.

For that happy new look: a lift at the corners, painted on by brush, naturally, in a shape planned on a smile.

* * * *

AND ABOUT FACES, there's a new "neutrality pact" that calls for a faint film of color touched on by foundation — beige with some rosiness, cream with a slice of peach.

This to go with the new soft, not-to-be-pinned-down shades in clothes that shy away, becomingly, from over-intensity.

The new touch of mystery in 1961 faces: eyebrows, sometimes obscured by versions of the new down-drafted, one-sided coiffures, this season casual —but smooth and unfussed.

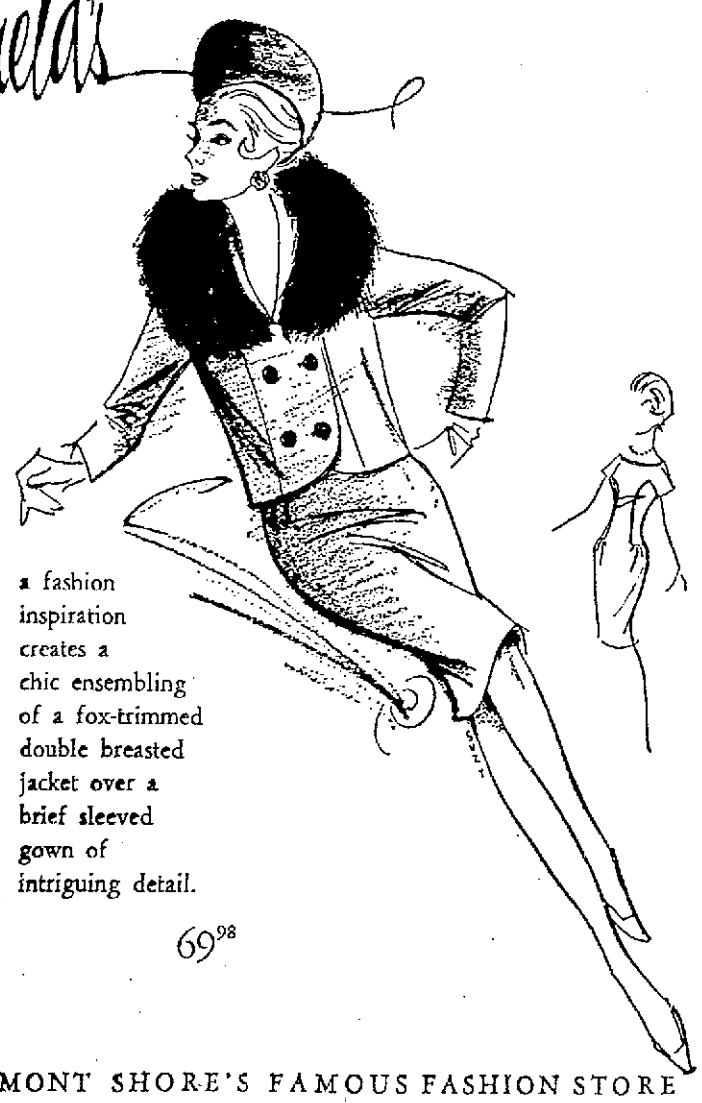

'Kookie' Mood for Sleepwear

"Kookie" look in fall sleepwear spreads from juniors and teens down to little girls' sizes. Stripes are crazy and colorful, plaids are bold; clash multicolors pair with solids.

Stylings include tunic-like tops over lean pants, and flairing tent tops or tent shirts. Pajamas with bermuda or capri pants come with "espresso" coats slit halfway up each side.

Big Year: Big Tops Big Hems

IT'S THE BIG THINGS that count—like a huge collar, right, making fashion news on this two-piece dress. Loose-fitting top skims over trim skirt; deep sleeves cut short at elbows. B. H. Wragge fashions silhouette into hedge green, saddle or palomino pink checkered air boucle. At Buffums' Marina and Downtown stores.

BIG HEMS are making fashion news. Here's one version: the "A" line by Phyllis DeTrans for Georgette. Black wool worsted shapes up as casual dress with narrowed shoulders, widened skirt. Three-quarter sleeves have detachable white cuffs; big buttons march single file down front. At Walker's, Fourth Street and Pine Avenue.

HOW TO BE A KNOCKOUT

Hats Pack Big Fashion Wallop!

Speeding along with the jet age, pretty hats are available in the stores for the special convenience of the woman who travels, wants to look well-groomed at all times and likes to travel light.

Today because so many beautiful, flattering hats are made of crushable materials, they can be easily compressed and packed into one small "carry-on" hatbox without losing their shape or freshness.

A SURVEY of business women and entertainers who are generally in transit from one city to another reveals that they are able to carry from three to five packable hats in a 14-inch hatbox; such as a tailored suit hat; a dressy hat for evening, a pretty, all-purpose cover-up for schedules that don't leave time for the hairdresser.

Sometimes a small beach hat and an extra afternoon hat for daytime drama can be included.

Bosoms Will Be Back in '62, Says Authority

By GAY PAULEY
UPI Women's Editor

NEW YORK (UPI) — The fashion pendulum is winging back to the fitted look. By 1962, bosoms will be back, says a young business woman whose job is forecasting styles at least one year ahead.

"By fall of 1962, there will be a definite fit through the waistline and shoulders," said Nancy Hawes who, at 32, is division sales promotion manager for the world's largest raw cotton-to-finished fabric mills.

"Bosoms in other words will be back," she said. "And we'll see a lot of the empire waistline again.

"After several seasons of the sleeveless look, for both winter and summer, sleeves are coming back. They'll be long and rather tight. Look for them also to reach to the wrist again. We'll also be seeing more collars.

"Hemlines generally will stay the same. Or, if they go anywhere, they'll go down slightly. I don't see how they can get any shorter."

* * * *

MRS. HAWES said that by spring, 1961, colors will have moved from the bold of '61 to softened shades of blue, blue-green, green, pink and red.

Spotting the trend is Mrs. Hawes' job because she coordinates all fabrics used in the fashion advertising of her company (Dan River Mills). The ads are planned a year in advance, so if she isn't a jump ahead of trends she could have her company out on the proverbial limb.

She also keeps track of news in the men's and children's wear fields.

"Men are ahead for a blue year," she said. "Colors for the sportswear in '62 will be away from the madras, or murky tones, and into brighter oranges, yellows, blues and blue-greens.

"As for children's clothes, every season they get a little more like the grownups."

HOW DOES Mrs. Hawes play her guessing game accurately?

"I read the trade papers, talk to leaders in the clothing industry, talk to fabric editors, attend color clinics, work with a designer right in the garment district," she said.

She also operates on the belief that fashions run in seven to 10-year cycles.

"The pendulum swings as far as it can in one direction and then swings back," she said. "The silhouette for women got about as louse as it could; now it is reverting to fit."

* * * *

MRS. HAWES, a graduate of Smith College, Northampton, Mass., began her fashion career in retailing at a New York specialty shop, migrated to the editorial department of one of the fashion magazines, and then to the fabrics field.

In three years with the mill, she has visited every major city in the United States because part of her job is working with retail stores on advertising campaigns featuring her company's fabrics.

I asked whether she ever had been wrong about a fashion — say for instance predicting a long life for the chemise only to have it die suddenly.

"I wasn't with the company when the chemise came in," she said.

"Whew! I got out of that one."

'Little Coats' Make Big Splash

Handsome "little" coats are proving to be great coverups for skirts, slacks or dresses—especially here in sunny California.

Cause for note are unusual fabrics—lush brushed wools, the almost-real fur patterns, also deep, bright pile weaves.

Ending at the waist, or dropping to fingertip length, the casual jackets are smartly styled with stitching detail, unusual collars and trims.

Pin Money for Wealth of Fashion

This is a season when every high-style femme will need plenty of pin money.

It's the era of ornate drops, longer "opera" length necklaces, luxurious new simulated pearls—and pins, pins, pins.

Important gliter pins that are frank fakery add genuine fashion to new fall styles.

* * * *

They're worn at the neckline of a suit, dress or coat; at the waistline to accent the long torso look. They're fastened in the center of the bodice or are grouped together on a lapel.

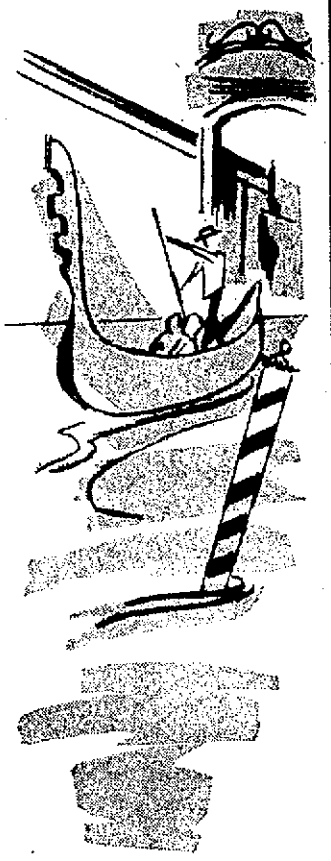

Have your earrings and your necklaces, to be sure. But pin your high fashion hopes on brooches for fall.

ON OR OFF CAMPUS

Flair Needs Schooling

On campus, off campus and in the country, a girl needs a big college wardrobe. Dates and dances, teas and football games all call for special clothes.

Suitcases going back to college this fall will hold the flare in many forms. For dates, it's kept simple, is well cut and often lined.

Other goodies packed carefully in tissue paper will include knickers, the knit dress, stretch pants. Long, bulky tops, of course, and some of those hooded sweaters. Skirts in those bright blanket plaids and some short and flaring skirts.

* * * *

TO WEAR over pants, there are the new rain capes. And slickers, of course. Some are coated in vinyl and some are lined in pile. It depends on the campus and the climate.

Dresses, sweaters, shirts and skirts all take to fringe and ruffles this fall. But not, of course, at the same time.

* * * *

COLORS WINNING top honors on the campus include the orangy shades, russet, emerald green, brassy gold, bright red, some magenta and teal-blue. (They are high fashion shades away from the campus, too, this year.) Gray, beige and plenty of plaids add variety to the scene.

Coeds have always worn clothes in layers to some extent. Usually, the arrangements were artless. This year, the many have the layers designed for each other. An example is the sweater worn with knickers and a plaid skirt that buttons down the front. All are color co-ordinated, of course.

Fashion Goes Fur-ocious

THIS YEAR—NO MISFITS

Fashion Cuts Wide Swath

For many a season America's forgotten women of fashion have been the middle-aged, the wide in girth, the slim of purse.

But not so this year—on the first two counts, anyway. Not much has been done to help the lady with slim purse strings—but it's definitely a year for the lady with a well-padded figure.

New long casual lines are waist-slimming and the new swingy, bias-cut skirts provide plenty of hip room—sit-down room, too.

* * * *

IN FACT, designers of some of Seventh Avenue's sexiest clothes, this season have given well-endowed matrons a break. Take Cuban-born Luis Estevez, for instance.

In his line are included long-bodied dresses suitable for over-weights; soft chiffons and bias-cut crepes for mature figures; also three-tiered color effects for too-tall girls.

And he's taken the husband-less miss into account, too, with zippers moved from the traditional spinal area to the side shoulder.

Now she can zip up in back without slipping a disc.

CRISPY tailored gold and silver metallic shirtwaist dresses are designer Larry Aldrich's idea of the right costume for cocktails. A mature woman could wear one without feeling like the star in a Las Vegas night club act.

Scrawny collar bones—a dead giveaway of a woman's age—have been covered by many of fashion's sex-appeal artists. To make up for the modesty: plunging necklines to the waist in back.

Harry Frechtel is another designer who believes in roomy, slightly flaring skirts for figure flattery. He tops these with little coats and suits featuring tiny notched collars or shoulder-framing stoles.

Black, guaranteed to reduce an ample figure to a mere shadow, is much on the fashion scene this season, too.

All in all, the dresses are romantic. And what woman is too old, too wide or too poor for that?

Look Expectingly Chic

This is the year to be expectingly fashionable.

"Free from the body" shapes, pyramiding coats, blousing, bubbling and flaring silhouettes, big face-framing necklines are the style.

And designers have easily adapted these Paris-born lines into the prettiest maternity fashions imaginable.

* * * *

CORDUROY, proven favorite of the maternity wardrobe, is handled with new respect. High fashion colors, exotic prints, velvety pinwales appear in newsy silhouettes for at-home, street and after-five wear.

Tops swing free, as they always have, but look especially fashionable for fall '61. Select them in felt, corduroy or broadcloth — and interchange with a variety of slim-appearing skirts and tapered pants.

You'll find the current look of sportswear translates well into maternity idiom . . . double knit jerseys in little separates, "kookie tops," even stretch pants.

* * * *

THERE IS news in the "basic" dress. Interpretations of the flared princess silhouette will delight the fashion-conscious mother-to-be.

Coat dresses are versatile wardrobe additions — for street wear now, indoors later.

Elegantly tailored costumes look best with big, face-framing hats; jewelry that draws attention to the top. Stay away from "itsy-bitsy" millinery. Invest in frankly fake pins and earrings . . huge and dazzling.

Remember that, at this time, the eye is better than the yardstick.

See Spots? It's a Furry Season

Among the fashion fancies that have lasted several seasons is the preference for spotted furs. According to many designers, this, too, is the Year of the Cat.

The furs — both McCoy and animal fakery—are used extensively as belt material, for huge collars, cuffs on coats and suits, sometimes even dresses.

Newest of all: edging around hemlines.

For those who like the slightly snobbish understatement, precious fur as lining in coats and jackets is considered in.

Ring Around the Collar

Stand-away necklines are stronger than ever, notably with shallow shawl or narrow revers, also collarless and with standing band collars.

These bring into prominence various stoles and scarves to match the wool of the suit. Small fur trims find favor in much the same manner as on coats.

FRINGE BENEFITS from Lanz: deft touches of self-fringe delineating oval neckline and sleeveless arm beauty of slim silhouette. Artful shaping is in whisper-weight pink or black wool with mohair thread. At Bobby's Sportswear, 136 Pine Ave.

White Is Right Teamed With Fur

There'll be a flurry of white this winter — especially in smart coverups.

White coats, so important last spring, have added a new dividend for fall with smart fur trims—especially large and small collars of leopard.

Other fur accents: deep hued mink, black fluffy fox and other luxurious pelts.

Fur 'Necklace' Adds Dash of Sophistication

curve of fox, mink — or whatever, to add a dash of sophistication to your wardrobe.

Usually worn as a costume accent, this bit of handsome "jewelry" can go to your head as well as your throat. Some varieties can be neatly circled to form a pert hat.

Available now at better department, women's stores and furriers, you can, if you have the makings, have your own necklace created by your furrier from an old stole or coat. Or, you just might be able to fashion your own — although don't practice on a good piece of fur unless you're sure of your prowess with scalpel, needle and thread.

Yacht Shoe Has Grip; Wont Slip

Now a girl can feel as safe at sea as on shore—at least so far as footing is concerned.

There's a new shoe on the market that comes in white canvas with nautical blue trim.

The "safety" feature: Soles are deeply slashed in a waved pattern for safety on wet surfaces.

WHY GROW OLD?
Ever Since Eve, Weight Has Worried Women

By Josephine Lowman

Ever since Eve bit into the apple, wriggled into a fig leaf and discovered that it was a bit tight across the hips, women have been worrying about their weight. They have followed all sorts of diets, crazy ones as well as sensible ones.

It took Adam a long time to catch up with the reducing bug, but now millions of men have joined the calorie counting brigade. Sadly, many of the boys who so long scoffed at the general inability of women to stick to a diet are not doing much better themselves.

* * * *

MANY experts agree that they psychological need for eating pleasure is one of the main reasons for diet breaking. The aesthetic satisfaction derived from food is important, just as nutrition is. Few people can be deprived of its pleasure for long. Practically any determined dieter can stick to a restricted food intake for a little while, whether it be a fad diet or well-balanced but rather dull, restricted menus, but sooner or later the craving for taste treats becomes irresistible. Therefore, the weight so painfully lost is quickly regained and the dieter has the whole thing to do over again — and again — and again.

The permanent maintenance of an attractive, slender figure is not a "sometime" thing. It calls for permanent changes in eating habits. The method, which does lead to permanent control, is to learn the calorie values of foods, eat a well-balanced diet, but make some slight changes in your eating habits. These slight changes can result in substantial calorie saving without impairing your enjoyment of food, and will assure you a steady loss of weight.

USE HERBS and spices to replace the thick cream sauces and gravies; use the broiler instead of the skillet; eat unsugared or fresh fruits instead of rich desserts, eat smaller helpings, drink powdered, fat free milk, and take advantage of free milk instead of whole milk and one of the low-calorie salad dressings.

Stylist Caruso Declares Bill of Rights for Hair

From hair stylist Jack Caruso comes a "Bill of Rights for Hair." Here is his declaration for hair care:

"Every hair on your head has a right to the gentle touch. To pull hair or to roll it tightly is to kill it. Tugging breaks the interior of a hair into a million pieces.

"Every head of hair has a right to a wash when it's dirty. Some hair needs washes two or three times a week. It should be washed when it loses its sheen and begins to separate.

"The ends of every head of hair getting a home permanent have a right to be saturated with oil for one half inch to prevent the live-wire look. That is, to keep the ends from standing up."

Corduroy: From 'Whistle Britches' to High Style

There's a whale of a lot of corduroy being shown in fall fashions — in all types — from pin-wales to wide-wales.

With new around-the-clock go-power it can be found in the most exciting or matter-of-fact places — on vacations, at the office, out to lunch, in smart shops, on mountain trails, at the theater or on the golf course.

In suits, for instance, there are a wealth of wide wale Chanel types. Often designed in soft autumn colors (cashmere, walnut and pecan), they can be dressed up or down, depending on accessories.

* * * *

THAT OLD favorite, the corduroy raincoat, this season has been designed with dress-up dash. Too pretty to save for a rainy day, it's the coat you'll find yourself reaching for in fair weather, too.

And never was there more corduroy excitement than in switch-and-match coordinate clothes.

Warmly-lined coats and jackets are matchmates with capris, skirts and shorts; and jumpers do double-duty soloing after-five wear or with jacket and/or blouse for office and shopping.

New Textures

Texture interest is a fashion point for young juniors' coats—herringbone and waffle weaves, diagonal tweeds and nubby chinchillas.

Coat Shape

DEMI-FITTED coats with flaring hemlines emerge as a popular fashion leader for fall. Other styles: body conscious coats that combine lightly shaped bodice with gently flared skirt, tapered or oval coats, also cape-like, full-swinging silhouette.

PROBLEMS, PROBLEMS

NOW, It's a Scarcity of 'Gal's Best Friend'

NEW YORK (UPI)—A report from the Jewelry Industry Council will take the sparkle out of your day. There is a scarcity of diamonds.

Not the little ones, but the two carat and up size where they really qualify as a girl's best friend at $4,000 a stone or more, depending on gem quality.

"The market supply of two carrat diamonds and larger is thin," was the way Albert Hase, council president, put it.

* * * *

HASE'S organization represents some 3,000 manufacturers, wholesalers, and retailers in the precious and costume jewelry field. His information is based on talks with four of the largest diamond buyers in the United States, which each year takes about 75 per cent of the world's production.

Hase listed these reasons for the scarcity of the large stones, some of which will sell at $250,000 by the time they are in the 20-carat size.

The demand from Western European buyers has increased sharply in recent months, because of growing prosperity.

Europeans regard the diamond as stable in value, while the currency of a country might be subject to sudden devaluation. And, fears of war have increased purchases because diamonds are an easy asset to transport to any part of the world.

Hase said the marriage rate abroad was only a minor factor in the demand —the American custom of a girl getting an engagement ring from her fiance is just beginning to catch on.

* * * *

IN THE United States, however, more brides are getting engagement rings. Hase said 83 per cent of 1961's brides will wear engagement rings, compared with 76 per cent in 1949—a post-war year he picked at random.

Engagement rings use 52 per cent of the diamond supply in the United States. Other rings account for 24 per cent; diamond-set watches account for another 14, and earrings, clips and incidental jewelry use the rest.

"The larger diamond has become the engaged girl's status symbol," Hase said. "In modern, big offices she can't very well bring her young man around to show him off. But there's nothing to stop her from flashing that diamond."

Her Hair Will Glisten--After Dark

"Dashing simplicity" . . . "unfussed" . . . "the carefully careless look" . . .

All these contribute to the season's cliches on current hair styles.

As carefree and casual as these coiffures may be for daytime wear, they can pose a problem for after-dark dates that call for real glamor.

THE MOST imaginative spirits have devised simple ways of fastening a beautiful big pin in a deep curl. This new trend toward jewels in the hair has been spurred on by the new sleek hairdos.

Jeweled crowns are worn for more formal occasions and many long locks are held back from the face with gay, whimsical floral pins.

It's a new trick that takes no time at all. Just take an ordinary hair comb and fasten the pin to it either permanently with glue or temporarily with light or dark thread, depending on your hair color.

Curve-Conscious Corsets Underline Fall's Figure

To underline fall's feminine, curve-conscious fashions, newest foundations are controlling, but also light, sheer and lovely, from the merest wisp of a girdle to the corselet that shapes the fullest figure.

A number of the new brassieres are molded rather than sewn, and their cups are covered with a stretch lace or a soft tricot for a smooth, seamless line under knits, crepes and other soft, clinging fabrics.

* * * *

MANY BANDEAUX have underwired cups, and many long line brassieres feature princess styling, to shape a lifted, rounded line for the overblouse or gently fitted suit.

Bra-lettes generally are designed to fit well over the curse of the hiplines. Some cinch, others ease the waist.

Decolletages vary in foundations as in outer fashions. There are brassieres with wide-set straps, low-cut and strapless brassieres and corselets, and backless foundations.

* * * *

PULL-ON PANTIE girdles have extra controls — curving panels reinforcing or set into the basic garment, for a slim look under closely pleated or gently flaring skirts.

Girdles with dipping waistline are plentiful, for wear with blousons, and high-rising styles are meant for the more body-conscious clothes.

Your Skin Will Betray Your Mood

When you're tired, worried or in a mood to curl your lip at the world, your skin will betray you every time.

With a dismal sort of sympathy it reflects your depressed state by turning faintly grey or accenting tiny lines that normally have the grace to remain hidden. It's at moments like these that a woman loses faith and begins thinking she looks her age . . . a devastating conclusion that shouldn't be given a second thought.

A quick stimulating skin treatment designed to restore natural, healthy color and moisturize lines into hiding, is urgently recommended for the low in spirit. We call this an Instant Ice-Cream Facial—and here it is:

Chill a jar of moisture base on the bottom shelf of your refrigerator. Although this light, greaseless cream feels refreshingly cool when applied at room temperature, chilling lends it a gentle astringent action that stirs the blood, brings vitality back to the skin.

* * * *

TO USE: apply the cream generously over the entire face and neck. Work it into the skin with firm upward, outward motions of the hands, paying special attention to the areas that seem to be dry, flaky or faintly lined.

Massage your skin for five minutes or so, then remove the excess cream with tissues. If you leave a light dewy film on the surface, this can be used as a restorative base under loose or compressed powder—or as a moisturizing night treatment that works wonders while you sleep.

The Wonderful Fit of Knit

One, Two, Three Knits at a Time ...Go Everywhere

SMART GO-TOGETHERS from Bev's Sportswear, 5033 Hazelbrook Ave., Lakewood Center, come in three parts: jacket, striped top, thin skirt. Green and gold alternate with black for the blouse, then outline black jacket. By Gay Gibson.

CLASSIC KNIT that goes everywhere. One-piece California designer original has broad and beautiful horizontal stripes, spaghetti leather belt. In autumn shades, available at Nahas Department Store, 3008 Bellflower Blvd.

Bands and Bows

Headbands never really go out of style. This fall, style with flat bow on top and another with fringed bow. Autumnal colors, of course.

Fashion Stretch

Stretch gloves, longer and more style conscious, make their mark in coordinated sets, consisting of gloves paired to hats, hatlets, handbags, caps, belt and/or boots.

Not Extravagant Spirit-Lifter

Use that expensive perfume. Hoarding it permits time for evaporation, and no one benefits from the lovely fragrance.

A clean, fresh blouse does wonders for morale—and to your appearance. Keep blouses immaculate and well ironed.

Fashion talk goes to a woman's head—with a new hairdo.

All this news about latest fashion dictates makes a gal think about a head-ier subject, her coiffure. She knows that chic means means more than just smart clothes. It goes from head to toes.

So let's go to the top of the style picture and hear some high-level thoughts on hair:

This is the year of the pouf. Hair is brushed softly out from the head—but with a minimum of bouffance. Controlled half-curls, swirls and side tilts make the difference.

* * * *

ONE STYLE swishes the hair gently back from the forehead and one ear, then invisibly anchors it at the back. A few semi-curls swing far out in the other direction.

Another shaping takes an S-curve, with all the hair flopped to one side. Control comes with deft brushing, a little anchorage and a touch of spray.

Or, if you prefer, try this one: hair parted low on the side, smoothed over the crown and uplifted into half-curls at ear level.

* * * *

For this, Caruso cuts the hair short in back, long in front with strands brushed down the cheeks in front of the ears. ("It's not authentic, unless the back of the ears stick out.") Topping all is a halo-size roll of hair at the top of the head.

Coiffures Americana tells of the "marriage" of hat and hair for '61. Millinery designers and hair stylists have combined talents to create hats that flatter shapes of new coiffures.

This group sees gently full, easy hair shapes, not hugging the head, with some height and bouffancy on top and always winging out at the sides.

* * * *

THREE BASIC styles by Coiffures Americana are the Blouson Coif, the Wing Coif and the Halo Coif.

The Blouson Coif blouses the hair softly through the crown, then drops it dramatically into deep full bangs far above the forehead. Hair indents sharply at the temples into a wave that circles the head. Side hair is ear-tip-length, with ends flipped up and out. A good style for deep cloches or back-of-the-head pillboxes.

In the Wing Coif the hair is smoothed straight back from the forehead into a high dome. Two side wings spread outward, turning into one big sweep towards the cheek. Global hats perch nicely on the brow, framed and balanced by the side flares.

An angelic circle framing the face is called, appropriately, the Halo Coif. Here a bouffant ruff swirls up and away from the brow. Ear-tip length, its back and sides are gently softened. Perfect for small profile hats or tilting dinner hats.

* * * *

YOU DON'T have to worry about hat smashing these new "do's," says Coiffures Americana. Today's hairdo's are elastic enough to bounce back into shape with a little recombing and a bit of spray.

But there are two words for blondes this season. Don't be. At least that's what some beauty experts say. They claim blondes are out of fashion. But new "instant" color rinses will help natural mousey hair owners (or on-purpose pale-heads) step right out at the head of the fashion line.

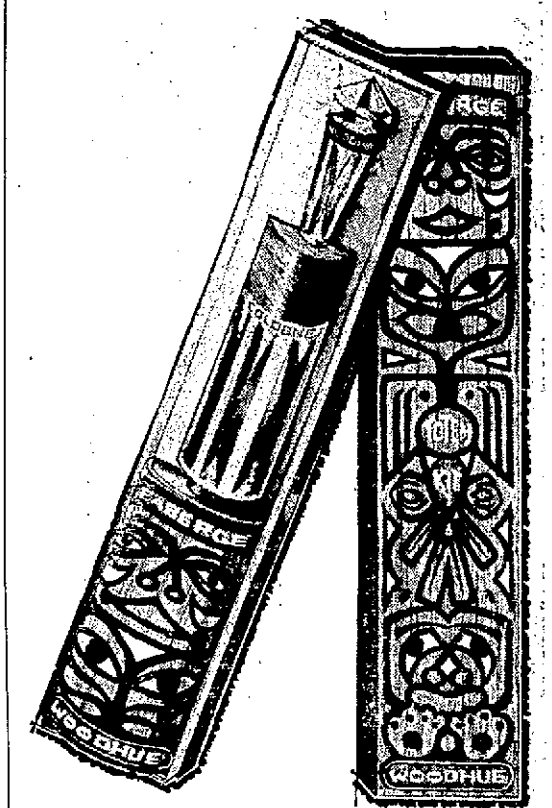

A MINIMUM OF POUF . . . swirls that are casual, but controlled. That's the new look designed to turn all heads for fall. This coiffure and many other up-to-now creations are featured at new Crowning Glory Beauty Salon at Cal Stores, Carson Street and Paramount Avenue, Lakewood.

Arm's Length

The collector's wrist with a grand total of too many bangles and charmless dangles is being replaced by a single big charm on a rigid cuff bracelet.

The reason: a mass movement toward shorter sleeves on coats, suits and dresses, putting bracelets in the limelight.

Suits Shape Up for Fall . . . and the Wearin' Is Easy

This season's suits often give a two-for-the-money fashion bonus that adds up to an all-in-one costume look.

Many mave integrated component parts—matching coat with dress or skirt and overblouse, perhaps a detachable ascot or stole, often a ringlet of fur that takes to other ensembles.

Popular among silhouettes is the curve-conscious jacket and fluid-flared skirt, sometimes in partnership with a capey coat. Cutaway jackets and modified versions that arch slightly in front, dip slightly in back, bid for top priority.

FLAT KNIT COSTUME gets approving grin from Mr. Pumpkin and from passers-by, too. Rounded slashes at lower edges and bold pocket flaps accent loose cardigan. Sheath beneath has soft rounded neckline, perfect for showing off jewelry. In autumn shades at Gibson Style Shop, 501 E. Ocean Blvd. Designer's credit: Lofties by Lawrence.

EASY-GOING is this two-piece flat knit by Kimberley. Slim, trim skirt is topped by belted-in-leather cardigan. Mohair and wool, ensemble makes natural travel companion, putting nary a wrinkle in your on-the-go plans. At Fashionette, 3500 E. Fourth St.; in grenadine pink.

Sweaters: New Stretch for Autumn Wardrobes

Sweaters this fall give wardrobes the greatest s-t-r-e-t-c-h in fashion history.

There are sweaters for wearing to sports events, to the office, to a movie — even to a ball!

There are sweaters to wear as a blouse, as a vest or as a coat. They come in every length from cropped tops to below the hips — with sleeves ranging from none to extra-long; with necklines that are decollete or hug the chin.

THEY SPORT exciting trims of fringe, beads, appliques, fur, pompons, buttons 'n bows. They are solid, striped, checked, even floral printed.

They may have collars that convert to hoods, are as large as a sailor's or form a bedding hand of fur.

In the knit itself, sweaters range from very fine cotton styles to enormous loops of wooly wool—and, of course, including the wonderful easy-care knits that may appear in many guises.

It's Button, Button---but Why?

Research into the history of fashion reveals several versions of the same basic story. Tailored garments had their origin in England. Clothing was designed originally for convenience and comfort. But chivalry and horsemanship had their influence, too. A man riding on a horse could not be hampered or restricted by his clothes at a crucial moment when he might need to pull a swift saber or a pistol from his holster. To facilitate a fast draw with the right hand from a scabbard at the left, men's coats were designed to button from left to right.

MODEST women of those early days wore skirts designed to cover the ankle . . . almost. Because of their long, heavy skirts, ladies found it more comfortable to ride a horse side-saddle. Stirrups were on the left flank of the horse. To protect the lovely ladies from cold and disheveling winds, clothing designers made women's coats so that they buttoned from right to left. Consequently, the winds could not separate the two side-fronts of the coat.

While these reasons seem of no importance today, we are the victims of convention. Men's and women's coat designs have been handed down from one generation to another. It would be a venturesome designer who would violate this time-honored rule, says the Institute. And would men and women accept a change? We wonder!

Wine for Color

With all the sparkle of a glass of fine wine come two important shades for fall—dubonnet blond and dubonnet red.

In suits, dresses and costumes—these colors give a warm glow and depth that's flattering to every woman, especially when interpreted in fall's luxury fabrics and silhouettes.

Flair in Maternity Wear

Designers have taken full advantage of the excellent adaptability of fall '61 silhouettes to the mother-to-be's needs.

Flared and flounced styles, pleated skirts, tunics, casual two-piece knits, coat-dresses, fluid crepes all are suited to the maternity wardrobe, and all are present in fall lines.

* * * *

COLLAR AND sleeve interest, long a standby of maternity styling, now is joined by back interest — especially apparent in draped black crepes with back panels, streamers, fringe trims.

For leisure wear, stretch pants look newest, and are joined by other types of tapered pants.

New Fashion Is Afoot in Boot Styles

Boots are moving up—and down again—in teenage fashions for fall.

They're UP in popularity; down at the ankle, giving a boot look to the newest leather casual flats.

The discerning teenager finds a great variety of colors in brushed and smooth leather casual boots, with some styles also featuring grained leather.

* * * *

DEEP BROWNS and olive greens are frequently seen in smooth leather boot-shoes, while graphite grays, golden browns and bright reds in nappy brushed leathers also attract the teenage eye.

SLIP-ON STYLING comes from the boys! Stride Rite makes it in nylon velvet—girl-adored forr its rich look; mother-approved for its easy cleanability. Smooth leather vamp for added style; smooth fit for growing feet. From Children's Bootery, 4346 Atlantic Ave., and Los Altos Shopping Center.

FUR ON FUR makes fashion news. Emba tourmaline mink boldly collars evening-minded jacket of pearl gray dyed broadtail. Deep cuffs reveal prettiest gloves or bracelets. Lined in contessa satin de soie. Available at Furs by David, 203 E. Third St.

Forecast: 'Fur Flurries' for All-Weather Coats

The fashion forecast for fall rainwear is "fur flurries."

New water-repellent coats strengthen their claim to fair weather importance with fur or fake-fur linings and trims.

When the lining and/or collar aren't fur or fake fur, they're likely to be pile. Simulated shearling-and the new pile that looks like curly lamb lead the way, lining and trimming cotton suede, poplin, corduroy and wool.

* * * *

FOR A lavish look there are rain-repellent coats of velvet or velveteen. These are designed for sun and stars, too.

Such classic styles as the trench coat and officer's coat are joined by cape shapes and fit-and-flare silhouettes.

Lamined, or foam-backed, coats move up a notch in the rainwear field, since lamination makes more fabrics adaptable to flare shaping.

Fur Fakery

Make-believe furs add fashion flourish to fall outfits.

ALL SHAPES, SHADES

Sculptured Mink Slinks and Swirls to Fit the Figure

Mink is the word in fur fashions for '61.

Mink in all shades—from pure white to deep, rich brown.

And in all shapes—jackets, capes and stoles; wraps that look like trench coats, one-piece coats that look like two-piece ensembles and three-quarter length car coats that put elegance into the driver's seat.

* * * *

Collars are either big or little, but full enough to frame the face. Fullness shows up again in the sleeves, sometimes ending at the elbow and tapering to the wrists.

Hemlines are often slightly fuller, and many of the coats have wider skins worked horizontally. Fluffy contrasting borders, as well as contrasting collar and cuffs, are definitely trends.

* * * *

SAGA MINK, lovely import from Scandinavia, will be a headliner this year. Its wide range of colors, from dark ranch mink to the rarest, palest mutations, make unusual offerings for fur designs.

For instance, Leo Ritter takes this mink in pure white and turns it into a polo coat of dramatic impact.

Ollie of Gintel-Spaulder achieves a look seldom seen in mink with his three-quarter car coat, then tops it with a matching pastel mink hat with crocheted wool trim.

Jackets and capes in a wide range of mink shades come from the House of Revillon. Here, too, you find the two-tone interpretation in a moonstone otter coat with large mink envelope collar and in a leather jacket accented by fur at the hipline.

* * * *

THE ULTIMATE in trench coats comes from Laurence Kay. He has taken black mink and translated it into new smartness with high pointed collar, pouch pockets and optional sash to change the coat from formal to sports wear.

Ben Kahn works wider skins horizontally, emphasizes shoulders and tapers silhouettes toward the hem in an "oval" look. He departs from the mink line with broadtail jackets and tailored trotteurs, sable and chinchilla wraps.

Leo Ritter also shows furs other than mink. He has a big interest in natural seal, Persian lamb and Russian broadtail, using the latter to fashion a sumptuous cocktail costume. He likes the bi-color feeling in fur, too, and combines mutation or white mink with sable, or creates a long cape (divided at the waistline) of two shades of sheared beaver.

Unusual shaping in furs shows up particularly in coats and jackets which have the skins worked vertically at the top and horizontally below, or vice versa for a two-piece effect. Or through diagonal chevron and swirled lines or box-pleated flares.

Schuss, She CAN SKI in High Style

Knee length, hip length or waist length . . . rugged and bold, near and smart—you name it—ski wear this season takes to the slopes extra-warmly and extra-colorfully.

Parkas go to new lengths, many will be up to 36 inches in length. They feature tubular, zig-zag, block, geometric and brick quilted effects.

New is the ¾ quarter length "petit poule" tweed coat, with its 3-button fly-front, belt, and slanted pockets.

* * * *

HIP-LENGTH suede coats with fleece lining will be an important fashion asset. A way out variety of furs trim and line many outer garments in a variety of styles. Making a grand entry for warmth and comfort are laminated knits.

Sweater clasic make a strong returns. Pullover will predominate with zip-front cardigan styles making a close second choice. Destined to be the season's favorite is the polo-type, bold sweater.

...Foods NOT Only Way to Man's Heart

By GAY PAULEY
UPI Women's Editor

NEW YORK (UPI)—They say the way to a man's heart is through his stomach. Lori Till, fashion designer, is not so sure.

"I think," said Miss Till, "that the important thing is not what's cooking but how the husband regards his wife. He should think, 'Well, even if she can't boil water, she's pretty.'"

Miss Till is one of the many voices current in the fashion industry determined we women should look as glamorous at home as Marlene Dietrich. It does not discourage her, or the others, that the average homemaker's life is spent more at the kitchen range than on a chaise lounge.

"I think," said Miss Till, "that home is where the ego gets its important tonic. Nothing in the world . . . can lift a woman's drooping spirits, or return her self-confidence, like putting on an at-home costume that makes her look exciting, buoyant, sparkling. And nothing can flatten her spirits like wearing a drab housedress or a dull robe. Or, the duster—that shapeless wonder!"

* * * *

MISS TILL'S latest offering toward glamour is the lounge dress, which she said she originated a year ago as an outgrowth of the beach dress. This fall, however, the lounge dress has caught on with several designers and is THE thing for lolling.

The lounge dress is made in street or ankle length, and usually is a simply cut garment, sleeveless, collarless, unbelted and designed to wear without much underneath. Miss Till dresses it up with the use of lush fabrics —washable nylon velvet for instance—and with embroidery, jewel or ruffle trim.

Her fall and winter collection of leisure fashions also includes a group of "mad" clothes for coeds and others-young-in-heart and years.

These include printed calico variations of grandpa's nightshirt, with rows of ruffles at the hem and down the buttoned front; brightly printed coverall copies of a parachutist's jump suit; a dorm warmer, which is a bulky short robe made of sweat shirt material printed in bold florals; and a "Weekender," which can double as a robe or a coat. The last is in a zebra print, of all orlon pile.

* * * *

LORI TILL, a native of New York, had no formal training in design, but gathered a lot of practical experience in sportswear before she joined Raymodes Inc. last April.

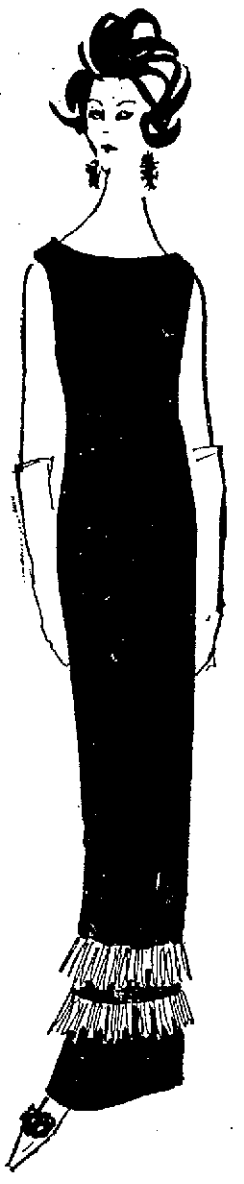

"I've always had this thing about at-home clothes," she said. "Here is where there is room for some exciting, new ideas."

The designer, a tall, striking blonde in her lat 30s, began her career as a John Robert Powers model. She had helped run a dress manufacturing firm and was boss of a sportswear firm, now defunct, before she took her present job.

Miss Till in private life is the wife of Maj. Vernon W. Thomas Jr., a jet test pilot stationed at McGuire Air Force Base in New Jersey. Their two children are Vicki, 12, and Robert, 19. Her son, she said, is a sports car racing fan and pilots a souped-up number which she occasionally borrows to get to Manhattan from their suburban Nnew Rochelle home.

She laughed as she recalled the day recently when she pulled up to pay toll at one of the Parkway booths, and another sports car drew alongside. The driver looked at her and proffered:

"Hey, baby, let's drag."

About Sleeves

While three-quarter funnel sleeves and even shorter bell sleeves appear in fall suits and coats, there's a trend to the longer, slimmer sleeves.

That's a Hat, Lady!

Newest additions to the smart woman's dictionary of hat terms are:

TILT—a new angle on hats, gently slanted to the right. Sometimes the tilt is built in to the brim and the crown remains straight on the head. At others, the crown is draped to a tilt.

CUFF TILT—a flat, folded-up brim that slants to the right. Frequently, the cuff brim is folded against the crown an an angle that tapers and tilts it to the side.

FLARE BRIM—a cloche-type brim, slightly rippled and longer on the right side.

GLOBAL LOOK—a full, rounded beret or crown. Also, a high roller or a cushioned halo, round and full as a balloon tire.

SPACE BLUE—the intense blue of the atmosphere, hundreds of miles above the earth.

CONE CROWN—a peaked crown, rounded at the tip. Sometimes elongated into a CAPSULE. Formed from pleated or petal-like material, it is also known as an ARTICHOKE.

STILL IMPORTANT with 1961 fashions are:

TURBAN—a brimless hat of soft, drapable material giving a wrapped effect. This season, the turban is usually draped high and lower at the right side of the hairline.

BERET—the round, soft crown, usually mounted on a bandeau.

PROFILE HAT—hat slanted to the right, clinging close to the side of the head.

CAP—close-fitting, brimless hat that follows the contour of the head. Shallower, it's a CALOT. Deeper, a CASQUE or HELMET.

TALL TOQUE—high, brimless hat.

Whimsy A-Foot in '61

Shoe manufacturers have gone all out this fall to provide women with whimsical and pretty slippers to go with the smart, new at-home styles—the tea-timers, hostess pajamas, hostess gowns and lounging ensembles.

Along with jewel-studded open sandals and glamorized thong styles, theer are many imaginative mules.

They are as comfortable as they look impractical, being made of such materials as striped or iridescent silks.

* * * *

BUT THEN, they aren't made for anything but leisure and are more likely to be seen propped up on a sofa than treading the kitchen floor.

Another favorite: the stretch bootie in a variety of shapes. Often it does live up to its name and comes right up to the ankle, but other times it's cut low as a ballerina slipper.

Materials, too, run the gamut from warm and practical jersey and nylon velvet to gabardine, satin and even lace.

Cotton Crop

Magenta, blue and brown show up as top colors in cotton print dresses for fall. there's the classic velvet Women who like to wear cotton until the holidays will favor these.

Lookie, It's a 'Kookie' Look for Sleepwear

Conscious of color and conscious of fashion, intimate apparel for fall ranges from romantic to sportsy to "kookie" styles.

Used boldly and interestingly, color lights up lounge and sleepwear, and even slips and petticoats have more color, with emphasis on the softer hues. Color glows in rose and strawberry pink, magenta, blues from soft to royal, clear reds, pale oranges, many greens.

Floral prints bloom in fall lingerie, and there are paisleys, jacquards, stripes and many sportswear-type prints.

* * * *

THE FLARE and the blouson exert a strong influence. Slip fashions flare gently, while petticoats go all out with pleats, flounces, godets. Robes and sleep shifts follow the flare.

Blouson tops are important components for lounging outfits, in partnership with skinny pants.

The muumuu inspires simple sleep shifts and robes, with easy flowing lines.

* * * *

ROMANTIC TREND is evidenced in gowns and robes fashioned of newly elegant miracle fabrics. Ruffles and pleats lend feminine softness.

Sportswear styling reaches its greatest strength in fall lingerie lines. Not only are the styles translated for sleep and lounge wear, but now there are "mix and match" outfits.

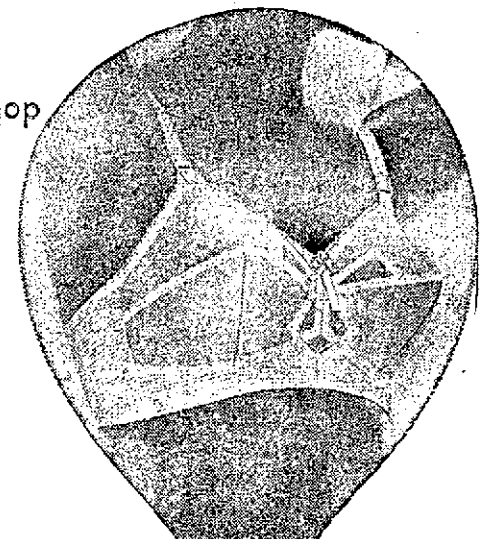

Ruffled sleep shirts come with pinafores and pants for lounging. Vests and cutaway jackets combine with sleep shirts and pants.

* * * *

Espresso coats with side slits are kookie-or-not, depending on the coloring. Capes make kookie toppings for sleep ensembles.

WORTHMORE
114 West First St.

Color Harmony in Suits, Coats

Colors run rampant in suits, following closely those most popular in coats — with more emphasis on creamy beiges, off-white and blond tones; also on moss and misty greens, taupes and spice.

Cognac, magenta, plum, jade and emerald green, sapphire or royal blues show strength.

Anthracite is a newer name for black, which holds its place. Various shades of browns are definitely increasing in popularity.

NEWS A-FOOT

Stepping Smartly Into Autumn

There's big news a-foot this season. Not only are dress shoes better-looking than ever—they're stepping into new silhouettes.

For instance: the square root to fashion, via new square toes! The captivating crescent toe, rounder, prettier, feminine as all get-out. Sophisticated pointed toes very much in the picture, too.

In fact, there's a toe-type for everyone and for every costume this season.

* * * *

HELS MAKE NEWS, too. The important trend for autumn: little heels with dashing "flare" styling. Elegant wineglass heels are definitely in. Stacked heels are often preferred for daytime wear.

* * * *

AS FOR COLOR, black still leads the list. But not far behind comes the rich brown family — including otter, wild honey and dark brown. Greens and greys are good, and red will be featured in an off-beat spectrum ranging from mulberry to wine.

A hallmark of fall shoe fashion is devastating cobra trim. You'll find this sleek reptile in green, mulberry, otter or grey—often merely suggesting richness at the toe.

There are some unlined styles, but the major emphasis is on softly-lined dress shoes, which offer that walking-on-clouds feeling.

To sum up: new toes, new heel types, repeated contrasts of color and texture —these are the fashion steps to take for fall.

Heels: High in Prestige

If it weren't for poor plumbing in medieval Venice, today's lady of fashion might be wearing flat-heeled shoes!

Four centuries ago, Venetian women wore clogs that added up to 18 inches in height to keep dainty feet high above muddy city streets.

Elizabeth I of England and Louis XIV of France rose above their subjects in high-heeled shoes, which soon became a symbol of artistic birth.

Peasants weren't permitted heels on their shoes!

Flair for Flare: Over and Under

The fall flare has put its stamp of approval on intimate apparel too.

Petticoats take to the flare with bottom godets or bias fullness. Some are stiffened to make firm props for the ready-to-wear flares.

Colors are bright and clear, reflecting important fashion shades. Coorindation between lingerie and foundations is stronger — even including prints.

OUR COVER

The twin planes pictured on our cover are new Shinn 2150-A models soaring over Laguna Beach, only a short hop from the factory at Santa Ana, where this remarkable Long Beach-born light aircraft soon will be coming off the assembly line in growing numbers. Designed and originally built in Long Beach by William J. Morrisey, former chief test pilot for Douglas Aircraft Co., the sturdy little ship has met with universal favor among pilots, whether they fly for fun or profit. Primarily a sports plane, it is in great demand by flying schools as a trainer. The complete story about the Shinn plane will be found on Page 7.

NEXT WEEK

Most fickle of the many means of communication used by man are the currents of the Seven Seas. Many and varied are the messages cast into the sea in bottles to tell of love, or death, of piracy, fire, storm, mutiny, to test ocean currents, broadcast religious tracts or just to perpetrate hoaxes. The romance of message-bearing bottles washed onto beaches 'round the world is described in "Ocean Free Delivery" in next Sunday's Southland Magazine.

LA REINA RULE

WHAT YOUR NAME MEANS

Send your name to La Reina Rule in care of Southland Magazine, Independent, Press-Telegram, 604 Pine Ave., Long Beach 12, Calif., for origin, meaning and brief genealogy for reply only in this column.

DEAR MISS RULE: May we have brief genealogy on FERREL. — R. S., Lakewood.

R. S.: FERREL had its inauguration as the Irish clan O'Fearghail meaning "Sons of the most valorous one." This lineage originated in County Longford where they ruled as barons for many centuries. Branches of the family lived in Donegal, Tyrone and Wicklow. Their coat-of-arms has a golden rampant lion centered on a green shield. Four families by this name resided in Floyd County, Ind., during the mid-1800s, descendants of the ancient Gaelic Irish clan.

DEAR MISS RULE: Can you inform us on HEATH.—D.H., Los Alamitos; F.L., Long Beach.

D.H., F.L.: HEATH in English is a term for uncultivated pasture land. Heath family records list descendants of the original owner of the "Heath," such as William Atte (at the) Hethe of Oxford, 1273, and John Atte Hethe of Somerset, 1327. John Heath of London was warden of the British Fleet in the late 1500s. The Heath shield has two black spur-rowels above a golden heathcock on a background tinted gold on the upper half, black on the lower. The Heath motto "Espere Mieux" means "I hope for the best."

DEAR MISS RULE: Would you publish the origin of PERAGINE.—Mrs. J.P., Westminster.

J.P.: PERAGINE is a spelling variation of the Italian surname Peregrine, interpreted as "Descendants of the Pilgrim." This old, dialectically distorted name was descriptive of a pilgrim who journeyed to the Holy Land and to European religious shrines in the Middle Ages. The Peregrine coat-of-arms has a black half-eagle on a silver background for the upper half of the shield; a silver glove on the lower half.

DEAR MISS RULE: Would like the shield and origin of BAMBER, either German or English.—R.B., Long Beach.

R.B.: BAMBER may be

Plant With a Romantic Past

By Vynola F. Limerick

SERENELY indifferent to a romantic past that spans a period of 2,500 years, acanthus grows with modest vigor in many Long Beach area gardens. The plant dates back to one of the most fantastic eras in history and is without a missing link in the long green chain.

Shiny mounds of acanthus leaves are quite common in the sections where the climate is mild; tall, spiny spikes of white flowers tinted with purple and green, bloom high above the verdant bank of deeply notched foliage throughout the summer.

An ancient sculptor by the name of Callimachus was said to have noticed the striking patterns of the broad, lacy leaf after having seen a carelessly upturned basket entwined with acanthus foliage.

GRECIAN architecture of long ago was identified by three orders: Doric, Ionic, and Corinthian. The richest and most ornamental of these was the Corinthian, a style easily recognized by rows of skillfully carved replicas of the great pinnatifid acanthus leaves wreathing the top or capital of the column.

After the advent of the acanthus motif, apparently the prim Doric and the unromantic ram's horn arrangement of the Ionic type of pillar decorating fell into decline, no doubt seeming staid and old hat to the beauty loving Greeks by comparison with the frilly, eye-catching design attributed to Callimachus, an artist who must have thought for himself.

Although these fine workmen knew about the arch they viewed it with dimness and used it only in minor projects. They were column lovers to a bitter and inglorious end. Gracefully tapered and sometimes fluted, these enormous shafts supported and dignified their fabulous civic buildings and temples.

MARBLE WAS plentiful and the Greeks worked with slabs of this gleaming white stone to erect their masterpieces using lines that curved so lightly that they appeared to be straight, an artistic touch that was lacking in building that came later.

The Romans who followed them were column users, too, even copying the popular acanthus decoration.

Today, roofless and forlorn, the once majestic temples deteriorate on desolate plains, melancholy reminders of a richly decadent period of graven image worshiping that has gone into oblivion never to return.

The sturdy acanthus survived the decline and downfall of an idolatrous nation and grows tranquilly on. Somewhere along the way the acanthus leaf became a symbol of Christianity, possibly because of the everlasting qualities of the sturdy plant.

Ancient in ken of mankind, acanthus grows in modern gardens as gracefully as in days of Greek sculptors.

Conceived in Long Beach and now being hatched by the dozen:

New Breed of Bird

By Herb Shannon

BORN IN Long Beach and now being hatched by the dozen in Santa Ana, a new breed of bird is winging over the Southland.

This new, man-made bird is the Shinn 2150-A, a sassy two-place sports plane with a unique "come-fly-me" personality which has proved irresistible to both fledgling and experienced pilots.

After more than 10 years in the development stage, the Shinn is coming off a brand-new production line in increasing numbers. By next spring the manufacturers expect to build one every eight working hours.

First to come under her spell was the designer, William J. Morrisey, who quit his job as chief pilot for Douglas Aircraft Co. in Long Beach to perfect the idea that had been gnawing at him since World War II.

MORRISEY WANTED a light, high-performance tandem seater which would be as safe, stable and sturdy as the Douglas airliners he was used to flight testing.

The prototype was hand-built in one of the Spring Street hangars which recently disappeared from Long Beach Municipal Airport to make way for a section of the San Diego Freeway. Helping Morrisey with this task were a number of local flying enthusiasts, including newspaperman Ev Hosking, now Sunday editor of the Independent, Press-Telegram.

THERE WAS no question about a name for the sleek little ship when it was finished.

"Nifty!" said Morrisey, gazing with affection at his plane.

And that's what the ship remained until operations were transferred to Orange County Airport. There, 10 of the tricycle-gear beauties were built under the name Morrisey 2150 in a hangar set up for limited production.

The only trouble with the Morrisey was that it was too popular. Flying school operators, private airmen, airline pilots, everyone who saw the plane wanted one. They were snapped up as fast as Morrisey could turn them out with his small crew.

The answer was mass production, a group of Santa Ana aircraft industry experts pointed out. They had been watching the progress of the Morrisey with considerable interest. And finally the designer-builder agreed.

MANUFACTURING rights were licensed to the Shinn Manufacturing Co., a combine of engineering and business talents headed by Clifford L. Shinn, a 36-year-old engineer.

Already in the business of making parts for various aircraft, including the Douglas DC8, the Convair 880 and the North American Aviation supersonic B-70 bomber, Shinn was impressed by the Morrisey's design.

And as a private pilot of more than five years' standing, he was further impressed by the fact that the Morrisey had received its airworthiness certificate without a single unfavorable report, something unheard of in Federal Aviation Agency testing.

LAST MONTH the first plane came off the $200,000 assembly line Shinn set up at 320 Dyer Road, on the outskirts of Santa Ana. The first Shinn 2150-A was an exact duplicate of the original Morrisey, with some internal modifications and mechanical improvements.

Among the improvements in construction methods instituted by Shinn are semi-automation in fabrication of some parts, optically-aligned fixtures and machines to insure uniform assembly, and interchangeability of parts and components.

Starting with only a handful of employes under project manager Art Showalter, the Shinn work force is designed to increase gradually in size and productivity until it reaches the one-plane-per-shift pace in about eight months. Then there will be about 40 employes.

SELLING THE plane is no problem, according to Robert Follett, marketing vice president. Orders now on hand will take care of every one the company can build in the next year.

Follett is spending the intervening time building and training a sales staff for the time when planes are available. The best way he knows to impart enthusiasm for the product is to demonstrate it for prospective dealers.

"This plane has absolutely no bad habits," he said on a recent flight, yanking back on the stick to force a stall. The plane simply mushed along with no tendency to fall off on either wing.

"I COULD turn off the engine, hold back the stick and land with my eyes closed," Follett explained. "The plane is built to do it."

Follett also enjoys startling the tower operators at Orange County Airport with the Shinn's near-vertical takeoff. With a light headwind, the plane leaps into the air almost as soon as it gets rolling.

"I see it, but I don't believe it," comes the radio voice from the tower after each of these abrupt ascents.

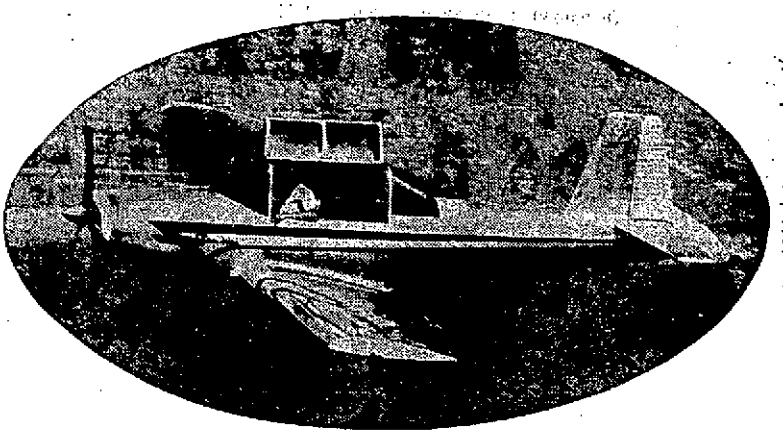

Climbing at nearly 1,500 feet a minute, the Shinn is more than 1,000 feet in the air by the time it crosses the end of the runway. It will make 150 miles an hour with full power of its 150-horsepower Lycoming engine and land in less than 200 feet at non-stalling speeds.

IN THESE DAYS of crowded air space, one of the most reassuring features is the total visibility afforded by the full-view bubble canopy and low-wing configuration. There is no blind spot from either seat except for straight down under the wing.

This safety feature rounds out Cliff Shinn's objective of strength, visibility and performance for the plane now bearing his name.

"What we like to call integrity of the product boils down to just this," he explained. "We're trying to give more hardware and fewer maintenance problems for the aircraft dollar."

Shinn and Follett expect to see 150 of the jaunty planes roll off the Santa Ana production line in the next year. They have plans under way for expansion of the plant when the present one is up to capacity.

He's Glad He's a Blankety-Blank Football Coach

John McKay is grid mentor at USC (The United Society for Criticism) And he's sure to win the laugh title

John McKay, USC football coach, and player confer on sideline. McKay has a lucky sense of humor that carries him over rough spots in his "trade."

By Jerome Hall

IT IS WELL known that everybody loves a fat man unless he is a football coach, so you can see the predicament of John McKay, who is skinny.

McKay has everything working against him. Foremost is his position as head football coach at USC, which is the United Society for Criticism—sometimes also known as the University of Southern California.

In a few hours, all across the country the Monday morning quarterbacks will go into action, rehashing the first full weekend of football for 1961.

It's open season on football coaches for the next three months.

So we cornered the USC coach and asked what would make a man with wife and children put his head on the block week after week in a job often called the worst this side of the sewer.

"COACHING isn't so bad as it's made to sound," says McKay. "This business of stress and strain is overemphasized." McKay, whose 38 years—young for a head coach at a major university—is contradicted by gray hair, leaned back in the easy chair in his second-story office on University Avenue and lit his pipe.

"It's really quite a good life," he offered, though he can't have forgotten the knife-wielding alumni who hooted for his dismissal after the team won only four of 10 games last season But McKay now is working on the first year of a three-year contract, which is something like social security in his business.

"Any other line of work has its stresses and strains," he continued. "I look at it like there are 10 $100,000 deals for me a year. You lose one and you feel pretty bad, just like the salesman. But the next Saturday you try harder to make the deal go through. Sure, coaches have been unjustly fired, but who hasn't?"

IT'S SUCH a philosophy that has enabled McKay to maintain his sense of humor—which is unehallenged. He may be the funniest coach in the business and the only thing that dulled his humor last season was that his team sometimes played funnier.

After his first game as head coach last year he was asked by a serious-questioning reporter the most important thing he learned and McKay replied without hesitation:

"Our defense looks like a Chinese fire drill."

When asked what USC's offense problem was, he said, "Not scoring any points."

McKay is the delight of sports writers' luncheons. He breaks up almost every gathering. Those who know him, almost without exception, find him genial and easy to like.

HE ENTERTAINS with stories such as the one about his friend, Jordan Olivar, Los Angeles insurance man who is head football coach at Yale. "First time I walked onto the Yale campus I was invited to a welcoming party and all the football players sang the Wiffenpoof Song and drank a toast to me," says Olivar. "Then they all threw their glasses at the fireplace. Everybody but one hit the fireplace. He missed a mile. I asked him what he did for the team and he said 'Coach, I'm your passer'."

When the SC team was at its exasperating worst last season, mired in a muddle of mistakes, reporters cornered McKay at lunch one day and asked bluntly: "What have you got to say about all these fumbles?"

McKay, standing at the rostrum with about 50 reporters, columnists, radio and television broadcasters staring at him, raised his eyes toward the ceiling and delayed an answer. This clearly was a crucial moment in his life as an after-luncheon entertainer, because what's funny about a fumble?

But John was equal to the test.

"I have a book home," he began slowly, "that an elderly aunt just sent me and it diagrams special practices to teach the boys how to not fumble. We have tried all the drills and I will tell you this: we do not fumble in practice anymore."

THAT'S THE DAY McKay converted 50 of his critics.

McKay started off the current luncheon season with this one:

"The other day one of my second-string ends came up to me at practice and said 'Coach, I've got a pain in my side.' Now, I'm pretty smart about medicine so I said, 'You've probably got appendicitis. The team trainer looked at him and said no, it was just a cramp.

"We sent the boy over to the infirmary and that afternoon they operated on him and took out his cramp."

McKay's rise at USC has been swift and since the average tenure of the 15 previous Trojan football coaches was just 4½ years, he's assured of staying (or being paid for) at least a normal career.

McKAY HAD been an assistant coach at USC less than a year when his predecessor, Don Clark, resigned because of the pressures of the school's alumni groups. It's likely the Old Trojans wield a power second to no alumni in the country. And when McKay, a West Virginian by way of Oregon U., was named to the head coach position (only one non-USC graduate had held the job since Howard Jones' reign began in 1925) it came as a severe blow to the Old Trojans. They tried their best to get rid of him.

The university perhaps has found the ideal type of man to fit into such a situation. USC's search for "another Howard Jones" to give the school another Thundering Herd has brought a series of embarrassments. One time a Big Ten coach publicly rejected an offer and another time an Old Trojan was selected for the coaching position and then in effect "fired" before he was announced, all because one newspaper reported the selection in a "scoop" and the board of trustees didn't want to alienate the other half of Los Angeles' publishing empire.

School officials never have admitted it, but the victim of all this maneuvering was Tay Brown, USC team captain in 1932, who recently retired from coaching after climbing to the pinnacle of the junior college football world.

So those who know what kind of a job John McKay took on are glad he can laugh at the world.

SC Photos

Reporters gather for dressing room conference after each game. This one followed a head-bowing Trojan defeat, but before it ended McKay came through with a gag that provided a laugh for the "mourners."

Phoenix is a widely spread city but has its skyline nonetheless. The view above is of the downtown section as air arrivals see it.

ARIZONA'S CAPITAL, PHOENIX, MORE THAN DOUBLES POPULATION IN 3 YEARS

The Nation's 'Growingest City'

By Robert L. Davis

WHEN SAMUEL E. VICKERS, city manager of Long Beach, went to Phoenix earlier this year to take a similar position, he landed feet first in the nation's "growingest city."

In the last three years Phoenix, air-conditioned, green oasis capital of Arizona, has more than doubled its population and more than tripled its land area.

Over the last 10 years, the record of expansion has been even more amazing. A decade ago, with an area of 17.1 square miles, this hub of the Valley of the Sun resort land had a population of 106,818. Today, sprawled over 190.96 square miles, Phoenix has a population in excess of 464,000. This makes it the nation's 29th largest city, and the biggest between the Rocky Mountains and the West Coast.

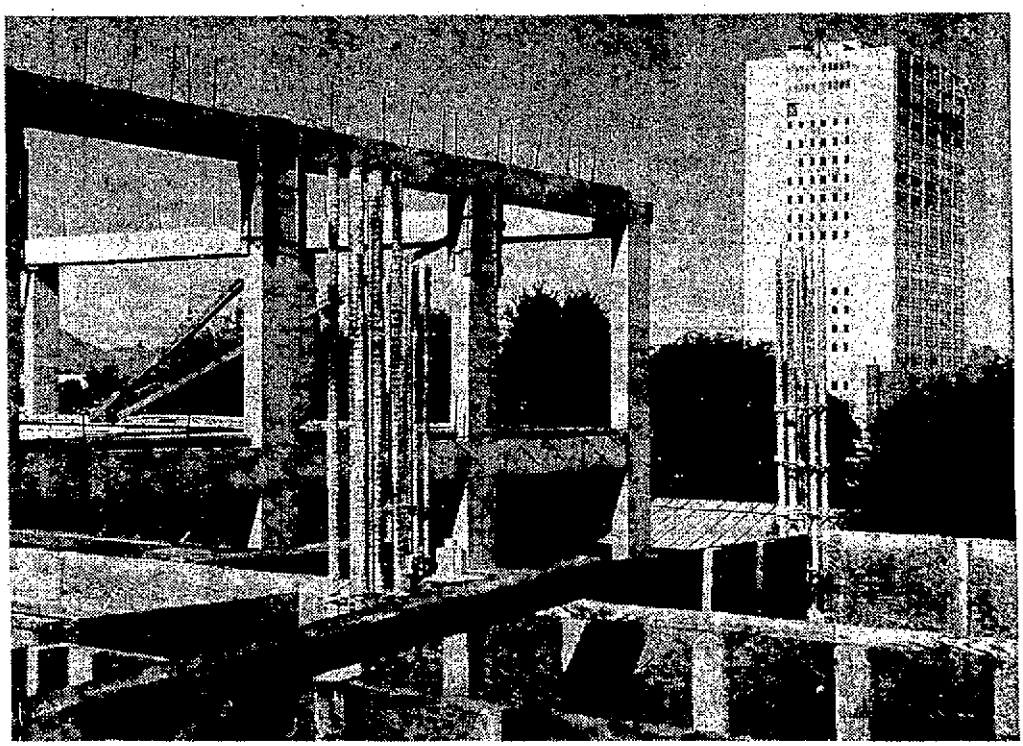

Within another 10 years, officials predict that metropolitan Phoenix will contain more than a million residents.

Why the surge that shows no signs of letting up?

BASICALLY, Phoenix has a batch of built-in appeals that not only entice vacationists who make it a prime tourist center, but also industrialists who have been setting up large plants at an amazing rate. The tourists mean added dollars but the industries also mean added jobs which support a growing population. Especially notable in the industrial surge has been the advances in the field of electronics.

Phoenix's appeals are, to sum up: a favorable, almost ideal climate year-round with clear, dry air; informal living; progressive community spirit; first-rate vacation magnets like good restaurants and hotels plus fine recreation and sightseeing; cultural attributes.

Taken alone, these factors are simple advantages. But taken together—as they are in Phoenix—they mean a tremendous growth which shows no signs of slowing up.

New Guaranty Bank Building, tallest structure (20 stories) in the Mountain States, serves as a backdrop for new construction in the foreground of a new office building in the north central area of Phoenix.

One of the nation's busiest airports, Phoenix Sky Harbor Airport is conforming to the jet age with a face-lifting operation. An entire new terminal building and other facilities are included in the modernizing job.

ARCHITECT'S Sketchbook

Cabinet-shelf unit helps solve nursery storage needs.

TODAY'S PROJECT: A storage and display unit for the nursery.

NEW YORK designer, Ursula M. S. Dadras, says: There's nothing like the arrival of a new baby in a home to reveal the inadequacy of storage space for so much soft new bedding, so much equipment, so many new toys!

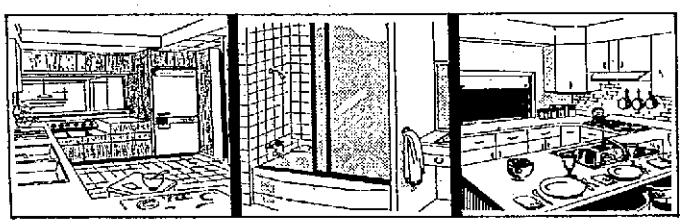

In no time at all the new supplies and gifts have filled the baby's chest. Where do you put the overflow?

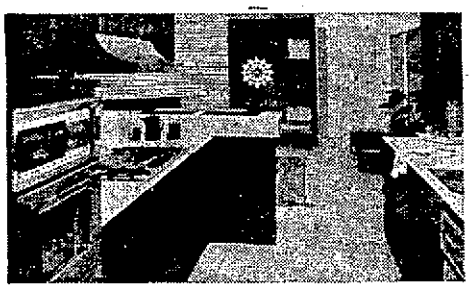

The sliding door storage cabinet and display shelf unit shown in the illustration is designed to take such storage pressure off any nursery. The lower section is 18" high and almost 18" deep. The cabinet top and two raised shelves provide a wealth of additional space for stuffed animals and other toys for tots.

While we show the unit decorated for a nursery, its modern design will permit it to fit into the decor of almost any room in the house where additional storage space is desired. Materials are plywood and standard 1x12. Construction is easy, with no difficult saw cuts and simple butt joints throughout.

To order, specify Nursery Storage Cabinet S-22 and send name and address and 50 cents to Building Editor, Independent, Press-Telegram, 6th & Pine, Long Beach 12, Calif.

Tool Caddy for Home Shop

By Steve Ellingson

COMPACT and portable workshop for the home handyman is a tool caddy that is easily made from the full-size pattern. Use it yourself and/or make one for a relative or friend as a Christmas gift.

The caddy has two sides which will hold as many as 35 tools which are fastened on pegboard with clips which are available at hardware stores. You will notice that the tools are all in plain sight and easy to get at. The saw is inserted between the sides where the teeth are protected. At the bottom, a space is provided for glass jars which will contain screws, nails, bolts, nuts and things of that kind. You will find that it's much easier to take your tools to the job than it is to take the job to your tools.

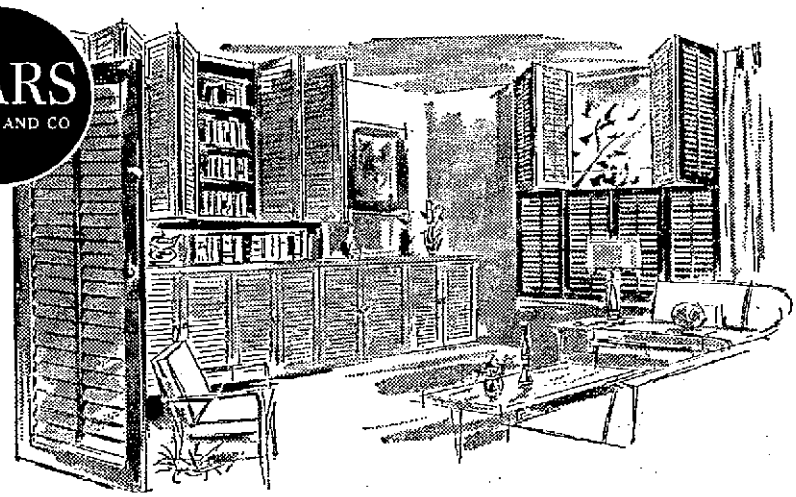

The caddy requires but little storage space. It's good looking and we'll guarantee it's as handy as anything ever invented for the home handyman (or handy woman). You can easily build it in one evening when you use the full-size pattern. All you need do is trace the pattern on wood, then saw out the parts and put them together.

To obtain the tool caddy pattern, specify No. 268 and send name and address to Steve Ellingson, Long Beach Independent, Press-Telegram Pattern Dept., P. O. Box 2383, Van Nuys, Calif.

Tool caddy, a handy article for the home workshop, finds an admirer in Greg Walcott of NBC-TV's "87th Precinct."

SOUTHLAND HOMES

Personality Is the Difference

Photos by Joe Rislnger

Hearthstone couch (background) forms entry at end of living room in Los Alamitos home of Mrs. Ellen Schwartz and children. Personal touches set up decor of home.

By Stella George

COLOR, built-ins and personal touches make the home of Mrs. Ellen Schwartz and her two children, 3171 Walker and Lee Drive, Los Alamitos, the little bit "different" that sets it individually among others of the neighborhood that are similar architecturally.

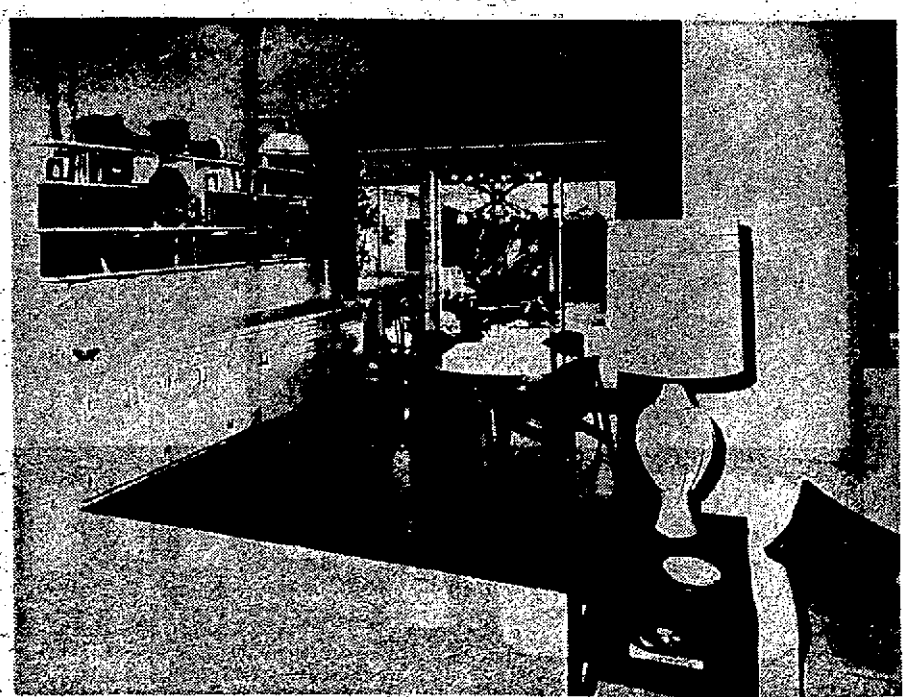

The home is of a design that features the center kitchen dividing the family room from the dining room. Clever decorating ideas serve the dual purpose of being functional as well as attractive.

Predominating colors, daring and gay, are blue, magenta, violet, and turquoise—the colors of the chairs surrounding the dining room table. This symphony is matched with the violet chair and magenta couch in the living room, as well as the pictures that bring out the turquoise and violet. A neutral champagne couch and a grand piano are subdued background pieces, lending a quiet elegance to the decor.

In the family room, a turquoise sectional carries out the color theme and is placed for TViewing. Its convenience to the kitchen aids with the nightly problem of television snacks.

There are shades of certain colors that have to be seen in order to appreciate their particular beauty. Words cannot describe such colors; the girl's room in this home, for example, is done in a light, bright turquoise, certainly an artist's creation in every sense of the word. Noteworthy are tasteful furnishings, a mobile in the window and fine carpeting with turquoise blue flecks and the unusual blue of the color scheme.

Built-in cabinet with hanging shelves above is of interest in the family room. In center is an enclosure for sewing machine. Top yields almost 12-foot working area.

BROWN, magenta, and turquoise are used in the boy's room. The Mexican rug on the floor emphasizes these colors and adds a note of interest to the well-furnished room.

In the master bedroom, color again marks the motif. Carpeting is in a charcoal shade, just right as a background for lavender touches in the room. Too, charcoal carpeting does not show soil which might be carried from the garage entrance to this particular room, therefore, it serves its colorful role well.

This livable and lovable home has a fruit orchard in the back yard, including lemon, orange, lime, grapefruit, cherry, and peach trees. In addition, there is a vegetable garden assigned to the care of the youngsters.

Interesting exterior of the Schwartz home provides contrast in textural and architectural treatment.

Here Come Dem Jazz Fireballs!

HALF a hundred of the world's great Dixieland jazzmen will come "floatin' down the river" at Disneyland next Saturday night, trumpets blowing and banjos strumming, when the second annual "Dixieland at Disneyland" show rocks the Magic Kingdom with New Orleans music and fun.

Louis Armstrong, the Yankee Doodle Grandee of jazz (born July 4, 1900, in New Orleans), heads the star-studded list of Dixieland talent that outshines even the first annual affair.

Joining the great "Satchmo" for the jazz festival will be: Teddy Buckner and His Dixieland Band, The Firehouse Five Plus 2, The Young Men From New Orleans, Matty Matlock and His Dixieland All-Stars, the Disneyland Strawhatters and the Albert McNeil Choir.

LIKE THE FIRST "Dixieland at Disneyland," held a year ago, this year's program will begin on the park's Rivers of America with the big "Salute to Dixieland" show.

Each Dixieland band will float down the river on a raft bathed in blue, white and magenta spotlights. Each band will play in its own distinctive style.

For the finale, more than 50 jazz artists board the Mark Twain riverboat. Under a giant display of fireworks exploding on the water and in the air, the sternwheeler, ablaze with lights, will round the bend with musicians playing "When the Saints Come Marching In."

AT SHOW'S END, a torchlight parade will start at the riverboat docks and wind its way through the streets. Bands will play, leading their followers to six locations in Disneyland where they will perform for dancing and listening until 2 a.m.

The entire Magic Kingdom turns out in full operation for the event. An all-encompassing ticket is the only "pass" required for every ride and attraction, from flying saucers to monorail, Matterhorn bobsled, jungle cruise and submarine voyage — every ride as often as desired on the one ticket.

Disneyland's regular daytime operation will terminate at 7 p.m. next Saturday. The park will then close for an hour and re-open at 8 p.m. for holders of "Dixieland at Disneyland" tickets. The river show is set for 9 p.m. with Disneyland remaining open for all rides and attractions, dancing and listening until 2 a.m.

Louis (Satchmo) Armstrong heads the cast of Dixieland at Disneyland next Saturday night at the Anaheim Park.

Teddy Buckner, who got his start with the famous Kid Ory in New Orleans, will bring his band to Disneyland.

Your Name

either German or English in background. In Germany this surname was given to honor a lineage founder who lived in the Bavarian city of Bamberg. The locality name Bamberg deciphers as "beam-tree mountain." The beam is also known as the mountain ash tree. In Britain Bamber had a similar origin, the phrase "Beam-Bearo" indicating "beam-tree grove," the site of the family home. The coat-of-arms from Bavaria has three green tree stumps on a blue shield.

DEAR MISS RULE: Please explain HILL.—E. H., Arlington; V. W., Long Beach.

E. H., V. W.: HILL, a land description source name, was for a family who lived on a hill in England in the Middle Ages. In the year 1220 Walter de la (of the) Hille was a Devonshire land owner. The Hill family of Shropshire, the oldest branch of this lineage, were granted a coat-of-arms in 1315, a silver triple-towered castle centered on a black stripe across an ermine covered shield. Robert Hill of England came to Boston, Mass., in 1635. He had six children and left a long line of American descendants.

DEAR MISS RULE: Would like your analysis of DE BARTON. — Mrs. V.M., Long Beach.

V.M.: DE BARTON ancestors migrated from their English home to Holland and Germany. This name means "From the barley farmstead." There are towns named Barton in Bedford, Devon, Lancanster, Lincoln and Stafford, England. The Barton shield granted descendants in the German Rheinland is the same as that used by this family's Yorkshire branch, a curious symbology of three golden snails centered on a red shield.

DEAR MISS RULE: Kindly give the origin of BALLING. —E. R., Lakewood.

E. R.: BALLING had an old French origin. The occupational title "Bulenger" meant "Baker." Descendants who migrated to England altered the surname to Balinger, then to Ballinger in the 1100s. Balling is a further abbreviation. German records from the Middle Ages also list descendants of this lineage. The crest for Ballinger has a dragon head with a pair of outspread wings behind it, showing family relationship to the German Ballingers. London marriage records of 1670 list the wedding of Audrey Ballinger.

Geyser Within Reach

By Enola Chamberlin

IT MIGHT be a dream-come-true to go to Yellowstone National Park to see the geysers. But if such a trip is out of the question this year, you can see one of these spouting wonders right in your own state. California has one, and it is an impressive sight as it spouts 200 feet skyward.

This geyser located not far from Calistoga and just off Hwy. 29 north of San Francisco marks the southern end of a geyser region perhaps 20 miles in length. The northernmost geysers a few miles northeast of Geyserville on Hwy. 101, have been capped to make America's first geothermal electric power generating station.

But this one geyser remains unthrottled and, like Old Faithful, it bursts forth with a strange regularity once an hour at about 10 minutes before the hour. As it reaches for the sky the steam which rushes from it brings a rainbow of surpassing beauty to crown it.

Steam brought from deep within the earth through wells has begun to spin the turbine of this geothermal plant.

October's the Month in Mexico

By Fred Taylor Kraft
Independent, Press-Telegram Travel Editor

IF, like a great many turistas, you plan a trip to Mexico in October, you have planned wisely, in many respects.

For instance, October is a gay festival month south of the border. Everywhere—almost—from the small villages to the capital itself, visitors will find themselves in the midst of some sort of a colorful native procession, Mardi gras, fair, regional dance, pilgrimage, or vivid fireworks display.

And at Mexico City, ahh. The big day is Columbus Day, which marks the start of both professional bullfight and horseracing seasons.

Traditional aficionados appear Oct. 12 to honor the opening of the bullfights, a lusty spectacle for which Mexico has become internationally famous.

IT IS IMPORTANT, too, for turistas to be able to say they were there for the "Day of the Race," which sees horses—and trackside touts—in action at the mammoth Hipodromo de las Americas.

The cultural pace of Mexico City quickens at the same time with the opera season opening with a flash of color at the Palace of Fine Arts.

Theater addicts also will enjoy the "little theater" performances—Mexican version. A leader this year promises to be the Anselmo de Llano production in Spanish of "Where's Charley?" at the Teatro del Bosque, in Chapultepec Park's quaint setting.

ELSEWHERE IN Mananaland:

Folklore, featuring liltingly sensual marimba music, is highlighted Oct. 3-7 in Constancia del Rosario, state of Oaxaca.

St. Francis of Assisi Day, Oct. 4, in all towns and villages of which the saint is a patron.

A fiesta honoring the Virgin del Rosario, Oct. 1-8, in Zapotlan del Rey, with rodeos and authentic versions of the Mexican Hat Dance (Jarabe Tapatio).

An always-colorful Mardi gras-like carnival, Oct. 5-14 in Alvarado, with parades, masquerades, and other hijinks.

The list is almost endless, but that will give you an idea: October is, indeed, a good month to go to Mexico.

JETS WILL WHIZ you from International Airport to Mexico City in something like four hours, or you can go by bus or train. If you plan to drive, routes between here and the Mexican capital are liberally sprinkled with motels charging from $3.50 to $7 per night. Accommodations in first class hotels in the capital run from $6 to $15 per night.

Mexican hotels and restaurants charge — and this info comes from a late survey of the Auto Club of Southern California—about 80 per cent of the U. S. standard. High duties make liquor about twice its U. S. price but domestic wines, tequila and kahlua cocktails are inexpensive.

Figure on paying a cabbie about 10 cents per mile, about 32 cents for admission to the best movie houses.

Tips? 15 per cent along the well-traveled routes; but bellboys in Mexico City, Acapulco and other resort areas expect a little more.

Proper change in pesos saves money when tipping, so play it smart and keep a good supply of small notes and coins on hand.

WEEKEND GADABOUTS:

This weekend marks the first of four during which special events are being held at Catalina Island. Leading off (today) is an art show in which $750 in prizes are being distributed; Sept. 30-Oct. 1 and Oct. 14-15, a troup of 30 American Indian singers and dancers; Oct. 7-8, Lakewood Drum and Bugle Corps.

CLAUS LANGE

Newly appointed regional sales manager, Los Angeles, for Lufthansa German Airlines is Claus Lange, succeeding Guenter Hoehn. His territory covers Southern California, Southern Nevada, Arizona and New Mexico. His staff of 35 includes specialists for cargo, commercial accounts, tours, interline and charters.

Newest in Luxury at Sea

The longest passenger vessel afloat—the 12-deck 68,000-ton SS France—will nose into New York Harbor next Feb. 8 on her maiden voyage from Le Havre and Southampton, inaugurating a multitude of innovations in luxury sea travel.

Incorporating the latest in marine advances and bold in its use of marine architecture and design, the France will be a two-class ship with a capacity of 500 first class and 1,500 tourist class.

The ship will be completely air-conditioned; it will have a pair of stabilizers to cut rolling to a mere two degrees; the largest (700 seating capacity) and best equipped movie theater afloat; a unique play area for children; cabins will feature technical innovations in soundproofing, lighting and communications; and two swimming pools—one outdoor and one indoor.

EQUIPPING SUCH a ship to bring the latest in marine technology and decor to today's demanding ocean traveler is an undertaking comparable to designing, constructing and decorating a modern, 1,000-high-cost-home suburb complete with restaurants, theaters, swimming pools and all the other accoutrements of luxury living.

This was reported by John J. Scotto, general agent of the French Line, who has just returned to Southern California from St. Nazaire, France, where he participated in a preview inspection of the ocean giant.

"More than half of the total cost of $100 million," Scotto pointed out, "is being lavished on equipping and decorating this new contender for the transatlantic tourist clientele."

THE FURNISHINGS of the cabins is itself equivalent to designing and decorating a hotel the size and elegance of New York's Waldorf-Astoria. The ship will have its own television studio whose programs can be seen in many of the rooms and from five different lounges.

The kitchen facilities—always the pride of the French Line— are capable of serving 9,000 meals a day, not counting tea and snacks. The tourist class dining room is the largest restaurant afloat. In it and in the other restaudants aboard ship will be served the finest in French cuisine.

It will be the third SS France to visit New York. SS France I arrived in 1872, the second in 1912.

HONG KONG

"We have heard that Japanese pearls are cheaper if you buy in Hong Kong . . ."

NOT ONLY pearls. Japanese cameras and transistor radios sell for less in Hong Kong than on the Ginza.

This is a matter of Japanese export policy—low export prices to get foreign exchange—plus the fact that Hong Kong is a free port. No duty.

Hard to say whether you'll get better prices because of Hong Kong's increasing tendency to make the fast dollar.

Quoted prices don't mean much—except in big, reliable stores such as Lane, Crawford. (Mikimoto pearl agents.) Shopkeepers are caught in a terrible squeeze between tourist guides and landlords.

Landlords are raising rents 100 per cent nearly every six months. The guide is charging 30 per cent of what you spend for bringing you there.

From all sides I hear: "Don't use a guide for anything except sightseeing."

". . . any danger with cholera in the Far East now?"

You should have the inoculations. (Two weeks apart. No uncomfortable reaction.)

I try to drink bottled water any time in the Far East. (Except Japan, where water is okay. The Japanese don't trust OUR water.)

Keep off peeled fruits, vegetables and the small market stands.

Hong Kong has inoculated 2 million of the 4 million residents. But there is no report of control inside China. And it can keep spilling over the edges anywhere.

". . . Can you suggest a good travel-Christmas present for my son and new daughter-in-law?"

If the couple is newly married, I'd suggest a cruise. Depending on what they like, Hawaii and/or the South Seas, the Caribbean, Europe or the Orient.

Matson has a cruise over Christmas and New Year that sounds good to me. On the Lurline. Two weeks, San Francisco to Acapulco, Mexico. Write Matson Public Relations, 215 Market St., San Francisco, for free information.

"Would you suggest a stopover in Fiji? What's it like?"

Depends on which way you arrive. From Australia or New Zealand you'll like it. After Tahiti it's dull.

The best trip out of Fiji is the four-day cruise to the Yasawa islands on the 10-passenger "Blue Lagoon."

He is headquartering at the Biltmore in Los Angeles.

Going Places

By SHIRLEY and BOB SLOANE

IT IS DIFFICULT to say whether Cambridge, the ancient English town, is actually so similar to many American campus communities, or whether it just has a natural familiarity about it, like an ancestral memory.

The same overflowing bookshops with their secondhand texts on rickety stands are there. So are the classy-looking men's shops behind paneled glass windows, where one can find bulky houndstooth jackets, formidable caps that go with formidable mustaches and other items of apparel that only an Englishman on a country weekend or an American college student would wear. Inevitably, there are the tea shops, apothecaries and pubs.

Where Cambridge differs from the American scene, however, is in the strange fact that the place jumps. Most Ivy League towns are notable for their decorous quiet, conducive to the summoning of muses and the contemplation of Truth.

BUT CAMBRIDGE teems. The tea-and-crumpet trade booms all day. Not only taxis and cars, but bicycles and pedestrians stream through the streets most of the day, jamming the sidewalks and roads. While American students covet English sports cars, English students have gone a step further in status-seeking and delight in 30-year-old miniature jalopies, mostly Austins, that look like scaled-down Model A Fords.

By contrast, the campus is the peaceful, vine-covered temple of learning you'd expect. Shaded walks and broad lawns spread among the old stone buildings. To visitors, the most interesting of these is the 400-year-old King's College Chapel, whence emanate the voices of the famed chapel choir via short-wave radio every Christmas Eve.

Not far from Cambridge is Eton, on whose playing fields the Duke of Wellington said he won the battle of Waterloo. Upper-class Britishers believe in bringing their kids up the hard way, and these hallowed halls look as if the battle were fought in the classrooms.

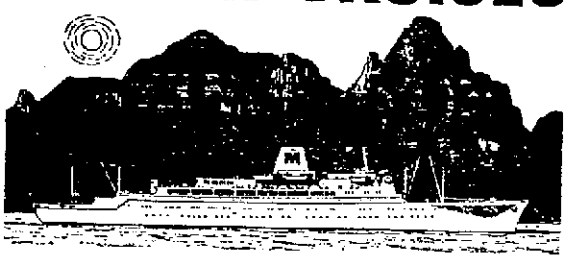

SURROUNDING a barren courtyard that looks something like the exercise area of a county jail is an unpainted two-story classroom building. Most of the rooms are dark and many have only long benches and tables instead of desks, also unpainted.

Virtually every inch of wall and desk space is carved with the names and graduation years of most of the pupils who ever labored through the soul-trying Latin, Greek and mathematics curricula. Among those names are most of Britain's famous sons, including a majority of its prime ministers, all carved when each was just another schoolboy.

Shirley and Bob Sloane will be happy to help readers with their travel problems. Address them in care of Southland Magazine, Independent, Press-Telegram, 6th and Pine, Long Beach 12, Calif.

A Fresh Look at Palms

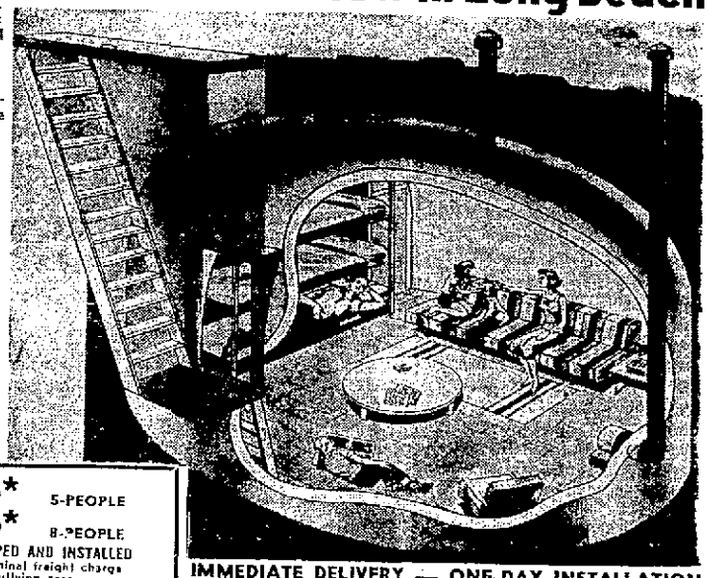

There are 4,000 known species of palms, a number of which are the pride and joy of Southland residents. Undoubtedly others would be if gardeners of the area were acquainted with them. An introduction to a large number of these plants will be found in "PALMS," a paperback book (price not given) written by Desmond Muirhead, Phoenix landscape artist.

Included in the book are methods of planting and pruning for the best results, how to move large palms, diseases, how to identify the various species, and countless suggestions on landscaping with palms.

The publisher is Dale Stuart King, Six Shooter Canyon, Globe, Ariz.

Raiding With Morgan

By Vera Williams
Independent, Press-Telegram Book Editor

"JOHN HUNT MORGAN'S great raid north of the Ohio always has intrigued me as one of the most exciting events of the Civil War," Allen Keller writes at the beginning of his new book, "MORGAN'S RAID" (Bobbs-Merrill, $5.)

He gives an account of the 25 days in the summer of 1863 when Gen. Morgan led 2,000 Confederate cavalrymen through Kentucky, Indiana and Ohio, accomplishing the deepest penetration of the North by any Confederate force during the entire Civil War.

As Keller writes, "Morgan already was one of the South's great heroes. A beau sabreur in the old tradition, with a plume on his hat and a laugh on his lips, his exploits resembled Robin Hood's.

"He had captured Union officers in their beds, whipped forces twice as strong as his own by using tricks and ruses and had a strange way of turning up far inside the enemy lines when least expected.

"A devout man, he once halted his column in the midst of a cross country chase with the Federals close behind and attended services in a small country church."

More than 120,000 Northern militia and virtually all the Union cavalry in the Midwest entered the chase. Yet not one woman or child was hurt and damage to civilian property was held to a minimum.

Says, the author, "It may well have been chivalry's last appearance on war's sordid stage."

WHAT HAS HAPPENED and is happening in Little Rock, Nashville, Clinton, New Orleans and various cities in Virginia is portrayed in "58 LONELY MEN: Southern Federal Judges and School Desegregation," by J. W. Peltason (Harcourt, Brace & World, $4.95). Peltason, professor of political science at the University of Illinois, describes the 58 judges in the circuit and district courts of the South, charged with carrying out the decisions of the U. S. Supreme Court against segregation, and the pressures put on them.

IN THE DEEP SOUTH an 8-year-old boy is convicted of an obviously trumped up charge of rape. Quickly it becomes an international cause celebre. The world publicity spotlight centered on the small town brings out chicanery, selfishness, political ambitions and the warm love of a family. "THE PROUD AMERICAN BOY," by Russell Braddon (St. Martin's, $4.95).

ASK THE AVERAGE person who Lucy Stone was and he answers: "That woman who refused to take her husband's name when she married."

Lucy Stone was a good deal more than that, she was a militant leader in the cause of women's rights, she fought for the abolition of slavery, and she was deeply in love with and deeply loved by her husband, Henry Blackwell.

Elinor Rice Hays—who up to now has written books under her maiden name of Elinor Rice—is the talented author of "MORNING STAR: A Biography of Lucy Stone, 1818-1893" (Harcourt, Brace & World, $5.75).

Lucy Stone's career spanned a turbulent period in American history. With her, through the pages of this biography, move William Lloyd Garrison, Wendell Phillips, Julia Ward Howe and Susan B. Anthony.

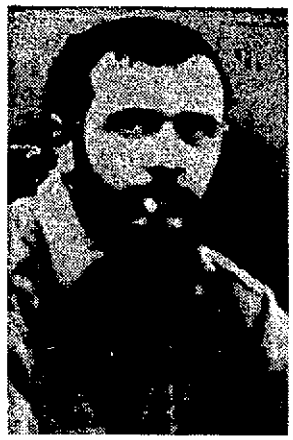

CHARLES F. KETTERING, a modest man, came out of the Ohio hills to change everyone's lives. He put the self-starter in the automobile, invented knockless gasoline, the electric cash register, the safe coolant for the refrigerator and developed the lightweight diesel engine.

It took 14,999 tests to get the knocks out of gasoline.

Boss Ket worked 24 hours a day for five days in a row to reduce the size of a self-starter so it would fit a waiting Cadillac.

In the last years of his life he worked on two projects: how to use the sun's ray to increase the world's supply of food, and how to cure cancer.

"BOSS KET: A Life of Charles F. Kettering," by Rosamond McPherson Young, (Longmans, Green, $3.50).

DON BERRY

A lusty story of the winning of the West, particularly the expansion of the Rocky Mountain Fur Co., is told by Berry in "A MAJORITY OF SCOUNDRELS" (Harper, $8.95).

Revered Zionist

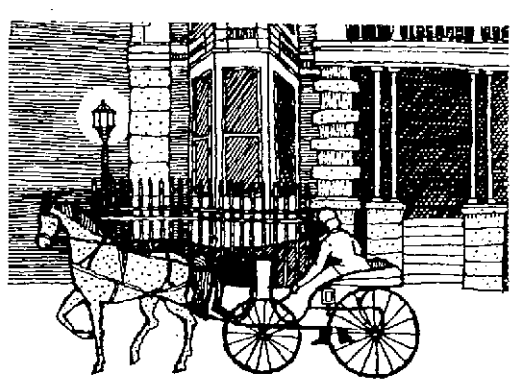

The life of a magnificent woman is recounted in "WOMAN OF VALOR: The Story of Henrietta Szold," by Irving Fineman (Simon and Schuster, $5.95). Founder of Hadassah, the women's Zionist organization of America, Miss Szold is revered as a Zionist leader who helped bring about the establishment of Israel, and saved the lives of thousands of Jewish children.

Few know that these accomplishments were based on heartbreak. At the age of 49 she faced the shattering realization that the one man in her life, a brilliant professor years younger than she, did not love her.

He married another woman and Miss Szold went on a trip of healing to Palestine. There she realized the purpose of her life: to find a way in which women might help make real the ancient dream of a Jewish homeland.

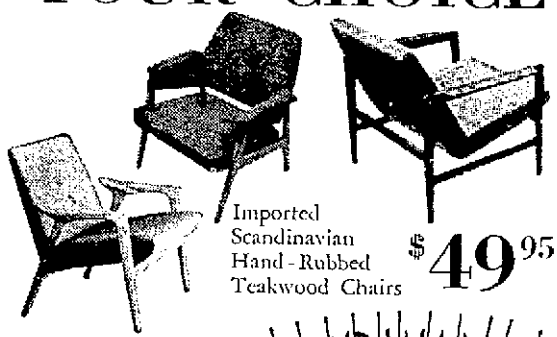

When Hitler rose to power, she went alone into Berlin, at the age of 74, to rescue Jewish children from the Nazi regime and bring them to Palestine.

Fineman writes with compassion, a lively sense of the significant, and keen insight into the lonely heart of a brave woman.

THIS IS THE JACKET DRAWING for "BROWNSTONE GOTHIC" by Elizabeth Shenkin, a Rinehart suspense novel about New York in the 1870s (Holt, Rinehart and Winston, $3.50.)

New Aids for Lens Fans Readied

By Irving Desfor

A DIVERSIFIED assortment of new products, designed to make photography easier, better or more viewable, was demonstrated recently at press showings. They will be available shortly for camera fans.

Among the items that evoked spontaneous interest is a revolutionary new slide projector, the "Carousel." Its unique feature is a circular, 80-slide revolving tray which sits atop the machine and which cannot be jammed according to the Kodak engineers who designed it.

THIS PROVED an irresistible challenge to the assembled critics who thereupon did their durndest to disprove it. The machine, however, outwitted them. It went on its appointed automatic rounds, changing tempo, direction and focus at manual or remote control command with nary a slip, skip or jam.

A switch control cuts the light output from 500 to 300 watts to match the needs of dark or light slides.

The Carousel's circular slide tray slips into place, and is changed for another batch of pictures, somewhat like a phonograph record. Slides are numbered, can be edited instantly — yet are locked in place securely even if the tray is turned upside down. Each tray is stored in a book-like indexed case for shelf filing. They accept 35mm, 828 bantam and super slides.

Upside down, but not out! New circular tray with 80 slides held by inner ring. It revolves, and is jam proof.

A "NEW LOOK" has also come to the indestructible box camera. In its newest version, the Brownie Super 27 camera has an unusual horizontal format with the shutter release a finger tip on the top. The large, bright viewfinder is at one edge, alongside the 3-element f/8 lens. On the other side is a recessed, built-in flash unit covered by a hinged lid which pops open at the touch of a button.

The normal shooting speed of 1/80th is automatically changed when the flash unit door opens to a flash-shooting speed of 1/40th of a second. A tiny AG-1 flashbulb can be left in the flash unit with the lid closed. It will be fired only by opening the door.

The camera takes size 127 roll films to make 12 pictures which can be black-and-white, color prints or color slides according to the type used.

This 6-ounce gadget can be placed up to 25 feet away from any camera using a midget flashbulb with no connecting wires between them. When the camera flash is fired, the remote flash goes off simultaneously, triggered by a tiny electric eye.

This inexpensive slave unit accepts M2, M5, M25, No. 5 and No. 25 flashbulbs. Several can be strategically placed to produce dramatic side- and backlighting or to provide even illumination for large group or interior shots. Their light must never bounce back into the camera lens. Properly used, they add a professional touch to pictures.

Slices of bologna, salami, cheese and tomato slipped between buttered Italian bread slices fill this loaf.

FOOD

Snack-Time Loaf

By Mildred K. Flanary
Independent Press-Telegram Home Economics Editor

TAKE A GROUP of young people, add some back-to-school activity, and you have a recipe for appetites which are completely boundless. To meet the situation try Cotto Bologna Sandwich Loaf.

This snack-time treat is easy to make and fun to serve. Tucked between slices of Italian bread are favorite sliced cold meats, lettuce, tomatoes and cheese. Zesty cotto salami and mildly seasoned all meat bologna are popular.

To assemble the sandwich loaf, slice a loaf of Italian bread nearly through and brush every other pair of facing slices with melted butter. Fold slices of bologna and cotto salámi in half and tuck between the buttered slices. Add crisp lettuce, thin slices of tomatoes and cheese.

To complete this easy snack, serve iced tea or lemonade.

Dogs Will Strut...And Run, Too!

By Eleanor Avery Price

Afghan in a hurry! New sport of Afghan racing will be a special event at Santa Ana Valley Kennel Club benched show, obedience trial today.

SANTA ANA Valley Kennel Club today presents its anniversary benched show and obedience trial at Orange County Fairgrounds, 20391 Newport Blvd., Costa Mesa. Always on its toes to give spectators their money's worth, the club will run Afghan hound racing under the supervision of the Orange County Hound Coursing Assn.

Afghan hound racing was founded in California by Earl Stites in the northern part of the state in the late 1950s after Stites had become enthusiastic over whippet races seen at a Del Monte Kennel Club show at Pebble Beach. A number of problems were involved including obtaining suitable muzzles, a satisfactory machine to pull a lure, and electric starting boxes. But eventually race sessions began, with Afghans performing outstandingly well.

A TALK to Southern California Afghan owners by Stites intrigued the fanciers and, under the leadership of Bill and Gini Withington (Stormhill Kennels), Pasadena, the Afghan Racing Association was formed, the first trial races being held in Stormhill's fenced "west 40." Results were both hilarious and spectacular and since then regular races, complete with hurdles, have been held in San Fernando and Flintridge.

In early 1961, Stites was transferred to Santa Ana in Southern California where he interested Afghan fanciers in this area in the new Orange County Hound Coursing Assn. Hounds other than Afghans are welcome to come to the practice trials at Orange County Fairgrounds.* This new sport appears to be here to stay. It is run for fun, with scraps of fur as lures, no betting, and lacks the cruelty of races in some other states where dogs, usually greyhounds, are exterminated if not the fastest.

VARIOUS BREEDS of hounds, being built on different lines, have different racing abilities. The Afghan, for example, with his big, thick pads and high, far apart hip bones, can pivot and execute maneuvers that would snap a greyhound's leg, and Afghans can leap around craggy terrain with the agility of a mountain goat, their tremendous coats protecting them from rocks and their endurance staying with them long after other hounds become exhausted.

Of course, any hound used in coursing should be in top condition. Hearts and lungs must be able to take the grind. A fine way to build up a dog for racing is to take him on long steady walks once or twice daily, going up eventually to 8 miles for large hounds. Also, the dogs need to frolic in clear spaces such as a tennis court or isolated beach. When the hound is conditioned, and he must be kept that way with regular walks and exercise, he is ready for trial races.

FALL FUTURITY and match of the Basset Hound Club of Southern California will be held Oct. 1 at Cortez Park, West Covina. Entries taken at the park until noon.

GERMAN Shepherd Club of Long Beach will have a puppy match Oct. 1 at Recreation Park, Tenth St. and Federation Ave., judging to start at noon.

Camellias are prized among Long Beach area gardeners for their decorative foliage as well as floral color.

Camellias Pay Off

By Joe Littlefield

EXCEPT for one minor factor, japonica camellias would be the number one evergreen shrub selection for all gardens. This limitation is the exposure factor; in most cases camellias should have some shade.

Certain varieties need more shade than sun, but over all, they'll stand up to a half day of sun and half day of shade, excepting in dry, hot, and desert areas.

Plants in dense shade flower less abundantly, and sometimes, not at all.

A WELL KNOWN wholesale nursery company states that japonica camellias will stand cold down to 20, even 10 degrees above zero. They'll grow better if watered only when thirsty. Camellias on north and west sides of house may be watered two to three times a month, where the soil is medium heavy. Soil should be soaked two to three feet deep. Between waterings, shower foliage a couple of times a week. Feed camellias three times a year, with camellia food.

Gardeners who water their camellias several times a week eventually create sodium alkali condition, and plants eventually suffer. Plants show this condition in the leaves, first in small brown spots. Later the spots enlarge, finally merge together to form brown edges along leaves.

MRS. GOLDIE DOVALIS
Not a Nickname

MOST PEOPLE think Goldie Dovalis' first name must be a nickname. But it isn't.

Curious about it, friends and aquaintances sometimes ask: "Were you a blond baby? Is that where your name comes from?"

The answer, surprisingly, is no. She was born with coal black hair and has been a brunette all her life. The name was supplied by her father who decided before she was born that Goldie was a perfect name for a little girl whether she was blond or brunette.

Mrs. Dovalis is as unusual as her name. She is unquestionably one of the hardest working professional women in Long Beach. Co-owner of the elegant Currie's Santa Fe restaurant, 1735 W. Pacific Hwy., she arrives there at noon and remains until midnight, working this long and difficult 12-hour shift seven days a week. Thanks to such devotion to duty, she and her skilled husband, Gabriel, have turned Currie's Santa Fe into one of Long Beach's finest dining places.

When Mr. and Mrs. Dovalis took over as owners 14 years ago, Currie's Santa Fe consisted of one fairly large room with 16 tables. Down through the years the couple has enlarged and redesigned the place until now it has seating for 250 persons in two dining rooms, two banquet rooms and a spacious cocktail lounge. A few weeks ago, the restaurant's exterior was completely restyled with brick and a low slanting roof, adding fresh interest.

Hundreds of satisfied customers rate Currie's Santa Fe as definitely one of the city's best steak houses. Featured are superb charcoal-broiled T-bones and Kansas City steaks as well as filets, sirloins and New Yorks priced from $2.85 up. The restaurant also has a reputation for outstanding sea foods.

TRANQUILIZERS

Here are new facts about these controversial, much-discussed drugs

Dr. Frank Berger

Is it safe to take tranquilizers? Do they really help you? Today, answers are important because since the "mood pills" have come into wide use, misconceptions and a careless public attitude have grown up about them. Yet, 17 million or more prescriptions for tranquilizers are written in the U.S. each year. They now rank second in sales to antibiotics. To get the facts about these drugs, PARADE asked 21 questions of Dr. Frank Berger, discoverer of Miltown (chemical name: meprobamate), one of the earliest tranquilizers. He is president of Wallace Laboratories, Cranbury, N.J.

by ROBERT P. GOLDMAN

Q. Tranquilizers have been used increasingly in the past five years. Is there anything new about them?

A. Yes. We have learned a great deal about whom they can help, whom they cannot help, their strengths, limitations and what might be developed in the future.

Q. Aren't people overusing—and doctors overprescribing—these drugs?

A. In my opinion, no. Of course, the drug can be abused in individual cases. However, in general, the normal healthy individual avoids dosing himself with pills. As for doctors, they generally prescribe tranquilizers for people they believe can be helped by them.

Q. Can these drugs really cure mental illness?

A. They do not cure anything. They may alleviate symptoms and open the way to more complete treatment and understanding of the problem.

Q. Do tranquilizers create a feeling of happiness?

A. No. However, they can make your problem seem less forbidding by removing or decreasing unreasonable anxiety. This is a basic virtue of the drugs.

Q. What is their actual effect?

A. They relieve anxiety, calm you down, make you better able to endure the situation you find upsetting. The "situation" may involve anything from visiting the dentist to sweating out a new job.

Q. Are there emotional conditions for which tranquilizers simply don't work?

A. Certainly. If a mother is anxious because her child is sick, she's not likely to be helped by tranquilizers. Hers are normal, healthy jitters. Tranquilizers work best when there is no real cause to justify emotional distress.

Q. What kind of anxiety does yield to tranquilizers?

A. Doctors call it "free-floating anxiety." The individual is always on edge, but cannot tell why. He feels vaguely uneasy. Added stress becomes the final straw that makes him extremely nervous and excitable.

Q. What types of troubled patients gain benefits?

A. Those who are extremely jittery or overexcitable and psychotics who have delusions and who fall out of touch with reality.

Q. How many different tranquilizers are available today for prescription use by disturbed patients?

A. More than 40. They fall into three basic chemical categories: meprobamate, chlorpromazine, reserpine.

Q. Do these drugs produce any ill effects?

A. All drugs, tranquilizers included, may have harmful effects when taken by people who cannot tolerate them. However, when carefully prescribed, tranquilizers do not produce serious side effects.

Q. Is it dangerous to take an overdose?

A. An overdose of any drug is dangerous. Skin blotches, weakness, drowsiness and changes in vision have been reported as occasional effects of ordinary tranquilizer doses. In rare cases, blood disorders have developed.

Q. Should you drive a car after taking a tranquilizer?

A. Most people can do so safely. However, a few may find that their efficiency is somewhat impaired. Such persons should be cautious about driving or operating any machinery which can be life-endangering.

Q. Can you take tranquilizers safely for life?

A. I believe that the majority of patients can—providing they are closely supervised by their doctors.

Q. You hear that tranquilizers are good for almost everything from overweight to heart trouble to ulcers. Do they have that wide a range of effectiveness?

A. They are not "good for almost everything." They can help in cases where anxiety arises from physical illness. Thus, tranquilizers are prescribed often for symptoms of menopause, certain types of headache, chest pain associated with heart trouble, insomnia, some menstrual disorders and muscular spasm.

Q. Are there conditions, strongly associated with emotional problems for which tranquilizers do little if any good?

A. Yes. I don't think they can be of much help in getting the overweight individual to lose unwanted pounds. Nor can they do much to clear up certain skin conditions which are thought to be caused by mental unrest. I doubt also whether they can do much in ulcer cases, because ulcers, I feel, are caused not by tensions but by chemical factors in the body.

Q. Can tranquilizers make you outdo yourself on the job or in an emergency?

A. I doubt it. I doubt that they can make a slugger out of a mediocre ballplayer. These drugs don't increase your natural capacities. They may help you to realize them.

Q. Haven't tranquilizers changed the mental hospital picture?

A. They have helped. Since tranquilizers and psychic energizers have come on the scene, mental hospital patient loads have decreased slightly, reversing a trend of many years.

Q. What is a psychic energizer?

A. A drug which, unlike the tranquilizer, can lift the patient out of the doldrums of depression.

Q. Will research produce more and better drugs to combat emotional disorders in the years ahead?

A. We hope so. We need new and effective drugs to treat criminal behavior, which I'm sure results very often from brain abnormality.

Q. Is there any new evidence to that effect?

A. Yes. Doctors in England have found that in 90 per cent of certain groups of convicted criminals, there are abnormal wave patterns as shown by standard measurement techniques. Perhaps drugs of the future might be able to make these brain waves normal and thus prevent the individual from committing crime.

Q. Are there any other frontiers for new drugs in this field of emotional well-being?

A. There are experiments with drugs aimed at improving your performance in tasks which you know produce anxiety and tension. ■

A new way to train your dog

by RICHARD A. WOLTERS

TODAY IS THE BEGINNING OF National Dog Week. Authorities say that the 26 million dogs in this country are largely affectionate parasites living off the land. Yet it takes little time, knowledge and skill to make a pet of your dog, not a pest.

Now experts at Hamilton Station, an animal behavior laboratory in Maine, have revised our timing about the mental development of dogs in a way that simplifies the training job.

For hundreds of years it was believed that the comparison of dog and man was a ratio of 1 to 7. That is, a 1-year-old dog was like a 7-year-old boy, a 3-year-old was like a 21-year-old man and a 7-year-old was like a man in middle age. According to the new information, this ratio is strictly physiological, without bearing on the mental development of a dog. We now know that a 7-week-old pup has attained his full mental capacity.

The new research has shown that the dog's mental growth divides into five critical periods:

FIRST PERIOD (0 to 21 days): A dog's brain in these three weeks is likened to an electric circuit completely wired but not connected to the current. A puppy's needs now are food, sleep and warmth.

SECOND PERIOD (21 to 28 days): His brain and nervous system start to develop. He has an absolute need for his mother.

THIRD PERIOD (28 to 49 days): The pup starts to investigate the world around him. He will now recognize people and respond to voices. He now starts to learn simple things.

FOURTH PERIOD (8 through 11 weeks): Here's where you must enter the picture. Research has proved that at no other time in a dog's life will he establish as strong a bond with man as he will in these next four weeks.

The dog must get a sense of security from his new home. He must have daily play periods with his trainer, must also learn to put up with such irritations as wearing a collar and walking on a leash.

At this point the command of quiet can be taught:

firmly grab his snout, squeeze a little, stoutly giving the command and repeating it.

FIFTH PERIOD (12 to 16 weeks): This is where the pup has a strong desire to please, but also declares his independence. Now man and dog determine who will be boss.

Commands in this period are one-word affairs. Use a brisk voice, remembering that it's not a request you are giving. Don't call your dog by saying, "Come, Fido. Come on boy, over here."

Class should be held off by yourselves, without distractions. Have him on the leash. Don't feed him every time he does something good. Let his brain work, not his stomach. When his tail goes down and his head starts to droop, he's had enough. But end the lesson on a happy note. Play with him and give him some loving.

Most important is your stance. Don't tower over the pup, it's a threat to his animal instincts. Lean over, show him you want to be friends.

To teach sit, put him on the leash. Place him on your left side. Command sit. With the leash in the right hand, gently pull up, hold up his head. At the same time the left hand pushes his hindquarters down to the ground. Keep repeating this until the only pressure needed on his hindquarters is the touch of the fingers. Within a week, he should do it on command.

To teach stay, first command him to sit. With the leash in the left hand, step around in front of him. Continue to hold his head up. Place your right hand in front of his face, palm out toward him. Command stay. Take one step backward. Motion with the hand to stop and command stay again. If he breaks, start over. Gradually you will be able to go the full length of the leash. In a week he should do this without the leash.

To teach come, have the dog sit, stay. Get a few yards in front of him, turn, run away from him, clasp your hands and command come. He should respond and run to you with enthusiasm. Gradually reduce the running and he will come on voice command only.

To teach heel, hold the leash short, keep him at your side. Teach your dog to walk with you, not you with him. If he's reluctant and holds back, bring him along gently. When he gets used to this he may soon want to bolt ahead. A sharp yank will stop him. At the same time command heel. Hold him on the leash where he is, walk up to him, start over. If he really wants to lead, carry a stick, hold him back with taps on his chest. He will get the idea.

To teach down, don't step on his back paws when he jumps up, as some trainers suggest. Instead, bring your knee up sharply against his chest. Knock him off balance, commanding down at the same time. This is such a surprise to him that he learns fast.

By the time your dog is 4 months old you will know each other well. Many times you will think the dog is almost talking to you and you will have to stifle a temptation to bark back. ■

STAY: Place right hand on dog's face, palm out toward him. This may be learned in week's time.

When the quiz show,* The Price is Right, first started on radio in 1956, Cullen was its quiz master and has been with the program ever since, on both radio and television. A victim of infantile paralysis, Bill refused to let the crippling effects of the disease prevent him from becoming a first-rate pilot. His two favorite hobbies are his wife, former Hollywood starlet Anne Mocamber, and flying. Here are a few of Bill's favorite jokes:

by BILL CULLEN

A RESTAURANT specializing in exotic foods offered $1,000 to anyone who ordered a dish which the eating place could not supply. One customer requested an elephant tusk sandwich on French bread. The waiter left and returned a few minutes later, sadly reporting that he could not fill the diner's request.

"Aha," said the man. "You don't have any elephant tusks?"

"No," said the waiter, very much embarrassed. "We have an entire freezer full of elephant tusks. It's just that we're out of French bread."

A NEWSPAPERMAN interviewed a gnarled, grizzled old man sitting, with his hands folded in his lap, behind his farm house.

"Sir, I'd like to know the secret of your long life," asked the reporter.

"I drank a gallon of whiskey, smoked 50 cigars and went out dancing, every day of my life," said the man.

"Remarkable!" said the reporter, "and exactly how old are you?"

"Twenty-seven," was the reply.

IN AN OFFICE which displayed one of those enormous signs reading THINK, someone carefully scrawled underneath: OR THWIM.

A YOUNG MAN from the city found himself completely lost on a lonely country road. He reached a crossroads where, providentially, an old rustic was leaning against a fence.

"Does this road take me to town?" asked the baffled urbanite.

"It might," said the farmer.

"How about the other road?"

"Can't rightly say!" replied the farmer.

"You don't know much, do you?" said the young man angrily.

"I guess not," agreed the farmer. "But at least I ain't lost!"

THE WIDOW EXPECTED to inherit all her late husband's wealth. Instead, she learned from the lawyer that her husband had left her $5. Everything else went to his secretary.

Naturally the widow was furious. She drove to the tombstone establishment and summarily ordered the inscription on her husband's monument changed.

"I'm sorry," said the chiseler. "You told me to inscribe 'Rest in Peace' on the stone, and that's what I did. I can't change it now unless you want to buy a new stone."

The widow thought for a moment, then said, "Right after the words, 'Rest in Peace,' you just chisel in, 'Till We Meet Again.' "

SITTING QUIETLY in a bar, a man was suddenly amazed to see a British colonel, in full regalia, only 2 inches tall. Convinced he'd had one too many, he closed his eyes, then re-opened them. Sure enough, at the other end of the bar was the two-inch colonel.

He called the bartender over. "Am I going crazy or is that fellow two inches tall?"

"The colonel?" said the bartender. "Yeah, that's right."

"How can that be?" asked the man.

"Say, Colonel," the barman shouted to the British officer. "Tell this fellow about the time you dated the witch doctor's daughter."

YOU'VE HEARD, I'm sure, about the husband who one morning at shaving time started shouting from the bathroom at the top of his lungs.

Finally his wife awoke and dutifully inquired, "What's wrong, Herman?"

Screamed Herman: "It's my blankety-blank brand-new razor. It won't cut."

There was a momentary pause and then the wife's irrefutably logical answer: "Don't be foolish, Herman. Your beard can't possibly be tougher than the kitchen linoleum."

If the worst should happen

WHERE THE WORLD LEADERS WOULD HIDE

by JACK ANDERSON

Parade Washington correspondent

IN DAYS OF OLD when knights were bold, wars were courteous affairs, at least for the kings and their captains. True, some conquerors, like the Huns, Moors and Mongols, had a disagreeable habit of lopping off heads. But among the more civilized warriors of the Dark Ages this was frowned upon as bad etiquette. Thus England's Black Prince, after seizing France's King John the Good, waited personally on the vanquished monarch and bent his knee every time he brought in the meat platter or wine jug.

But unhappily for monarchs, such amenities went up in the smoke of World War I. World War II was even rougher. Rulers found themselves ducking bullets and bombs along with their subjects.

Today the great hope is that peace and sound judgment will prevail. But if the worst should happen, no man, no matter how exalted, can count himself safe. Thus the world's leaders have been digging in. In what may go down as the beginning of man's return to the cave, they have built some magnificent bomb shelters.

Nikita Khrushchev has probably the most elaborate of all shelters. It is fitted out like Noah's Ark to survive another world catastrophe. Comrade K has Stalin to thank for this underground refuge.

Stalin picked the spot, in the granite crags of the Caucasus, after an elaborate search. He ordered a survey of a legendary cave where supposedly the irate gods bound Prometheus to the rock and left him to be clawed by an eagle. It was too inaccessible. Jason's cave, also famed in legend, was discarded for the same reason. Finally the old tyrant settled on the Uplis-Tsikhe cavern, five miles from the town of Gori in Southern Georgia, where he lived as a boy.

The cave presents a view of breathtaking beauty. Below are the misty marshes and pistachio groves through which the Kura River wends its way to the Caspian Sea. Around its entrance are stands of cherry laurel and, higher still, groves of pine and aspen.

Stalin dug new tunnels and chambers, turned the cave into an under-the-mountain city with its own power plant, communications system, stocks of food, wines, medicines. He even installed a small collective farm where fruit and vegetables are grown in artificial sunshine, and a pasture where cows can graze and provide fresh milk. There are 300 chambers in the Uplis-Tsikhe cavern.

Khrushchev's subterranean hideaway is too far from Moscow to reach in an emergency. Intelligence reports claim the dictator has prepared himself a handier Ubezhishche, a deep bomb shelter of reinforced concrete, within easy running distance from his office.

Mao Tse-tung of Red China, an experienced cave dweller, has prepared an emergency headquarters in a series of caverns in the Hsi-shan, or West Mountains, 10 to 15 miles northwest of Peking. From this secure redoubt, Mao is prepared to contemplate the loss of half of China's 700 million population. This is the number he has said China could afford to sacrifice in a nuclear war.

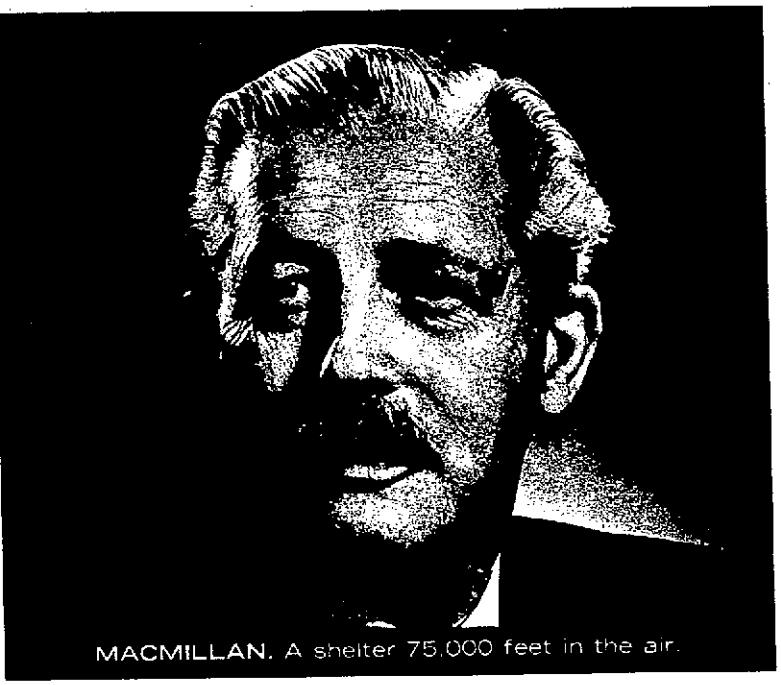

When Mao started his Red rebellion, he holed up in the squalid, lice-infested caves of Yenan. But the old rebel, after a decade in power, has become soft. His new cave dwellings, while not as elaborate as the Khrushchev retreat, are cozy and vermin free.

Konrad Adenauer, West Germany's chancellor, inherited his nuclear hideaway from a man he detested —Adolf Hitler. It lies under the Berghof Pavilion, better known as Hitler's "Eagle's Nest," at Berchtesgaden in the Upper Bavarian mountains. Natural caves have been blasted out to make an air-conditioned underground fortress for 60 people, complete with stocks of food, water, tools, medicine and arms. There is also a secret getaway passage through the mountains.

Adenauer also has a bomb shelter near his office in Bonn. Constructed of reinforced concrete, the roof is covered with layers of soil to minimize radiation.

Charles de Gaulle, France's President, probably would sit out an attack in a deep dungeon under the historic Ile de la Cité, right in the heart of Paris. The island was first built into a fortress in 358 A.D. by the Roman Emperor Julian the Apostate, who used the dungeons to store silver coins.

alive those within. The shelter has its own oxygen plant, so outlets can be sealed.

The granite roof is 80 feet thick. The 50-ton doors are set at an angle to be blast-proof, and the walls are honeycombed to reduce the blast force. The furnishings are futuristic. Among the supplies are books on archeology for King Gustav, a bug on the subject, who might want something to read during the attack. With typical Swedish thriftiness, the invulnerable hideaway has a peace-time use as a royal garage.

Elizabeth II and Harold Macmillan, Prime Minister of Britain, both veterans of the London blitz, haven't gone to extremes. The Buckingham Palace wine cellars have been reinforced; there is Churchill's old bomb-proof headquarters near Admiralty House; several huge underground radar stations are also available. These are reasonably safe, except from direct hit.

PARADE understands, however, that the Queen and her ministers have been thinking more in terms of going up than down for safety. The royal family and chief ministers would take to the air in Vulcan or Victor bombers which would soar to 75,000 feet. The government could even be transferred in hours to Canada to fight on from there.

President Kennedy and our own leaders have the great underground Pentagon that has been established in the hills of West Virginia. Only the precise location is secret. The President, his family and chief aides can be whisked there in less than 30 minutes by helicopter. Here, invulnerable to nuclear attack, a government in miniature is ready.

Under the White House itself is an emergency bomb shelter encased in four feet of solid concrete, reinforced with steel. Built originally for the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt, it has a sloping entrance and an emergency exit. This presidential dugout is not furnished for plush living. The President and his aides would sleep on metal cots, sit on straight chairs, work at plain wooden tables. Simple meals would be prepared in a tiny kitchen.

Though it measures a modest 100 by 50 feet, the shelter is equipped with its own heating system, power plant, communications network and water supply. All facilities are completely independent of the city overhead. Should surface Washington ever be demolished, its heart could keep on beating below ground.

Where one American family would hide

VESTAL, N.Y.

THE WHITE CLAPBOARD HOME of Lee Carpenter, his wife and two children looks like any other on Woodlawn Drive here. But under the backyard is an 11'-x-11'-x-6½' fallout shelter. Why did Carpenter, a computer expert who has worked on defense systems, build it? Should you do the same? His answer:

"My profession first made me aware of the danger. As far back as 1958, I became convinced that the Soviet aimed at dominating the world and would use force to do it. In this situation, with no real defense against missiles, the only course left is to dig. I owe it to my children to give them a chance to survive.

"I built my shelter in 1959. My neighbors were, well, tolerant of the idea. The shelter consists of about 60 tons of concrete and cost me about as much as a medium-priced car. That's high; ours could keep eight to 10 people alive three to four weeks. Most cost about $500.

"We largely followed the Civil Defense specifications. We have specially-designed ceramic filters that are supposed to filter out radioactive fallout, an emergency air supply, canned water, a chemical toilet—all the things people have heard about.

"This is no game we're playing. I know people shy away from the subject, or say they wouldn't want to survive in 'such a world.' But who knows? If enough of us had holes to hide in, we could put our civilization back together in 15 years. It's the people we've got to save."

THE LANGUAGE BATTLE

The U.S. is in high gear now—but did we start too late?

by ED KIESTER

In Bountiful, Utah: "AH-nah bah-TAH-lehm LOH-hah gah-DEE-dah."

In San Francisco: "Woh tsai sheh sheeng-teh hwa."

Translated, each sentence means, "I am learning to speak a new language." Respectively, the languages are Arabic, Chinese, Swahili, Russian. In other schools, students are learning Swedish, Portuguese, Norwegian, Hebrew, Czech and Greek—as well as the common standbys of French, Spanish, German and Italian.

For the U.S. is suddenly off on a language kick. It extends to all ages, to all states—and to a whole babble of tongues. Although statistics are elusive, more than 5 million Americans may be mastering new languages this fall. And this buildup—with its heartening implications for the cold war—has come about almost overnight, without most people being aware of it.

Here's what is happening in and out of schools:

ELEMENTARY SCHOOL: Most dramatic developments have come here: enrollments in language classes have jumped 700 per cent in six years. Today 2 million grade-schoolers acquire a speaking acquaintance with another tongue. Most programs aim only at teaching good accent, basic vocabulary, leaving fluency for later. Most taught languages: Spanish, French.

HIGH SCHOOL: Language classes, up 20 per cent in a year (1958-59), now total over 1½ million. Even more encouraging is the striking gain in four-year students, who thus achieve real language mastery.

COLLEGE: Numbers in language courses are increasing twice as fast as college population. Studying languages this fall: more than 600,000. Included are would-be language teachers, badly needed in schools, and students in little-known, exotic tongues.

PRIVATE INSTRUCTION: Enrollments at Berlitz, best known private language school, have tripled in five years -- largely because of U.S. business expansion overseas. Sales of self-instruction records and books are swelling.

All this is encouraging news for the U.S., since language is a key weapon in the struggle to win over the uncommitted peoples. And it may likewise affect our relations with the Soviet itself. "We cannot understand what is in the minds of other people if we cannot even speak to them," President Kennedy has warned.

A few years ago, language was the most neglected subject in the curriculum. The narrowing gap is due to Sputnik, the James B. Conant study of the high schools—and a $43 million federal crash program.

But has the increased pace been fast enough? Many experts fear it has not. "I wish literally millions of Americans would study Spanish and Portuguese," former President Eisenhower declared after his Latin-American tour.

The Big Push at Creve Coeur

But dramatic changes are being made. Take, for instance, what has happened in the Parkway schools, in the St. Louis suburb of Creve Coeur (see photo). There you are as likely to be greeted with the Russian "Dobrey den" as "Good morning." More than 850 students between 8 and 13 are learning Russian. Nowhere else is the subject being taught so intensively to so many young students.

This start-'em-early program isn't unlike the Soviet approach, where 10 years of second-language instruction begins in nursery school. And the hope of better relations between Americans and Russians is one reason for the Creve Coeur project.

Says C. W. Farnham, Parkway superintendent: "We hope, through the language, to study the history, geography and customs of a nation with which it is increasingly important to maintain sound relations."

After a year's study, a Parkway student is expected to know 150 Russian words. After four years, his vocabulary should be 600. Comparably, three years in nursery school English gives a Russian 300 words. PARADE observed one of these classes in action (see cover) and can testify to the language abilities of the 5- to 7-year-olds.

Parkway students responded so well to the program's first year that it has been expanded. Last year it was taught in third through sixth grade, in four schools. This year it has been initiated in seventh grade and will begin in all schools. In 1962 school officials plan an eighth-grade course, and they will keep expanding until 10 years' study has been set up.

Gregor Breitberg, 42, a stocky, amiable refugee with a University of Moscow degree in languages, is the entire faculty, teaching five hours daily in five schools. He also instructs an adult class, briefs the classroom teachers to assist him and draws up teaching materials.

Each student sees him only a half hour a week, but it is a lively period. Breitberg, an accomplished violinist once with the St. Louis Symphony, often brings along his instrument and his two musical sons and teaches Russian songs. The students' first-semester repertoire is apt to include harvest melodies and Christmas carols. Breitberg finds singing a good way to put across new words, especially with younger students.

He doesn't strive to build big vocabularies, however, aiming more for good pronunciation. He also tries to instill a working knowledge of Russian's difficult 33-character alphabet. One early lesson is how to count the Russian way. In the halls of Parkway schools, you hear the chant, "Adeen-dva-tree-chatyri-pyat . . ."

What's Russian for "Blackboard"?

When Breitberg isn't teaching, classroom teachers (most of whom never heard a word of Russian until two years ago) conduct drills. They also use Russian words for classroom objects such as "blackboard" or "desk." And each has on call a tape recorder with refresher tapes of Breitberg in action.

And perhaps the tipoff on student enthusiasm came this year. Given an opportunity to pull out of the program, only a handful did.

"Think what this kind of program could do!" exults Assistant Superintendent Arthur Mallory, echoing the sentiments of language teachers — and government officials across the U.S. "Suppose we could turn out 25 or 30 youngsters who could communicate — really communicate — with the Russians. Think what that might do for America and the whole world!" ■

Mitzi Gaynor and husband Jack Bean made deal for $40,000-a-week night-club act—and possible starring role for Mitzi in the film The Fanny Brice Story.

MITZI GAYNOR

Why she's worth $40,000 a week

Famous role for Mitzi was Nellie Forbush in South Pacific. She sings medley from movie in night-club act.

by LLOYD SHEARER

LAS VEGAS, NEV.

LAST MONTH MITZI GAYNOR, 30, finished a six-week stint at the Flamingo here.

She was paid $40,000 a week, one of the most astronomical salaries ever paid any entertainer in Las Vegas' high-priced history.

Amazingly enough, this was Mitzi's first night-club job, and her primary reason for taking it was, "I didn't have anything else to do."

Translated, this means Mitzi Gaynor was unemployed. In Hollywood there was no call for her acting services. In fact, prior to her Las Vegas stint, this peppy, well-formed, bouncing beauty hadn't played in a motion picture for two years.

How, then, could she command $40,000 a week from hotel-owner Morris Lansburgh?

The answer lies in the shortage of available name-entertainers in America who have talent.

There are plenty of entertainers, you understand, such as Jayne Mansfield, Zsa Zsa Gabor, Marlene Dietrich, Jane Russell, Mamie Van Doren and Ann Sothern who have "names"—but their talent, as displayed on supper-club stages here, may be called microscopic.

Mitzi Gaynor was paid $40,000 a week because she was new to Las Vegas and has genuine talent. She can sing, dance, quip, impersonate. She gives an audience its money's worth.

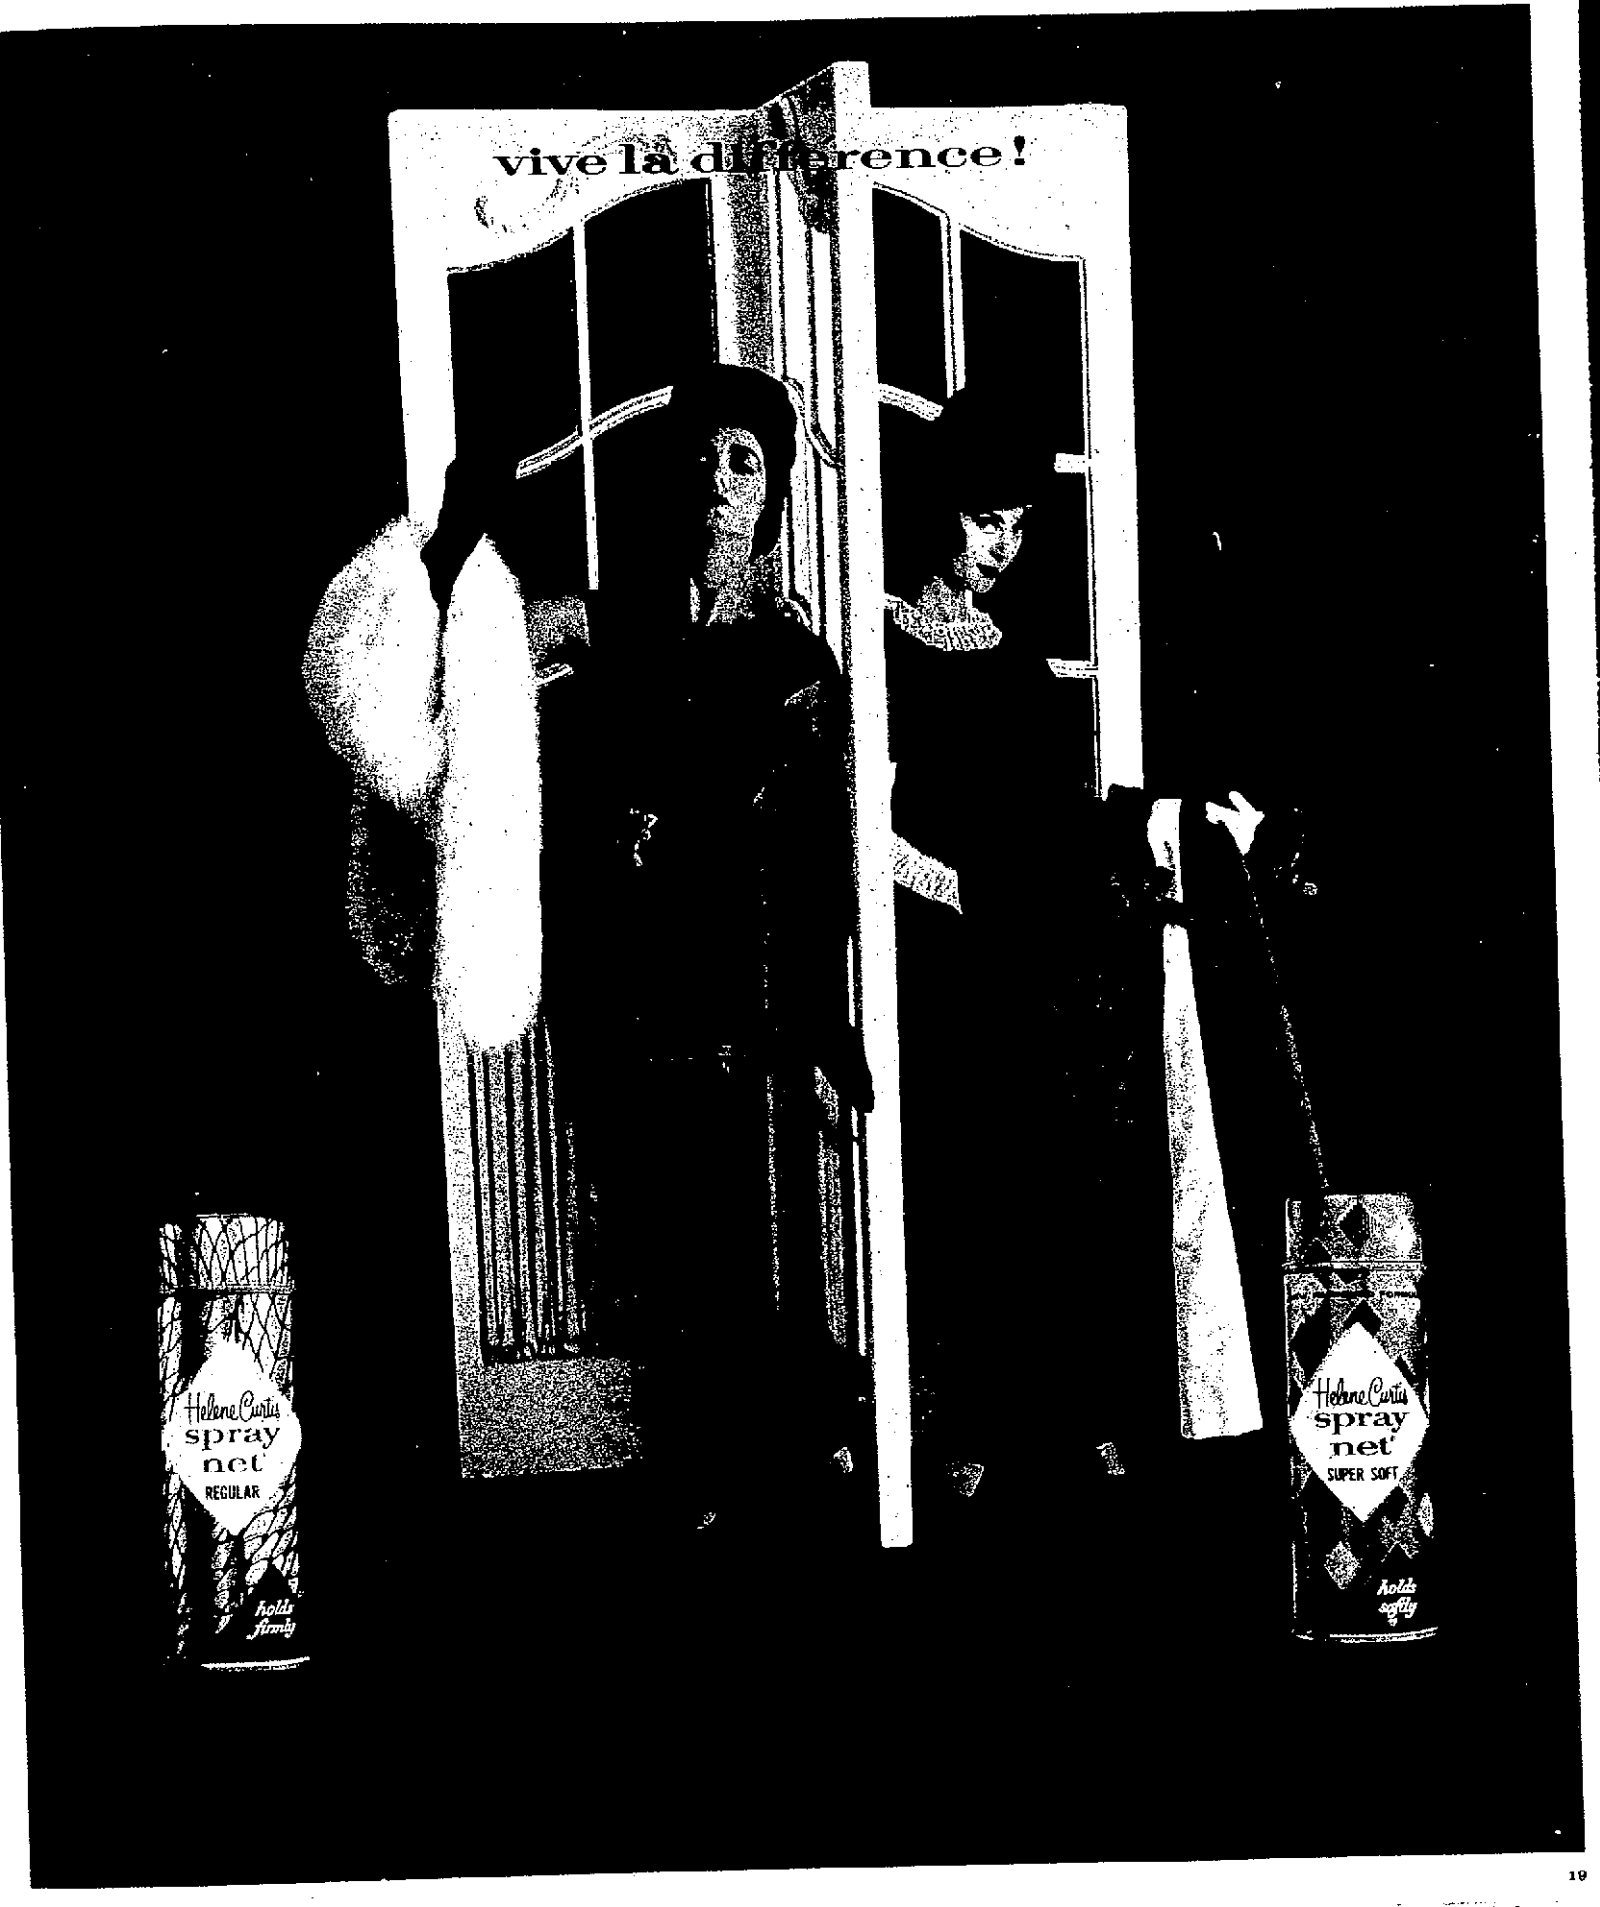

She doesn't slink on stage, sing a few off-key numbers and say in effect to the cash customers, "All right, take a look at me. I'm a Hollywood movie star. Now that I've satisfied your curiosity, go home, dear people. Go home."

Mitzi works hard. She stays on stage almost continuously for an hour, offers an imaginative song-and-dance sketch called "Hollywood Cavalcade" in which she imitates film queens from the silent flickers, the roaring 20s, the sultry 30s, the sexy 40s and the patriotic 50s. Then she performs a devastating imitation of a foreign star (Marlene Dietrich), goes into an arduous dance routine with four young men, sings a trio of "happy songs," ends by belting out a medley of the tunes she sang in South Pacific, a movie in which she expected to hit it big but somehow didn't.

Costume changes are her only respite during the show, and when it's over, Mitzi is as limp as a rag doll, the audience is applauding loudly, and the applause is punctuated with cries of "more, more, more."

In Las Vegas such cries have become relatively rare as the customers over the years have become more

In 1950 (above) Mitzi was a little on the hefty side. She since has reduced, now has a perfect figure. Below, she does imitation of silent flicker queen as part of her night-club act.

'There's something about a live audience that gets you'

knowledgeable and jaded. In the past 10 years they've seen Frank Sinatra, Dean Martin, Milton Berle, Sophie Tucker, Joe E. Lewis, Harry Belafonte, Sammy Davis, all the other show business veterans so many times that they know most of their routines by heart.

What they want is newness, and that's what Mitzi Gaynor gave them.

In the process she opened a new chapter in her career —the supper-club chapter. She considers this fortunate, "because Hollywood just isn't making musicals any more, and let's face it, although I consider myself a pretty good actress, most of the producers in Hollywood think of me as a song-and-dance gal."

The reason is that Mitzi Gaynor (real name—Gerber) first broke into show business as a dancer. When she was 14 she left Detroit, came to Hollywood, found a job dancing a comedy-bit in a local production of Roberta. She worked other musicals, was eventually spotted in The Great Waltz by a talent scout from 20th Century-Fox.

The studio signed Mitzi at $250 a week but failed to capitalize on her fantastic figure—one of the best in Hollywood, a firm 36-22-35 on top of perfect legs.

Explained one studio executive, "She generated more schoolgirlish appeal than sex appeal." Says Mitzi's husband, Jack Bean, "The guy who said that is obviously blind."

Mitzi Is Bypassed

In truth Mitzi was under contract to 20th Century at a time, 1950-57, when Betty Grable was peaking and her replacement, Marilyn Monroe, was targeted for the all-out buildup. Two sexpots in one studio are enough, so Mitzi was bypassed and given feature roles and secondary leads, until South Pacific came along.

After South Pacific was released and became a big hit, the studio dropped Mitzi.

This past March, Mitzi and her husband flew to Las Vegas for the Ray Robinson-Gene Fullmer prize fight. They ran into Morris Lansburgh, 42, a hotel man from Miami Beach who had recently bought the Flamingo.

Aware of the big-name talent shortage, Lansburgh offered Mitzi a deal. Mitzi's husband countered with the following proposition: $40,000 a week for Mitzi for four weeks, two shows a night, a joint production company in which Mitzi and Lansburgh were partners, possible film production of The Fanny Brice Story with Mitzi as star. Lansburgh agreed.

Opening night in Las Vegas found Mitzi super-charged and sensational. In successive weeks she broke all the house records, attracted so many people that Lansburgh offered her a lifetime contract.

Convinced today that she can make a go of it in the saloon circuit, Mitzi is currently mulling over offers to play Lake Tahoe, Miami, the Palladium in London. Several weeks ago she was signed for a role in Broadway's upcoming The Night They Raided Minsky's.

"There's something about a live audience," she says, "that gets you. In movies you try, but you can't really talk to the audience through a camera."

Her husband claims, however, that what Mitzi wants most is a family.

"She loves to cook and clean and take care of people," Jack points out, "but after seven years of marriage, I'm still the only one she has to take care of. What we both want most are babies."

At $40,000 a week, Mitzi and Jack will soon be well-enough endowed to take care of a hundred. ■

A candy-like pear dessert

by BETH MERRIMAN Parade food editor

IT'S NOT REALLY a pie, nor is it a pudding, but Crunchy Pear Dessert combines the best features of both and is truly superlative. Line a pie pan with a mixture that is almost like candy—sweet, crunchy and rich. Fill with a smooth custard, swirl on whipped cream with a lavish hand, crown with a circle of plump pear halves dipped in cinnamon and sugar.

Crunchy Pear Dessert

½ cup butter or margarine
¼ cup firmly packed brown sugar
1 cup sifted enriched flour
½ cup flaked coconut

Heat oven to 400°. Combine all ingredients; mix with hands. Spread in oblong pan, 13" x 9½" x 2". Bake 15 minutes. Remove from oven; stir with spoon. Press 2 cups hot crunch against bottom and sides of 9" pie pan, using a fork. Cool.

Filling and Topping

½ cup firmly packed brown sugar
⅓ cup enriched flour
¼ teaspoon salt
¾ cup pear juice, from canned pears
¾ cup milk
2 eggs, slightly beaten
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
½ teaspoon vanilla
¾ cup whipping cream
6 canned pear halves, well drained
¼ cup sugar
1 teaspoon cinnamon

Combine brown sugar, flour and salt. Blend in pear juice and milk until smooth. Cook over medium heat, stirring constantly, until mixture thickens and comes to a boil. Boil 1 minute. Remove from heat. Gradually stir hot mixture into beaten eggs until all is added. Return to heat. Boil 1 minute longer. Blend in butter and vanilla. Pour into crunchy crust. Chill thoroughly. Just before serving, whip cream; spread over top. Mix sugar and cinnamon; dip pear halves in mixture; arrange on whipped cream. Sprinkle extra crunch over all, if desired.

FROM PARADE'S TEST KITCHEN

British truck driver Jimmy Collins gets his regular permanent in London hairdressing salon for men, run by Michael Sherman.

Permanents for men

LONDON, ENGLAND.

ONE OF THE ARMY'S most famous retired generals dyes his hair. A well-known Hollywood star gets his bleached before each color film. A popular Broadway matinee idol finger-waves his locks every month.

This hairdressing is performed on a hush-hush, top-secret basis.

Why? Because in America anything done to man's hair over and beyond the conventional haircut and shampoo is considered not quite masculine.

In London, where the photo on this page was taken, the British are more frank and fearless about male hairdressing.

In the past eight years salons have sprung up all over London where men receive permanent waves, finger-waves, hair-tinting and complete hair restyling. And it's not regarded as sissy-ish either.

MICHAEL SHERMAN, 23 (see photo), opened his hairdressing salon for men eight months ago and claims, "Business is so good I'm thinking of establishing a chain of these salons throughout Europe. There's no reason why a man shouldn't get a permanent wave if it helps his appearance; every day more and more men are coming around to that way of thinking. And these men are real men, not dandies."

Case in point is Jimmy Collins, 19, a truck driver who visits Michael's salon for his monthly permanent. Says Jimmy, "The girls like me better with wavy hair. Matter of fact I like myself better."

COLLINS PAYS $7 for his permanent, insists, "It's a great morale-booster," claims his fellow truck drivers know all about it, never razz him.

Young hairdresser Sherman points out that to date most of his customers have been "elderly gentlemen who come in for dye-jobs, say 'Might as well get a permanent, too.' "

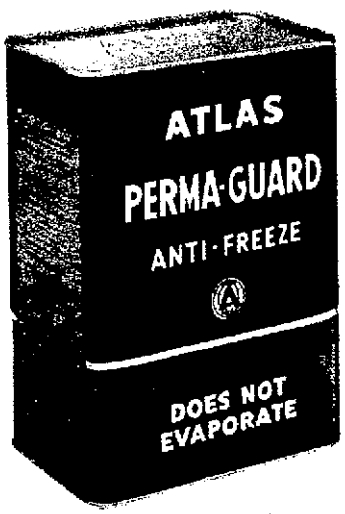

"Women," he declares, "have no monopoly on vanity, which is why this business has caught on. I'm sure there are millions of men in America who want to look younger than they really are, who would welcome the same type of hairdressing salons we have here in London."

If American men are going to do this sort of thing in the dark, and apparently some of them do so in the privacy of their homes, why not bring it out in the open, as the British are doing?

CARS on PARADE

by KEN PURDY

Cool idea, man! In the Scandinavian countries, automobile-racing on frozen lakes is an old-time sport. Devotees claim that it's about as much fun as anything that can be done with an automobile, and, oddly enough, when one considers the surface, it's not wildly dangerous. If a driver "loses" the car he just sits and waits until it stops skidding, a quarter of a mile or so down the lake. You can see ice-racing in Wisconsin and Minnesota and in the East one of the best courses is at Lake Naomi, Pa., in the Poconos, where the ice is often 30 inches thick. (Eighteen inches is safe.) Almost unbeatable at Lake Naomi, and probably the best ice-driver in the country, is a retired electronics engineer named Allison Stout, who admits that his 60th birthday is some way behind him. Stout has been timed at 115 miles an hour on glass-smooth ice. He has used big cars, but he usually drives a SAAB, a potent three-cylinder car made in Sweden and famous for its ability to negotiate snow and ice. Incidentally, European ice-racers often use chains or steel-knobbed tires. The American rule is regular road-tires only. Makes things much more interesting!

Dingle-dangles. Baby shoes, yo-yos and similarly distracting gimmicks hanging over the windshield are considered so dangerous that they are grounds for failure in New Jersey safety inspections. A fat 44.4 per cent of cars inspected last year failed. Sobering thought: most of them had bad brakes, bad steering, or both.

What, no mechanics? Is the filling-station mechanic on the way out? Could be. The trend toward cars that need no maintenance is growing steadily. Comes now from France the Renault 4L with two startling features: 1) The cooling system is permanently sealed at the factory. The owner never adds water, anti-freeze or anything else; 2) All joints are filled with grease and permanently sealed when the car is built. For the life of the machine, no grease-job is necessary. Automation in the matter of oil and gas purchase is perfectly feasible now, so what's left for the filling-station attendant to do? Windshield cleaning? Nonsense. Any bright engineering student could design a gimmick to do that. There's just one thing left: Somebody will have to rig up a machine that can answer the question, "You know a fella named something like Zoftenburg lives around here?"

How many? There are 79 million American men and women qualified, at least in theory, to drive automobiles.

Toughest race. The most difficult automobile race in the world may be the Argentine Production Car Grand Prix. It lasts eight days and covers 3,000 very mean miles. A Volvo won last time. Drivers who enter this one are not kidding: one Pedro Sancha lost his left front wheel and drove the last 15 miles without it. He came down the road streaming sparks from the brake-drum, which was ground flat from being dragged along the concrete, but he finished.

All clear in front. A Swedish optical expert has demonstrated a means of giving a driver a clear field of vision through 180°. The Heimer System replaces the standard front-door windows with thick prism-cut glass, which enables the driver to see "through" or "around" the specially thin windshield posts. He thus has a complete field of vision all the way around, from a point opposite one shoulder to a point opposite the other.

Skidding like this is called fun in ice racing.

The easy way. Ettore Bugatti, who designed the famous Bugatti automobile, was an inventor of extraordinary range. His main life-work was the production of 70-odd different models of Bugatti automobiles, some of them considered to have been 20 years ahead of their time. (His best period was 1919 to 1939.) But he designed any number of other things, from trains to sewing-needle holders. Some were successful, some never caught on. Among the latter: an electric-powered reel, for sportsmen who wanted to catch big fish but found it tiring to haul them in!

BERT'S EYE VIEW

Steve Allen Back Without 'Name' Guest

By BERT RESNIK
TV and Radio Editor

Steve Allen, whose new show debuts 7:30 p.m. Wednesday on channel 7, is abandoning his big-name, guest-star policy of yesteryear.

"That doesn't mean I wouldn't put on Marilyn Monroe, Marlon Brando or Cary Grant if I could get them," he said.

"But we're not going to book somebody just because they're in a movie. The emphasis of the new show is going to be on fresh talent and more comedy."

Steve said the day of booking names just because they were "names" is past.

"That may have been front-page news in 1954 or 1955, but not any longer."

* * * *

THE EMPHASIS on "more comedy" is Steve's idea because that's what he thinks television presently needs.

"My show has always been the best one for comedians," he said. "No comedian ever died on my show because we always gave him a chance to show his stuff."

Members of Steverino's "Old Gang" will be "sprinkled throughout the year" on his new program. All of them will never be back at one time.

Two of his shows have already been taped and Steve, disdaining modesty, labeled them "very funny — better than the old program."

* * * *

They rejoiced when ABC-TV announced it was bringing Steverino back for a regular run.

I asked Steve what his victorious return to television represented.

"Hundreds of thousands of dollars," he answered.

"In addition, it makes me feel very happy."

BIOGRAPHY OF BULLWINKLE MOOSE

(A handy reference for writers, students, TV columnists, fan clubs, scandal magazines, and collectors of trivia. Also useful for lining garbage pails and wrapping sandwiches.)

The star of "The Bullwinkle Show," which debuts 7 p. m. today (Sunday) on channel 4, is more than just a moose. He is the finest example of the great North American Clod. Having been born and raised in Frostbite Falls, Minn., he attended the Philpott School for Exceptional Children (he was the only student with antlers, which would tend to make him exceptional) and MIT (the Moose Institute of Toe-dancing).

AFTER DISTINGUISHED service in the armed forces as a destroyer radar mast and an officers' club hat-rack, Bullwinkle decided to study acting under the great student of Stanislavski, Francis the Talking Horse. Early in his training, Bullwinkle was alternately determined to become an animated duck, a bunny rabbit, and an iguana, but a singular lack of interest by casting directors persuaded him to abandon this approach. After several off-Broadway roles (in Laos and Yucca Flats, Nev.), Bullwinkle hit the Great White Way in "Irma La Moose" and "Charley's Antlers." (The Great White Way, incidentally, is the main street of Frostbite Falls, which is snowed in 11 months out of the year.)

AWAY FROM THE Jay Ward Productions Studio (where "The Bullwinkle Show" is filmed and de-contaminated), Bullwinkle likes nothing better than curling up in front of a fire with a pile of good books.

"They burn so nice and slow," he says.

Part of Bullwinkle's success has been due to his animal intelligence. "He has more brains in his little finger," says Producer Ward, "than he has in his whole head!"

LEON AMES BACK AS TV FATHER

★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★

But He Won't 'Holler' or 'Blow His Top'

By VERNON SCOTT

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Five years have passed since Leon Ames last stormed into the nation's living rooms as the terrible-tempered Clarence Day in "Life With Father."

At 9:30 p. m. Friday on channel 2 he returns to the TV wars minus dyed red hair and Day's peptic personality.

But Leon remains a father.

The veteran character actor stars in "Father of the Bride," a new family situation series taken from the old MGM movie hit which featured Spencer Tracy and Elizabeth Taylor.

Inasmuch as a video series including Tracy and Taylor would cost roughly a million dollars a week, MGM and the Columbia Broadcasting System settled for Ames and pretty Myrna Fahey.

At first blush it may sound like a road company version of the original, but Tracy and Taylor are too old for the roles anyhow.

Ames is delighted to be playing a TV parent again and hopes viewers won't confuse his character of Stanley Banks with that of Day.

"THERE IS ABSOLUTELY no similarity between the two men," he said, spearing a tomato from his noontime salad in the MGM commissary. "Day was a one-dimension character. This man has many facets.

"All father Day did was yell and holler and blow his top.

"He was easy to play all right. He was a big ham and I got away with murder for years playing him as broadly as possible."

Mother Day (Lurene Tuttle) will appear in the new series, too, but not as Ames' wife. She will portray the mother of Leon's son-in-law.

"I requested that they give Lurene a role in the show," he explained. "At first a lot of people connected with the program said her presence might remind too many viewers of 'Life With Father.' But from what I've seen of the shows so far, we have nothing to worry about."

AMES NEED NEVER ACT AGAIN. He owns a successful automobile agency in the San Fernando Valley in addition to other investments.

"I love to work," he explained. "It's my hobby.

"I don't hunt, fish or play golf. I hate golf. All you do is hit that little ball and spend the rest of the day looking for it.

"Hunting is worse. I went out deer hunting once, but the other hunters were such idiots they'd shoot at anything—including me. So I stayed in the car all day."

Ames says his role in the new series requires more acting ability than he has had to exercise in television for many years.

"He's a sensible, hard-working, frustrated father," he concluded. "He solves his problems with maturity. That's much more difficult than blowing your top and yelling 'eee-gads' at the top of your lungs."

It's not hard to figure out why! Every day youngsters do many things which are dangerous... with never a thought to the possible consequences.

Running out from between parked cars, falling from bikes, playing hazardous games, scraping knees, climbing over fences... all this is part of an average day to an active boy or girl.

Youngsters get hurt twice as often as their parents. That's why more and more parents are taking out this Insurance for each one of their children.

In these days when it costs so much to be laid-up by an accident, you cannot afford to let your children be without this protection.

Sacramento dogs check new dog food claims

SACRAMENTO, Calif.—Local dogs turned out in force recently when General Mills held dramatic, informal dog food tests at Sacramento's Country Club Centre. This test, held in West Coast cities, confirmed earlier kennel tests in which 2 out of 3 dogs switched to New Surechamp Meal Ticket from their regular dry dog food.

2 out of 3 dogs switched to New Surechamp Meal Ticket in General Mills' Kennel Tests

$1.00 GUARANTEE OFFERED

One of America's leading food producers, General Mills, has created a new dog food called Surechamp Meal Ticket with such an appealing and different taste that:

- 2 out of 3 dogs tested switched to it from their regular dry dog food in scientific kennel tests.
- In a series of public feeding tests 2 out of 3 dogs also chose new Surechamp Meal Ticket over their owner's choice of five leading packaged dog foods.
- General Mills guarantees dogs will enjoy the new food and backs the guarantee with the offer of a $1.00 coupon, good toward the purchase of any dry dog food.

Meal Ticket is a greatly improved formulation of Surechamp, a food long popular among West Coast dogs.

Tests prove theories

The feeding tests, General Mills spokesmen say, gave scientific proof to widely held theories that dogs, like people, welcome exciting new flavor in their diets.

Discoveries about the importance of a combination of ingredients, cooking, shape and texture in the enhancement of dog food flavor produced the taste triumph.

Unique new shape

The product's unique new roll shape is of great importance, General Mills officials say. Kennel tests show dogs are especially fond of this new form.

And, certain ingredients not only enhance flavor but add vitamins and proteins to an already completely balanced canine meal.

"EATIN' GOOD" GUARANTEE

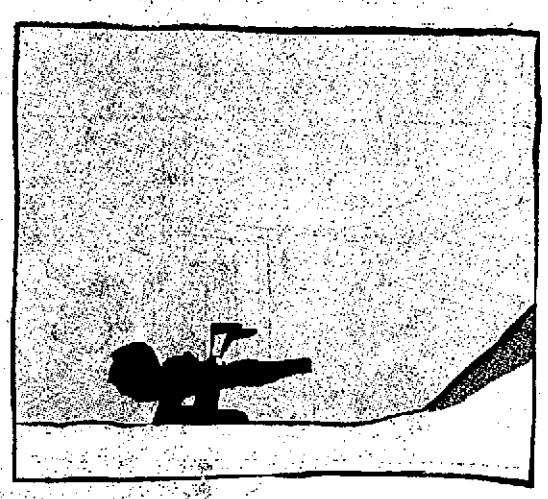

Following are details of the product's guarantee, believed to be the most daring in the history of the dog food industry.

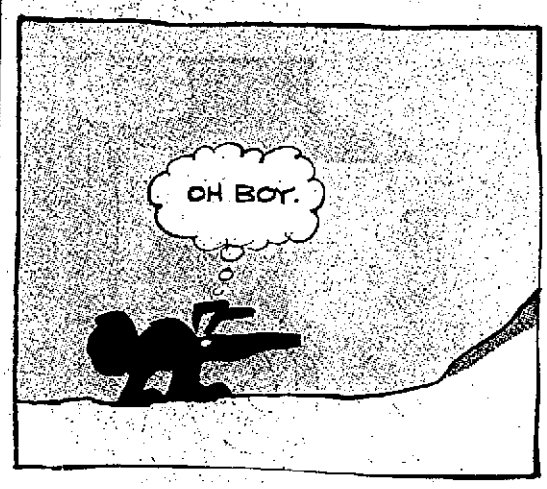

New—guaranteed eatin' good. Your dog will eat and enjoy Surechamp Meal Ticket. If he doesn't, send the certificate of guarantee from any package of New Surechamp Meal Ticket and a letter describing your dog's reaction to: General Mills, Inc., Box 37, Minneapolis 60, Minn. We'll send you a $1.00 coupon good on any dry dog food at your grocer's. Limit, one coupon to a customer.

Clay Denies Shift in German Policy

Du Pont Tax Bill Stalls Adjournment

Congress Extends Session as GOP Insists on Action

WASHINGTON (AP)—An unexpected parliamentary wrench jammed the legislative machinery Saturday afternoon just as Congress appeared to be rolling to adjournment.

A Republican maneuver on an appropriations bill stalled the adjournment drive but the real issue seemed to lie in a special tax bill affecting the huge Du Pont corporation.

The Senate had emerged from a vest-pocket filibuster, passed one of three remaining appropriations bills and seemed fairly headed for the finish line. Then Majority Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana suddenly broke the news that means this session can not end before Monday—and may run well into next week.

* * * *

MANSFIELD explained he had been advised by the Republican side that an objection would be made to taking up the $1-billion supplemental appropriations bill approved Friday by the Senate Appropriations Committee. Under Senate rules, money bills cannot be passed until three days after committee approval unless there is unanimous consent to waive the rules.

The Democratic leader earlier had thought he had assurances there would be no objection. When he learned unanimous consent would not be forthcoming he at once got an order for the Senate to meet again Monday.

* * * *

IT APPEARED the sudden slowdown traces to a pending bill to ease the tax impact of a court-ordered disposal of General Motors stock held by the E. I. Du Pont de Nemours Co.

Mansfield had planned to lay aside this legislation in order to call up the supplemental appropriations bill, but a Republican ground swell developed against this procedure.

Sen. Everett M. Dirksen, the Republican leader from Illinois, made this clear when he said the session now probably will last "deep into next week" and promptly added that adjournment will not come until after passage of the Du Pont tax bill.

Many Republicans, led by Sen. John J. Williams of Dela-

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—The Soviet Union was reported Saturday to have proposed a meeting of Big Four diplomats to discuss the question of temporary U.N. leadership to replace the late Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold.

Diplomatic sources said Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Valerian A. Zorin had given the proposal to a middle-of-the-road intermediary for relay to U. N. ambassadors Adlai E. Stevenson of the United States, Sir Patrick Dean of Britain and Armand Berard of France.

* * * *

BUT THEY said that in making it, Zorin stated that the temporary leadership of the U. N. secretariat should be a troika consisting of U. N. under secretaries Ralph J. Bunche of the United States, Georgy P. Arkadev of the Soviet Union and Chakravarthi V. Narasimhan of India.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk is on record against a troika "in any form and at any level of the secretariat." He told foreign correspondents in New York Friday such an arrangement "would paralyze the executive of the United Nations and weaken it irreparably."

The troika is the name given to Soviet Premier Khrushchev's plan to abolish the office of U. N. secretary-general and put in its place a board of three men representing Communist, Western-Allied and neutralist countries.

Bullets in Body on Dag Plane

NDOLA, Northern Rhodesia (AP) — The Rhodesian federal government said Saturday bullets were found in one of the bodies in the crash that killed Dag Hammarskjold but said they were not fired from any weapon.

The statement, by Lt. Col. Maurice Barber, the Rhodesian federation's director of civil aviation, said:

"In regard to press reports that bullets were found in one of the bodies at the scene of the Ndola air crash, this is correct but is of no significance, as it is known that the aircraft had on board arms and ammunition which were exploded in the intense fire that followed the crash.

"The bullets found in the body of one of the guards were definitely not fired from any weapon."

Hammarskjold Street

OSLO, Norway (UPI)—Oslo Mayor Brynjulf Bull suggested Saturday that an Oslo street be renamed after the late Dag Hammarskjold.

2,500 Flee Lava River in Hawaii

HILO, Hawaii (UPI) — A new volcano eruption Saturday sent a river of molten lava coursing towards four Hawaii Island villages which were hastily abandoned by their 2,500 residents.

The lilewa volcano, which caused widespread damage in a 1955 eruption, renewed her violence with a tremendous explosion sending a 300-foot high fountain of red hot rock into the sky.

National Guard trucks brought the residents 20 miles to Hilo where emergency quarters were set up in a school.

The Fashion Flare-up

What is fashion flair?

This season it can be the flare of a skirt, the drop of a waistline, the tilt of a hat, the flutter of feathers or the swish of fringe.

Tells Bonn: Face Reality on Germany

See Limited U.S. Recognition for Rights in Berlin

BERLIN (AP) — Gen. Lucius D. Clay, President Kennedy's special envoy to Berlin, asserted Saturday there has been no change in U. S. policy on Germany and that the West is determined to maintain its rights in divided Berlin.

At the same time it was disclosed that Clay had advised West Germany to face up to the reality of Communist East Germany.

* * * *

CLAY CAME out with the advice Friday in a private talk with reporters and West Berlin publishers. Clay insisted that he should not be quoted, but the story created such a furor in Western political circles that his name quickly became connected with it.

The general called in reporters Saturday to issue a statement declaring "there has been no change in U. S. policy and no change was announced by a U. S. spokesman in Berlin."

Informed sources said it is clear that the United States has not made any decision at this stage to give any recognition to the East German Communist regime. But the new line taken by Clay apparently was intended to set the stage for a Western package proposal in forthcoming negotiations with Russia on Berlin.

* * * *

SUCH A proposal may seek to trade some limited recognition of East Germany for a formal confirmation by both the Soviets and East Germans of Western rights in Berlin and on the access routes to the isolated city.

A proposal of this nature would constitute a major concession intended to safeguard the freedom of West Berlin.

Informants said the U. S. government evidently believed West Germany would have to be prepared for any such fundamental change in the

1,000 to Guard Kennedy at U.N.

NEW YORK (AP) — More than 1,000 uniformed police were assigned Sunday to guard President Kennedy during his visit here to address the United Nations General Assembly.

They will be augmented by an undisclosed number of police detectives and Secret Service and other federal agents in plain clothes.

Kennedy will arrive by plane late tonight from Hyannis Port, Mass. He will address the U.N. on Monday and will leave the city Tuesday morning.

Titan Hits Mark; First to Use Silo

VANDENBERG AIR FORCE BASE (AP)—A Titan missile fired from here Saturday dropped its mock warhead "in the general area downrange" 4,500 miles away near Wake Island, the Air Force said Saturday night.

The Titan—a 97-foot, 110-ton monster—is this country's mightiest missile. It was fired from here at 12:36 p. m.

It was the first firing of a combat-type Titan from what is called an armored combat launch site—where the missile rises from an underground silo and then is fired toward its target.

* * * *

THE EXACT distance covered wasn't given. Said the Air Force:

"Preliminary telemetery reports indicate the re-entry vehicle impacted in the general target area downrange."

The Air Force spokesman added:

"We're extremely happy with the entire test, this being the first Titan launched from an operational-type facility."

The firing followed the operations system for Titan shots:

The two-stage rocket lifted from the ground. Soon afterward the first stage booster fell away. The second stage carried the nose cone to an area above the target zone. Then the nose cone—which would carry a nuclear weapon in a combat situation — plunged toward the target.

The second stage itself, without the cone, burned up in the atmosphere.

* * * *

MAIN GOAL of the test was a successful firing under conditions comparable to those at various Titan bases being rushed to completion in western and central states.

Not only the missile itself but also its lair, a bombproof silo from which it was elevated just before firing, was on trial.

Titans of the type launched Saturday are designed, like the already operational Atlas, to fire on 15 minutes warning. They are fueled in their silos and must be elevated to the surface for launching.

A follow-on version called Titan II can be stored fueled indefinitely and be fired from the bottom of the silo.

Turk Plane Crashes; 29 Feared Dead

ANKARA, Turkey (AP) — A twin-engine Turkish airliner crashed in torrential rain near here Saturday night. Airline officials said all 25 passengers and the crew of four were believed killed.

The passengers included one American, Bernard Havens, an oil company employ whose home town was unavailable. The crash occurred soon after 2 p.m. (EDT) near Ensenboga Airport which serves this captial city.

The plane, a Fairchild prop-jet passenger liner, was en route from Adana, near Turkey's southern coast, to Ankara.

The crash was the first at Ensenboga since January 19, 1960, when a French Caravelle jet flew into a mountain, killing all 42 aboard.

The last message from the plane was received a little more than five minutes before the plane was scheduled to land. The pilot reported all was normal.

The site of the crash was near the main highway linking Ankara and Istanbul.

Ship Tieup Seen Likely by Tuesday

Tieup of shipping along the Pacific Coast appears likely by Tuesday morning, barring an 11th-hour settlement, labor officials warned Saturday night.

A spokesman for the Masters, Mates and Pilots Union pointed to these factors as a weathervane toward a strike:

1. The MMP and the Pacific Maritime Association still have not settled their differences despite the 80-day Taft-Hartley injunction halting the original walkout.

2. Endorsement by Pacific Coast union members of their leaders' policy of "no contract, no work."

3. Plans by the union to ask a federal judge in New York to lift the injunction Monday morning.

In the face of these odds, federal mediators late Saturday emphasized that they will seek to bring both bargaining parties together Monday for a possible last-minute settlement.

7 Missing as Plane Ditches

NORFOLK, Va. (AP) — A merchant ship has picked up three survivors of a Navy plane which broke up on impact. Seven others are missing. The survivors were picked up by the merchant ship African Pilot.

Earlier a Coast Guard plane reported sighting flares and two rafts with survivors.

The Navy identified the seven missing men and their next of kin as: plane commander, Lt. Cmdr. Albert John Tait, (wife in Bermuda); Lt. (j.g.) Robert Frederick Carroll (wife in Bermuda); Lt. (j.g.) Cameron Page Cooper (wife in Bermuda); ADR/2 Charles Roy Dunaway (wife in Bermuda); AE3 Erwin Dewey Thompson (wife in Bermuda); AN Charles Turner (mother, Essie Mae Turner, Montclair, N.J.) and ATN/3 Davis William Wood (parents, Mr. and Mrs. John E. What Urban Renewal Can Do for L.B.

By DON OHL
(Third of a Series)

What an urban renewal or redevelopment program could mean to the city's downtown water front can be foretold somewhat by looking at two Long Beach areas where big public improvements recently have been constructed.

These areas—one in the vicinity of the marina and the other in the vicinity of the Memorial Hospital and Osteopathic Hospital—are developing rapidly through private investments.

The $14-million marina has attracted more than $11 million in major new private construction.

Included in this is a new shopping center near the intersection of Pacific Coast Highway and Second Street. Major structures in the area now are Buffums' marina store, a Lucky Stores market and Hof's Hut restaurant.

A 200-unit motel is almost ready for construction there. A dining hall that will seat more than 1,000 should be under way soon, along with assorted small shops.

Another 100-unit motel with convention facilities is planned a few blocks away. A large private marina is already operating. An extensive mobile home park is under development.

A major luxury development is under construction near the marine stadium and a luxury multi-story apartment house is ready to go.

In addition to these projects, considerable private development has taken place throughout the whole section of the city surrounding the marina.

Seal Beach has benefited from this, too, with numerous fine home developments near the marine facility.

Near the two new hospitals, which are located between Spring and Willow and Atlantic and Pacific, some $4 million in new investments have been triggered by these developments.

Among the improvements are several medical buildings, doctors' offices, motels, apartments and shops. A number of existing businesses and living units have been considerably spruced up.

It might be well to recall that only a few years ago this section of the Signal Hill oil field was called the frog pond.

The picture in the west beach area south of Ocean and between Magnolia and the flood-control channel is somewhat different.

This area, incidentally, is the first choice on most planners' lists as the Long Beach area which most urgently needs redeveloping.

The west beach area has about 20 acres; houses some 1,100 persons, many of them transients.

* * * *

A MAJORITY of the buildings in the area could be officially labeled substandard because of poor lighting, ven-

L.A.C. Says:
Foreign Aid and Birth Control

A large advertisement signed by over 100 well known citizens over the nation, appeared in the Wall Street Journal. It was a warning that our foreign aid to backward countries is being nullified by the spiraling population growth in those countries. It was in support of foreign aid—but said "if not accompanied by aid in population control, it may well compound the problem."

The president of the World Bank reported to the United Nations and Economic and Social Council that "population growth threatens to nullify all our efforts to raise living standards in the poorer countries—unless population growth can be restrained we may have to abandon for this generation our hopes of economic progress in the crowded lands of Africa, Asia and the Middle East."

It is estimated the number of people in Latin America will rise from 200 million to 600 million in the next 30 years. It is this area to which our new program of $20 billion of foreign aid is directed. But it is pointed out that the increased population will mean even greater poverty than that existing today. It can only be avoided if there is a curb placed on that increase.

It is pointed out that this population explosion in these backward countries is largely due to our well-meant interference with the controlling laws of nature. From the most humanitarian motives we have drastically lowered the death rates in these countries —but have neglected to exert compensating influence on the birth rates.

The suggestion is made to President Kennedy that along with our federal aid we develop a constructive population control program to go with it. This was included in the Draper report of 1959 which called for population planning for friendly nations upon their request. There is evidence that many of these nations would welcome such information. But the reluctance to take any action on birth control leaves the problem unsolved.

Referring to the situation in Asia, Sen. Fulbright said: "The Indians and Pakistanians have both very frankly said something has to be done. This is fundamental to the success of the economic program. I do not see why the government should be so reluctant about it."

It may be well said that the United States faces a tremendous population increase over the next 30 years. It is probable we will double our present population by the year 2000. But we have the resources and resourcefulness to take care of such an increase —providing we do not dissipate them. But because of their already great numbers, the Asian and African areas will increase almost twice as fast as we will. We cannot hope to supply them with the necessities of life and hope to maintain anything like our own present living standards.

It is a very controversial subject. But it will not be solved by ignoring it. Japan has solved its overcrowding problem by a birth control program. It is apparent the United States cannot hope to overcome poverty for the world's present population when the numbers will double during the next 10 to 15 years.

ware, share Dirksen's determination to pass the DuPont bill. On the Democratic side, Sens. Albert Gore of Tennessee and Paul Douglas of Illinois are expected to spearhead stiff—and perhaps protracted—opposition.

Dirksen told reporters that Sen. Winston L. Prouty, R-Vt., was the one who served notice he would object to speeded-up action on the appropriations bill. Sen. Thomas H. Kuchel, assistant GOP leader from California, said that if Prouty hadn't objected several other Republicans were ready to do so.

THE HOUSE was in recess but on call when Mansfield dashed the hopes of most members for adjournment Saturday night. It reconvened briefly, then adjourned until Monday.

The Senate remained in session for another hour and 45 minutes considering minor matters and then it, too, adjourned until Monday.

Several speeches for and against the DuPont bill were made but no action of any kind was taken.

Before recessing, the House gave 251-50 approval to a new arms-control and disarmament agency urgently asked by President Kennedy and 228-71 passage to a measure to boost the number of government employes who may draw top-bracket pay. (Details on Page A-3.)

The Senate later completed action on both bills by voice vote, sending them to the White House.

Heat Prostrates 15 Football Players

BELLAIRE, Ohio (AP)—Extreme heat caused the exhaustion of 15 high school football players Saturday and the curtailment of the Bellaire-Marietta game early in the third quarter.

One of the stricken gridders, Bellaire co-captain Charles Turner, was listed in critical condition at Bellaire City Hospital. Three others were admitted and the other 11 released after hospital treatment.

ASSIST MOTORISTS IN RED LAND

Army Fortifies Patrol on Berlin-West Road

BERLIN (AP)—The U.S. Army sent extra jeep patrols along the autobahn lifeline between Berlin and the West Saturday to protect soldier motorists.

An Army spokesman said the action was taken "to assist American military travelers" along the 110-mile highway across Communist territory.

Informed sources said the extra patrols were ordered by Gen. Lucius D. Clay, President Kennedy's special envoy in Berlin.

THE EXTRA PATROLS were ordered by Gen. Lucius D. Clay after two U.S. soldiers had been held six hours by Communist police in an autobahn incident last Thursday.

Thursday, two U.S. soldiers were stopped by Communist police and forced out of their privately owned car although it bore U.S. Army license plates. They were taken to Potsdam and held for six hours until a Soviet officer arrived. They were then allowed to continue their journey to Helmstedt.

Clay Denies Change in Policy on Germany

Western position.

Western policy since the war has been based on the principle that the East German regime is illegal and that there can be no official dealings with it.

* * * *

CLAY'S TALK with reporters Friday was described as a background briefing. More than 100 Western newsmen, including several West Berlin publishers, attended the 90-minute session at Clay's lakeside residence.

Clay talked freely of the U.S. view of forthcoming negotiations with the Soviet Union, on the understanding that his remarks would not be attributed to him. In the subsequent uproar over what he had said, one West Berlin newspaper (Der Tagesspiegel) directly implied that Clay was the source.

The disclosure then spread to other papers and to an American radio network.

* * * *

CLAY IN his public statement Saturday recalled that the reunification of Germany remains the ultimate goal of U.S. policy on Germany. He did not say how or when this could be achieved.

The general also reaffirmed U.S. determination to keep open the air corridors to this Communist-encircled city.

"We are in Berlin by right of victory," he said, "and we propose to maintain rights of access on the ground for Allied personnel and to keep the use of the air corridors completely free."

West German President Heinrich Luebke and Mayor Willy Brandt of West Berlin conferred here following the disclosure that West German officials are being advised to face up to the existence of Communist East Germany, whether they like it or not.

* * * *

INFORMED circles said German officials regard this as the prelude to a more elastic U.S. attitude in future attempts to gets an East-West settlement of the Berlin and German problems.

(Tass, the Soviet news agency, took note of the reports emanating from Berlin Saturday, quoting dispatches as saying "the two German States are a reality and West Germany should accept that fact." Tass also noted that the Berlin newspaper Der Tagespiegel had connected the reports to Gen. Clay and that the U.S. State Department had called the reports "highly inaccurate.")

JFK Readies U.N. Speech for Monday

HYANNIS PORT, Mass. (UPI) — President Kennedy Saturday worked on the key address he will deliver to the United Nations General Assembly Monday in which he will explain the U. S. position on Berlin and reaffirm faith in the world peace organization.

It was reported the U. S. chief executive planned to issue a firm summons for nations to stand and be counted in their support of the United Nations following the death of Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold in a plane crash.

* * * *

KENNEDY also was expected to reassert the need for Western firmness in the face of Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev's threats against West Berlin, while making clear to the assembly that the door was open for any "reasonable" settlement with Russia.

The speech also will point up new Western disarmament proposals, it was understood.

Kennedy will fly to New York today, arriving at La Guardia Field around 6:30 p.m. EDT. He will motor to the Hotel Carlysle where he will put the finishing touches on his U. N. address.

* * * *

with each having a veto.

KHRUSHCHEV unveiled the plan before the U. N. General Assembly a year ago. Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko is expected to push it when he speaks to the assembly Tuesday morning, 24 hours after President Kennedy. Britain and France oppose it as strongly as the United States.

President John F. Kennedy's address Monday before the morning session of the United Nations General Assembly will be telecast live on all networks at a time expected to be about 7:30 a.m. (PST), or shortly thereafter.

The address will be seen on KNXT, channel 2; KRCA, channel 4; and KABC—TV, channel 7, and broadcast at the same hour on radio stations KABC, KMPC, KNX and KFI.

Informants said there was a chance one or more of the Western ambassadors might meet Zorin Tuesday to discuss an interim arrangement for the U. N.'s top level.

Zorin's theory, it was said, is that the Big Four could make an interim arrangement among themselves without a meeting of either the Security Council or the General Assembly.

* * * *

HE GAVE HIS views Friday night to Liberian Ambassador Nathan Barnes, president of the Security Council. Barnes conferred with Zorin on behalf of a dozen middle-of-the-road countries that want the assembly to name one man to take charge of the secretariat till a new secretary-general can be chosen.

The middle-of-the-road countries are afraid if the council met now to recommend a permanent secretary-general, the Russians would veto him because they want the troika.

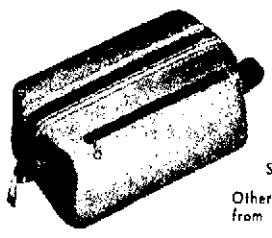

But they argue that there is nothing in the charter to prevent the assembly from naming a temporary head of the secretariat by itself without bringing the council into the thing and running into a veto.

They are working on a resolution for this purpose.

Among those mentioned for the job are under secretary Narasimhan; Raul Prebisch of Argentina, executive secretary of the economic commission for Latin America; B. K. Nehru, Indian ambassador to Washington; Mongi Slim of Tunisia, president of the assembly; Boland, last year's president, and U Thant, Burma's U. N. ambassador.

Jets on Way to Congo to Back Up U.N.

By WILLIAM ANDERSON

LEOPOLDVILLE (UPI) — The United Nations announced Saturday that jet fighters and bombers — composing the world organization's first offensive Air Force since the Korean war — would arrive in the Congo Monday.

Ireland's Gen. Sean McKeown, U.N. Congo military commander, told a news conference that 13 warplanes are being sent by Sweden, India and Ethiopia.

He said Ethiopian jets will arrive on Monday as will four Swedish Lansen jets. Indian Canberra bomber-interceptors will fly in later in the week, he added.

* * * *

McKEOWN SAID the jets will be used primarily to escort U.N. transport planes—including American-manned cargo carriers placed at U.N. disposal by the United States—on trips in the Congo.

However, during the conference, McKeown referred to the attacks on U.N. forces by a single Katanga jet during the fighting in the secessionist province of the Congo.

U.N. spokesmen reported that calm generally prevailed throughout Katanga, with both sides honoring the ceasefire which went into effect three days ago. The only shooting reported was sporadic sniping by Katangese on the Baluba refugee camps outside of Elisabethville.

* * * *

HUNDREDS of hunger-crazed Baluba tribesmen invaded Elisabethville Saturday in search of food. They were dispersed by Katanga police.

McKeown told the news conference that the United Nations always had the situation under control and could have won the battle for Katanga had it wanted.

Ringleader Identified in Mexico Plot

MEXICO CITY (AP) — The government said Saturday that last weekend's bloody Independence Day uprisings stemmed from a retired army general's plot to overthrow the government.

The attorney general's office said the ringleaders have been arrested and the plot broken up. They said the situation is calm throughout Mexico.

Gen. Celestino Gasca Villasenor, a retired officer and prominent in politics in 1952, was named as the master mind behind the plot. In all, 29 persons have been formally charged and are being moved to a federal prison today.

The disturbances erupted in 10 states Sept. 15 as President Adolfo Lopez Mateos launched a three-day holiday commemorating Mexico's independence.

There were reports of gun battles in at least two dozen towns and villages. The death toll was believed to be about 40, although some sources said it was much higher.

JFK Names Peace Corps Deputy Chief

HYANNIS PORT, Mass. (AP) — President Kennedy Saturday announced his appointment of Paul Geren, 47, as deputy director of the Peace Corps which is headed by his brother-in-law, R. Sargent Shriver.

Geren, a career foreign service officer, now is deputy director of the Office of International Financial and Development Affairs in the Department of State.

Geren's salary is to be set by the President with a limitation at $19,500 a year. Shriver is serving without salary.

* * * *

GEREN, a native of El Dorado, Ark., was in Burma at the time of Pearl Harbor, and served with the Chinese army there and later joined the Burma surgeon, Dr. Gordon Seagrave.

He is married and the father of three daughters.

OK for Kennedy Disarm Agency

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Congress Saturday sent to President Kennedy legislation setting up a new agency to help him shape disarmament policy.

The legislation, strongly requested by the White House, authorized $10 million to run the agency in its first year of operation.

* * * *

THE SENATE approved the bill soon after the House passed it by a roll call vote of 251 to 50.

In appealing for passage of the bill, Rep. Walter H. Judd of Minnesota, a top Republican on the House Foreign Affairs Committee, said it did not foreshadow any weakening of U.S. defenses.

"Our allies should understand this," he said, "and so should (Soviet Premier Nikita) Khrushchev."

* * * *

THE COMPROMISE, worked out only Friday by a joint House-Senate Conference Committee, provides that the agency will be called "the United States Arms Control and Disarmament Agency."

It authorized $10 million to run the agency the first year.

The House originally balked at putting the word "disarmament" in the title on grounds this might be interpreted as a softening of U.S. policy in the tense international situation.

* * * *

BUT FOREIGN Affairs Chairman Thomas E. Morgan, D-Pa., assured the House the bill contained safeguards against major U.S. disarmament moves without specific congressional consent.

The bill was tailored to meet House demands that the agency be semi-independent of the State Department by giving the director the right to go directly to the chief executive.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The 251-50 vote by which the House Saturday passed a compromise bill creating a new arms control and disarmament agency included:

Extra Day for GM Bargaining

DETROIT (AP)—The United Auto Workers of America Saturday night gave 10 holdout locals blocking final settlement of a two-week-old General Motors strike one more day at least to negotiate new at-the-plant working agreements.

Agreement on a new national economic package, which the union estimates is worth more than 12 cents hourly in take-home pay, was reached Sept. 6, but local unions were given authority to strike in support of their at-the-plant demands at 10 a.m. Sept. 11 and GM has been crippled since.

* * * *

AT ONE TIME, 92 of GM's 129 plants were idled by strikes and more than 260,000 of GM's 350,000 hourly paid workers off the job. Local settlements gradually have whittled down the totals.

Only 10 plants lacked local-level settlements at 10 p.m., and the board could, if it chose, order workers at them to return Monday, agreement or not. There had been some indications that the board might order the holdouts back at Saturday night's meeting.

Cambodia Road-Job Bunglers Assailed

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A House investigating subcommittee charged Saturday a U.S. roadbuilding project in Cambodia was "so badly bungled" that Justice Department action may be warranted.

The report said the $34-million Cambodian-American Friendship Road was so poorly constructed it has become a source of Communist propaganda in the Far East.

* * * *

ACCORDING TO the investigation by the government operations subcommittee, the highway built with foreign-aid funds began falling apart almost immediately after it was completed two years ago.

The subcommittee demanded that responsibility be fixed and, if findings warrant, that the case be turned over to the Justice Department for possible prosecution or damage claims.

The congressmen said the American contractor, the American engineer, and American foreign-aid officials all made major mistakes which could and should have been prevented.

"The road, which was intended to be a showcase of American 'know-how', was so badly bungled that it has damaged our prestige, burdened us with costly repairs, and supplied the Communists with an effective source of anti-American propaganda," they said.

The report on the 132-mile highway was issued by a subcommittee headed by Rep. Porter W. Hardy, D-Va.

It said more than one-third of the road will require major repairs or rebuilding.

Death Takes Actor John D. Eldridge

LAGUNA BEACH (UPI — John D. Eldridge, 56, veteran stage, movie and television actor, died Saturday while believed to be recuperating from a heart attack.

For several years, he played the role of the father on the "Meet Corliss Archer" television program. He appeared in such films as "Flirtation Walk" and "His Brother's Wife," and in the Los Angeles Civic Opera production "Annie Get Your Gun."

New Karen Clue Peters Out

A mounted search of sections of Griffith Park Saturday failed to uncover any trace of Karen Lynn Tompkins, 11, of Torrance, who disappeared last month while returning to her home from a playground.

The search by 14 mounted sheriff's posse riders was organized after a burglary suspect claimed he saw a man hurl Karen's body over a cliff in a desolate area of the park.

Clarence E. McDonald, 29, told officers that he saw the young girl's body thrown off a cliff "near the observatory."

WORLD NEWS BRIEFS

Castro Executes Yank, 5 Cubans

HAVANA (AP)—An American citizen charged with counter-revolutionary activities was executed by a Castro firing squad Saturday. Another firing squad took the lives of five Cubans accused of working for U.S. intelligence agents in last April's abortive rebel invasion.

The American was identified as William Patten Tabares, 70, a longtime Cuban resident and branch official of a French shipping firm.

EVA B. ADAMS
Niece of L. B. Man

Frank Patten, a New York resident who identified himself as the slain man's brother, said William Patten had been employed by Pan-American Airways in Camaguey in eastern Cuba.

New Mint Boss

WASHINGTON (AP) — Eva B. Adams, a longtime congressional aide and a former educator, was confirmed by the Senate Saturday as director of the Mint. Approval was by voice vote.

Miss Adams, a native of Wonder, Nev., lists Reno, Nev., as her home but has been in the Washington area since 1940. In that year she joined the staff of the late Sen. Pat McCarran of Nevada, and is now administrative assistant to Sen. Alan Bible, D-Nev., who succeeded McCarran.

Before coming to Washington, she was assistant dean of women at the University of Nevada in Reno.

(The new director is the niece of William Varble, of 415 Rose Place, commander of Camp 23 of the United Spanish War Veterans in Long Beach.)

Survivor of Dag Crash Dies

NDOLA, Northern Rhodesia (AP)—The sole survivor of the plane crash that killed Dag Hammarskjold died Saturday, ending investigators' hopes that he could supply a first-hand account of the tragedy.

Harold (Harry) M. Julien, an American U.N. security guard, died at Ndola Hospital. He had suffered multiple injurics and severe burns in Monday's crash. His death raised the toll to 16.

Negro Named to High U.S. Court

HYANNIS PORT, Mass (AP)—President Kennedy Saturday risked new controversy with southern Democrats by nominating Thurgood Marshall, Negro integration leader, to a high federal judgeship.

Marshall, who has argued the civil rights case for Negroes in court since 1938, was chosen for the U.S. 2nd Circuit Court of Appeals in New York.

Sinatra Goes Boating with JFK

HYANNIS PORT, Mass. (AP)—President Kennedy took a 3½ hour boat trip Saturday with singer Frank Sinatra as one of his guests.

Also aboard with the President and Mrs. Kennedy were nine or ten other guests, including his brother-in-law, actor Peter Lawford.

Singer Hurt In Fatal Air Crash

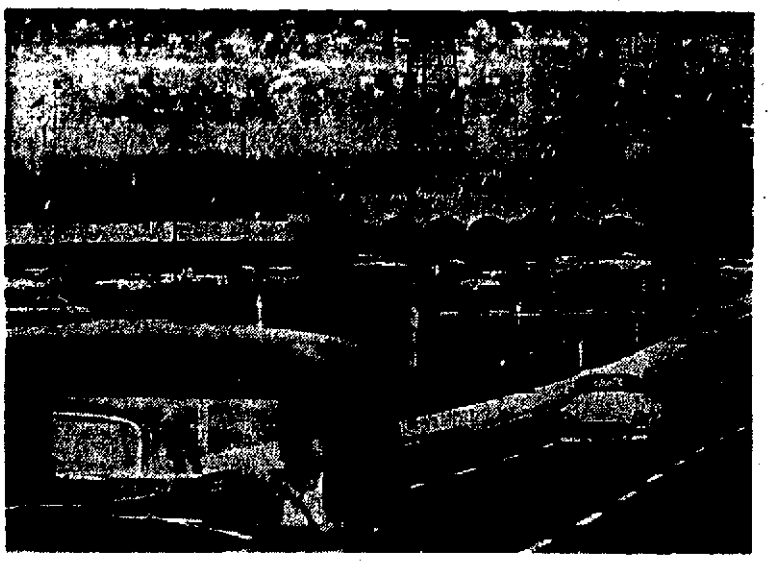

MIDLAND, Tex. (UPI)—Baritone singer Charlie Applewhite, his face smashed and a leg broken in many places by a plane crash that killed his wife and an oilman, wavered between survival and death in a Midland hospital Saturday.

Besides the face and leg injuries, he suffered possible skull and internal injuries. The crash late Friday night killed his second wife, Nancy, 29, and Robert H. McGannon, 35, president of the Republic (oil-well) Mud Co.

San Fernando Fire Kills 2

SAN FERNANDO (UPI)—A mother and her two sons were rescued by a neighbor and passerby early Saturday from a fire that killed two other members of the family.

Bernard Cox, 38, and his daughter, Susan, 7, were fatally burned in the fire which razed the suburban Cox home. But Mrs. Patricia Cox, 35, and her sons, Stephen, 6 months, and Douglas, 4 years, were rescued although the younger boy was near death.

AN IDEA FOR URBAN RENEWAL

This new shopping center near the intersection of Pacific Coast Highway and Second Street gives evidence what the city could do in revamping the downtown water front. Stores in the center include Buffums', a Lucky Stores market and Hof's Hut restaurant. A 200-unit motel is under construction.—

West Beach a Drag on City

tilation, dangerous electrical systems, inadequate plumbing and gas facilities and because of general disrepair.

Some, of course, are above minimum standards and others could be brought up to those standards, although most buildings in the area cannot meet earthquake construction requirements.

Building department officials estimate that about 20 per cent of the structures are so far below standards that they should be demolished now.

* * * *

IN TERMS OF police and health services this area is the most difficult to cope with and by far the most costly to the city.

Chief William Mooney said the west beach area has the highest incidence of crime in Long Beach and requires the greatest amount of patrolling.

"In the last nine months," Mooney said, "there have been 527 arrests in the west beach area. The rest of the city had 10,897 arrests."

The arrest rate for the city was about 29 per 1,000 population. In the west beach area the ratio was 527 arrests per 1,100 population.

* * * *

DR. I. D. LITWACK, city health officer, pointed to the west beach area as a major breeding ground of venereal diseases and tuberculosis.

In 1960 the city had a total of 635 VD cases reported. Of this number 71 originated in the west beach area and a half-dozen adjacent blocks to the north and east.

Already this year there have been 38 new cases in the area.

In 1960 the area had seven of the city's 126 tuberculosis cases, almost at the top of the 61 reporting districts. Only two other districts were higher—8 cases in each—and they are located just northeast of the downtown area.

ASIDE FROM the human misery, what does all this cost the city?

"Plenty" is the best guess anyone can give.

A couple of figures might tell the story better: the assessed valuation of the area for 1961-62 is $1,216,810. City taxes from that area amount to only $16,719 per year.

That $16,719 is less than half what it costs to place one police patrol unit in the area for a year.

Redevelopment of this area could mean these things:

—Virtual elimination of the police problem there.

—A vastly improved health situation.

—An assessed valuation of some $15 million with a tax income to city government of $150,000 to $200,000 per year, plus up to $500,000 to the Long Beach Unified School District and other taxing agencies.

GRADE CARD

Aids to Better School Work

By HARRY KARNS
School Research Associates

One of the questions which teachers hear most often from parents is: "What can we do at home to improve our child's school work?"

The teacher's answer depends largely on the particular problems of the child involved. But here is a helpful answer she can give any parent:

Provide your child an incentive—a reason—for doing good work.

Learning should be a stimulating and rewarding experience.

"MOTIVATION IS an essential and important factor in the learning process," states Dr. Arnold Tjomsland of the State Board of Education, Olympia, Wash. "Few learning theorists would deny its significance. Such things as emotions, attitudes, incentives, interest, and others are involved in motivation. Most of what the student needs to learn must come through motivated learning."

Two dentists have their offices on the same hall of a professional building. Both specialize in dental work for children. One has numerous patients, the other relatively few. The answer is simple: The first dentist rewards his young patients by letting them dip into a grab bag for a toy. Children naturally prefer him; some are even eager to go to see him.

THIS IS NOT to suggest that you give your child a toy or money or other tangible reward for hard study and good grades. Your incentive system must be much more subtle and offer enduring satisfaction.

Here are some suggestions:

1. Show him where successful learning leads—to good jobs, good pay, positions of leadership in society.

2. Help him establish goals to work toward so his effort has long-range meaning to him.

They should be definite, goals which are attainable and which therefore can hold his interest and justify his hope.

3. RELATE HIS learning to his own life.

Show him how to apply his reading, his spelling, his math to the problems and activities of his own everyday living. If he has a paper route, for example, encourage him to set up a bookkeeping system and use the knowledge he has acquired at school in maintaining it.

4. Introduce him to specific subjects within his interest range.

"A child can't read reading," says Dr. Helen Heffernan. "Children must read about something—trains or trucks, stars or satellites, ducks or geese, cows or horses, Indians or cowboys."

5. REWARD HIM with praise when he does good work, when he brings home a good report card.

Educational research has shown that praise normally produces far better results than criticism.

6. Approach learning as an adventure.

When you do, you will find your child joining the fun. Eventually, without your suggestion, he will be looking up words and consulting the encyclopedia in the spirit of a true explorer—a scholar on a safari in the quest of knowledge.

(Want to help your child do good work in school? Mail questions and requests to Harry Karns, Room 403, Independent, Press-Telegram. Letters cannot be answered individually, but some will be answered in the "Grade Card" column.)

Russian A-Tests Spur U.S. Shelter Interest

By JACK V. FOX
UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL

Americans by the hundreds of thousands have swamped Civil Defense offices across the nation in the past few weeks with questions about building their own family nuclear bomb shelters.

But the number of those who have actually started digging is exceedingly small.

Those are the two main facts emerging from a UPI survey of Civil Defense offices from coast to coast.

* * * *

RUSSIA'S resumption of nuclear tests put the final spur to a surge of public anxiety that followed President Kennedy's warning last month about protection and the grim developments in Berlin.

In Los Angeles, for example, there are six trunk telephone lines into the CD office. The switchboard has been so overrun that plans are being made to install 20 lines.

No figures are available on the number of shelters actually being started there. But in the city of Chicago, only two building permits have been issued for construction of shelters.

* * * *

AND IN THE building permit office of New York City —with more than 7 million people—there is not a single application for a permit for shelter construction!

There are indications, however, that people are about to do more than think about protecting their families.

In Philadelphia, a model shelter was built in Fairmount Park with visiting hours 1 to 4 p.m. five days a week. Since the Russian tests started, crowds have become so great the exhibit is open seven days a week.

DEFENSE COORDINATOR Joseph R. Costa says thousands of inquiries have been coming from radio stations who pass on listener requests.

"We're suffering from prosperity but we love it," he said. "We've been trying for years to get our message across. Looks like Khrushchev did it for us."

The survey could not measure families who have started shelters without asking for permits or housewives who have stocked food and water, transistor radios, candles and other essentials in their basements.

* * * *

HOWEVER, CLEVELAND Civil Defense Director John Pokornty believes basement shelters are not the answer because of the danger of the house above catching fire. He is one of those who advocates evacuation of cities.

W. A. Weatherford of Jacksonville, Fla., president of the National Civilian Defense Council, says nuclear shelter building firms have "sprung up like mushrooms."

His remarks were borne out by Director Don Carleton of Milwaukee who called a meeting of contractors interested in building shelters.

"I expected 50 and got 250," he said.

IN LOS ALAMOS, N.M., birthplace of the A-bomb, the Atomic Energy Commission has announced it will assign fallout shelter space for every family by Jan. 1.

The town of Glendo, Wyo., last week bought a 65x400 foot potato storage cellar which it is going to convert into a shelter for the town's population of 215.

Adm. A. G. Cook, director of the San Francisco Disaster Council says there has been a constant stream of persons coming to his offices—some 2,000 in the past month.

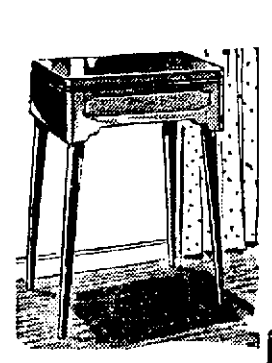

"They are not panic stricken," he said. "They have a quiet determination not to put up with any foolishness from Russia. They are approving our government's attitude."

MEDICINE AND YOU

What Is Your Fatigue Type?

By BEN ZINSER AND GEORGE X. TRIMBLE, M.D.

A Cleveland Clinic psychiatrist explains the difference between physical and mental fatigue and tells how to deal with each in Cleveland Clinic Quarterly.

The doctor, A. Dixon Weatherhead, says physical fatigue is that resulting from excessive physical exertion—a feeling he says is healthy and desirable. Such fatigue is not harmful, he explains, because there is no fear or anxiety associated with it.

You can dispel such fatigue, he says, by taking a warm bath, massaging tired muscles and getting some rest or sleep.

MENTAL FATIGUE results from acute or chronic emotional stress.

Acute stress stems from fear. Examples: the combat fatigue of soldiers, the flying fatigue of pilots under stress, the exhaustion of disaster victims.

Chronic emotional stress results from prolonged internal conflicts and tensions that can't be resolved. The victim puts shameful, undersirable or disgusting thoughts out of his conscious mind, but his effort to suppress these unwelcome thoughts consumes mental energy. Exhaustion follows.

The medical term for such chronic emotional stress is neurasthenia. But, says the doctor, this is just another way of saying, "I'm pooped all the time."

Specifically, the neurasthenic patient suffers from lack of energy, difficulty in concentrating, poor appetite, fear of work, irritability, low blood pressure and irregular bowels. In addition, he may experience low back pain, headache, dizziness and diminished sexual potency.

DR. WEATHERHEAD suggests three steps to alleviate mental fatigue:

1. Planned activities as remote as possible from job activities. Examples: golf, swimming, gym workouts, long walks.

2. Entertainment that provides laughter. Laughter is an excellent way to relieve tensions.

3. Adequate rest. A restful environment should be sought. The mentally fatigued person should avoid the noise of television and radio and the chatter of small children.

Dr. Weatherhead reminds that fatigue sometimes can be a symptom of disease. Fatigue can be associated with such conditions as anemia, tuberculosis, fever, diabetes, hepatitis and myxedema (a thyroid condition). Your doctor should be the one to determine your type of fatigue.

CHRONICALLY ILL persons often neglect to take their pills, usually through forgetfulness. A solution to the problem is offered by Cornell University researchers: a pill calendar.

In a study at Many Farms, Ariz., researchers gave 29 Navajos, all outpatients with tuberculosis, a cardboard calendar with isoniazid tablets attached. The tablets were enclosed in little cellophane envelopes stapled to the calendar's date squares.

After three months the Indians reported their preferences. Twenty-five of the 29 said they had less trouble remembering to take their pills when they used the calendar. One patient was neutral. The remaining three said they preferred a pill bottle, mainly because the calendar was a hindrance while traveling.

The researchers' conclusion: The regularity of self-administration of drugs is improved with a pill calendar.

The report is in the American Review of Respiratory Diseases.

METERS LIKE CRAZY

Accuracy is the watchword at the Long Beach Water Department's meter maintenance shop. Jack Morales, 37 (above), is an old hand at riding herd on household meters. For 15 years he has calibrated them in keeping with rigid national standards.

L.B. Water Meter Maintenance Cited

Meter maintenance at the Long Beach Water Department enjoys a nationwide reputation for thoroughness and efficiency.

Letters of inquiry from other water departments across the land and visiting delegations attest to this fact, according to Harold E. Wilson, 47, divisional engineer in charge of water distribution here.

Meter shop foreman Lincoln F. Rogers says there are close to 82,000 meters in use in the local system. The majority of these are household meters.

ANNUALLY, 14,000 meters are replaced in the lines by meters which have been renovated at the shop. Those removed are brought in for sandblasting, cleaning, repairing and recalibration.

Rogers calls this "preventive maintenance."

Only after individual meters are completely checked are they put back in service. The rotational cycle enables the checking of an individual meter about once every six years.

TV to Offer Course in Government

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Thousands of Americans will rise early for the next few months to learn more about their government.

From 6:30 to 7 a.m. (local time) each weekday morning, they will join the "Continental Classroom" of the NBC television network for a college-level course on American government. The course begins Monday.

It will be conducted by Dr. Peter Odegard, chairman of the department of political science at the University of California at Berkeley. In addition to the daily half-hour televised lecture, the students will do homework in a special textbook prepared under Dr. Odegard's leadership and published by Holt, Rinehart and Winston.

* * * *

MORE THAN 300 U. S. colleges and universities will grant full academic credit for the course. It is directed primarily to college students and to teachers who wish to brush up their knowledge of the U. S. Constitution and government. But past experience indicates many other adults will be in the TV "classroom."

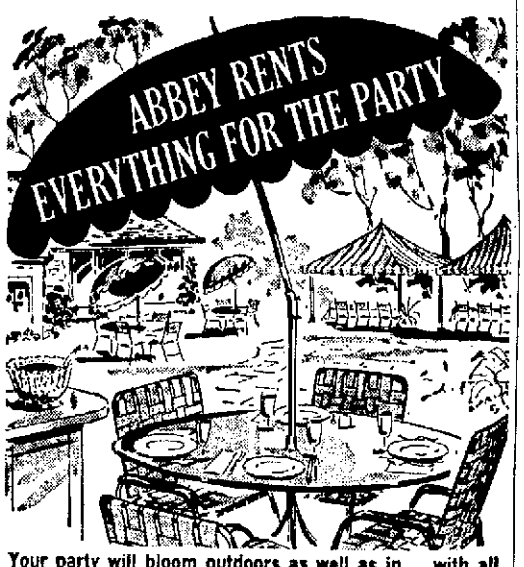

This will be the fourth year "Continental Classroom" has been on the air. In previous years, when science courses were offered, its weekly audience was estimated at 1,200,000 persons.

Half-Finished Manila Air Terminal Opened

MANILA (AP) — President Carlos P. Garcia opened Manila's new International Airport Friday even though the building, five years in the making, is still only half completed. Officials say when it is finished at an estimated cost of 11 million pesos ($5.5 million), it will be the largest and most attractive in the Far East. A jet flight from Saigon was the first to use the new facilities.

NASA Shifts to Speed Up Moon Flight

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The National Aeronautics and Space administration Saturday announced a streamlining of its organizational setup in an effort to speed a man to the moon.

The changes focus NASA's major efforts on its office of manned space flight programs.

Earlier last week the agency announced appointment of D. Brainerd Holmes, general manager of Radio Corp. of America's major defense systems division, as director of the manned space flight office. It chose Houston, Tex., as its "man-to-the-moon" center.

The changes and appointments, effective Nov. 1, define other responsibilities to provide greater emphasis of NASA's other major programs.

NASA Administrator James Webb emphasized that the shakeup was keyed to a stepped-up civilian space program, "including manned lunar exploration."

Personnel changes were:

Ira H. Abbott, director of the Office of Advanced Research Programs, to become director of the Office of Advance Research and Technology.

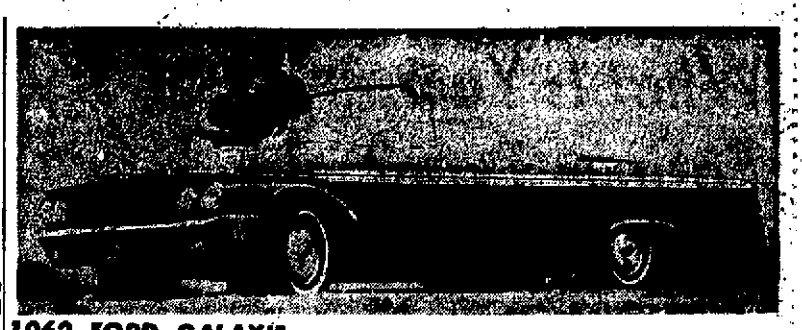

Dr. Homer E. Newell, deputy director of the Office of Space Flight Programs, as director of the Office of Space Sciences.

Thomas F. Dixon, named last month as director of the Office of Launch Vehicle Programs, as deputy associate administrator.

Dr. Abe Silverstein, director of the Office of Space Flight Programs, as director of the Lewis Research Center, Cleveland, Ohio, a position now vacant.

1962 FORD GALAXIE

Here is the Ford Galaxie 500 Sunliner convertible, one of 12 models in the 1962 Galaxie line. While the new Galaxie is slightly shorter and fractionally narrower than the 1961 model, the passenger compartment remains the same size. The Sunliner top is anchored at each roof bow to prevent "ballooning" when under way. The vinyl-lined top is stored under a color-keyed boot. The 1962 Fords will go on display nationally Tuesday.

Holy War Threatened Over Mohammed Film

TEHREN, Iran (AP)—A religious furor blew up Saturday over reports that an Italian film firm is furtively making a movie about Mohammed. Italian movie men and diplomats denied any such movie was in the works.

"They cannot fool us," cried Ayatullah Behbehani, elderly head of the Islamic faith in Iran. He said he had heard that American film star Ava Gardner was being cast in the role of the prophet's first wife.

* * * *

IN IRAN, where a foreigner can get stoned for taking a snapshot of a mosque, Moslems regard as a sacrilege any statue or picture of the prophet who founded Islam 1,300 years ago.

About 200 bearded and turbaned mullahs convened to warn the Italian government that making profits from the prophet would be a religious violation.

"The Italian government and people will make an enemy of millions of Moslems with this film," declared a spokesman. "It will create regret, anger, hatred. We will declare a jehad (holy war) against this film."

At the height of the excited meeting word came from Gen. Hassan Pakrevan, deputy premier and head of security, that he intended to fly to Rome to stop the alleged production.

At the golden-domed holy city of Qum, 75 miles south of Tehran, irate Iranians threatened to close down the bazaar to show their anger.

* * * *

NEITHER mullahs nor the Italian embassy had any firm details about the film or the company supposedly making it. An embassy spokesman said, however, "it is absolutely impossible" that such a picture was being made.

In Rome, major Italian film studios said they knew of no plans for such a movie.

Land Entry Banned in Arid Areas

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Agricultural land entries into public lands with declining water tables will no longer be allowed, Interior Secretary L. Udall announced Saturday.

He said the new policy was intended to protect farmers and other users near federal lands.

He said a need for the policy became apparent after the Bureau of Land Management turned down about 300 applications for 160-acre homesteads in Arizona.

"WE ARE MOVING rapidly in states such as Arizona into a period of acute water crisis if present growth rates continue," Udall said.

Seagoing Blood Bank Set Up by Red Cross

The Long Beach Chapter of the American Red Cross has a new approach to blood donors.

Mobile blood banks have gone to large groups of donors at various plants before, but last week the Red Cross took a new route—the S. S. Catalina to Avalon.

The big steamer's ballroom was converted to a blood bank in Avalon harbor. Seventy-two Avalon residents came to give blood; 60 were accepted as donors; all were members of the Avalon Hospital Blood donors group and represented most walks of life on the island.

Build Up NATO, —Wedemeyer

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP)—Retired Gen. A. C. Wedemeyer said Saturday North Atlantic Treaty forces must be strengthened so as to have 100 effective combat divisions and 100,000 tactical planes available to defend western Europe.

"The West German, if they feel that the situation in Central Europe is so dangerous, instead of criticizing the President about appeasing the Communists, should get busy and provide 50 fully equipped divisions for NATO," said Wedemeyer, commander of the China Theater in World War II and later commander of the U.S. Sixth Army.

The general spoke at a seminar on communism sponsored by the San Antonio Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Mercury Hits 90 in New York City

NEW YORK (AP) — New York City, which was positively chilly a few days ago in Hurricane Esther's wake, had a high temperature of 90 degrees Saturday.

Saturday was the 29th day of 90-or-above temperatures this year. The record for any one year is 33 days.

FAA Tests Jetliner Stop Gear

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Federal Aviation Agency (FAA) Saturday unveiled a long-awaited weapon against air crashes—a device to prevent runway overshooting by big jets.

The agency announced the first successful "live" tests of an arresting gear designed to stop even the largest jetliner. The gear is a first cousin of the arresting devices the Navy has used on aircraft carriers for years.

* * * *

THE TESTS WERE conducted by an FAA Boeing 720 jetliner at the Lakehurst, N. J., Naval Air Test Facility.

In normal flight, the hook would be latched snugly against the fuselage. In an emergency, a pilot would release it to fall near the runway and catch the arresting cable stretched a few inches above the runway surface.

Barefoot Officer Outruns Suspect

DETROIT (AP) — Policeman Ervill Goolsby was off duty and asleep when he heard a noise in his backyard.

He went to a window and saw a man pushing his private motorcycle out the back gate.

Goolsby jumped into his pants, grabbed his pistol and gave chase. He forgot his shoes. After running for a block he arrested George Mc-Comsey, 18, who was held for investigation. Then Goolsby went to the hospital and had his feet treated for lacerations.

Something for Everybody at County Fair

HARDLY anybody will bemoan growth and development, but it's sort of sad what it does to the rural scene.

Going to the fair at Pomona, I took an old favorite route: Out Garden Grove Blvd. to Hwy. 39, north on 39 to East Rd. in the La Habra Hills, east through the Hacienda Country Club, into the Puente Valley by Fullerton Road, on into Pomona on Valley Blvd.

It's a route I took scores of times years ago, but, retracing those steps Friday, I could hardly call it familiar.

GONE, for instance, are the orange trees that dropped so close to the road at Hwy. 39 and Whittier Blvd. that one could reach out and pick some fruit as he passed. Gone are some grand old houses that one used to glimpse through the citrus. Gone are some fine old trees that were familiar landmarks in the old days.

At places along the way which once offered scenes of rural charm are big areas of blacktop in front of shopping centers, service stations, the barren roofs of big housing projects. Some citrus orchards are dying, others are being removed. At Fifth Ave. and Otterbein near Puente there were great fires as grubbed-out trees were consumed in flames. some old houses in that area have been shorn of surrounding floral adornment and stand, bare and decaying.

To be sure, a lot of landscaping is going on. Shrubs and new trees are growing and grassy plots replace some one-time weed-covered meadows. The new Southland "back country" will become increasingly attractive, but the current transition period leaves something to be desired. And for those who knew it in other days, it's something of a shock.

THE fair, as always, is great. The vast array of exhibits not only reflect the glories of Los Angeles County, including its still substantial agricultural activity, but many other counties and communities have provided interesting displays. Mountain counties like Nevada, Alpine and Mono have their exhibits designed to lure Southern Californians to spend time and money there in pleasant recreational pursuits.

For city kids, and for older folk who remember other years in the country, the Story Book Farm is one of the big fairgrounds' best attractions. It even has an old-fashioned red barn with the inevitable hay window at the gable, and the unmistakable aroma.

Some little girls kept running away from a family group and patting the horse on the cheek and neck. It was obviously the first horse-patting they'd ever done, and it was followed by shrill cries of excitement as they'd run back to mama's skirts. It's things like that which make it a true county fair.

IT was Long Beach Day and at the races, Mayor Ed Wade, backed up by Councilman Bill Graham, presented the silver tray to the feature race winner. The Long Beach Municipal Band gave the opening concert and drew enthusiastic applause. Even Lady Luck smiled on people from Long Beach, and the fellows near me — Atty. Henry NeCasek, Insurance Man Fred Hawkins, Realtor Lloyd Leedom, did o.k. at the mutuels. Even I, a notoriously poor picker of the horses, left the grandstand with a few extra shekels in my pockets.

It was a happy day.

YM Under Way for Fall, Winter

An action-packed autumn and winter program was launched this past week at all five branches of the Long Beach YMCA with special emphasis on activities for high school youth.

While physical fitness classes, athletics, hobby clubs, recreation pursuits and counseling continue as the backbone of the citywide program, a relatively new feature of YMCA endeavor is meeting with popular acceptance here, according to Harry J. Moore, president of the Long Beach YMCA.

"This is the social-educational group concept which has expressed itself here in a series of individual clubs," Moore said.

* * * *

"TO FOSTER this movement and at the same time provide the necessary guidance and counseling, the Long Beach YMCA has literally taken its program into the neighborhoods of the community," Moore declared.

"We are meeting in schools, churches and various other neighborhood gathering places in order to satisfy the demands for space," he said.

"Right today the Long Beach YMCA sponsors 271 neighborhood-related youth groups with a participating membership of 4,024 boys and girls," Moore stated.

* * * *

THE YMCA president said decentralization of activities, while accepted as a temporary expedient, has pointed up a critical need to develop YMCA youth centers.

"This is particularly true," he said, "in the Los Altos area where more than 2,000 young people are active participants in the YMCA program."

This Is It, Says McLean After Seven Resignations

George F. McLean, 67, executive secretary of the Armed Service YMCA, has been resigning every year for the past seven years.

This time, though, he means it, said McLean, a ready man with a chuckle.

Sept. 30, he winds up 42 years of YMCA work—17 of them in Long Beach.

"I'm going to just be a bum for three months—take a trip east to visit some shirttail relatives, cross over into Canada and then go over to Hawaii before coming back to Long Beach," he said.

* * * *

McLEAN has had only one job in his entire working life. He was in the World War I Army in Europe when he walked into a Y.

"The Y official treated me like an individual," said McLean, who was impressed after his anonymity as a soldier. "I decided to do that kind of work." He went to work for the YMCA after being shipped back to the U. S. and has been in it ever since.

Technically, a worker in the Y resigns at 60. However, Y workers are covered by Social Security, so he has submitted a technical resignation annually (not accepted) and continued working. At 65, the mandatory retirement age, he again submitted his resignation, but by this time it looked like the new Armed Services Y here was a certainty and Y officials asked him to remain because he was familiar with the operation and was the best man to see the new structure completed.

GEORGE F. McLEAN
He'll Go on 'Bum'

* * * *

THE NEW building opened a year ago this month at 520 W. Seaside Blvd. After a year's shakedown, McLean is certain the operation is what it should be.

"The vastly increased use of the facility by the service groups convinces me we had the right idea. In July we had 45,000 people use the facility."

Retirement poses no problem for him. He's clearing out of official Y work, but when he comes back from his "bumming around" he'll be active on committees for the Y and in other community work. "I've been working with people all my life. I don't think retirement will change that. I'll continue to work with people."

Looking back, he says he's glad he went into the work. "I got satisfaction out of the job I don't think I could have got even if I were a millionaire."

IBC Worth $13 Million in Publicity, Exec Says

By JIM McCAULEY

An advertising executive here estimated Saturday that International Beauty Congress netted Long Beach $13,250,000 in publicity during the past year.

Bill Becker, partner in Max Becker Advertising Agency, said he figures each of the 53 Miss International delegates landed $250,000 in publicity.

Becker reached his estimate by multiplying 53 times $250,000. "And it is conservative," he said.

Nobody ever will know exactly just how much those 36-24-36 figures are worth at pageant time. But Becker is accustomed to paying thousands of dollars for a newspaper ad or radio-television time.

* * * *

THE POINT: if it hadn't been for IBC, it would have cost millions of dollars to advertise Long Beach as a beautiful glamour capital.

Commented George Taubman, IBC president:

"The Long Beach dateline on a picture or a news item should be like a blood transfusion to the citizens and business leaders of Long Beach."

Oscar Meinhardt, IBC executive producer, said the 1961 coverage included:

1. An invasion by 114 foreign correspondents, representing magazines and newspapers throughout the world.

2. An audience of several million on live television in Southern California.

3. Intensive coverage by United Press International, Associated Press, Reuters—world news gathering organizations.

4. A half-page picture in Life Magazine.

5. Unprecedented local-level publicity in local-level contests which were preliminaries to Miss International here. Fifty thousand girls competed throughout the world.

Meinhardt said the cost would be prohibitive to research what happened in each specific country. But he spot-checked several countries, including:

Japan — Three thousand girls competed for the Miss Japan crown, and a crowd of 50,000 watched the finals.

Canada—John C. J. Bruno, executive producer of Canadian Beauty Spectaculars, estimated IBC got 35 per cent more publicity than Miss Universe.

Hong Kong—Henry Chan, editor New Life Evening Post, said Hong Kong newspapers carried 10,547 inches about Miss International.

Brazil—A folder on Miss International publicity measures 3 inches thick and includes colored pictures of Miss International on several magazines.

Meinhardt, his desk piled high with clippings about the 1961 IBC, declared:

"IBC in future years can be even a greater attraction by giving a variety of day-

Artist Sketches Capture Mood

There's something for everybody at the Los Angeles County Fair, now under way in Pomona.

Nearly everything that stood still for any length of time was Fair game for Independent, Press-Telegram staff artist Dick Wallmeyer's sketchbook reproduced above.

But for the most part, it's a fair in motion.

Miles of displays, thousands of entrants competing for $200,000 in cash awards (some of the contests are in milking, crocheting, butter-churning, hog-calling, pie-eating) are on the days' calendar of events.

Not so easily captured in a black and white drawing are the landscapes and the floral displays in dazzling colors.

THE BEST OF EVERYTHING in the state is on show: livestock, agricultural wealth, domestic and fine arts buildings, birds, racing, minerals, entertainment. As Wallmeyer's sketches show, even some of the people are interesting to watch.

The atomic age and the good old days are depicted in exhibits of old cars and space-rocket projects.

It's an all-day outing just to take a look at all possibilities for enjoyment.

The big show continues through Oct. 1. The San Bernardino Freeway passes right by the entrance.

Penalties, Juries, Reds Bar Meet Agenda Topics

By DON MADDOCK

Proposals that new alternative penalties be set up for the crimes of murder and kidnaping, that trial juries have less members and that Communist Party members be disbarred will be considered by California attorneys at the annual State Bar convention in Monterey Monday.

Those recommendations are among dozens which the Conference of State Bar delegates will debate Monday and Tuesday. Any which are approved will be studied further before being presented to the State Legislature.

THE LAWYERS' CLUB of Los Angeles County suggested murder-kidnaping penalty changes.

The group feels life imprisonment without possibility of parole should join execution in the gas chamber and life imprisonment with parole as a first degree murder penalty, and life imprisonment with parole should be added to the present kidnaping for ransom penalties of such imprisonment without parole, and execution.

* * * *

THE REASON is that "the ends of justice, as well as the dictates of logic and common sense, require that the range of punishment (for kidnaping) be at least no more severe than that provided for first degree murder."

* * * *

A SAN FRANCISCO attorney suggested the anti-Communist move.

"There is a fundamental and fatal conflict between the oath and obligation of an attorney at law in this state, and the avowed purpose of the Communist Party," he wrote.

He pointed out that the state American Legion unanimously adopted such a resolution at its convention here in July.

Effort to Improve L.B.'s Appearance Deserves Big Push

A PROGRAM to improve Long Beach's appearance is about to be undertaken by official and voluntary agencies.

So far there is no bill of particulars, only a recognition that various areas of the city, both public and private, wear an untidy or downright frowsy look that ought not to be tolerated.

Specific projects will come later, it is expected, when the City Park Commission, the Chamber of Commerce, Downtown Long Beach Associates and other groups get down to organization and planning. They made a start last week at an informal discussion before the park board.

SOME OF THE activities within the scope of the campaign are more tree planting in sidewalks and the center strips of roadways; sidewalk repair; more liberal use of water, soap and paint in the maintenance of buildings, especially business properties; more attractive street-name signs; better control of rubbish and improved arrangements for sweeping streets that are crowded most of the time with parked cars.

These may seem to be small items, but they can add up to a big total in giving a city a brighter face. Further, one small project often leads to another that hadn't been thought of at the start.

Such a program can prove successful only if it has a broad base of volunteer push in addition to whatever personnel and money the city can spare. The Long Beach Beautiful group, which pioneered efforts of this kind, and the new women's auxiliary of the chamber can help supply the persistence necessary for permanent results.

IN ADDITION, there are beautification plans at city hall that should be dusted off for a long new look. The Elwood Allen report, for which the Long Beach Beautiful group deserves much of the credit, may still be useful in some particulars, especially its projections of tree-lined vistas transforming dowdy streets.

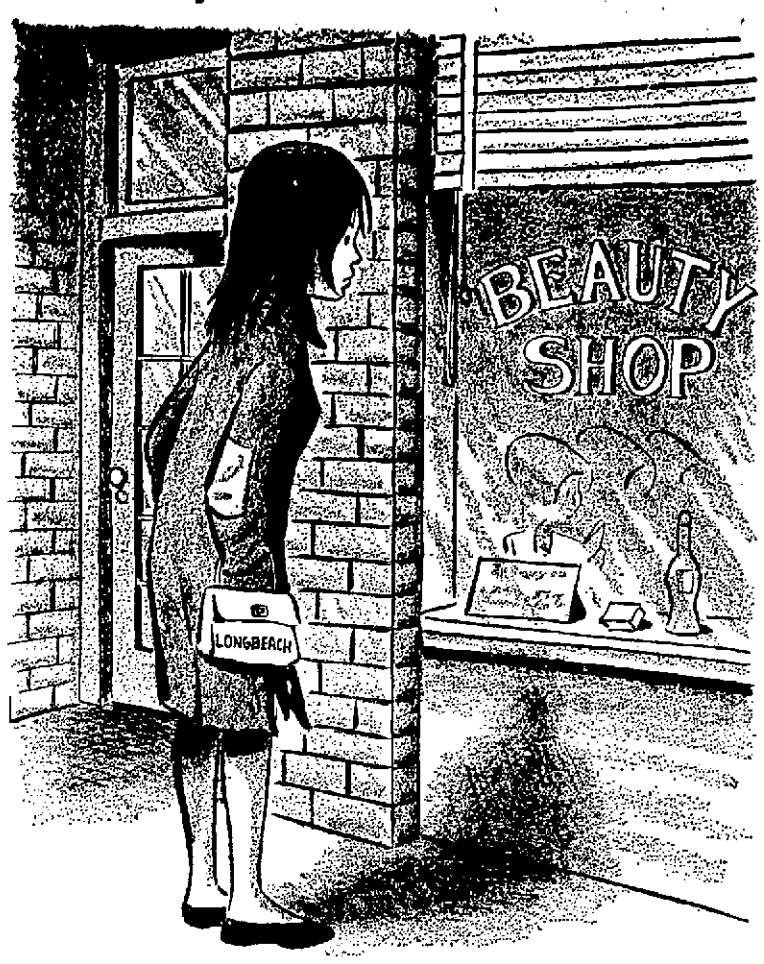

The Park Commission and other city agencies have for years talked of improving the looks of the center strip of Ocean Boulevard east of the bluff, a thoroughfare that should be a showcase for beach visitors. And if the proposed Belmont Plaza development goes through as recommended by the Mayor and City Council's Advisory Public Improvement Committee, the pressure to jam a shoreline street with parked cars will be eased.

OTHER IMPROVEMENTS envisioned through urban renewal and community redevelopment also will take on greater value if backed by a city-wide beautification campaign.

Such a program, however, deserves support on its own merits. These are both esthetic and economic. It is wrong to permit Long Beach to become less pleasant because of slovenly housekeeping. In a tourist and convention city it also can become extremely costly.

Believes Time Bomb Aboard Dag's Plane

EDITOR:

If I were a Communist determined to enslave the world, if I were in fact a top level Communist able to issue orders to the "comrades," and the world situation as it is:

I would have issued orders to put a time bomb aboard Dag Hammarskjold's plane as it left Leopoldville, and to time it to go off just as it touched down at its destination. This would make it look to the world as if Tshombe were a ruthless man, and public opinion would demand that he be put down.

The Communists would then take over the Congo in its entirety. The United Nations would be even more completely in the Communist control, and Berlin would fall.

I believe that a top level Communist would issue those orders. I believe that a top level Communist DID issue those orders.

Citizens Too Timid to Insist on Peace

EDITOR:

We hear so much these days in praise of the men who founded our country, usually followed by the assumption that we are carrying on their great ideals. But it seems to me that we forget the first principle upon which they stood: the dignity and importance of the individual. To them, the individual's rights of life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness were so important that no government had the right to infringe upon them —they therefore rose against the established government.

Today, our people seem to me to be too timid or indifferent or uninformed to interfere at all in what the government is doing in the foreign field. We, who cried out against being taxed without having a voice in government, wait to see if we and our children will die. We do so, however, this time, without a whimper.

Let us tell our present leaders that we must find another way, not war, to work out our problems. Let us live to solve them in the name of all mankind.

Deplores Ike, Dick Darts at Kennedy

EDITOR:

One thing I can't understand is why Ike and Dick go around the country saying such awful things about Kennedy. No wonder things are like they are. Ike and Dick had their chance to make this country better.

I did not like Kennedy at first, but I think he is a man with a heart and doing all he can to straighten out the mess this world is in.

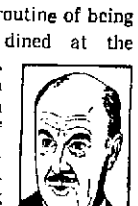

So it is better to have respect. I am all for Kennedy and so are a lot of people that know what is right.

Pro-Red Victory Forecast in Peru Election Next May

WASHINGTON — President Manuel Prado of Peru has just finished the usual Washington routine of being wined and dined at the White House, laying a wreath on the tomb of the Unknown Soldier and conferring with the VIP's of the nation's capital. He comes from a country friendly to the United States and deserved this tribute.

PEARSON

But what few people realized who pumped the hand of President Prado is that come next May, he is almost certain to be replaced by a pro-Communist left-wing government of Peru.

This is about as certain as the unvarying routine for entertaining distinguished visitors in Washington. And there isn't much the United States can do at this late date to prevent it. Furthermore there isn't much the Soviet needs to do to encourage it.

What's happening in Peru, plus other Latin countries, is the harvest of long years of neglect, misrule and failure by both the South American ruling class and the North American business class to head off social revolt.

Social revolt started to come gradually in Peru two decades ago when Victor Hoya de la Torre became the champion of the downtrodden Indians. He was forced into exile, also was forced to take refuge in a foreign embassy in Lima. Meanwhile his social reforms gathered dust.

* * * *

IN THE MOUNTAINS of Peru native Indians have been living in virtual economic slavery for the past 100 years, and the Peruvian government, until last year, had done nothing about it. It was last year that enlightened Prime Minister Pedro Baltran pushed through a land reform bill and got the long-delayed cooperation of the United States in lending money to back it.

Even today, however, 250 miles east of Lima you will find no vestige of the Peruvian government except for a few military outposts. And there has been no tax reform, no basic social reform to spread the wealth of the 12 per cent upper bracket population.

This is why Peru's elections next May will find Belaunde Terry, a pro-Castro egotist, rolling up a tremendous vote and probably taking over the government.

Note—American business firms, especially the copper companies, have a big stake in Peru. Despite this, most American business executives have failed miserably to identify themselves with the life of the country. They sit in their own clubs, see always the same people. Only 1 per cent of the people of Peru run the country, and American businessmen find it convenient to know only them. It's the easiest way. But it gives them no roots when the Castro storm threatens to take over.

OUR MOST youthful President and his physical fitness experts might learn a trick or two from the 76-year-old Congresswoman from Ohio, Frances Bolton.

No rocking chairs for Mrs. Bolton.

For a quick pick-up, she stands on her head.

"It is all a matter of balance," she says, her blue eyes twinkling with glee.

To this and deep breathing she attributes her amazing vitality and youthful appearance.

THE EXECUTIVE office across the street from the White House was built 73 years ago when gingerbread architecture reigned supreme. Ornamental iron work and cast-iron chimneys were the height of elegance.

Though modern heating no longer requires such chimneys, 10 of them, long outmoded and long unused, adorn the hips of the roof.

General Services Administration, fearful lest any of this mass topple and bean an innocent passerby into another world, decided that the ornamental cast-iron chimneys be removed.

But in government, the simplest, most logical things are often the most difficult. GSA found the Fine Arts commission adamant. The material must be replaced exactly as it was, ruled the commission, even though it no longer served a useful function.

Replacement cost of a cast-iron chimney these days was found to be about equal to a platinum one.

GSA said it so advised the Fine Arts Commission, which then agreed to accept a sheet sheet-metal substitute provided it be made to appear identical to the original so as to preserve the building's historical appearance.

CLOSE ADVISERS will work with the President on the problem of how to make the world love us more. Why not call in the real experts, perhaps with a note to all the lovelorn columnists: "I am tall, thin and wear a red-white-and-blue costume and a goatee. Although my friends say I am attractive, I seem to have trouble getting dates."

"SAVING SOAP wrappers may not be an important activity," a young man down the block admits, "but if I stick to it long enough I will eventually be known as the grand old man of something, even if it's only soap wrappers."

THE OFFICE hypochondriac now takes a pep-up pill and a slowdown pill which cancel each other out but give him the warm feeling that he is getting the full benefit of modern medical science.

COLOR IS everywhere these days—in newspapers, magazines and on television —as if the news weren't scarey enough in plain old black and white.

THE GOVERNMENT'S big laboratory for investigating space will be established in Texas where, say what you will, there is a lot of the stuff.

AN ACQUAINTANCE in the football coaching profession writes that he is either going to have to get some bigger tackles or some funnier jokes.

WHETHER or not the United Nations has a successful season, it must be admitted that it's playing what may be its toughest schedule.

SO LIVE that when a successor comes to fill your vacancy he will find that you left one.

BOB HOUSER

Like Iceberg, Redistricting Gets Worse Below Surface

STARTING almost now we can look forward to 15 months of being churned in a maelstrom of interregnums and interstices.

More simply, it means sizable chunks of our congressional district will be "country without a man," or we may not be certain who or what our man in Sacramento is.

HOUSER

It's like this. The 1961 state legislature drew us into new congressional and assembly districts. Their work was signed into law July 7. Assemblyman Joe Kennick's West Long Beach 44th District gained Lakewood and a westerly extension into the Dominguez area to Avalon Boulevard. Kennick's whole new package is still called the 44th.

Assemblyman Bill Grant's East Long Beach 70th District lost Lakewood. And its number was changed to 39. Now the population balances whereas Grant's district was much the larger before.

Now comes the overlap flap. Kennick will still be representing his old 44th and Grant his old 70th (including Lakewood) when they go back to Sacramento for the 1962 budget session. At the same time, field hands of both parties will be campaigning for your votes in the new 44th and the new 39th.

LAKEWOOD REPUBLICANS who have voted for Bill Grant for years will be flooded with appeals to support the GOP opponent of Joe Kennick in the 1962 elections. "But my man in Sacramento is Grant," they'll say correctly. That's true, and he'll be your man until January 1963 when the new Assembly sits.

Transitional problems get more difficult among active party workers. Democrats hold their congressional district council convention here next Saturday. It's the 18th CD but becomes the 32nd CD in 1963.

Chief convention business is reorganization to accommodate the new Assembly district configurations. It will create a new 32nd CD Council comprised of all clubs chartered by the county committee, including both California Democratic Council (CDC) and non-affiliated clubs. The convention then will create its 44th Assembly District council, extending club representation to the new area of Lakewood. And finally the new 39th AD council. This reorganization takes care of unofficial party organization.

BUT PLANS MUST also be laid for the official party organization, the elective county central committee. They will be elected at the June primary in 1962 for the new districts. Thus, they will be functioning groups for Assembly districts yet to come.

Bill Grant's district, which had been "safe" for his repeated election even when it included Lakewood's big Democratic registration, becomes even more safe as his territory disengages from Lakewood.

Kennick admits the problem may be confusing to the public at large but says he and party workers have simplified it from the inside. The two Assembly district councils have been conducting joint meetings to keep perspective.

ON REPRESENTATION matters, Kennick says any matters "referred to me by people in the newly-drawn 44th District, I'll be happy to handle. I think serving them, if they request it, is good practice and I will continue to do so."

Election of the official county central committee here—seven members from each of the new Assembly districts — poses another interesting situation.

It so happens that most of the incumbent committeemen live in the new 44th. At election time there will be only three incumbents on the ballot in the new 39th. Some 13 Democrats thus will be seeking committee posts in the new 44th, while in the 39th the election may go to write-ins.

LANGUAGES in the NEWS
By Charles P. Berlitz and Robert Strumpen-Darrie

Questions from our readers:

"How do you say "coexistence" in French, Spanish, German, Chinese and Russian?"—Diana Vriend, West Sacramento, Calif.

It is coexistence, coexistencia, Koexistenz, gung chuan, and Sosusshestvoanie in that order. (In Russian even to say it is difficult!)

"What is the derivation of "Liverpool" — A. C. Tschwend, Long Beach, Calif.

It means "pool of the slopes" in Old Norse—Hlithar-poollr.

"Does Vichyssoise mean 'Vichy-soup'?" — Emeline Baque, Cleveland Heights, Ohio.

Vichyssoise is the feminine form of the adjective meaning "from Vichy." The masculine form is Vichyssois.

"Can you tell me what my name means?" — William Bernheim, Lake Charles, La.

Heim means "home" while Bern, the capital of Switzerland, is thought to be derived from the plural of "bear." Therefore, Bernheim could mean "home of the bears."

WALTER LIPPMANN

Dag Tried Daring Innovation in U. N.

OVER THE YEARS I have often wondered whether Dag Hammarskjold belonged to an age that is passing or to one that is being born. He was a bold innovator in world affairs, and he opened up a future, having carried further than it has ever been carried before the principle of international action to promote peace. Yet he was himself the fine flower of the European tradition of civility which, if it is not dying, certainly is not flourishing today.

LIPPMANN

He was altogether not the mass man of our times. He could be a very good friend, but there was a deep reserve in his character which few if any can have penetrated. In the great public world where the white lights blazed upon him, he lived an inner life of contemplation and esthetic experience that had nothing to do with power and popularity and publicity. His diplomacy had a finesse and a courtliness in the great traditions of Europe. Never before, and perhaps never again, has any man used the intense art of diplomacy for such unconventional and such novel experiments.

THE BIGGEST EXPERIMENT, for which in the end he gave his life, was to move the international society of the United Nations from having to choose between a very difficult police action in Korea and sole reliance on debate and verbal expression. He moved the U.N. onto the plane of executive action without large-scale war as in Korea.

I knew Dag Hammarskjold long enough and well enough, I think, to understand why he accepted the risks of opening up new paths in such wild and unchartered country. He saw no alternative to intervention by the United Nations in a crisis where there was a bitter confrontation in the cold war.

NO CAUTIOUS AND TIMID man would have dreamed of staking the prestige and perhaps the future of the United Nations, as well as his personal reputation and his office, on the attempt to pacify the Congo. But great as were the risks of intervention, the risks of letting events run their course were much greater. If the United Nations now fails in what Hammarskjold inaugurated, the prospects are that the terrible racial struggle between Europeans and Africans will become deeply entangled in the conflict between the Western powers and the Communist powers.

It was to avert and to prevent this fatal entanglement that Hammarskjold dared to use the powers of the United Nations. The outcome is as yet unknown. But what we do know is that his unprecedented innovation in world affairs has run into fearful resistance both in the East and in the West. Hammarskjold's use of the U.N. to isolate and disinfect the Congo brought on him and the U.N. the implacable hatred of the Soviet government. At the same time Hammarskjold did not have the full support of the Western powers.

THERE IS NO DOUBT that in the administration of the new U.N. policy there have been mistakes. But let us keep it in mind that the cause of the two-sided opposition to the U.N. action is not the mistakes. The cause of the opposition from East and West is a determination not to have the U.N. succeed in what it is attempting to do. For if the U.N. succeeds, there will not be a Communist government in the Congo. That is what Khrushchev hates about Hammarskjold and the Secretary General's office. And if the U.N. succeeds, there will not be a restoration of white supremacy in the Congo, and that is why money, propaganda, and clandestine intervention are being employed to frustrate the U.N.

No one knows today who can come after Hammarskjold, and there are signs that he is in fact irreplaceable. For Hammarskjold was made Secretary General at a time when the U.N. was really no more than a debating society.

IT IS EASY TO SAY that the world is not ready for international action to establish peace, and it would be hard to refute such a statement. Hammarskjold, under the fearful pressure of circumstances, resorted to international action. With his extraordinary diplomatic elegance and finesse, he used successfully international action at Suez, in Palestine, and in Laos. As compared with these the Congo presented a new order of difficulty, and the outcome, now that Hammarskjold is dead, is in the gravest doubt.

WHAT OTHERS ARE SAYING

It is only fair that states with a rapid growing population should have more representative, but not at the expense of other states when we can avoid such a drastic shift.

—Rep. James J. Lane (D-Mass.), suggesting that permanent membership of the House be increased to 453 from 435.

QUESTIONS, ANSWERS

Power to Legislate

Q. By what authority do such bodies as the Interstate Commerce Commission get power to make rules which are enforceable as law, when Congress is supposed to enact all Federal laws? F. W.

A. These special-purpose administrative bodies are given by Congress the power to sub-legislate. That is, they are authorized to make specific rules and regulations to put into effect and enforce the general intent and will of Congress as expressed in the legislation which creates the body. Each regulation must be based, essentially, on some authority delegated to the body by Congress.

CHANGE LOCAL DISTRICTS

Demos Meet Saturday

By BOB HOUSER
Political Editor

Some 300 Democrats of the Long Beach-Lakewood-Signal Hill 18th Congressional District will meet in convention here Saturday to reorganize their Assembly and Congressional district Democratic councils to conform to new district boundaries.

The reorganization was made necessary by the state legislature's reapportionment based on the 1960 decennial census. The changes: The local 18th CD becomes the 32nd CD and extends its area and population slightly on both west and east boundaries.

The 44th AD (West Long Beach) keeps its number, gains Lakewood and the westerly extension to Avalon Boulevard and loses a couple of blocks in the downtown area. The incumbent is Joseph M. Kennick.

The 70th AD (East Long Beach-Lakewood) changes its number to the 39th AD, loses Lakewood, gains a couple of downtown blocks. The incumbent is William S. Grant.

Meeting in the Labor Temple, 1231 Locust Ave., will be delegates from all Democratic clubs chartered by the county central committee, state and county committee members, partisan office holders, California Democratic Council congressional and assembly district representatives.

Keynote speakers will be State Sen. Richard Richards and I, P-T columnist Bob Wells.

Delegate registration will start at 9:30 a.m. Wells will address the AD conventions which are scheduled 10 a.m. to noon: Richards will address the CD convention which starts at 1:30 p.m.

Business of the meetings, held under the guidance of the CDC, will include reorganizing the councils, electing new council executive officers and adopting bylaws.

Temporary chairmen are Ron Hager, 32nd; Joseph Johovich, 44th, and William Peake, 39th.

A luncheon honoring guest speakers and guest chairmen will be held during the noon recess period.

The public is invited to attend convention sessions.

Carl Terzian, civic affairs consultant for Coast Federal Savings and Loan Association, will discuss "World Crisis, What Exchange Can Do," Wednesday noon at the weekly meeting of the Long Beach Exchange Club. The group meets in the Red Velvet Room of the Lafayette Hotel. Robert C. Emerson will preside. Jim F. McNamara will be chairman of the day.

$305,000 in Balm Asked

A $305,000 wrongful death suit was filed in Superior Court at Long Beach for the mother of a Wilmington man who fell to his death from the "crow's nest" of a merchant ship.

The plaintiff, Louisa Ortega, 1519 N. Marine Ave., Wilmington, named Mine Safety Appliances Co., Quality Machine & Boiler Works, the Matson Navigation Co. as defendants.

Her attorney, James C. Webb, said the victim, David Ortega, fell 44 feet to a deck while working for Quality aboard the Hawaiian Builder at a Wilmington dock Sept. 27, 1960. The complaint blamed a defective safety belt for the accident.

LAGGARDS, TAKE HOPE

Do You Read Only a Page a Minute?

By BOB GIEVET

For those who stumble through their books, there is hope.

Instead of taking a month to find out who won the girl, if it was the butler who murdered his master, how to get an algebraic formula or rocket to the moon, you might do it in a day.

A revolutionary new method of high-speed scanning—they call it "reading dynamics"—will make its debut in Santa Ana next Thursday, as the first class starts for 30 persons of divedsified interests, training, and background—and ages.

Originated by Mrs. Evelyn N. Wood, an assistant professor at University of Delaware, the new method is claimed to step up speed reading of anyone from four to 10 times his normal capacity.

Her "Reading Dynamics Institute," at 2006 N. Broadway, will have daily classes, each 2½ hours long and each for a 12-week series. The classes will be taught by V. Herrick Hanson and Miss Pat Lewis.

* * * *

THEY SAID that the average person reads about 250 words per minute, and the college student—with a background of pursuit of the printed page—about 350 words per minute. Unless the reading speed is stepped up to 2,500 words per minute, the teachers are unhappy. They're personally disturbed if a pupil does no better than 1,000 words per minute.

Not everybody is a college student; the registration includes a 10-year-old boy and a 70-year-old woman, and there's a smattering of doctors, insurance agents and whatnot in the list.

The institute printed its own texts, and they get the plodding reader into orbit. Then he brings in his own material—anything from Plato's Republic to treatises on the life cycle of iguana lizards.

Before long, the pupil probably will begin to get stoop-shouldered from carrying books; he should do one a night. This might make a run on the libraries, but they still have many untouched volumes.

Hanson explained that the interest of the person in his subject "somewhat controls" his ability to read the dynamic new way—and to comprehend what is read.

He insisted that retention of subject matter is high; it's tested regularly.

* * * *

THE NEW SCHOOL expects to limit is enrollment to 300 for the present fall session. Succeeding sessions will be about the same, and so will class sizes.

That permits individual instruction to the reader-student; he learns to "scan" the printed page with his eyes following his finger down the center of the page. It eliminates constant shifting of the eyes, "backtracking" of the mind and the unconscious but common habit of saying, hearing and thinking of the sound of words while reading, Hanson explained.

In effect, he added, the new method of high-speed reading "is to train students to note patterns of meaning on a page, rather than individual words."

Hanson and Miss Lewis said a similar institute is planned for Long Beach. They opened interviews Friday night in two sessions.

Does U.S. Have a Chance in Space Sweepstakes?

By BEM PRICE

HUNTSVILLE, Ala. (AP) — Does the United States, now firmly and officially in the space sweepstakes against Russia, have a chance to win the race to the moon?

Yes, a "sporting chance," but a chance nonetheless.

That is the opinion of Dr. Wernher Von Braun—and no one has yet accused this German-born missile and space expert of misty-eyed optimism.

Von Braun is director of the National Aeronautic and Space Administration's (NASA) George C. Marshall space flight center here.

After a 70-minute, wide-ranging interview with Von Braun it also can be reported:

The emphasis in the U.S. approach to the space race has undergone a radical shift from the purely scientific to the practical.

One time-and money-consuming step in the development of big boosters will probably be skipped, cutting perhaps as much as two years from the moon landing schedule.

President Kennedy affirmed the United States was in the space race in a special message to Congress on May 25.

But words do not build space ships. There have been no outward signs of a major speedup in the space program since May 25.

"The United States—NASA—did not have a crash program to go to the moon at the time the President made that speech," Von Braun said.

"We have had these months, however," he continued, "to come up with a plan and we are now coming up with one. We now know pretty well which way we are going.

* * * *

"I AM not conceding defeat at this point. We have a sporting chance. We and the Russian need to develop new equipment. Both nations need to develop a new technology all the way."

This is the American program:

Three separate missile configuration are lumped loosely under the general heading of Project Saturn.

The first is a 1.5-million-pound thrust first stage with a 90,000-pound thrust second stage. This is known as configuration 1, abbreviated to C-1.

With this two-stage missile, the United States can put a 20,000-pound payload into a 300-mile high orbit.

* * * *

THE SECOND missile, or C-2, is a three-stage affair with the same first stage as the C-1, an 800,000-pound thrust second stage and a 90,000-pound thrust third stage.

The C-2 could hurl 45,000 pounds into earth orbit, send a manned vehicle on an orbit around the moon or put a load of instruments on the moon, venus or mars.

The C-3 will have a spanking new, 3-million-pound thrust first stage and the same upper stages as the C-2.

This last "bid" obviously can do everything the C-2 can do and more. It can send a three-man capsule into orbit around the moon.

With its 30-ton-plus payload capacity, it can be used to assemble a moon landing rocket in space. It cannot land a man on the moon and bring him back.

A DIRECT manned flight to the moon and return will have to await development of the 12-million pound thrust Nova.

In view of the Russian lead in space flight, was it a mistake to put the nation's prestige on the line in the space race?

Von Braun slumped deeper into his chair at the conference table in his paneled office.

"I think," he said, "you have to define what you mean by being ahead in space. There are areas in which we are ahead.

"The Russians, for example, have never exhibited the slightest interest in communication and weather satellites. I would say the satellites we have put up have produced far more scientific knowledge.

* * * *

"THE OBVIOUS Russian lead," he continued, "is in manned space flight and long haul capabilities.

"They have had a lot more growth potential because their equipment was built with standard techniques, using standard equipment. I disagree violently with those who say their missile are fatter but ours are smarter.

"We miniaturized our equipment—and miniaturization cuts into reliability. I think I must agree that in the area of manned space flight we are substantially behind, years behind."

Kennedy has now been in office seven months. What has happened?

"Something rather fundamental has happened Von Braun said. NASA under President Eisenhower had a mission to develop an orderly, step-by-step scientific program. No race with the Russians was admitted.

* * * *

"AS A RESULT, the scientific interests came first. There was no recognition of the psychological affect on the world. This was a consistent and honest approach.

"I think the fundamental thing now is that President Kennedy has committed this country to the sweepstakes and we mean to win.

So who's ahead?

"Well," said Von Braun, "...in the earlier objectives (orbital travel) they have a clear lead. Our chance lies in the long range projects where both sides need new equipment and new techniques. Even if the Russian do beat us, we simply cannot afford to have anything less than an energetic program."

What can the United States do to develop more speed in the race?

* * * *

"THERE ARE some areas," said Von Braun, "in which we should take a good hard look at procedures. Contracting is one of them.

"In comparing us with Russia, I am saying this: there is no private industry in Russia and conflicts of interest don't exist....

"Another area in which we have to take a hard look is the question of safety. You can rule yourself out of the space race by demanding unrealistic criteria.

"Charles Lindbergh flew the Atlantic in a single-engine plane. If Lindbergh had submitted a flight plan to some of our safety people, they wouldn't have let him go. They would have demanded that he wait until the development of a four-engine airplane...."

Before approving a NASA budget for 1962 of $1.671 billion, Congress whittled $75 million off the fund for research and development and cut $20 million from the salary and expense allowance.

* * * *

IN RELATION to the total budget, these appear as minor reductions. Von Braun doesn't think so. In terms of personnel, the cut means that NASA will not hire some 600 extra people.

What about the reduction in research funds? Von Braun puckered wryly.

"We are damaged in that what was a continuous plan in which everything dovetailed will have to be reshuffled and this ties up a lot of people."

As result of these seemingly small cuts there will be some undetermined slippage in the moon trip timetables.

Congress ordered the cuts on Aug. 7—the day Russia's major Gherman Titov completed 17 trips around the earth in a space capsule.

Plane Takeoff Kills Airman

POINT MUGU (AP) — A Navy airman was killed Saturday when a jet plane preparing to take off ran over him.

Dead is Leonard J. McTavich, 39, of Plymouth, Pa., an aviation ordnanceman at the Pacific Missile Range headquarters here.

Lt. Cmdr. E. G. Callas said he was in the plane and preparing to take off when he pulled out of the area and felt a bump. He said he looked back and saw McTavich lying on the runway. McTavich died three hours later.

Kuchel Urges Increase in Cotton Crop

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Thomas H. Kuchel, R-Calif., joined Saturday in demands that more cotton be planted to avoid any shortage such as occurred during the Korean war.

The Republican Whip urged a higher acreage base for the 1962 crop in letters to President Kennedy and Agriculture Secretary Orville L. Freeman.

"I wish to associate myself with those who are in favor of a materially larger acreage for next season," Kuchel said. He said U.S. and world cotton stocks were at a low level at the outbreak of hostilities in Korea and that it had been necessary to place an embargo on U.S. exports.

* * * *

"I FEEL WE must take positive steps to assure a completely adequate and dependable supply to meet our own domestic requirements and to fill the demands of our free world allies," he said.

Kuchel said cotton stocks outside the Soviet Bloc were "at the lowest level since World War II, with the exception of a period during the Korean war."

He termed the situation most critical in California where, he said, the only supplies available were those growing in the fields or being picked.

"In the view of industry leaders, California could sell at least three times the quantity of cotton being produced this year," he said. He asked that a "fair proportion" of any increased acreage be assigned to California.

Kuchel said the cotton carry-over for July 31, 1962, had been predicted at 6,300,000 bales. He termed this as "considerably below the margin of safety."

Brown Urges Expansion in Youth Jobs

SACRAMENTO (AP)—Gov. Brown Saturday said California leads the nation in providing jobs for 16-to 18-year-olds. But he added that even greater efforts are needed.

Citing estimates that the number of youths in that age group will increase from 251,000 to 432,000 within the next 10 years, the governor said:

"We will have to work together more effectively than ever before to develop and expand worthwhile job counseling and placement programs."

He praised an Employment Department guide for organized efforts to find work for youngsters.

Sen. Bridges Better, His Doctor Reports

CONCORD, N.H. (UPI)—The condition of U.S. Sen. Styles Bridges, R-N.H., who suffered a heart seizure Wednesday, was reported as "definitely improved" late Saturday, according to his physician.

Dr. J. Dunbar Shields also said the 63-year-old lawmaker "spent a much more comfortable night."

A three-months-old boy, who reportedly was adopted by the foster parents of Carolyn Page, has been placed temporarily with a private family pending adoption, the Los Angeles County Bureau of Adoptions said Saturday.

The bureau said little Allen Lee had not been adopted by Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Van Buren of La Mirada as the couple earlier had claimed.

They are in jail awaiting grand jury action in the strangulation of 5-year-old Carolyn last Aug. 13. The child was tied in a shower stall with wire for "misbehaving."

Canada Mission

What you see above is known as "white space." It's what newspaper advertisers buy. It's what they bought to the tune of $3,650,000,000 in 1960. They bought it for one purpose—to sell more goods and services. Must be a good investment, because advertisers put more money into newspaper white space last year than ever before, more than in television, radio, magazines and outdoor combined.*

An all-time high of almost 59,000,000 newspapers are published on an average day and 9 out of 10 families get a daily newspaper on an average day. It follows that practically every sale of every product or service is made to a newspaper reader.

Driver Hurt as Car Dives Into Ravine

A 19-year-old Wilmington youth was injured critically Saturday when he drove his car off a road in a precipitous part of the Portuguese Bend landslide area.

The victim was identified as Richard N. Alarcon of 617 Island Ave., Wilmington. He was treated for a possible broken neck, head and other injuries in San Pedro Community Hospital.

* * * *

A GARDENER working in the vicinity told highway patrolmen he saw Alarcon driving down the rough, winding lane at about 70 miles an hour. He said the youth's car shot off the road at a curve and plunged to the bottom of a steep ravine.

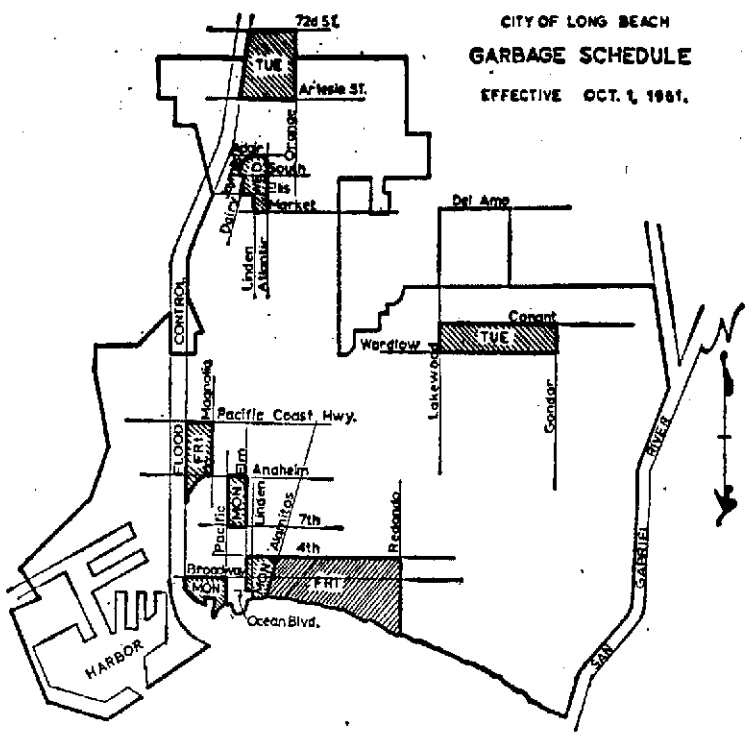

Highway Patrolman Frank S. Runyon, aided by members of the Sheriff's Mounted Posse, carried the victim out of the steep canyon in a basket stretcher.

The mounted group was passing the accident scene on its way to the nearby Portuguese Bend National Horse Show.

GARBAGE COLLECTION CHART

Beginning Oct. 1 garbage collections will be made once a week only in all areas of Long Beach. In the unshaded area of the above map, garbage will be collected on regular rubbish collection day. In the eight shaded areas, garbage will be collected on the day indicated.

Weekly Collection of Garbage Oct. 1

Beginning Oct. 1, garbage collections will be made once a week only in all residential areas of Long Beach.

Garbage tonnage in Long Beach has dropped sharply during the past eight years. Total tons collected in 1952 was 28,593.95, total tons in 1960—17,321.65. Since 1952, this represents a reduction in total garbage generated in excess of 39 per cent. Per capita generation of garbage has decreased 54 per cent since 1950.

The change in schedule will enable the city to cover all pickups by operating on a 45 crew week schedule as compared with a 79-crew week schedule at the present time. This will reflect a payroll saving of approximately $71,144.32 per year which, coupled with equipment savings, totals about $86,000 annually. These savings do not take into account savings resulting from eliminating the need for further capital investment.

Radioactive Fallout Low in Orange

SANTA ANA — Results of air sampling to detect radioactive fallout in Orange County show that less than 0.5 mircomicrocuries per cubic meter of air was present during the days after atomic explosions occurred in Russia.

Dr. Edward Lee Russell, county health officer, said the air sampling was done as part of a statewide monitoring program under the auspices of the California Disaster Office.

He said samples taken Sept. 16 and 17 show gross beta and gamma radioactivity in the air in Orange County to be negligible.

The readings are well below the maximum permissible continuous exposure level of 100 mircomicrocuries per cubic meter of air, he said.

Garden Grove Girl, 4, Drowns in Illinois

Katherine Elaine Kellogg, 4, of 12501 Maybee Court, Garden Grove, drowned Saturday in a cistern near Bloomington, Ill., while en route home with her grandparents and mother following a vacation holiday.

The child fell into the cistern after wandering away from her mother at an automobile service station where the group had halted temporarily.

Mrs. Kellog told officers they had stopped at the station and, that while the women were in a rest room, Katherine and her 3-year-old sister slipped out.

The younger child appeared later and told her mother and grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Parrish, that "Kathy has fallen into a hole."

A search for the girl led to the cistern where her body was recovered 45 minutes later. An inquest will be held Monday.

Developer Bids for Huge Tract

Sale of 4,000 acres of the Moulton Ranch in eastern Orange County to developer Ross W. Cortese, for a figure which may top $7 million, is under negotiation.

Cortese, who developed the 2,500-home Rossmoor project near Los Alamitos and now is building Leisure World for retired couples near there, is negotiating with the Lewis F. Moulton family to buy the ranch holdings.

A Santa Ana bank is representing the heirs in the negotiations which may be concluded by Tuesday, it was learned.

* * * *

THE MOULTON Ranch holdings sought by Cortese lie along Santa Ana Freeway and Laguna Canyon Road. Most of the land is rolling country studded with some rugged, brush-covered hills.

It is considered among the most picturesque — and most valuable — ranch property in Orange County.

Officials of the bank and of Cortese's enterprises confirmed the negotiations, but indicated that there is disagreement as to price, a difference that they hinted might be resolved early next week.

CAP Trains for Survey of Fallout

Fifty members of Long Beach Group 7 of the Civil Air Patrol Saturday participated in tests aimed at measuring radioactive fallout in the local area from an imaginary air attack.

At four-hour intervals during the day, the group's aircraft were sent aloft at alternate altitudes to record imaginary fallout.

Similar missions were conducted Saturday by units of the Pacific Region of CAP.

U.S.-Made Tiny Autos on Way

By BEN PHLEGAR

DETROIT (AP)—American manufacturers are continuing work on cars smaller than anything now built in the United States.

They won't be introduced with the 1962 models which are beginning to appear in dealer showrooms now. They may never be introduced in this country. But usually reliable informants claim at least one such car will be rolling from an American assembly line by next June.

This would be the long-rumored Ford Cardinal, although it could have another name when it comes to market. Manufacturers often use code names to hide advance projects. Current code name for the Cardinal-type car now under development by Ford in Europe is the Archbishop.

* * * *

THE FACT FORD is working on small cars on two continents has added to the confusion. Some reports says the Cardinal will be assembled in the United States from components made abroad. Others claim only a foreign version will be built.

The Cardinal is said to have a wheelbase of about 95 inches, 5 inches shorter than the Rambler American, now the shortest car in domestic production. The overall length is reported to be about 165 inches, 8 inches less than the Rambler model.

This would make the Cardinal fractionally larger than the Volkswagen, its main marketing target. The VW has a 94.5-inch wheelbase and is 160.6 inches long.

Ford declines comment on all speculation regarding a small car. So do all other domestic manufacturers with one exception — Studebaker-Packard.

Sherwood Egbert, president of Studebaker, said recently: "We have a prototype of a small car. I don't like the looks of it. We do like the engine very much and we are pushing it. We won't push the car unless others go first and it looks like we need it."

* * * *

CARL H. HAHN, general manager of Volkswagen of America, says he is convinced the Cardinal will appear on schedule. He is equally positive its introduction will not dent Volkswagen sales in this country.

"What I do wonder," he said in an interview, "is how long it will be before the other companies make a smaller one too."

Chevrolet is said to have developed prototypes for small cars and has made some inquiries among suppliers. Ed Cole, Chevrolet's general manager, insists there are no plans to market such a vehicle.

Hahn said he believes Chevrolet will rush to production as soon as possible after Ford introduces the Cardinal.

* * * *

ASKED WHETHER he thought there was a market for a smaller domestic car, Hahn replied, "Definitely, why not?" But he questioned whether the potential was great enough for everybody to jump in.

Hahn said he doesn't believe the Cardinal would affect this prediction. He views it as a "different car, much as the Corvair is a different car, and not one to take sales away from us."

The Cardinal, as now planned, is a front engine, front-wheel-drive vehicle. The last American-made front-wheel drive car was the Cord.

Drive on E. German Dissidents

By EDWARD SHIELDS

BERLIN (UPI) — Willi Busch has a private nightmare: his two sons shooting at each other across the east-west German border.

Busch, an elderly chemical worker, has a teen-age son living with him at home in Halle, East Germany. His elder son is in West Germany.

"If my younger son goes into the army," Busch told his fellow workers, "he becomes the foe of his brother who is in the West."

"A man should not allow that," he said. "I want to bring up my son properly and not allow him to learn murderous crafts."

* * * *

BUSCH TOLD his teen-age son if he volunteered for the East German armed forces, "you needn't let me see you again."

For his outspoken views, Busch was downgraded at an employes meeting to a low paid job in the giant Leuna chemical factory where he works in East Germany. A Communist army reserve officer called Busch's views "shocking."

The meeting which condemned Busch to a low-paid job was only one of dozens in a Communist reign of terror throughout East Germany's nationalized industries.

* * * *

THE EAST German press carries daily reports of "workers tribunals" — kangaroo-courts backed by the police power of the Red regime.

A Meissen factory worker identified only as Stein was placed under arrest by police after a workers court heard that he attacked the factory leadership. Stein, objecting to cancellation of a factory outing so that production quotas could be filled, reportedly said "whoever cancelled this outing should be gassed."

The newspaper Saechsischen Volkzeitung said a worker named Herman was put in a low-paid job for asking for an exit visa to West Germany unless he received better housing. The newspaper said Herman also threatened to send pictures of his present housing to West Germany.

* * * *

IT ALSO reported the case of an engineer named Lindner, ordered arrested by a workers court for advocating denationalization of industry and decollectivization of farms as a way toward German reunification.

The Erfurt Communist newspaper Das Volk said a man named Treppschuh was turned over to security forces for telling party functionaries "you should be careful when the reckoning comes."

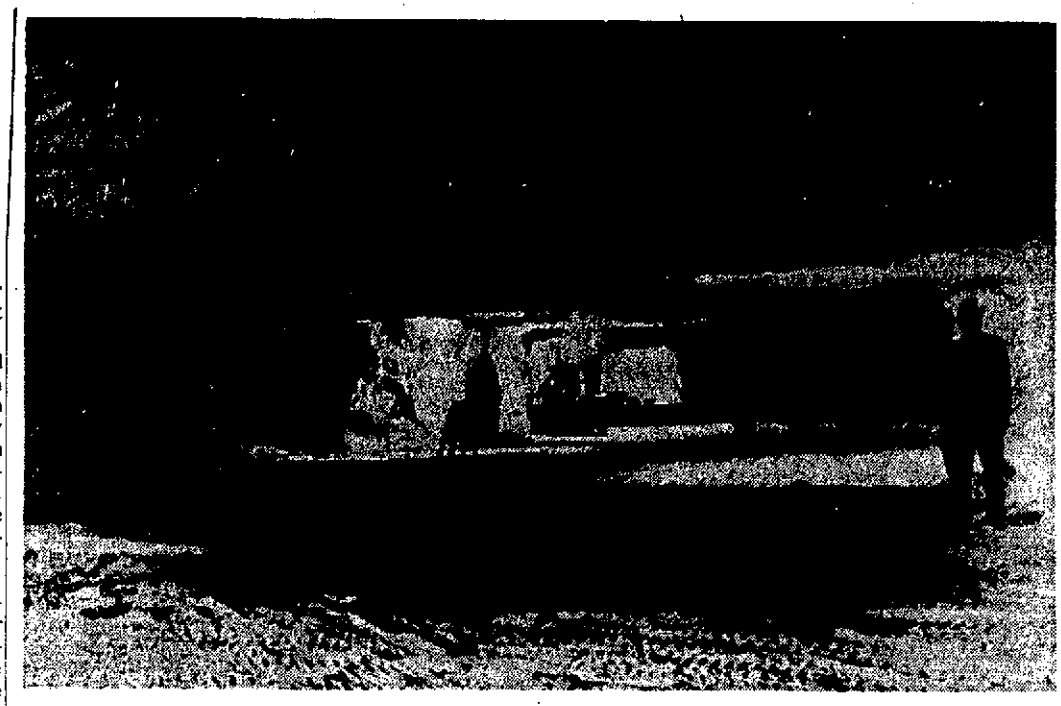

A Dresden Party newspaper reported a chemistry lecturer at the Dresden Technical School named Horn was expelled from the Party for saying the border-closing measures in Berlin "were unnecessary and directed against our own people."

Step Up Plans for Rooting Out Rebels in Java

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP)—Intensified operations for rooting out vestiges of the faltering Dar ul Islam rebel movement in West Java are being launched by the Air Force, the government has announced.

The Air Force said helicopters, bombers, fighter and reconnaissance planes are supporting ground operations by paratroopers against the movement, which has advocated for the last decade an Islamic state for Indonesia.

Planes dropped leaflets over vast jungle areas, urging the rebel leader, Jartosuwirjo, to surrender. President Sukarno last month issued an amnesty to all rebels if they surrendered before Oct. 8.

THE WICHITA Art Museum recently stored valuable oil paintings here—to prevent deterioration.

There is some federal agency business, too. The Federal Reserve Bank of Kansas City, serving seven states, has signed up for records storage and emergency working space. The Federal Home Loan Bank at Topeka also has signed for records storage space.

Under a soil and rock cap of some 350 feet there are another 300 feet of rock-solid salt. Miners began taking out the salt 37 years ago. The possible haven for people and records they dug is a by-product, and they're still adding to it.

* * * *

JOHN H. SCHUL, president of Underground, says the firm has more than 5½ million square feet under 99-year lease with renewal options. That's 130 acres, but only a small part of the total salt cavern.

The space is air-conditioned by nature. It was made safe and secure against water seepage by careful mining.

The temperature never varies more than one degree from 68 degrees fahrenheit. Humidity ranges from 57 to 59 per cent. Ceilings are 10 feet high.

Underground's lease covers 125 rooms, each 50 by 300 feet. Between them are solid walls of salt 10 feet thick.

* * * *

SCHUL HAS set up a full-scale underground apartment with kitchen—just to show possibilities. It's fully electric, with latest appliances. It already has a limited stock of foodstuffs, a planned assortment of packaged, canned foods suggested by Kansas Civil Defense officials. More than 300 conventioning members of the National Press Photographers Association were served a turkey dinner there in June.

Fresh air is pressured into these underground spaces from the surface. There is air movement throughout the vast complex of mined tunnels—and enough oxygen to sustain life for weeks even if the surface supply were cut off. There's one elevator shaft now that takes you down to the developed level in 75 seconds. Development as a nuclear refuge would, of course, provide alternate elevator and air shafts.

* * * *

THE KANSAS Civil Defense Council met in Schul's underground space recently and promptly urged the state to move vital records from the Statehouse basement and offices in Topeka into secure —presumably underground— storage.

Schul said if the state government would undertake such storage with his firm it would donate 15,000 square feet of emergency working space.

More deep salt mines are available about 30 miles to the northwest, in the Lyons area. They and the Hutchinson Mines were inspected by 60 federal, state and local officials a year ago. Rep. J. Floyd Breeding, D-Kan., told them such mines would be ideal for surplus crop storage.

Schul concurs—says grain and food stuffs so stored "would be free of contamination and available for shipment to other areas." There are, incidentally, no rodents or insects because of the salt, he says.

Two Yanks Plan Dive for Gems

JOHANNESBURG (UPI) — Two American oilmen are investigating a scheme to mine diamonds from the bottom of the sea off the coast of South West Africa.

The men, Emerson Kailey, of Freeport, Ill., and Sam Collins of Port Lavaca, Tex., plan to invest heavily in the $5,600,000 venture.

"It is a speculative venture," Kailey said. "American, British and South African interests are participating."

The men hope to mine diamonds at depths of 100 feet and up to 3 miles offshore. The site they intend prospecting borders the famed diamond coast on South West Africa, where diamonds are literally found on the beaches.

Collins said this type of mining has never been attempted.

"We will put down a rubber pipe and will agitate the sea bottom with jets of air. Then we suck the soil on deck, a sort of giant vacuum cleaner," he said.

Collins is the head of a submarine engineering concern currently laying an oil pipeline from the Sahara to France, under the Mediterranean.

Typhoon Nancy Toll: 185 Dead in Japan

TOKYO (AP)—National police closed the books on typhoon Nancy, which plowed through central Japan last weekend, giving these figures: 185 persons killed, 3,879 hurt, 15 missing, 737,030 made homeless and 409 ships sunk.

Wait Decision on Steel Price

By JACK LEFLER

NEW YORK (AP)—The controversy over whether there should be a steel price increase steamed closer to the boiling point this week.

More steel executives commented on President Kennedy's request for price stabilization despite a wage increase due next week, but it still wasn't clear what the industry is going to do.

Major interest shifted to the steel situation when General Motors Corp. and the United Auto Workers union agreed on a three-year contract for the company's 350,000 hourly workers.

* * * *

AVERY C. ADAMS, chairman of Jones & Laughlin Steel Corp., contended a freeze on steel prices would result in a further profit squeeze, fewer and poorer tools of production, less productivity, more unemployment and less job security.

He said the Presidential stand against a price increase —aimed at curtailing inflation—concerned him more than anything that has happened in his 42 years in the steel business.

Alwin F. Franz, president of Colorado Fuel & Iron Co., replying to the President's request, urged government measures to help the smaller steel companies, which he said have been hard hit by foreign competition.

* * * *

AND HE SAID five of 19 integrated steel companies lost money in the first half of this year, seven did not earn their regular dividend, some have not paid a common stock dividend for some time and several returned "a small and inadequate profit."

The steelworkers get a wage boost Oct. 1. It will be the third since there was an increase in the price of steel.

Steel production last week held even with the previous week at 2,032,000 tons, about 69.5 per cent of estimated capacity. Labor difficulties in the automobile industry were expected to cut severely into September steel shipments.

PEOPLE BLOSSOM UNDER HER MAGIC

Comely Psychiatrist Treats Only the Well

By DALPH DIGHTON

LOS ANGELES (AP) — People come away from Loriene Johnston's couch with memories of never-never worlds — where fantasy is real, where drudgery turns into freedom, where ecstasy is routine.

And they go back again and again for more of the same, until Loriene Johnston, Ph. D., decides they've had enough.

Sound like magic?

It is magic, in a way, the blonde magic of one of the most unusual personalities ever to blossom in this land where unusual personalities thrive like orchids in a hot house.

* * * *

HERE, during office hours, she practices a new kind of psychiatry — treating not the sick but only the well.

And here, off duty, she reigns as the pampered bride of a millionaire.

If you watch the Art Linkletter television show you've probably seen her: a tall, shapely radiant blonde who admits she's 40 but looks 10 years younger. On the show she interprets dreams of members of the audience with a professional air so much in contrast with her looks that you wonder if she's a fake.

She isn't. Loriene Johnston is a bona fide psychotherapist. She won her Ph. D. at the University of Southern California in 1953, specializing in speech pathology.

* * * *

FOR SEVERAL years she worked with the bruised emotions of physically and mentally handicapped children. Then, four years ago, she branched off in an entirely new direction.

"You can help disturbed people only so far," she explains now. "You're lucky if you can just bring them up to normal.

"But healthy, superior people need help, too, to break down the inhibitions that keep them from becoming even greater than they are.

"The future of the world depends on our superior people, not the ordinary ones. If the superior people are frustrated or misguided, they could lead the world to doom. If they are happy, well adjusted, growing to their fullest, the world will be a better place for all of us."

* * * *

"I WANT to get across, through whatever medium I can, the idea that the unconscious is not a snake pit — it's the place where the whole wealth of our feelings is stored.

"Fears, some big, some little, keep us from tapping this wealth."

These are fairly standard ideas among modern psychotherapists. The thing that makes Dr. Johnston unusually successful — she has become almost a fad among harried West Coast executives — is her way of breaking down the barriers of real and imagined fears.

In addition to the usual couch and soft music of her profession, Dr. Johnston employs what she calls a "psychic energizer."

* * * *

ACTUALLY, this is a comparatively new drug called LSD. In large doses LSD produces hallucinations. Dr. Johnston says she uses very small doses, just enough to help the patient break away from the grim realities of everyday life; in other words, from fear."

Dr. Johnston says she has more than 150 case histories in the past four years of superior individuals—community leaders, professional men—who credit her "psychic energizer" with helping them achieve new honors.

The case of the professor, she says, is typical.

He was always bookish, inclined to place more confidence in academic knowledge than in people. Over the years he became more and more introverted. He turned away from his wife and children, lost personal contact with his students — their youth and vigor frightened him.

* * * *

BY THE time he went to Dr. Johnston, he was little more than a vegetable, dying on the vine. Because he trusted only his brain, his outer senses began to atrophy.

Once he loved flowers, but over the years he lost his sense of smell. Once he loved good music, but now he had become hard of hearing.

Then one day, after a series of treatments, he suddenly burst into tears.

"What is it?" asked Dr. Johnston gently.

"That odor," he gasped. "It's fresh-mown grass, isn't it?"

She looked out the window, saw the gardener, and nodded.

* * * *

"THIS IS the first time I've been able to smell anything," the professor said, "in I don't know how many years. I feel alive . . . alive . . ."

Later his hearing returned. Instead of being cold and frightened, he became warm and outgoing.

"The last time I saw him," says Dr. Johnston, "he had just received an important presidential appointment."

Loriene taught navigation to Navy fliers during the war, later married her university professor, who died in 1957.

Last March she married millionaire industrialist Allen Chase.

"No," she smiles, "he was never a patient. He has never taken the energizer — he doesn't need it."

Housewives Start 4-Day Gripe Parley

CHICAGO (UPI)—Selected homemakers from the 50 states settled down today for a four-day gripe session at the fifth annual Congress on Better Living.

They will sound off on such pet peeves as cans with keys that get off the track so "you have to get a pair of pliers to get the stuff out," the cost of living and husbands.

They also plan to discuss the pros and cons of private fallout shelters, the "ideal" car, food and family fitness and home furnishings and appliances.

* * * *

GENERAL THEME of this year's congress is "the new American family." Principal speaker is Mrs. Elizabeth Rudel Smith, treasurer of the United States. She will speak at a reception and dinner Tuesday evening.

H. Merle Smith, staff vice president and director of field service for the United States Savings and Loan League will address the group Wednesday at a luncheon. Both speakers will discuss family finances.

Delegates will air their own views on this and other subjects at a total of seven round-table discussions.

Touchy subjects expected to come up at the discussions of family finances include the question of who really controls the money (many surveys indicate the women do), the desirability of charge accounts and installment buying.

Britain, Kuwait Set Diplomatic Relations

LONDON (AP)—Britain and the newly sovereign state of Kuwait agreed Saturday to establish diplomatic relations by exchanging ambassadors. A Foreign Office announcement named John C. B. Richmond as Britain's first ambassador to the oil state claimed by Iraq. Richmond now is British consul-general in Kuwait, which still is under British military protection. Kuwait's envoy in London will be Khalifa el Ghunaim, a merchant who has served on the Kuwaiti currency and development boards.

President's War Stand Is Defended

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Sen. Stuart Symington, D-Mo., Saturday challenged a Republican senator's contention that President Kennedy evidently lacked the will to fight with nuclear weapons.

Symington, a leading administration spokesman on defense, said Kennedy's moves to bolster conventional forces has not weakened the U.S. nuclear deterrent or his will to use it is necessary.

The former Air Force secretary disputed statements by Sen. Margaret Chase Smith, R-Maine, that the President seemed to be overcautious about backing his brave words to defend Berlin with brave actions.

* * * *

MRS. SMITH had suggested in a major Senate speech Thursday that Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev was becoming increasingly aggressive because he did not fully believe Kennedy's words of warning.

She said administration emphasis on conventional forces to fight limited war may increase the temptation for Khrushchev to threaten the West.

Symington said all elements of national defense—nuclear forces, convention forces and civil defense—had been strengthened in recent months.

"President Kennedy has made it very clear that the freedom of West Berlin is not negotiable," he declared. "If Mr. Khruchev does not believe his statement, in his disbelief lies the greatest danger to world peace."

Symington said this country faces steadily mounting Communist pressures because of its past comfortable and complacent ways. He said President Kennedy asked for and received far more money to build up nuclear striking power than did former President Dwight D. Eisenhower.

* * * *

BUT HE SAID strategic and even tactical nuclear weapons would be of little help in such places as Viet Nam.

Meantime, a spokesman for Mrs. Smith said former Vice President Richard M. Nixon telephoned her from California Saturday and praised her speech as "eloquent, brilliant and tremendous."

Nixon reportedly told her he felt the people welcomed her position and that the speech inspired a strong response in his part of the country.

Anti-Red Priest Dies in Mystery

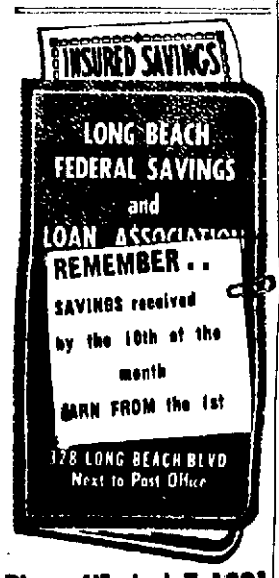

JUAREZ, Mexico (UPI)—The body of a youthful anti-Communist Catholic priest was found in a Juarez theater Saturday and police theorized he may have been thrown to his death from the balcony.

The victim, Father Leo Labrador made a strongly anti-Communist speech to a Latin-American audience at the celebration of Mexican Independence Sept. 16 in El Paso Coliseum.

$250,000 Fire Hits Los Angeles Plant

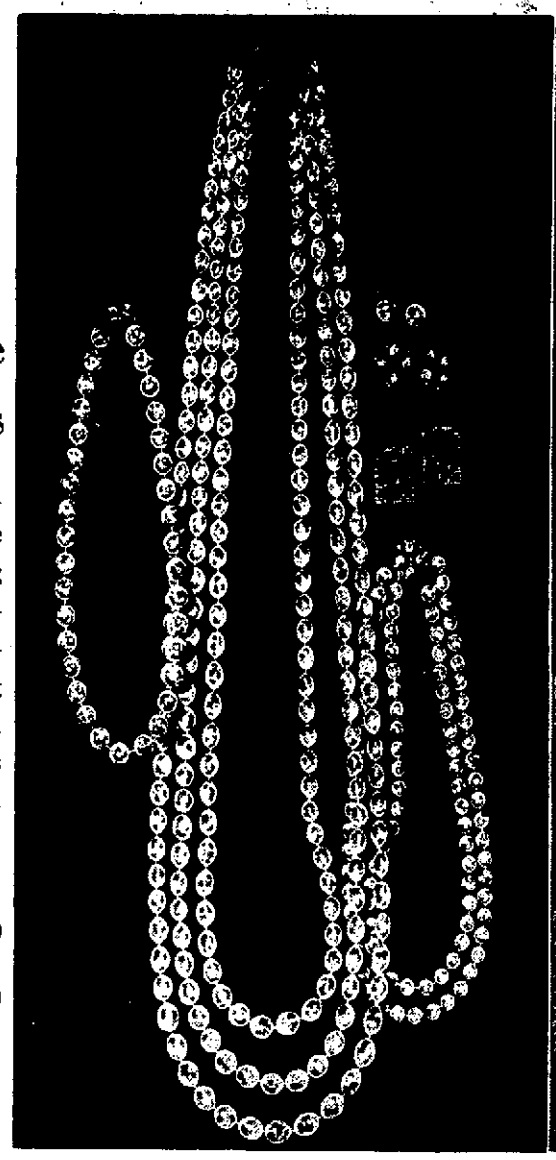

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—A 3-alarm flash fire swept through two buildings of a southeast Los Angeles lamp-manufacturing company Saturday with $250,000 damage.

Twenty-four fire companies fought the fire for an hour at the Coronet Manufacturing.

Wade Leads Bears Over Rams, 21-17

Becoming Routine: 49ers Beaten in Final Minute, 14-9

By AL LARSON
I. P-T Staff Writer

SAN FRANCISCO—Coach Don Reed must have entertained thoughts of diving off the Golden Gate Bridge late Saturday afternoon.

For the second successive week, Long Beach State lost a football game in the final two minutes. This time San Francisco State stormed back from a 9-0 deficit to snatch a 14-9 victory from the 49ers in the final 55 seconds of play before 5,300 partisan fans at Cox Stadium.

* * * *

CURTIS BENNETT'S dazzling 42-yard punt return set up the touchdown, marking the first time in four years Long Beach has crossed S.F.'s goal line.

Then with 1:06 remaining in the third period, defensive hawk Don Montgomery spilled reserve quarterback Duane O'Connor in the end zone for a seven-yard loss and a key safety. This gave the 49ers a cozy 9-0 margin.

But the Golden Gators roared back in the final quarter and marched 54 yards with fullback Bob Burnett bulling the final yard. Bob Baird converted with 5:40 to go in the game.

It was now up to Long Beach to hang on to the ball, make one or two first downs and merely run out the clock. But the Gators snapped the door shut on the visitors on three successive plays and forced Pete Yoder to punt for the eighth time.

* * * *

THERE WAS now 3:49 left as starting quarterback Dick Valois, a slick passer, went to work from midfield.

He carved up Long Beach's secondary with four completions as the 49ers' defense elected to float rather than hurl a fierce rush.

With first and goal on the six, Valois hit Jesse Racines in the end zone for the clincher. Baird booted the extra point and Long Beach's almost certain victory vanished again. Last week, the 49ers lost to UOP with only two minutes remaining in the game.

Line coach Jim Pullman praised the outstanding play of Gene Farrell and Lynn Hoyem, while Williams' running was the most pleasant surprise of the day.

The former El Camino flash ripped off 54 yards on 16 cracks. Steve Hartman was next leading gainer for the 49ers with 34 yards on nine carries.

Burnett steamrolled for 94 yards on 20 shots up the middle to spearhead the Gator attack.

Touchdown Tom Held to Five

Sparks 2nd Half Splurge

By JERRY WYNN

Bill Wade made a triumphant return to the Coliseum Saturday night as he paced the Chicago Rams to a 21-17 victory over the Rams.

Once the darling of the fans when he quarterbacked the Rams, Wade was the villain of a crowd of 53,315 in his first Los Angeles appearance with the Bears. He came off the bench to run for one touchdown and pass for another in the second half to overcome a 10-7 Chicago halftime deficit.

Wade's fine showing (he completed 7 of 8 passes for 98 yards and had no interceptions) rubbed salt in the wounds of the Rams. Besides depriving them of a badly-needed win, he obtained personal revenge for the trade that sent him to Chicago last winter.

* * * *

THE DEFEAT was the second straight for the Rams, and just as last Sunday in Baltimore, they came away mystified as to what formula it takes to come out in front.

The Bears were supposed to be weak meat. They were the same team that lost to the Vikings, 37-13, last week.

But the winning combination for Chicago Saturday night was the passing of Wade, the always dangerous running of Willie Galimore and the ferocious play of linebacker Bill George.

The Rams tried everything on offense from their lonesome end to employing Jon Arnett and Dick Bass in the same backfield, but all they could muster were two touchdown drives. Zeke Bratkowski had a good night with 18 completions in 27 attempts for 235 yards, and Jim Phillips sparkled with nine receptions for 163 yards and some dazzling bits of running.

* * * *

ON DEFENSE, LaMar Lundy was a tremendous performer, and Bob Long and Ed Meador were other standouts.

Taking over for Ed Brown at the start of the second half, Wade moved the Bears to a touchdown with only 5:44 gone in the third quarter.

The drive started on the Ram 41 after Bratkowski had been forced to punt from his end zone. Wade passed to Galimore for a first down on the 28, and then hit Mike Ditka on a 20-yarder to the 5. Galimore and John Adams carried to the one, from where Wade rolled around left end for the touchdown.

BOBBY SMITH SCORES 3 TDs

UCLA Breezes Over AF, 19-6

DENVER (UPI) — Tailback Bobby Smith touched off a personal three-touchdown spree with a 60-yard dash Saturday night to propel powerful UCLA to a 19-6 victory over the Air Force Academy in a drizzling rain.

The swift and powerful 189-pound Smith, taking over adequately for the departed Bill Kilmer, scored all of UCLA's points. He went 60 yards and two yards behind devastating single-wing blocking on end sweeps for touchdowns in the second period.

He smashed four yards in the final period before the Air Force could muster a scoring drive.

The Falcons, playing before 27,500 at Denver University's Hilltop Stadium, their biggest home crowd ever, put across a face-saving touchdown later in the final period. Fullback Nick Arshinkoff smashed four yards for the TD, ending a 49-yard march. The only other time the outmanned Falcons really threatened against the rugged UCLA defenses was after Smith's 60-yard run in the second period.

Falcon halfback Terry Issacson ran 34 yards to the UCLA 33, but a blocked field goal ended that threat.

The teams swapped crucial fumbles in the third period.

Air Force halfback Bob McDonough, a 138-pound scooter, dropped the kickoff and the alert Bruin end, Don Vena, recovered on the Falcon 18.

Four plays later, Thompson fumbled on the Cadet one to erase the threat.

Although Smith was outstanding, UCLA's interior linemen and powerful blocking made the difference. Fullback Alphonse Thompson and Smith were able to rip the middle and sweep the ends behind the blocking generated by coach Bill Barnes' single wing.

Smith took off behind three blockers, swept around right end and picked up a key block by Vena on the 22 in his dazzling 60-yard sprint. The wet ball was fumbled on the conversion attempt.

His two-yard trek around right end climaxed an eight-play, 36-yard drive for UCLA's 12-0 halftime lead. His final touchdown, four yards over right tackle, ended a nine-play, 54-yard UCLA drive. He dragged two tacklers into the end zone.

Purdue Upends Huskies

SEATTLE (UPI) — A reserve lineman kicked two field goals Saturday and halfback Dave Miller scored on a 30-yard romp as Purdue defeated Washington, 13-6, to end the West Coast club's two-year domination of Big Ten football teams.

Skip Ohl made his field goals from 24 and 33 yards out in the first half, and Miller's touchdown was scored two plays after Ohl's first three-pointer.

Washington's Bob Monroe had fumbled the kickoff return on his own 30 and Boilermaker right guard Tom Krysinski fell on the ball. Miller broke through left tackle on the next play and went all the way.

The Husky score came early in the final period on a 15-yard pass from second-string quarterback Bill Siler to fullback Tim Stiger, and the partisan sellout crowd of 55,000 fans went wild, but it was about the only chance they had to do so.

* * * *

WASHINGTON was unable to do anything against a fine Purdue line throughout most of the first half and the Boilermakers played the Husky forwards off their feet.

Washington did manage to get one drive going in the first period but it ended on Purdue's five.

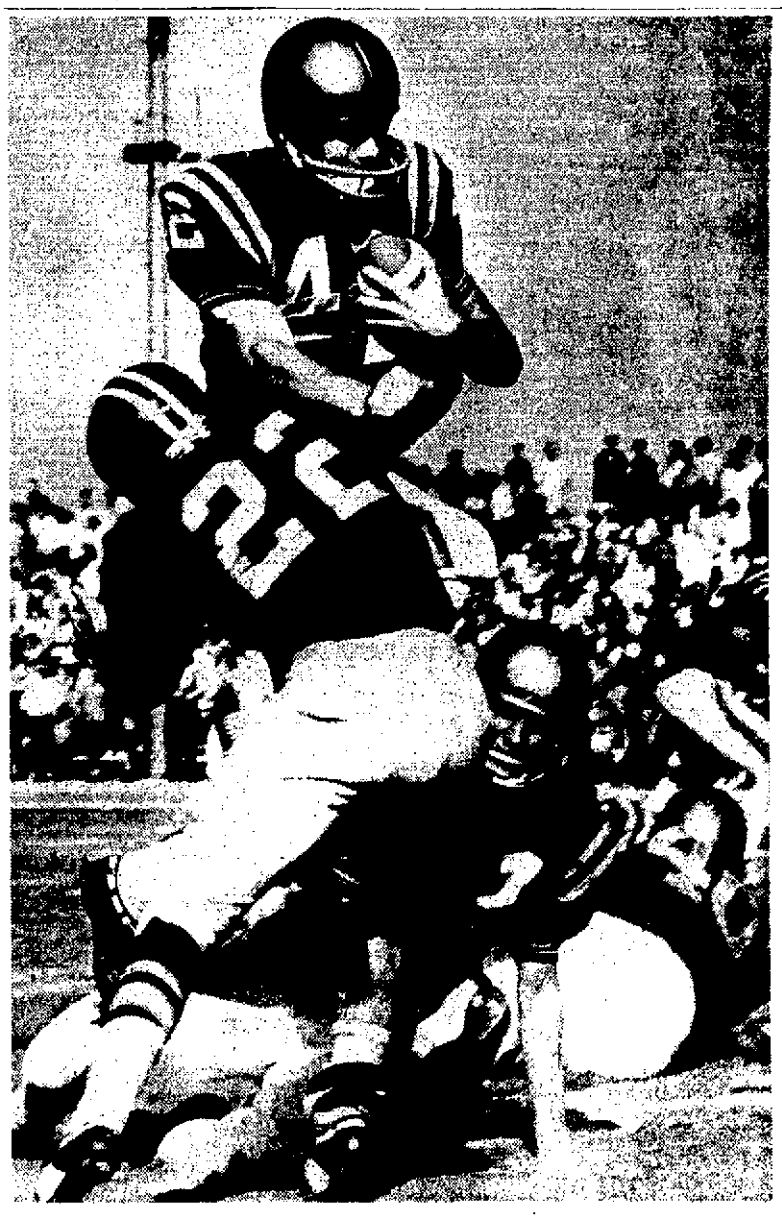

Washington came back strong after the halftime intermission, however, and most of the second half was played in Purdue territory.

The Huskies also penetrated to Purdue's six-yard line in the third period, but a 15-yard penalty nullified that threat. The opportunity was set up when halfback Dave Kopay punted 56 yards to Purdue's four. The Huskies held and gained 16 yards on an exchange of punts.

The loss ended an eight-game Washington winning streak and gave the Big Ten some revenge on a team that defeated their representatives in two consecutive Rose Bowl games.

Snead, Six Others Draw Suspension

PORTLAND (UPI) — The Professional Golfers Assn. Saturday night announced it has fined seven of its playing members, including Sam Snead, $500 and suspended them for six months for playing in a Cincinnati pro-amateur tournament Saturday without permission.

The action was taken because the two-day event at the Los Antiville Country Club in Cincinnati conflicted with the PGA-sponsored Portland Open.

The other players disciplined by the PGA were Tommy Bolt of Crystal River, Fla.; Dick Mayer of La Jolla, Calif.; Walter Burkemo of Franklin Hills, Mich.; Chick Harbert of Port St. Lucie, Fla.; Hillman Robbins of Memphis, Tenn., and Lew Worsham of Oakmont, Pa.

Snead, the 49-year-old star who has won more than 100 tournaments, told PGA officials here by telephone that he was withdrawing from the Cincinnati tournament after the first day's play and "will get a good lawyer and appeal the ruling."

TULANE TUMBLED, 9-7

Stanford Ends Losing Streak

PALO ALTO (AP)—Unsung senior substitutes Chuck Butler and Larry Royse hooked up on a 47-yard fourth quarter scoring pass Saturday, giving Stanford a 9-7 victory over Tulane and breaking an 11-game losing string.

The jubilant Indians, who hadn't won since Nov. 14, 1959, hoisted coach Jack Curtice on their shoulders and took him to the student body section for a victory talk.

Butler, a non-letterman third stringer, took over at quarterback in the final stanza after Tulane went ahead, 7-3, capitalizing on its only scoring opportunity of the day.

He moved his team from the 20 into Tulane territory. Then with second down and 15 to go at the 47, he pitched to halfback Royse, ex-student body president who played just enough to letter last year.

Royse took the pass going backward and ended on his back in the end zone.

Stan Lindskog, who booted a 28-yard field goal for the only scoring of the first half, missed the conversion.

Tulane didn't penetrate past midfield in the first half and had gone only to the 29 in the third period.

But with Stanford at its own seven, sophomore quarterback Steve Thorlow of the Indians tossed a wobbly pitchout lateral that fell free, and Tulane sophomore end Tommy Cato fell on it at the two.

Fullback Lenny Stein bulled over two plays later and Chuck Connell converted.

After the decisive touchdown, that came after four minutes, 34 seconds of the final period, Stanford reached the Tulane 23 before Butler fumbled and Jim Schoonmaker recovered for the Green Wave.

DEFENSE WON IT FOR US ---CURTICE

PALO ALTO (UPI)— "Our defense won it; it doesn't have to take its hat off to anyone," Stanford coach Jack Curtice said Saturday after the surprise 9-7 victory over Tulane.

"We stopped a powerful team. Our pass secondary was real good," Curtice added.

Tulane coach Andy Pilner declared, "We were okay defensively until we fell down on that long pass. My center got lost in there.

"I'm not happy we were the ones to break Stanford's losing streak, but Stanford looked strong, hustling and wanting to win."

Is Georgia Tech That Good?

Enough has been written during the past 24 hours of how miserable the "new look" Trojans performed during Friday night's 27-7 drubbing by Georgia Tech.

This piece, therefore, will attempt to probe the brighter side of the Trojan picture — even if it involves more investigating than a House Committee checking out subversives.

JOHN McKAY
Was Wreck Toughest?

Boss John McKay hoped he tapped the nail on the head Saturday when he commented the Yellow Jackets "might be the toughest club we'll meet all season." He sure could be right. Georgia Tech looked like a squad in perfect midseason form — indeed, the Wreck rambled as if it had been working out since Memorial Day instead of the required Labor Day.

Whether the Yellow Jackets are one of the nation's better clubs — or the Trojans are one of the feeblest — will be ascertained in the next few weeks.

Rather surprisingly, the Trojans exhibited a fine passing attack (18 completions in 29 attempts). Their running game, however, was as inept as anything the Ebell Club might have devised. In short, it was nonexistent.

Actually, the aerial offensive was more the work of two receivers than either Trojan quarterback. Willie Brown, the Poly product, and Frank Buncom, who moved from tackle to end when Jim Bates was wounded, hauled in eight and four passes each — and most of their receptions bordered on the Lenny Moore-Ray Berry variety.

Brown's college debut was satisfactory in the defensive department, too, for the ex-Hare made six tackles, twice the number of any other USC back.

Only other Trojan who caught this observer's eye was a beltin' substitute left half named Ben Wilson, who wandered to Figueroa St. via Houston, Texas. The 215-pounder hit his tacklers from Atlanta like Joe Perry crumpled Rams last Sunday.

Why isn't Wilson a first-stringer?

"He's a bad fumbler," explained McKay. "His fumbles look like forward passes — when they spurt from his hands, they spiral and take off!"

At least Wilson's the only fumbler who can carry four tacklers 10 yards when he doesn't have the ball . . . and you can't hardly find them kind any more.

LONG BEACH CITY COLLEGE painted a much brighter picture Friday night when the Vikes belted another powerful Cerritos team, 44-30.

Even though he gets irritated when newspapermen and well-wishers insist he has another Jr. Rose Bowl potential at City College, coach Jim Stangeland is going to have to live with that constant reminder another week.

I can't blame Jim for his irritation, but even with the unpredictable bounces of footballs, a City College club with Andrews, Irvin and Martin has to be recognized as one of the nation's finest.

How UCLA let Andrews escape from its extension school is beyond comprehension. But the Westwood mistake turned into a Long Beach bonanza. It is hoped the vein will continue for three more years at Long Beach State College, with no regrets whatsoever from this corner for UCLA.

LITTLE SERMONS ON SUNDAY:

. . . Even though Georgia Tech is regarded as one of the nation's finest engineering schools, the Atlanta school still is cognizant it must secure football players to perpetuate its good name. Hence, it's of little surprise that 23 of the 36 players pictured in its program are majors in industrial management, whatsoever that means!

. . . Anyone interested in (and capable of) playing Class "A" City League basketball is urged to report immediately to Joe Jost's bar, 2803 E. Anaheim. Joe's top inducement: "The greatest training table in the world." (Despite the inducement, the coach has requested columnist Bob Wells not apply.)

. . . City College baseball coach Joe Hicks is eyeing the pro football commercials with more than usual alertness. Reason? He's the man behind the wheel in the Thunderbird shots — and he wants to make certain he receives ALL his royalties.

. . . Using Saturday night's game (perhaps) as a better gauge, pro football fans are reminded that this is the final week to cast a vote for the "most indispensable Ram". Votes thus far have been recorded for Les Richter, Art Hunter, Eddie Meador, John Lo Vetere, Ollie Matson, Danny Villaneuva and Lamar Lundy, surprisingly a small circle. The decision will be based on the correct player (by coaches' standards) and the best reasoning. (Incidentally, it's interesting to read the various letters and to realize how much the average fan really misses when viewing a football game. Joe Fan is cognizant only of the spectacular.)

Bailey Boots Bump Giants

CINCINNATI (AP) — The Cincinnati Reds came up with lusty hitting Saturday including two home runs by Gordon Coleman and three doubles by Don Blasingame and moved closer to a National League pennant with a 10-6 victory over the San Francisco Giants.

The Reds also had a little assistance from their former catcher, Ed Bailey. He bumped into third baseman Jim Davenport to let a foul pop fall safely, which opened the gates for one run.

He also ran to the dugout, after forcing Davenport in the seventh and was tagged out. He apparently either thought it was the third out or that he also had been retired.

Rally for 4 in 8th, 8-5

ST. LOUIS — The Dodgers refused to become sacrificial pennant lambs Saturday. They scored their first three runs on sacrifice flies, then routed long-time nemesis Larry Jackson in the eighth inning and hung on for a 8-5 victory over St. Louis.

While league-leading Cincinnati trimmed the magic number to three by conquering the Giants, the Dodgers cannot be eliminated before Monday night at Pittsburgh. The Dodgers, with seven games to play, trail by four. The Reds have five games remaining and are three up on the losing side.

Saturday's Dodger victory was made easier by four St. Louis errors of the cardinal variety. Rookie shortstop Jerry Buchek, filling in for the injured Bob Lillis, bobbled two chances and handed the Dodgers two unearned runs in the seventh inning.

DUKE SNIDER'S two-run triple featured the Dodgers' four-run eighth inning, enhanced by Julian Javier's muff of a double play ball and a passed ball charged to catcher Gene Oliver.

Ed Roebuck, continuing along the comeback trail, was credited with his second win, although he needed help from Dick Farrell in the last two rounds.

Jackson, who had won 11 of his last 12 decisions and owned a 10-1 lifetime record over the Dodgers at St. Louis, had a 3-2 edge until Buchek caught the jitters.

Maury Wills started the Dodgers seventh with a single and scored the tying run after Buchek's first error, a fielder's choice and Snider's sacrifice fly. Ron Fairly was safe on Buchek's second boot and Norm Larker's second double put the Dodgers in front, 4-3.

Singles by Wills and Jim Gilliam sent Jackson (14-10) to the showers with one out in the eighth. Ed Bauta served up Snider's triple off the center field wall after Javier's error.

JOHNNY PODRES, making his first start in 12 days, was treated roughly in the first four innings. He allowed nine hits, but, with the help of two double plays, escaped with a minimum damage of two runs.

Larry Sherry, also rusty, yielded an unearned run in the fifth on a walk, a passed ball by John Roseboro and a single by Gene Oliver.

Roebuck (2-0) held the Cards scoreless through the seventh, but was dismissed when a double by Carl Warwick and pinch singles by Joe Cunningham and Doug Clemens made it 8-4.

Angels Clinch 8th Spot in Losing to Tigers Again, 4-2

By ROSS NEWHAN

As they lost their sixth successive game Saturday, the Angels clinched eigth place.

While it was little consolation to manager Bill Rigney, whose club was being whipped by Detroit, Cleveland defeated Kansas City, 9-5, thus insuring the Angels of an eighth-place finish.

Although Rigney still hopes to get his castoffs into seventh place, in quarters where it was predicted the Angels would win but 30 games the eighth-place windup is a distinct surprise and to general manager Fred Haney a distinct pleasure.

With seven games remaining on the schedule, the Angels still have a shot at 70 victories — now four away. Especially so since today's meeting with Detroit will be the last.

The Tigers have clawed the wings off the Angels. Saturday's victory was Detroit's fourth straight and their 13th in 17 meetings with the Seraphs.

Although there is no comparison between the club which opened the year and the one which is closing it, unfortunately the Angels are ending the season exactly the way they opened it.

* * * *

AFTER winning the season opener at Baltimore, the Angels dropped eight straight. Now, they are only two shy of that losing streak and three shy of their longest winless skein of nine recorded on the road in June.

While the Detroit automobile industry favors the policy of "cash and carry," the Detroit baseball club continues to make hay with the policy of "Cash and Colavito."

The C-boys provided the offense and Jim Bunning the deciding runs. In the fourth, Colavito slammed his 43rd home run over the left field wall and in the sixth Cash followed Al Kaline's double with a single, driving home his 126th run.

With two hits, Cash raised his league-leading average to .356.

* * * *

AFTER being tagged for Dick McAuliffe's triple, Billy Bruton's single and Steve Boros' double in the first inning, Angel hurler Ken McBride allowed just three run-producing hits before coming out for a pinch-hitter in the seventh.

Although the defeat was McBride's 15th against 12 wins, it was only his third loss in 14 Wrigley decisions.

The Angels scored their runs in singles with Leon Wagner's 24th homer accounting for one in the fourth and Bunning's wild pitch with the bases loaded in the eighth.

Angel Angels: UCLA basketball and baseball prospect, Tom Sapp, broke his arm throwing while working out with the Angels before the game. A first-string frosh basketball star last year, Sapp is considered an outstanding baseball prospect.

Angel second baseman Billy Moran was sent to his Augusta, Georgia home for the remainder of the season to allow his sprained back to recuperate fully.

Mantle Homers, Maris Doesn't

BOSTON (UPI) — Roger Maris was blanked again in a bid for his 60th homer Saturday, but he drove in a run with an eighth-inning single, and Mickey Mantle hit his 54th homer to help the New York Yankees beat the Boston Red Sox, 8-3.

Maris collected only one single in three official trips. He also drew two walks off loser Don Schwall, who was roundly booed by a crowd of 28,128, most of whom came out hoping to see Maris smash his 60th in the Yankees' 156th game of the season.

Mantle provided the Yankees with a quick three run lead when he connected with two on in the first innings. It was his first since Sept. 10.

Elston Howard and pinch-hitter Bob Cerv also homered for the Yankees in the ninth. Howard's homer was his 21st and Cerv's his eighth.

Whitey Ford registered his 25th victory of the year although he was nicked for nine of Boston's 11 hits, including homers by Don Gile and Carl Yastrzemski before yielding to Jim Coates in the sixth.

HIGH-STEPPING STRUTTERS PERFORM BEFORE 17,000

17,000 See Poly Rout Wilson, Tie Millikan

By DOUG IVES

Poly High gave notice it intends to regain its lost football prestige as it trounced rival Wilson, 12-0, and outplayed but was held to a scoreless tie by Millikan in the 14th annual PTA Milk Bowl Carnival at Veterans Stadium Saturday.

A record crowd of 17,000 watched the Hares, who slipped to a 4-4 record last year after winning two straight CIF titles, run Wilson ragged and keep Millikan under constant pressure.

Millikan shared top honors by whipping Lakewood, 7-0, and tying the Rabbits, but the Rams were on the defensive for 10 minutes against Poly. A penalty nullified a Rabbit TD.

For the two games, Poly had the ball for 39 plays, rushed and passed for 155 net yards and made 11 first downs. Its opponents ran only nine plays, gained 10 net yards and didn't make a first down.

Wilson and Jordan earned a split of their two games while Lakewood came up empty-handed. Wilson crushed the Lancers, 13-0, and Jordan beat them on Mike Rubick's long TD run, 7-0.

Poly's Joe Pearson was the day's top ground-gainer, carrying 12 times for 95 yards and scoring twice. Wilson's Paul Albus netted 52 yards on 10 tries.

Top linemen were Poly's Jeff Smith and Millikan's Randy Valenzuela.

Wilson 13, Jordan 0

Wilson took the opening kickoff and marched 70 yards in four plays to score. Fullback Paul Albus picked up the first 18 and QB Jack Smitheran raced the final 52 on a keeper play. Fred Atkinson converted.

After Jordan failed to move, the Bruins started another drive midway in the game, but 20 yards in penalties slowed the march and Tom Miller's interception killed it.

With just 20 seconds left, Wilson culminated a 65-yard, nine-play march with Jim Dunn passing 15 yards to John Tigner for the TD. Albus compiled 32 yards rushing on the drive.

After Lakewood bogged down, Millikan rambled 70 yards in 10 plays for the game's only score. A John Thiesen-to-Gary Lucas pass covered 18 yards, but the rest came on the ground.

John Champlin, Gary Lyon and Lucas picked up all the yardage on the march with Lucas getting the six points by hitting off tackle for three yards. Champlin ran over for the PAT.

Poly 12, Wilson 0

Poly cracked inside and outside and used 12 plays to grind out 60 yards and a touchdown after taking the opening kickoff. Joe Pearson gained 43 yards and followed Jeff Smith's block into paydirt from 2 yards out.

Wilson could gain only six net yards when it got the ball and punted. Poly again started one of its grind-em-out, time-consuming drives. This one covered 63 yards in eight plays.

Pearson, Gary Furuta and Charles Young shared the rushing honors, but Pearson again got the six points by again following Smith's block from the one-yard line.

Jordan 7, Lakewood 0

This game was decided on the first play from scrimmage when Jordan's Mike Rubick took a handoff, cut off tackle, eluded one man at the line of scrimmage and galloped 64 yards for the score. He also converted.

Neither team could get untracked in the next 10 minutes, but Jordan made another serious TD bid late in the game. Sparked by Doug Dick's 15-yard pass to Rich Croson and Fred Hillis' 13-yard run, Jordan reached the Lakewood 15 only to fail when Lancer Frank Adams intercepted a pass.

Millikan took the kickoff and failed to move and then Poly started another one of those line-cracking marches. They appeared headed for an easy score, but a combination of pentalties and a stiff Millikan defense foiled the march.

Poly got as far as the Ram 31, but 25 yards in penalties and Randy Valenzuela's key tackle on a fourth down found the Hares yielding the ball way back on their own 48. One of the penalties nullified a touchdown.

Stubborn Cal No Match for Tough Texas, 28-3

BERKELEY (AP)—The Longhorns of Texas ground out a 28-3 victory over a stubborn but outclassed California team Saturday in their football opener before 41,500 sun-drenched fans.

The Golden Bears, expected to be the doormats of the Big 5, recovered four Texas fumbles and intercepted a pair of Longhorn passes to prevent a more lop-sided thrashing.

One fumble recovery and one interception were in the California end zone.

Highly touted Jimmy Saxton and Jerry Cook, a brace of shifty halfbacks, led the Texas running game.

Cook scored the second touchdown on a sweet 29-yard scamper in which nobody laid a hand on him. That run, after a 13-yard California punt, proved the decisive score of the game.

The Bears, unable to move except for sophomore halfback Rudy Carvajal, held the favored Longhorns to 7-3 at halftime, then sagged in the late going.

Texas fullback Ray Poage, who lost the ball twice on fumbles, scored the opening touchdown on a plunge of less than one foot on a fourth-down play in the first period.

The Bears had stopped the Longhorns on their 9 after Texas had moved 65 yards in the opening series.

Jim Ferguson's 13-yard field goal with 49 seconds left in the first half provided the only California score.

The Texas line, out-played by the Bears in the first half, held Cal to minus 12 yards rushing in the second half. Mike Cotten and Johnny Genung, the Texas quarterbacks, didn't get their passing arms working until midway in the third quarter. Each passed for a fourth-quarter touchdown.

Genung hit Bob Hoses with a 9-yard scoring pass and Cotten found Bob Nunis with a 14-yard paydirt pitch just before the gun.

Eldon Moritz kicked the first three conversions and Tony Crosby booted the fourth.

Syracuse Trundles to 19-8 Victory Over Oregon State

ALERT DEFENSE PAYS OFF

PORTLAND (UPI) — Syracuse's alert defenders set up two touchdowns by all-America halfback Ernie Davis Saturday as the powerful Orangemen defeated Oregon State, 19-8, in an intersectional football opener before 35,729.

Davis, who played little more than half the time on offense, broke off tackle for a 16-yard scoring run in the first period and packed the ball five times for the final Syracuse touchdown.

Oregon State, operating out of the T-formation for the first time under coach Tommy Prothro, got its only score on a great 36-yard run by quarterback Terry Baker.

That touchdown and Baker's two-point conversion put Oregon State ahead 8-7 in the first period.

But Syracuse got back in the lead in short order after tackle Stan Sokol recovered a fumble on the Oregon State 15. Quarterback Steve Sarette scored from a yard out.

It was another fumble recovery — this one by guard Leonard Slaby—that led to the first Syracuse touchdown. Slaby got the ball on the Oregon State 21 and after fullback Gary Fallon made five, Davis raced in to score.

Syracuse put Oregon State in the hole early in the second half when halfback Dick Easterly intercepted Baker's pass on the Oregon State 41.

Twice the Easterners drove inside the Oregon State 10 but were held off. Then Easterly returned a punt 17 yards to the Beaver 18 and Davis took it over.

He ran for gains of four, four, five and three yards and carried the ball in from the two.

Trailing him by only six seconds at the checkered flag was Billy Krause of Los Angeles in a "D" Jaguar powered by a Corvette engine.

Ole Miss Unveils New QB Star in Easy 16-0 Victory

JACKSON, Miss. (UPI) — Doug Elmore, after playing two years as an understudy to all-America Jake Gibbs, made a stout bid for fame Saturday by leading Mississippi to a 16-0 victory over Arkansas in a battle of defending champions.

The big question concerning Mississippi's chances of producing another powerhouse had been how it would fare without Gibbs, the top college quarterback in the nation last year.

With a national television audience and a sellout crowd of 46,000 watching, Elmore gave every indication Ole Miss had little to worry about at quarterback. The rugged senior directed the Rebels on three long scoring drives.

The first, covering 68 yards in six plays, was climaxed with a 35-yard pass from Elmore to end Woody Dabbs.

The second saw Elmore guiding Ole Miss 71 yards to set up a 22-yard field goal by Wes Sullivan. For good measure, Elmore put together an 80-yard drive which ended with fullback Art Doty plunging over from the 2.

Arkansas, the defending Southwest Conference champion, was supposed to have one of the nation's most explosive backfields, led by all-America prospect Lance Alworth.

But the Razorbacks could do little against Mississippi's rugged line, which outweighed Arkansas nearly 20 pounds per man.

Arkansas, despite 89-degree weather, played its first unit most of the game. Mississippi, the defending Southeastern Conference champion, had its first unit in chiefly on offense and the second unit was used mostly on defense.

In the final period, with Arkansas' starters still in, Mississippi coach Johnny Vaught injected his third string.

Missouri Romps to 28-6 Victory

COLUMBIA, Mo. (UPI) — Missouri's hard-hitting line and cat-quick backs teamed up Saturday to score an impressive 28-6 victory over Washington State in an intersectional football game played before 37,000 fans—the biggest crowd here for a season opener since 1948.

Junior quarterback Ron Taylor scored two of Orange Bowl champion Missouri's four touchdowns, both on sneaks from one yard out. His passes kept the Tigers in Washington State territory for most of the game.

Washington State's touted passing attack fell flat as Missouri intercepted four aerials, recovered three fumbles and capitalized on its own passing game.

Missouri guard Paul Garvis recovered a Washington State fumble in the first period on the Cougar 39-yard line and six plays later Taylor went over the goal line.

The most spectacular play of the game was a 26-yard pass from Missouri's Mike Hunter to end Bill Tobin in the end zone. Hunter threw the ball after Taylor had fed him a nifty lateral after sweeping end.

Trojan Followers Again Disappointed

Georgia Tech coach Bobby Dodd described USC as being "as good as any average team in our conference" after his Engineers dismantled the Trojans, 27-7, in Friday night's opener.

An average team by Southeastern Conference standards usually means a pretty good ball club.

But in the case of USC, that isn't enough. The Trojans will continue to wage a losing battle in the bitter struggle for the entertainment dollar and fan interest in Southern California with "average" teams.

DAVE LEWIS
Trojans Sloppy

There was a day not long ago when an intersectional struggle the caliber of USC-Georgia Tech would have drawn around 90,000 to the Coliseum. The crowd Friday was a disappointing 36,950.

And the prospect of much "repeat business" is not encouraging. Trojan followers are keenly disappointed.

Things are bound to get better, though, as the season progresses. For one thing, Georgia Tech has a fine team . . . a quick, hard-hitting, aggressive outfit that blocks and tackles with the crispness of a bowl-bound club. Furthermore, the Engineers were superbly conditioned and ready for the opening game. The Trojans, unfortunately, weren't.

IT WAS A BLUNDERING, stumbling Trojan squad most of the night. Mental and mechanical mistakes were numerous . . . far too numerous, in fact, to pass off lightly. They reflected on the coaching because there is not anywhere near 20 points difference between the personnel of the two squads.

One drive stalled on the Tech two-yard line after the quarterback used up too much time calling audibles on the line of scrimmage. Even the Trojan's lone scoring sortie almost was stopped by a 15-yard penalty. And on many occasions, Troy backs or recievers didn't know what to do or in what direction to go when they broke into the clear momentarily.

In the game's two most basic fundamentals — blocking and tackling — the Trojans were quite sloppy and ineffective at times. Tech players were astounded by this.

One Georgia player declared that the tackling, in particular, was far below the standard of Southeastern Conference teams. And halfback Billy Williamson said that "USC didn't show me the type of blocking and tackling that the good-coached teams in our section of the country has."

THE TROJANS DID SHOW some flashes of brilliance. For instance, they showed they could move the ball through the air . . . finally accounting for 240 yards despite having a net of MINUS four yards in the first 23 minutes of play.

And Long Beach's Willie Brown demonstrated he is going to be a great one. Although he rolled three naturals in the running department — seven carries, seven yards gained and seven yards lost for an average of 0.00 — the ex-Poly flash grabbed eight passes for 87 yards and set up the Trojans' lone TD.

Tech players were high in their praise of Brown's potential. Williamson, who had to defend Willie from time to time, admitted "we were afraid of him every moment."

It is obvious that USC's offensive hopes against the stronger teams this year will be based on its aerial game. Whether or not it will be as effective as it appeared in the second half — especially the third quarter — remains to be seen.

Because, as Williamson explained, "USC played better ball in the second half, but we helped them. We were instructed to let them have the short passes and protect our big first-half lead." Linebacker Bobby Caldwell confirmed this. "We gave them a lot of ground on the short passes in the final half."

IF TECH HADN'T WRAPPED up the decision with the big 24-point splurge in the first half, the Engineers would have played it differently. As Williamson pointed out, "after they finally scored in the third period, we quickly took command again by playing ball control through the fourth quarter."

The Georgia Tech squad and veteran observers alike agreed that the forward wall is USC's most pressing problem.

Guard Rufe Guthrie, Tech's leading candidate for sectional and national honors, declared that "USC's middle line needs a lot of work. The men don't show good drive and they tried to second guess a lot . . . which was a big mistake. They'll have to move the ball through the air because any good defensive line will give them trouble."

Caldwell summed up USC's situation thusly: "there is nothing wrong with the Trojan players as individuals, but as a unit they are second rate. They have the backs to really ramble, but don't have the support to get them into the open consistently enough."

Fullback Mike McNames added that "the Trojans hit hard and showed good pursuit, but they play as individuals . . . and are not coordinated as a unit."

And so, back to Bovard Field for more fundamentals and polish for the Trojans . . . whose next start Friday night against Southern Methodist should be a bit less strenuous—thank goodness.

Look Who's Taking NFL Spotlight — 2 Upstarts

By Associated Press

Look who's hogging the National Football League spotlight today—the Minnesota Vikings and Dallas Cowboys, the circuit's newest clubs.

The Vikings and the Cowboys, both of whom sprung surprises in opening league games a week ago, tangle in the Cotton Bowl at Dallas today.

Minnesota, playing its first NFL season, shocked the Chicago Bears last Sunday, 37-13. Dallas, unable to win a single game in its maiden campaign, launched its 1961 season by nipping the Pittsburgh Steelers, 27-24.

Both the Vikings and the Cowboys will be out to convince the doubtful that their opening victories weren't just flashes out of the sky.

Dallas figures it has the best one-two quarterback punch in the league in young Don Meredith and old pro Eddie LeBaron. Meredith connected on 10 of 26 passes for 161 yards and one touchdown against the Steelers. LeBaron completed nine of 13 for 166 yards and two touchdowns and wound up the first week of play as the league's No. 5 passer.

Meredith and LeBaron, however, may have to improve if they hope to outsparkle Minnesota's quarterback, rookie Fran Tarkenton from Georgia. Tarkenton's aerial prowess last weekend made him the circuit's No. 1 passer. He completed 17 of 23 for 250 yards and four touchdowns. For good measure, the youngster scored once himself.

There's one other interesting note: Dallas clipped the Vikings 38-13 during the exhibition warmups.

Only other tilt pairing two unbeaten teams is the Detroit - Baltimore affair. The Lions undoubtedly will find the Colts a bit angry, Detroit having won six games in a row going back to 1960. The Lions beat the Colts both times last year. Both possess a strong passing game and are getting a lot of mileage out of their fullbacks, Nick Pietrosante of the Lions and rejuvenated Joe Perry of the Colts.

A replay of last fall's championship game comes up when Houston and San Diego meet at San Diego in the headline clash of the American Football League.

San Diego was known as Los Angeles then and it was all Houston could do to beat the Chargers, 26-14, and take the AFL's first title.

75,000 Watch Rice Trample LSU, 16-3

HOUSTON (UPI)—Quarterback Billy Cox struck at the precise time for two touchdown passes Saturday night to guide Rice University to a 16-3 victory over Louisiana State University before a record crowd of 73,000.

Cox failed to fill the air with passes as some had expected, but when he chose to pass, he picked the exact time in the two touchdown efforts by the Owls while LSU's defense appeared to be at its weakest.

In addition to the two scoring drives, the Owls' Butch Blume made good a 27-yard field goal toward the end of the final period. The Tigers' only score was a field goal climaxing their finest scoring effort that opened the second half.

On that drive, which featured passes of 11 and 15 yards by LSU quarterback Lynn Amedee to halfback Jerry Stovall, the Tigers penetrated to the Rice 14 and Wendell Harris completed the 25-yard field goal after three attempts to reach the goal failed.

Cox's masterful passes that made the difference included a speedy jump aerial in the end zone to end Johnny Burrell from the four, and a 47-yard pass play to fullback Roland Jackson who had slipped behind the LSU defense early in the fourth period.

In the latter, LSU's Harris caught up with Jackson around the three yard line, but Jackson's momentum was so great that the tackle carried both over the goal line.

Rice looked good from every angle. Cox completed seven of 10 pass attempts for a net of 101 yards.

TCU Surprises Kansas, 17-16

WITH FOURTH-PERIOD UPRISING

Giant quarterback Sonny Gibbs set up the field goal when he drove the Frogs from their own 44 to the Kansas 18. With a fourth and six situation, Spearman came in and kicked the three-pointer that made the difference.

TCU went into the fourth quarter trailing 16-7 after Kansas punched over a first-period touchdown and field goal and another touchdown in the third period.

TCU pulled that up to 16-14 with 9:03 left when Gibbs capped an 80-yard, 11-play drive by tossing 24 yards to halfback Roy Dent behind two defenders in the end zone.

Going into the final period, the 6-foot, 7-inch Gibbs had passed only twice during the game. During the touchdown drive and the series that led to the field goal, he threw 10 times and completed four, the big one the scoring toss to Dent.

Kansas took an early lead when Kent Staab jumped on a Frog fumble on the TCU 44 on the fourth play of the game. Ten plays later, Kansas quarterback John Hadl pitched out to halfback Lee Flachbarth who went one yard for the score.

Terps Nip Stubborn SMU, 14-6

DALLAS (UPI) — Quarterback Dick Novak and halfback Dennis Condie teamed to give favored Maryland a hard-earned 14-6 victory over surprisingly stubborn Southern Methodist before a meager crowd of 17,000 Saturday night.

Novak, a speedy 170-pound senior, rolled out five unmolested yards for a first-quarter Maryland touchdown surge with the opening kickoff, then flipped an 18-yard scoring pass to halfback Jim Davidson in the second quarter, while Condie's great running kept SMU off balance.

From then on, however, the touted Terrapins had to scrap every inch of the way to subdue the sophomore-studded Methodists, who scrapped on more than even terms throughout the second half and scored in the third quarter on a 30-yard burst through guard by Pennsylvania-born sophomore halfback Tom Sherwin.

Houston Deadlocked by Texas A&M Surge

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (UPI)—Quarterback Jim Keller plunged two yards for a Texas A&M touchdown in the final quarter Saturday night and the Aggies tied the University of Houston, 7-7.

Defensive stands by Houston halted A&M drives on the three and six.

Houston missed two chances to win the game as field goals fell short from the Aggie 41 and 35-yard lines.

Keller, playing his first varsity game after lettering in basketball, sparked the tying drive with runs of six yards and a pass of 11. The Aggies went 54 yards in 11 plays and Daryle Keeling kicked the tying point with 12:14 left to play.

Little Ken Bolin scored Houston's first-half touchdown on a three-yard charge around right end. The 5-11, 165-pound halfback had set up the score by recovering a Ronnie Brice fumble on the Aggie 8. Brice had dropped a 54-yard punt by Larry Lindsey.

Eddie Mitchamore of Houston kicked the extra point. He missed a field goal from the 36 after the Aggies tied it up.

Defeat for Rams

proved to be the winning touchdown at the start of the fourth quarter on a 34-yard pass to John Farrington.

Now trailing, 21-10, the Rams made a game effort to pull the game out of the fire. They took the ensuing kickoff and drove 83 yards in 10 plays for a touchdown, and had another long advance killed in the final moments of play.

Passes from Bratkowski to Phillips for 12, 16 and 19 keyed the touchdown drive that was climaxed by Arnett's one-yard slant off tackle.

Fired by their aroused offense and the cheering of the fans, the Ram defense then dug in and held the Bears deep in Chicago territory.

* * * *

THE RAMS took over on the Bear 48. A great diving catch by Arnett of a 20-yard third-down pass gave them a first down on the 34. But with a third and one on the 25, Arnett was trapped for a five-yard loss on a pitchout, and a fourth down pass was intercepted by Richie Petitbon.

It gave the Bears a 14-10 lead.

On Chicago's next series, Wade again excelled. Trapped deep in Bear territory, he threaded his way through the Ram secondary for 29 yards to the Bear 43.

The Rams were the first to strike long, but a 43-yard pass from Zeke Bratkowski to Carroll Dale that carried to the Bear 30 was nullified by a holding penalty early in the first quarter.

Chicago took over on the Ram 47, and scored in one perfect play. Behind great protection, Ed Brown lofted a pass to Mike Ditka that Ditka corraled from in between defenders Lindon Crow and Clendon Thomas on the Ram 15, and the rookie end sauntered into the end zone.

Roger Leclerc added the extra point, and the Bears led, 7-0, with 8:33 gone.

* * * *

THE RAMS moved to the Bear 44 on a 31-yard pass from Bratkowski to Jim Phillips, but Tom Wilson fumbled on the next play, and Harlon Hill recovered for the Bears.

Pinned deep in their territory, the Rams brought the big crowd to its feet with an electrifying pass from Bratkowski to Phillips. With a third down from his own 6, Brat faded deep into the end zone, and shot a 50-yard arrow to Phillips racing down the sideline. Phillips nabbed the ball on the run and went to the Bear 31 for a 62-yard gain.

* * * *

BUT THE Rams were held for no gain on the next three downs, and Danny Villaneuva kicked a 38-yard field goal with 14:40 elapsed, and the Rams trailed 7-3.

Charlie Bivens returned the ensuing kickoff 50 yards, and might have been touchdown-bound if not for a desperation dive by Eddie Meador. Brown passed to Ditka for 21 yards to the Ram 25. The Rams held, and a field goal from the 25 by LeClerc was wide.

Taking over on the 20, the Rams struck for a touchdown in seven plays.

* * * *

A PASS to Phillips gained six and an interference penalty made it a first down on the Bear 46. Jon Arnett gained 6, and Dick Bass wiggled through a hole for 17 yards, tripping over his own feet to go down on the 23.

Bratowski hit Dale on a look-in to the one-yard line, and Arnett bucked over right guard for the touchdown. Villanueva converted, and the Rams were in the lead, 10-7, with 5:05 gone in the second period.

DUKE RALLIES FOR 7-6 TRIUMPH

COLUMBIA, S. C. (AP)—Duke survived an attack of fumbles and scored with two minutes left Saturday night to whip underdog South Carolina, 7-6, in the Atlantic Coast Conference opener for both teams.

Reserve halfback Dean Findley kicked 26 and 37-yard field goals for South Carolina, in the first and fourth periods, to give the battling Gamecocks what appeared to be a safe lead.

With two minutes to play however, quarterback Walt Rappold directed the Dukes on a 50-yard march that ended with fullback Red Burch plunging over from the three for a touchdown. Halfback Bill Reynolds kicked the extra point that gave the Blue Devils their victory.

Baylor Cakewalks Over Deacons, 31-0

WACO, Tex. (AP) — Baylor mauled Wake Forest 31-0 Saturday night with a crushing performance that kept bright the Bears' pre-season rating as a Southwest Conference favorite.

Ronnie Bull, Baylor's top candidate for the all-America list, gave Wake Forest a show, scoring on a 21-yard thrust over left guard and on a 20-yard pass from Bobby Ply.

Bull's touchdown pass catch came on a screen near his left boundary marker. He reversed his field and crossed the goal near the right corner flag, untouched the last 10 yards.

The two thrusts by Bull nevertheless left his ability untested. He played only a fraction of the game.

Baylor scored the first three times it got the ball, and tallied in each quarter.

Badgers Eke Past Utes, 7-0

MADISON, Wis. (AP)—Wisconsin's highly touted passing combination of Ron Miller and Pat Richter clicked on a five-yard scoring maneuver enabling the Badgers to edge stubborn Utah, 7-0, Saturday in a sloppy football meeting on a rain-soaked field.

Miller, a senior quarterback who led the Big Ten in passing and in total offense last season, lobbed a soft aerial to Richter in the second period and Wisconsin made the touchdown stand up for a triumph in its 1961 opener.

The payoff toss capped a 27-yard march in five plays after Bill Hess intercepted a Utah pass late in the first quarter. Hess picked off a loose ball on the 31 after halfback Jerry Overton apparently had the pass knocked out of his hands. Wisconsin was unable to capitalize on several other scoring chances. Its attack sputtered at key times and Jim Bakken, the place-kicking specialist, missed five field goal attempts from the 46, 12, 16, 39 and 27.

In addition, Miller had two passes intercepted when the Badgers had the ball deep in Utah territory in the final period.

Utah, which rolled over Colorado State 40-0 in its opener a week ago, was unable to crack the Wisconsin defense. The Utes also were handicapped by penalties, especially in the second period when they reached the Wisconsin 16 and then were set back on two straight 15-yard infractions.

PORTRAIT OF USC COACH IN 'SOUTHLAND'

A timely article about USC coach John McKay, titled "I'm Glad I'm a Blankety-Blank Football Coach," is in today's Southland Magazine, Sunday feature of The Independent, Press-Telegram.

"Sure, coaches have been unjustly fired, but who hasn't?" asks McKay in the revealing picture portrait by J. P-T sports staff writer Jerome Hall.

McKay, whose team was defeated 27-7 Friday night, calls a high-pressure coaching career, "Really quite a good life."

Middies Prove Tough but Penn State Tougher, 20-10

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa. (UPI)—Halfback Don Jonas kicked second half field goals of 31 and 25 yards to spark Penn State to a 20-10 victory over surprisingly strong Navy Saturday before nearly 40,000 fans.

Jonas' initial effort in the third quarter, the first field goal ever kicked by State's hard-running senior halfback from Scranton, Pa., gave the Nittany Lions the impetus needed to overcome a 10-7 lead built up by Navy in the first half.

The Middies got their edge when Greg Mather kicked a 45-yard field goal in the final seconds of the half. It was the longest three-pointer in Navy history. Mather kicked a 42-yard goal to beat Washington last year, 15-14, for the previous record.

The Nittany Lions also unveiled a new star in sophomore quarterback Don Caum, of Harrisburg, Pa. He made a vital run to set up Jonas' second field goal.

INDIANA UPSET BY KANSAS STATE, 14-8

MANHATTAN, Kan. (AP)—Kansas State rode the rifle right arm of sophomore quarterback Larry Corrigan to a 14-8 upset over Indiana Saturday.

The Kansas City, Kan., youngster tossed only four times but two of them were good for touchdowns.

An incredulous crowd of 7,800 saw the sophomore-laden Wildcats, two touchdown underdogs, turn the first visit of a Big Ten team to a Kansas school's stadium into a disaster. The Hoosiers were unable to score until the final two minutes of the game, and threatened seriously only one other time.

K-State, like Indiana winner of only one game in 1960, converted a Hoosier fumble into a first quarter touchdown and moved 54 yards in the third quarter for the clincher.

Georgia No Match for 'Bama

ATHENS, Ga. (UPI)—Fullback Mike Fracchia, ripping off yardage with reckless abandon, set the stage for Alabama Saturday as the Crimson Tide opened its bid for the Southeastern Conference championship with an easy 32-6 victory over outclassed Georgia.

Most of the fans in a near-capacity crowd of 44,000 sat in silence as Alabama completely dominated play, rolling up the largest margin by Alabama against the Bulldogs since 1926.

Fracchia scored two touchdowns, the first on a one-yard plunge in the second period after he had helped set up the score on a 12-yard run; the second from two yards out at the start of the fourth period.

Fracchia had to share some of the glory with Alabama quarterback Pat Trammell, who threw a 37-yard touchdown pass to halfback Butch Wilson in the third period and kept the Bulldogs defense guessing with a fine display of ball handling.

Wilson's touchdown came after he had intercepted a Georgia pass on the previous play.

The day's play was featured by the 10th hole-in-one of the 1961 professional tour.

MISS. STATE SQUEAKS BY TEXAS TECH

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — Mississippi State, playing its usual brand of rugged defensive football, showed signs of promise for the 1961 season Saturday night by downing Texas Tech, 6-0.

The Southeastern Conference Maroons displayed a potential attack but couldn't punch a touchdown across until late in the third period when quarterback Charlie Furlow rammed over from the one.

During the scoring drive, State's fullback Mackie Weaver supplied the offensive impetus, covering 42 of the 80-yard march.

Sighted Shark---Lost It

The Camp Pendleton Marine Field Archers went to sea the other day—shark-hunting with bow and arrow—and thereby may have started something.

Boarding the picket boat Retreat Hell at the Del Mar Basin, the club, headed by its president, S/Sgt. Rudy Folds, sighted the first shark 14 miles out. Marines lured the shark close to the boat with hunks of raw meat. Then an archer put an arrow into the fish with such force that part of the shaft protruded on the opposite side.

The shark sounded and the 90-pound-test line started to sing. It was connected to a ballast can which was thrown overboard. When all the line paid out, it snapped like a small explosion.

The Marine archers hit three more sharks before the trip ended, but, sadly to relate, results were the same in each instance.

Folds says that they are planning another trip and that they intend to equip themselves with 500-pound-test line. "We just scared the sharks this time," said Folds. "Next time we hope to put a dent in the population."

IF YOU ARE LOOKING for planted trout, eight inches to two pounds, you'd better try Big Bear Lake before Oct. 7. Plants made by the Big Bear Lake Park District and the Department of Fish and Game through the late summer have ended, but DF&G men say there are many fish left. However, on Oct. 7, Big Bear and the DF&G plan another poisoning gamble.

Big Bear is low enough to permit a thorough job this time. Rotenone will be used to kill all the fish in the small lake. The department hopes to end the goldfish problem there for all time.

Inasmuch as rotenone smothers fish, the trout that float to the surface will be edible and, no doubt, there will be plenty of anglers (excuse the use of that word in this sense) who wil scoop up the rainbow.

It would be far better to catch all trout possible before the rotenone cleanout starts. Then, let's hope that last year's dry winter isn't repeated. If so, the water might remain toxic for many months to come. A wet winter would put the lake in good shape and permit a heavy planting of trout in the spring.

SALTON SEA TEMPERATURES have dropped below the grin-and-bear-it level and, as a result, more and more anglers are heading for the sea and the Colorado River resorts. For those who have the patience, there will be ample rewards at the sea. Population of corvina, sargo and Bairdiella croakers are up and the DF&G is pleased with recent test-seining results.

Robert G. Hulquist, in charge of the recent seining survey team, said that tests turned up the greatest sampling of young corvina in the history of the sea. Mature corvina taken in deeper parts of the sea weighed from six to eight pounds and were in excellent condition despite a high water temperature through the summer.

Similar reports were made on the sargo and croakers. Why should the DF&G be so pleased? Its biologists were responsible for starting the corvina, sargo and croaker fisheries in a sea where most people thought fish would never live.

OUTDOORS IN CAPSULES—Mrs. Nina McEwen, 11261 Loch Lamond Rd., Los Alamitos, won a first-place award in the canned goods divisions of the domestic arts department of the Los Angeles County Fair. It was albacore, naturally, inasmuch as her husband is Eddie McEwen, one of the owners of Pacific Landing. You can be certain that Eddie is proud of the accomplishment.

One of the year's top social events for sportsmen takes place Saturday night at the Lalayette Hotel when the Ocean Fish Protective Association is host to the California Wildlife Federation. The CWF is meeting here Saturday and Sunday.

The dinner-dance is $4.50 and tickets are available at the door. Reservations should be made with Mildred Young (HE 7-4092) or Sam Haas (GA 3-1294). The event is open to all interested sportsmen.

ELGIN GATES, president, and Don Graves, vice president, of Seaboard, Inc., 2313 S. Susan St., Santa Ana, are busy travelers these days. Seaboard, leading distributor of Mercury outboards in the nation, now represents the largest area of the U. S. It has acquired a distributor-wholesaler outlet in Northern California and now serves all of California, Nevada and Arizona.

Graves is hopping between here and Hayward, Calif., most of the time. Hayward is the site of the second plant.

Seaboard expects to start shipping the 1962 line of Mercury motors within a week. Graves says that dealers have evidenced great interest in the all-new 100-horsepower model 1000, now the largest in the outboard field. Even so, the 1000 is as small as the 1961 85-horsepower model and the weight is practically the same.

Another interesting model for 1962 is the 110, a 9.8-horsepower motor that weighs just 55 pounds, designed particularly for the fisherman.

REVEL EQUALS TRACK RECORD

Beldame to Airmans Guide

(Compiled From Wire Services)

Hugh A. Grant's Airmans Guide furthered her bid for the 1961 hadicap mare of the year award Saturday by scampering to a three-quarter length victory over Craftiness in the $96,000 Beldame Stakes at Belmont Park.

The brilliant 4-year-old daughter of One Count now has won six of eight starts this year including a romp victory over Royal Native in the Delaware Handicap her last time out.

* * * *

PRIMONETTA, the outstanding daughter of Swaps who has won 10 of 12 lifetime starts, set the pace over the middle distances of the mile and one-eighth test, but she tired badly in the stretch and fell back to third. Berlo was fourth in the field of 12 fillies and mares.

Airmans Guide ran a strong race and always was well-paced. After letting Primonetta set the pace until the three-quarter mark, she easily moved to the front to stay at the top of the stretch.

Howard Grant rode the popular Airmans Guide over the distance in 1:49 2/5 and the winner returned $9.30, $5.70 and $3.80. Craftiness, winner of the Diana Handicap, paid $12.30 and $6.20 and Primonetta paid $3.30.

MRS. EDITH L. Price's Yes You Will just managed to stave off a brilliant stretch drive by Polylad to win the $29,800 Broadwalk Handicap by a neck at Atlantic City.

Yes You Will enjoyed a seemingly comfortable four-length margin at the head of the stretch, but Polylad, dead last for the first half of the race, brought the crowd of 23,098 to its feet with his driving run that just missed catching Yes You Will at the wire.

* * * *

RARE RICE was another three lengths back in third place and Dress Up was fourth.

Yes You Will carried high weight of 117 pounds although he had failed to win a stakes race this year. The Maryland-bred son of Rough's Tumble was an outstanding performer in 1960, however, when he earned $148,091 while capturing four stakes.

Sent off at odds of 8-1, Yes You Will returned $18.00, $7.60 and $5.00 as he negotiated the mile and one-sixteenth in 1:41 4/5 under a good ride by Tommy Lee. Polylad paid $6.20 and $3.40 and Rare Rice paid $5.40.

REVEL, owned by Helen L. Kenaston of Palm Springs, Calif., carried 128 pounds to victory in the $10,000 added Mapes Hotel Handicap at Bay Meadows.

In beating Nagea and Chase Eddie, Revel equalled the six-furlong track record of 1:08 3/5 set Sept. 8, 1958, by Little Moon carrying 115 pounds.

Revel returned $5.20, $3.40 and $3. Nagea paid $9.40 and $5.80, and Chase Eddie $6.40.

Physician Wins . . . Just Like Silky

By MAC McGUIRE

POMONA—The "Silky Sullivan" of the half-mile race tracks was revealed to a record gathering of 24,678 roaring fans here Saturday afternoon.

Running from off the pace some 20 lengths behind, a stretch-running phenomenon named Physician came barreling down the stretch in the mile and one-sixteenth $11,175 C. B. Afflerbaugh Memorial Handicap to win by five and one-half lengths over Rob Bob, the Pomona champion.

With a half-mile to go, and still trailing the field, Physician looked like a poor risk to his betting followers. But then on the backstretch, the second time, he began to move, passing horses like they were tied to a post. He caught Rob Bob at the head of the stretch and never broke stride as he won going away. El Tandilero was third.

The time was 1:45 and Physician paid $12.60, $6 and $4. Rob Bob returned $3.80 and $2.80 and El Tandilero $4.60.

IT HAPPENED LAST NIGHT

Carol May Be '61 Top Show Business Girl

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK—Carol Lawrence, turning 27 the other week, faced the happy fact that she may be Show Business' outstanding Young Woman of 1961.

CAROL

Around Christmas, the name Carol Lawrence should be sparkling from two Broadway marquees — the new David Merrick musical, "Subways Are for Sleeping," and the new Arthur Miller movie, "A View From the Bridge."

Her French poodle "Cleopatra" sat on her knee in Carol's mid-Fifties apartment the other evening. Carol had just hopped in from Hollywood where, in a week, she'd recorded an entire album for Fred Astaire's new company, "Choreo." In a few hours she would be rehearsing for a new TV chore, dancing her head off practically in "The Magic Nutcracker." She had been sleeping all day recovering from the Hollywood recording chore.

* * * *

"WHAT WILL YOU be doing with all your wealth?" I asked her.

"Going to buy more paintings," she said, nodding toward her wall. "There's a Daumier I have my eye on in Paris . . . a little water color . . ."

"You're about to be a big star," I said. "Sarah Bernhardt's supposed to have said that an actress shouldn't fall in love till after she's a star because once she's a star she can choose her lovers and have anybody she wants."

Carol thought that was ridiculous.

"And it's untrue," she said. "If you wait that long, you'd find that the men you'd want, if they're MEN, would be married!"

* * * *

THE YOUNG lady who would seem to have everything she needs professionally looked a wee bit wistful.

"It's hard to live alone," she said. "Nothing is important if you can't share it with someone. I, for example, would like to find someone."

"And how are you doing?"

"You'll be the second to know. I hope I'm the first to know."

* * * *

CAROL'S CAREER has zoomed since "West Side Story." In Hollywood, she had dinner with Fred Astaire who, she says, is surprisingly shy.

"You think of him as being suave and debonair but he's so shy he can hardly look at you. He's 63 and he says the newspapers won't get off his back about his age. He told me that after he read what some of them said he felt he should go lie don and take a good rest.

"Listen," Carol said, "there are some 22-year-olds who are so old, dull and uninteresting that you wouldn't want to spend a minute with them."

* * * *

THE WEEKEND WINDUP

They were talking about the David Susskind show about Frank Sinatra, and a wit said, "What'll he have next — how can he lower that?" . . . One of Hollywood's husbands almost wept to friends about how he can't stand it much longer, because he's no longer a man but a messenger.

Richard Burton told Mos

Richard Burton told Moss Hart asked: "Shaw's or Shakespeare's?" "Neither," said Burton,"—Joe Mankiewicz's". . . . Producer Carmen Capalbo and actress Phyllis Kirk will wed when his touring "Threepenny Opera" (with Gypsy Rose Lee) gets under way . . . Singer Jacques Foti, at the Fontaine Bleau in H'wood, is Shelley Winters' current beau . . . Hume Cronyn, who grew a beard for "Cleopatra," asked at the Four Seasons: "Do you tuck a napkin over or under a beard?"

* * * *

EARL'S PEARLS: When a girl laughs at everything her boy friend says, you can be sure of one thing—she has attractive teeth.

TODAY'S BEST LAUGH: The teen-agers are holding in their hands the future of this country—and its telephones, too.

WISH I'D SAID THAT: Winifred Wolfe's book, "If A Man Answers," has this line: "Most men develop appetites when they are 12, muscles when they are 16, and principles only after they're married."

That Russian astronaut circled the earth at lightning speed, notes Dick Gregory, but he had the same problem we have here—he's still waiting at the airport for his luggage . . . That's earl, brother.

Calif. Democrats Back Political Ban on Military

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Support of the stand of the U. S. secretary of defense that "military men should stay out of politics" was voted Saturday by the executive committee of the Democratic State Central Committee.

The unanimously adopted resolution said "We are convinced that the John Birchers and other right-wing crackpots have done their utmost to confuse the American people as to the issues involved and we charged that those who accuse Defense Secretary McNamara of encouraging or fostering communism are guilty of criminal fraud."

Isolate Africa Area Pending Elections

USUMBURA, Ruanda-Urundi (AP)—The borders of this Belgian-administered U.N. trusteeship will be closed through Monday while parliamentary elections are held, Belgian authorities announced.

The measure is aimed at preventing infiltration of elements which might attempt to create incidents. The pre-election period has been marked by unrest.

YVETTE MIMIEUX
Walks Alone

Long Walk in Bikini for Yvette

By JAMES BACON

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—In a town where most actresses hail a limousine for a trip to an adjoining sound stage, Yvette Mimieux, 19, likes to walk.

Alone.

Within the last year, says the blonde beauty, she logged a 50-mile jaunt along England's Cornish coast, and another almost as long up Italy's Mediterranean coast.

* * * *

THE LAST, while wearing a bikini. "I wanted to get tan," she explains.

She was in London last year for interiors on "Light in the Piazza."

"I had a week off, so I spent it walking, except for an 11-hour train trip to Cornwall.

* * * *

"IT WAS wonderful. I walked all by myself through country that is as primitive as some we have in California. The Cornish coast, in fact, reminds me of the rugged California coast, with huge cliffs right down to the sea.

"At night, I'd stop at a farmhouse for bed and breakfast."

How about the Cornish farmers? What did they think about a Hollywood actress galivanting around like that?

* * * *

"HEAVENS," she exclaimed. "I never told them I was an actress. First of all, they wouldn't have known who I was and it would have been too hard to explain. I just told them I was an American student.

"Hiking is a very popular sport in Europe. These bed and breakfast farmhouses get hiking students every night. I was no novelty."

MELLOW LIKE A CELLO

Crosby, at 57, Relaxed as Outfielder's Glove

By EDDY GILMORE

LONDON (AP)—Harry Lillis Bing Crosby at the age of 57, has probably given as much pleasure to other people as any man alive.

"Don't know about that," rumbled Crosby in that unmistakable voice, as mellow as a well-worn cello, "but reckon I've been around a little. More than most."

At any given hour of the day or night, somewhere a radio, jukebox, TV sound box or cinema screen is reproducing his very unusual voice, a voice which the late Lawrence Tibett called "the most melodious in the world."

* * * *

LIKE YANKEE Stadium, Bing Crosby has become an American institution.

"Oh, no, oh, no," he laughed off the comparison. "Anyhow, the stadium's in lot better condition. Look at me."

Looking as relaxed as an old outfielder's glove, he lounged in his tiny trailer dressing room, 50 feet from an elaborate setting for his new picture with Bob Hope.

It's called "The Road to Hong Kong."

* * * *

HOW DID he stay slim and without a double chin or that turkey-gobbler fold of flesh hanging beneath the chin of most men nearing 60?

"Back away. Just back away from those groceries."

Crosby diets like a dedicated man and takes an enormous amount of exercise playing golf.

* * * *

"OF ALL the songs you've sung," he was asked, "which is your favorite?"

"Can't really say. "White Christmas;" he said, raising his eyebrows almost to the point where his toupee began, "'Please. 'Thanks.' 'I Surrender, Dear.' Been a lot of good ones."

He pointed to a mirror above him.

"That's the family," he said. Around the mirror's edges he's stuck up a number of snapshots of his children.

* * * *

"MY BOYS," he said, indicating his grown sons, Gary, Philip, Dennis and Lindsay. "Doing a TV show."

There came a faraway look in those eyes, the color of faded jeans.

The boys were born to Bing and his first wife, the late Dixie, who died of cancer in 1952.

They say that Bing to his intimates has sometimes blamed himself for not being a better father.

* * * *

"THAT'S nonsense," said a man in show business who has known Crosby since his days as a singer with Paul Whiteman's band.

"At times, one or two of them have been a bit like Bing was at their age. Growing up, Bing was no angel, you know."

The faraway look faded and his eyes focused on photographs of Harry Lillis Crosby III and little Mary Frances.

* * * *

THEIR MOTHER is the former Kathryn Grant, who is 30 years younger than Bing. She is expecting her third child in October.

Both of Bing's wives have been Southerners.

An assistant director knocked on the door.

"Time, Bing," he said.

"O.K. Be rights with you."

DIRECTOR Norman Panama asked Crosby, Hope and Joan Collins to rehearse a scene.

While Hope and Joan did a scene together, Crosby relaxed in a chair.

"Once I got away from show business I might vegetate. Don't want that to happen. No, sir." He looked at Hope.

"Look at that Hope," he laughed. "He's never going to retire."

Police Deliver Baby

NEW YORK (AP) — There are two good reasons why the baby born to Anatolio and Carmen Libalo will be named Francesca. One is Frank Barry and the other Frank Maruna, the patrolmen who delivered the child in the Libalos' apartment.

SAVE YOURSELF BOTH TIME AND MONEY

Here's How To Proceed If You Plan Fallout Shelter

By JIM McCAULEY

Here is how you can arrange to build a family fallout shelter with a minimum of time and cost:

1. Get your plans from a Civil Defense design that already has been approved by the City Building Department. That saves time and confusion—also avoids an architect's fee.

2. Submit the design to several contractors for bids. That may save money.

3. Make sure that the application for a building permit states that your addition is a fallout shelter. That gives you a free engineering bonus.

AS A CIVIL DEFENSE service, city building engineers now automatically check to see whether any new projected fallout shelter meets minimum standards for protection against radiation.

Blueprints on the approved shelter are available for 60 cents at Ace Blue Print Co., 2491 Long Beach Blvd., and Long Beach Blue Print Co., 250 Locust Ave.

City Manager John R. Mansell, who also is Civil Defense director here, said he hopes that eventually the city can offer the blueprints free.

THE CITY Building Department has approved a basement shelter plan as outlined in the Federal Civil Defense booklet "NP15 Family Fallout Shelter."

An above-ground shelter also is being studied. Mansell said plans on an approved above-ground shelter should be available locally in a month.

Long Beach residents also can hire an architect or an engineer to modify one of the other Civil Defense plans—though the final blueprints must meet Long Beach structural and zoning standards.

SOME AREAS of Long Beach may not be able to construct a basement shelter economically due to water seepage. The upcoming approval of an above-ground shelter may help these low-landers.

But another problem: present land-use laws here ban additional structures above ground on some small lots. However, the Planning Commission can issue special permits to waive the land-use regulations.

Meanwhile, the City Building Department has issued six shelter permits in the past two weeks—twice as many as were issued in the whole previous year. Twelve other shelter permits are waiting to be picked up.

U.S. National Bank Is Rushing New Downtown Office Work

U.S. National Bank, downtown Long Beach's newest financial institution, Saturday revealed plans for a modernized four-story regional headquarters building at 130 Pine Ave.

Reconstruction of the edifice, the former Humphreys Music Building, began earlier this month.

U.S. National said it will speed construction to open its doors by November. Its charter for a downtown Long Beach bank has a deadline that expires in two months.

* * * *

"WE WILL WORK construction crews around the clock if necessary," a bank spokesman said.

A bank official said the project is far more than a facelifting. Only the pillars and skeleton of the structure are being left intact, he said.

Cost was estimated unofficially at more than a half million dollars.

First floor of the building will be the downtown office of the bank and also serve as regional headquarters for U.S. National in the Long Beach and harbor area.

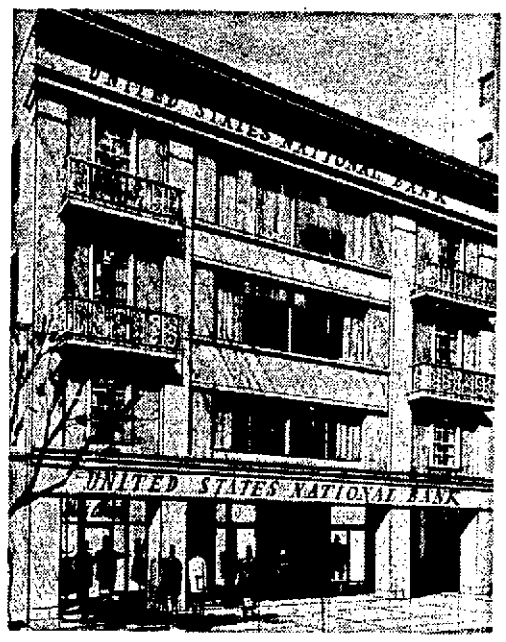

* * * *

THE THREE TOP FLOORS, to be served by a new high-speed elevator, are being leased for office space. The building has 25,000 square feet — 5,000 feet on each floor and the basement. There also is a rear parking lot which extends to Locust Avenue.

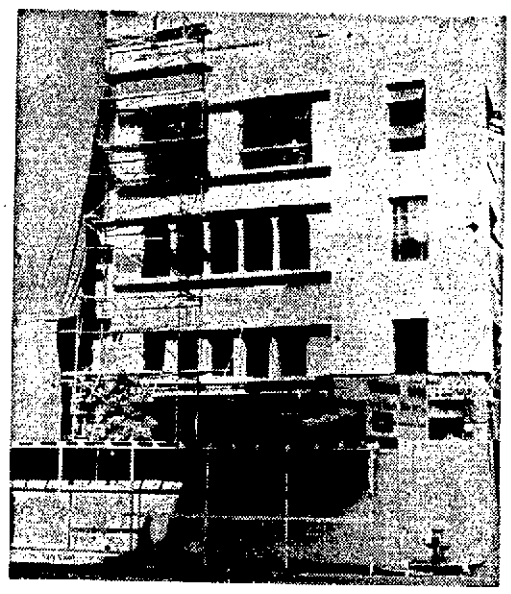

U.S. National, headquartered in San Diego, has Long Beach branches in Los Altos and North Long Beach.

Voler L. Viles, regional vice president, issued this statement when the bank originally announced it was moving into downtown Long Beach:

"Our bank feels that to really be a part of a community we must be located in the heart of the downtown area."

Name Medical Head for Leisure World

Dr. Weldon A. Williamson, veteran of 24 years' service with the United States Public Health Service, has been named director of the medical center at Rossmoor Leisure World, the senior citizen development now under construction at Seal Beach.

Dr. Williamson will assume his new post Oct. 1, Lewis M. Letson, administrator of the Golden Rain Foundation, the non-profit organization which will administer the medical facilities at the community, said.

"This new post provides a most challenging and unusual assignment," said Dr. Williamson, "because of the nature of the community and the fact that it is being sponsored by free enterprise rather than governmental agencies."

DR. WILLIAMSON is a Diplomat, American Board of Surgery; Fellow, American College of Surgeons; and member of the American Medical Association, Northern California chapter of American College of Surgeons and Theta Kappa Psi medical fraternity.

Many New Model Homes Will Be Opened Today

National Home Week, which began Saturday and continues through Oct. 1, will be observed in this area with an invitation to the public to personally see the many new pace - setting advances in home design and construction in the model display homes which members of the Home Builders Association will have open, announced Earl P. Snyder, HBA president.

Opening of the largest number of model display homes, nearly all of them furnished, to be presented in the area at one time in the history of home building here will be the major observance here of National Home Week.

* * * *

"NOW IS THE BEST time to buy a new home" is the theme for National Home Week.

"Southern California's leadership in developing new ideas and new thinking in creating advance homes will be displayed in these models, many of which have been especially scheduled for National Home Week," Snyder stated. "We hope potential home buyers will turn out to review with us the magnificent improvements our builders have made in homes of today.

"The Southern California home is a pace setter. Designers, builders, developers look to this area for creative thinking. All these wonderful advances will be on display during National Home Week.

* * * *

"IT'S EASY to visit a model display home. You will find display homes near you regardless of where you live. Every major area will have model display homes open. Check the locations in the real estate sections of your newspaper.

"Kitchens of Southern California homes for many years have captured first honors and have set trends which other sections have followed—design, features, stepped-up efficiency, reduced work for the busy homemaker, more expertly organized to meet her special needs, according to Snyder. Many of these appealing kitchens will be featured in the model homes open during National Home Week.

"Leadership in patio design and outdoor living which Southern California builders have established and maintained, will also be shown in these display homes.

* * * *

"STEADILY RISING costs of everything that goes into or involves a home emphasize the facts on which this year's theme is based, said Snyder.

"Economists are now agreed that interest rates for homes will go up appreciably in the near future, instead of going down, which adds another rising curve in home costs," he said. "Costs of land are going up, costs of the components are rising, labor costs are continually rising. Any potential home buyer who is thinking about home ownership will pay less for the new home of his choice now than at any time in the future which we can forsee."

Will Build Small Home for Elderly

Construction of the retirement homes surrounding the existing house models and recreation facilities of Sun Park, Hemet, starts Monday.

This $837,000 project presents a new approach to retirement living. Moderate sized Sun Park retirement subdivisions are being located by the developers, Frazar Brothers of Montrose, in communities renowned for their natural resources for gracious living. The Hemet area is called the "Foothills of Heaven."

* * * *

SUN PARKS follow the established restriction of one member of a family being 50 or older and all chidrlen must be at least 18.

Frazar Bros. create their subdivisions with homes of modest floor space, 970 to 1032 square feet, for easy upkeep. Then they install appliances, cabinets, fixtures, kitchens and baths to luxury standards of quality. Each home has its own yard, walled in back, to provide mild exercise for green thumbs and also to create privacy out of doors.

Centered within the development, with access possible only through member homes, is a $100,000 recreation center. The title and operation of these facilities belongs to Sun Park residents jointly. A heated pool, shuffleboard courts, an 18 hole putting green, large landscaped and grassed areas and a quite pretentious club house comprise the recreation package.

LAW IN THE NEWS

Some State Laws Have Mexican Roots

Though much of our law came from English common law, Californians lived under Mexican rule and Spanish law influences for years. Such laws as community property have Mexican roots.

In early California Mexicans often held large land holdings which the United States honored when Mexico ceded California. Water, then as now, was vital. Special laws dealt with water.

If a land owner got sole use of river water under the Mexican law, California could not take it away from him. Mexican land grants on navigable waters were likewise honored.

* * * *

PUEBLO WATER RIGHTS of Spanish origin are still in California law. This gives a city use of river water flowing through it, since the pueblo grew around a river. The city held prior water rights for its inhabitants (Pobladores) over any other users. The Spaniards set aside four square leagues (about 17,750 acres) on the bank of the river for cities. Los Angeles and San Diego still have these water rights.

In Los Angeles in 1810 mission priests acknowledged that the city people had water rights superior to other, non-pueblo users: If the city needed more water it could take for its expanded needs. Congress confirmed these rights after Los Angeles became incorporated. San Diego had similar pueblo rights to the San Diego river in 1834.

* * * *

THE 1849 TREATY of Guadalupe Hidalgo said that [illegible] of private Mexicans should be "inviolably respected." Many early California courts disputed over how wide these grants were. In 1851, a three-member land commission came to California to settle many of these disputes. After years Congress settled these grants and their boundaries.

Under Spanish and Mexican law, pueblos had a right to four square leagues of land. The Mexican government "owned" the land as treaty for the city dwellers. Under the treaty, California got this "ownership." Ownership of city land by private persons had to come from the city or by government grant. In 1854 Los Angeles granted land to those who had occupied it for 12 years. Persons with grants of city land from the Mexican government had to have them confirmed by special laws or by court action.

Three Awards for Architectural Firm

WINNING HOME DESIGN

The local architectural firm of Killingsworth, Brady, Smith & Associates received the Honor Award in the Western Home Awards Program for this unique home built for John Robertson in Laguna Beach. One end of the glass pavilion is for studio living and the other for cooking, dining and sleeping. It is set in an old estate garden.

The Long Beach architectural firm of Killingsworth, Brady, Smith & Associates is the winner of an Honor Award and two Awards of Merit in the 1961-1962 Western Home Awards Program, sponsored biennially by Sunset Magazine and the American Institute of Architects.

The firm received the Honor Award for its design of a custom house in Laguna Beach, owned by John Robertson. The Awards of Merit were given the architects for two custom projects houses in La Jolla.

* * * *

THE LAGUNA BEACH Honor Award winner was called "a very sensitive and successful design" by the awards jury. It is a glass pavilion set in a corner of an old estate garden. Glass walls open the interior to the garden area. One end of the home is used for studio-living, the other for cooking, dining and sleeping.

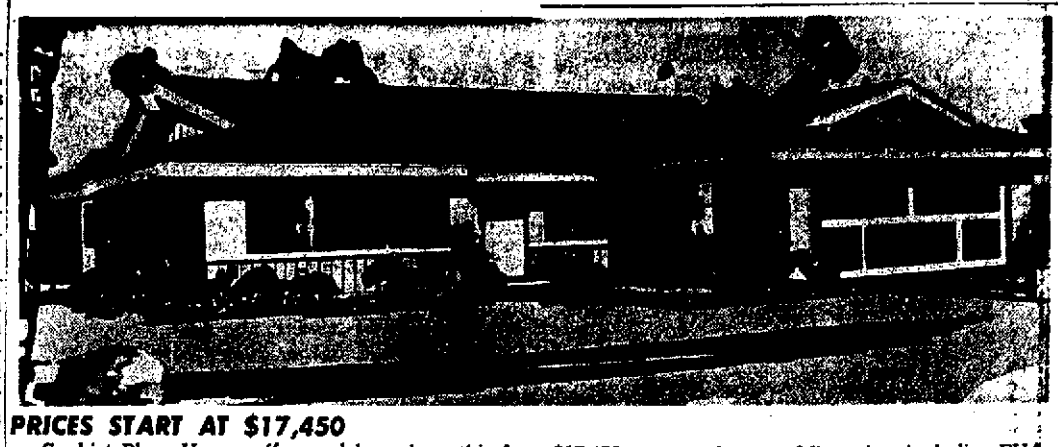

The two project houses in La Jolla were also highly commended by the jury. Both are wood houses, each built over a body of still water. The wood here is used in a "very sophisticated, dressy manner, rather than in a rustic manner." The jury called the detailing in these homes "very careful and adroit."

Killingsworth, Brady, Smith, along with the other winning architects in the competition, will be honored at the California Council, A.I.A. Convention at Coronado, Oct. 18-22. L. W. (Bill) Lane Jr., publisher of Sunset Magazine, and Malcolm Reynolds, regional director of the American Institute of Architects, will present the awards.

MAKE WAY FOR MOON

Shaded area in Newsmap shows the 80,000 acres which will be acquired by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration for expanding the Cape Canaveral rocket launching facilities. The land, costing $60 million, will be used for the huge Saturn and Nova moon vehicle boosters. Black area, covering 15,000 acres, is present size of the Canaveral site.

New Second Trust Deed Plan Offered

A new plan to move California's second trust deed market into sounder financial channels to further aid home buyers and stimulate the housing industry was announced by Roger A. Dunn, president of Community Savings and Loan Association.

Community is one of the eleven affiliates comprising Financial Federation, Inc. who will join in the new program of accepting applications for secondary financing following conventional first mortgage loans.

* * * *

EDWARD L. JOHNSON, president of Financial Federation, Inc. states: "The plan will be advantageous to everyone concerned, and will give the state administration an assist in its job of cleaning up the problems caused by the past operations of 'trust deed exchanges' in the second mortgage field."

The difficulties of the "trust deed exchanges" began to appear in 1956 when inexperienced investors were attracted by promised 10% yield on their money.

Under the new Financial Federation program the home buyer can carry on all transactions through one financial institution. A person may buy a home he might not be able to purchase without secondary financing, obtaining up to 90 percent of value through any one of Financial Federation's affiliates. He will make only one monthly payment for both loans.

The primary advantages of the program to affiliate members, will be that they can make many first mortgage loans that would be otherwise impossible without secondary financing, and their first loans will be better protected with seconds in the hands of an experienced company.

Plans for Opera Are Sidetracked

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Actress-singer Shirly Knight, who once aspired to be an opera singer, has lowered her sight.

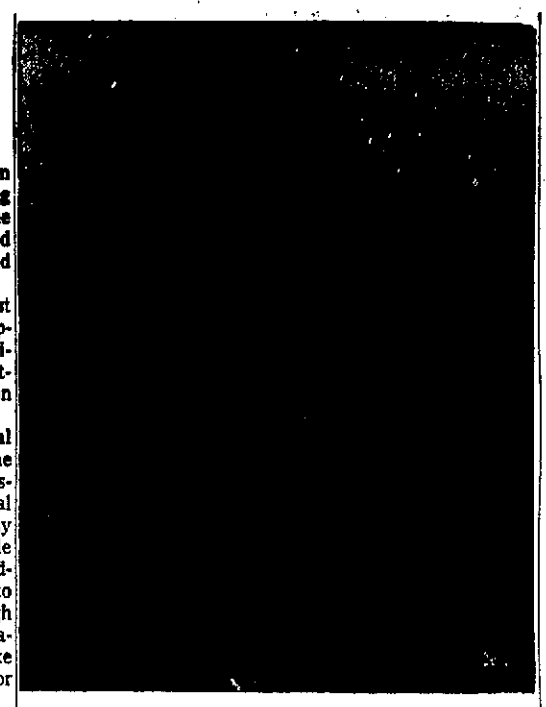

She is content with pursuing an acting career, at the moment, as a convict in the Warner Bros. movie, "House of Women."

"At one time," says Miss Knight, "I aspired to become an opera singer. Then I heard the great Renata Tebaldi. I realized I never could approach her. It was then I decided to devote my energies to becoming the best possible actress."

To Start Filming Billy Budd Soon

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Executive producer Ronald Lubin is due soon in London for the start of filming of Allied Artists' "Billy Budd" at Elstree Studios.

Lubin completed location filming on the picture, directed and produced by Peter Ustinov, in Alicante, Spain, then left for the San Sebastian Film Festival. He goes to London from there.

Expands L.B. Plant

Monsanto Chemical Co's Long Beach plant is expanding facilities for manufacturing sodium tripolyphosphate, Johan J. Jansen, plant manager, announced.

"Our plant has grown continually since it was established 11 years ago," Jansen said. "This is another step in our growth which will help us to keep ahead of the needs of the West Coast. This expansion of our sodium phosphate facilities is the second for this unit within a few years, and will more than double our present phosphate salt capacity. The new production capability will enable Monsanto to meet all anticipated future needs of the West Coast customers for this product."

* * * *

THE WORK will be completed by the end of the year, Jansen said.

Sodium Tripolyphosphate is a white granular or powdered material, water-soluble, which has excellent water softening and detergent properties.

Tips Given on Use of Sanders

By MR. FIX
Written for Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Hand sanding is still the technique that gives the perfect finishing touch to any project in wood.

But hand sanding as a method to do all the necessary smoothing and finishing is made obsolete by modern, inexpensive methods of power sanding. You can power sand to the point where only a light once-over with hand sanding is needed. And on some jobs you can even skip that.

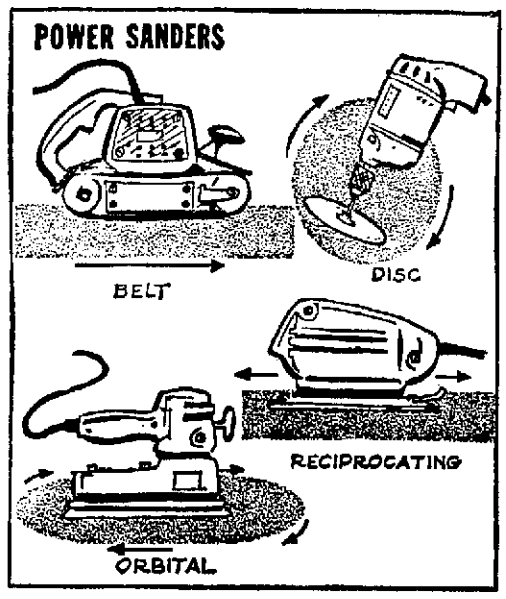

* * * *

MOST FAMILIAR is the disc sander, generally in the form of an attachment for an electric drill. This tool is inexpensive, efficient, fast, and it can ruin your work faster than any other type.

The tool is perfect for rough sanding, but since its rotary motion results in circular scars in your work it's not ideal for finishing. With careful handling you can avoid having surfaces that are too badly marked up, even during rough sanding.

Holding the disc sander in one spot too long will result in gouging—and it doesn't take long to dig out a deep gash. Too light a pressure results in a large number of broken marks as the disc flutters over the work.

Maintain an even, steady pressure. Tilting the tool so that only the outer third of the disk touches the surface will cut down on circular marks.

A disc sander can be dangerous, too. Watch your step when sanding anything where the disc might catch and snag. It will jerk the tool right out of your hand.

* * * *

THE BELT sander uses a continuous sanding belt that is fitted over revolving drums at each end. The belt moves in one direction so you needn't worry about cross-grain marks unless you apply the tool that way. This type of sander takes the surface down fast over a wide area.

Portable belt sanders are more expensive than other portable sanders, but they can be rented for an occasional big job.

If the surface you are sanding is narrower than the belt, avoid sanding along only one part of the belt. The belt will wear unevenly later.

* * * *

THE RECIPROCATING sander is a small hand tool with a surface that moves back and forth with a fast motion. The abrasive material is clipped to the moving surface. This does a fine job—it's easy to stay with the grain. But the reciprocating sander is slow, is best used in conjunction with other sanders or on small jobs.

The orbital sander is very much like the reciprocating sander except that as the sanding surface vibrates back and forth it also moves in a tight little orbit. Because of this motion it cuts fast, moves both across and with the grain. The finish won't be quite so good as with a reciprocating sander, and if you bear down you may get little circular marks.

Whatever type of sander you use (or even if you are hand sanding) use the finest grade abrasive you can to do the job. Deep scratches are hard to remove. If you must use a series of grits, start with the coarsest of the series and then use the next finest grit each time.

Iowa Needs Tax Hike But None Is in Sight

DES MOINES (UPI)—The 1961 Iowa Legislature took steps toward solving one of the state's main problems—the lack of industrial plants—but adopted a "standpat" attitude on other dilemmas.

The legislature, in a record 118-day session completed last May, avoided any increase in state taxes and approved a record high budget of nearly $194 million by dipping deeply into a $45 million surplus in the treasury.

In approving a budget almost $23 million higher than the current one, the Legislature made it nearly mandatory for some kind of a tax increase to be enacted at its next session, in 1963.

* * * *

THE MOST ADVOCATED form of a tax increase is to boost the two per cent sales tax to three per cent. It is estimated this would net the state between $32 and $38 million a year.

But Republican Gov. Norman A. Erbe prevented a sales tax increase this session by telling the GOP-controlled legislature he would veto it.

As a result, many legislators said the state had failed to live up to its pledge to increase aid to schools and, at the same time, provide property tax relief, especially in farm areas.

Aid to schools and local property tax relief have been called the two most critical state problems. The legislature did increase school aid by $6 million to $29.8 million per year.

* * * *

THIS WAS NOT even expected to keep pace with rising school costs.

Iowa's drive to establish a more favorable industrial climate in a predominately agricultural state was implemented by legislative action.

The General Assembly granted industries no major tax concessions, but gave the Iowa Development Commission about $75,000 more a year to entice more firms to the state.

This increased the annual appropriation to the commission to $300,400.

The legislature also earmarked $100,000 additionally for a special survey of a potentially rich mineral belt in the southwest, west and north-central sections of the state. Some geologists said preliminary studies indicate the possibility of extremely rich mineral deposits.

Life Underwriters Attend Meeting

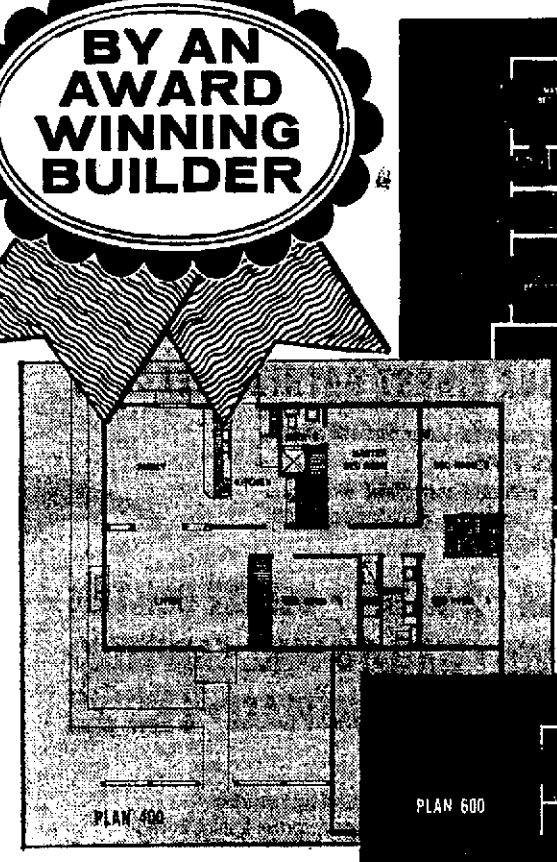

Bob Bowden, president of the Long Beach Life Underwriters Association and Herman Wulfburg, past president, were named to represent the group at the National Association of Life Underwriters meeting in Denver opening today.

The theme of the convention is "Your doctor and your lawyer is a member of a professional association and so should you be."

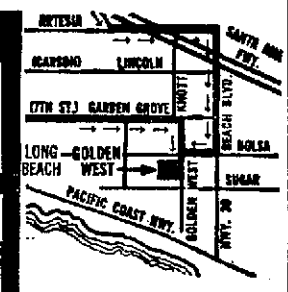

Bowden and Wulfburg will sit in on a conference reviewing federal legislative bulletins on health, care for the aged and other similar discussions.

Gift to Charity More Costly

NEW YORK (UPI)—The peak year for corporate philanthropy was 1953, when a $100 contribution to charity cost a high tax bracket corporation only $18, according to a recent study of a citizens committee on voluntary health and welfare agencies.

Changes in the tax structure have raised the cost of a $100 corporate contribution to $48 in 1961.

Corporate giving totaled $495 million in 1953, $395 million in 1958.

Desert Area Homes Open

Many families have already moved into Youngtowne Plaza, the new master planned retirement community in Apple Valley, according to Gordon Riches, of Key Land Co., sales agents.

Youngtowne Plaza is unique in that buyers may make changes in the basic two and three-bedroom, one bath plan. Prices start at $11,995 with 80% financing available to qualified buyers.

Features in these Gold Medallion all-electric homes include heat pumps for year around air conditioning and heating, covered patios, large view lots, built-in range and oven, fireplaces, large rooms.

Youngtowne Plaza is about a two hour drive from Los Angeles over the San Bernardino Freeway to Highway 395, north on 395 which becomes Route 66 to Victorville, east to Central Ave., north to South Rd., and right on South Rd. to models.

Cautious But Optimistic Now

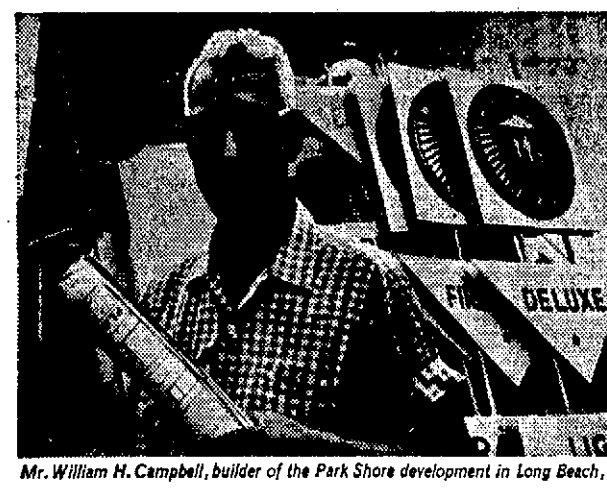

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (UPI)—The American consumer now is "cautiously optimistic" about the nation's economic future, the University of Michigan Survey Research Center reports.

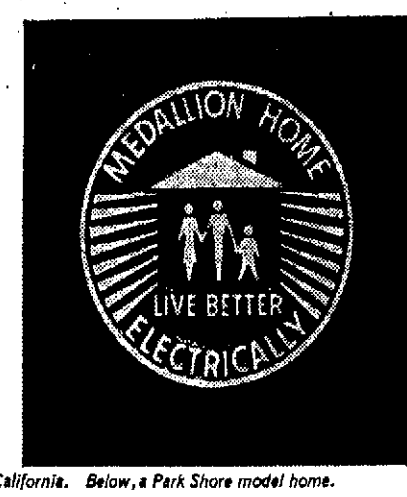

In a recent survey of consumer attitudes and inclinations to buy, the center reports people in every economic bracket realize business trends have turned up and they expect further improvement.

More persons plan to buy new automobiles, the survey showed. But it also disclosed that the optimism expressed by consumers had been tempered by restraint resulting from the recessions of 1958 and early 1961.

Bon (hic) Voyage

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—When a Matson Lines ship sails from San Francisco for a cruise to Hawaii, lots of people are bubbling with good cheer. Matson reports 500 bottles of champagne are consumed on a typical "bon voyage" sailing day.

Mr. William H. Campbell, builder of the Park Shore development in Long Beach, California. Below, a Park Shore model home.

"I BUILD ALL KINDS, BUT I LIVE IN A MEDALLION HOME"

"After twelve years of building thousands of homes, I find that today more and more people want the benefits of electric living found in Medallion Homes. That's why Park Shore homes are Medallion Homes," says Mr. Campbell.

The extra cleanliness, convenience and modernity of a Medallion Home are preferred by Mr. and Mrs. Campbell as well as their customers.

Why not be guided by the experience of expert builders such as Mr. Campbell? Choose a home that bears the Medallion Home Award.

Only one new home in five earns this distinction. These are the qualifications:

1. A flameless electric kitchen—cool, clean, modern. It comes equipped with major electric appliances, including automatic flameless electric range and oven.

2. Full "Housepower" wiring—only a home built to rigid Medallion Homes standards has the overall electrical capacity necessary for truly modern living.

3. Abundant lighting—planned for comfort, convenience and beauty.

A total-electric Gold Medallion Home gives you all these benefits plus:

4. Flameless electric space and water heating.

HOW THE CRAWFORDS BOUGHT AN APARTMENT BUILDING WITH THE HOME THEY STILL OWN!

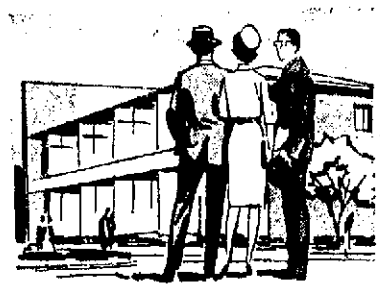

Let Mr. Crawford tell it: "We'd owned our home for quite some time. Had a nice equity built up in it. A few years ago, a good friend—a realtor—suggested that we 'put that equity to work.' We asked how."

"He advised us to 'refinance' our home—to use our home as security to borrow money. We could use part of the money to pay off our existing loan and the rest as a down payment on income property—like an apartment house."

"The new loan payments would be the same as the old ones; they'd just extend for a longer time. And the rent we got from the apartment building would pay off its trust deed and give us extra income, besides!"

"We asked our friend to help us with the arrangements. He was a real specialist....knew all about financing and had several apartment houses to show us. One seemed perfect—attractive, well-kept-up and reasonable."

"Our offer was accepted, so we 'opened an escrow.' The escrow officer was a specialist, too. She handled all money and documents, and suggested that we protect our property with a Title Insurance and Trust Company policy."

"We asked her why she was so sold on Title Insurance and Trust Company. She said because T.I. had the largest staff of title experts in America, and the best facilities for searching the titles of any land in California."

"We've been landlords for two years now. It's a nice feeling—to get extra income while you buy property. It's even nicer to know that your investment has the best protection possible—a Title Insurance and Trust Company title policy."

Like the Crawfords, most California property owners protect their investment with a T.I. policy. And no wonder, for such a policy is the best assurance that you really own the property you buy, and that your "ownership rights" will be insured for as long as you and your family own it. So when you buy or sell, remember to insist on the best—a policy issued by Title Insurance and Trust Company—America's largest title company.

IN GARDEN PARK ESTATES
Preview showing today at Garden Park Estates, Knott Avenue and Garden Grove Freeway, which presents the "city within a city" of all-new luxury homes, will be high lighted by the personal appearance of "Mrs. California." Here is one model of the new homes.

Garden Park Estates Previews Newest City of Luxury Homes

Today's preview showing of Garden Park Estates' all-new "city of architect-designed" luxury homes on Knott Ave. and Garden Grove Freeway, will feature the personal appearance of "Mrs. California, 1961," the State's No. 1 homemaker, it was announced by W. R. Effinger, sales director for S&S Construction Co.

From 10 a.m. until 5 p.m., today, "Mrs. California," Mrs. Carol (Robert) Foran, will be on hand with a special welcome to the ladies. Appearing through the courtesy of Johns-Manville Corp., she will demonstrate some of her favorite budget-pleasing recipes and discuss the varied aspects of modern homemaking, Effinger said.

* * * *

GRAND OPENING showing presents distinctive selection of elevations and spacious plans. Exteriors range from popular California Ranch to Contemporary and the flexible floor plans afford choice of three or four bedrooms with dining area and family room and two attractive baths.

Complete with their many fine features, the moderate full prices are from $17,450, Effinger explained, and home shoppers have choice of "four-way" financing. Veterans may purchase on VA terms of nothing down except impounds and closing costs with monthly payments from $96.60 including principal and interest. There are also excellent conventional and Cal-Vet terms and FHA with lowest possible down payments.

* * * *

TYPICAL OF the fine home attractions are wood burning fireplaces, some with massive mantles and gas log lighters, sliding glass doors to patio-garden areas, forced-air heating with thermostat and summer cooling switch, baths with colored plumbing fixtures and pullman lavatories, and kitchens with built-in gas wall oven and range with range hood, light and exhaust fan, all in matching color, and semi-automatic dishwasher.

Coinciding as it does with National Home Week, Sept. 23 through Oct. 1, with its theme: "Now is the best time to buy a home," Garden Park Estates preview showing features a display of furnished models.

They are reached by driving east on 7th St. past Long Beach State College, straight to Knott Ave.

IN BIG RANCH HOME
Large living areas, family rooms with fireplaces, paneling, parquet wood floors are among features at the newest unit of Arroues Ranch homes on Brea Boulevard in Fullerton. The site, adjacent to two golf courses, features homes as low as $21,850.

Homes on Rolling Ranch Land Appeal

A choice site on a historic ranch location that now borders two golf courses, and a well planned community of fine homes is proving popular at Arroues Ranch, Fullerton where a new unit will be opened this weekend.

The rolling, secluded location combines with value and a score of luxury features in the Arroues Ranch homes to make the new community one of the outstanding values in all of the southland.

* * * *

Priced from $21,850, the big homes include paneled family rooms, fireplaces in family rooms and/or living areas, built-in kitchens with custom cabinets, decorator screens, wide use of marble in baths, imported tile entries, decorator wallpapers and light fixtures, garden baths, and many more advantages found usually only in homes of the $30,000 price, a spokesman reports.

Built by C. P. Middlebrook and J. K. Anderson, the homes have caused comment from buyers, builders and home officials for the space, attention to detail and variety in plan, the long-time Orange County building firm declared.

FIVE FURNISHED and air-conditioned models are open on Brea Blvd., about three miles from the Harbor-Brea Blvd. "Y" at Hillcrest Park.

From the Long Beach area go out Carson (Lincoln) to Harbor then left (North) on Harbor through Fullerton to the Harbor Blvd.-Brea Blvd. "Y." Stay right on Brea Blvd. about three miles to the models.

Glaucoma Test Easier to Make

NEW YORK (UPI)—Physicians now can determine quickly the existence of glaucoma, a serious eye disorder, by linking a tonometer with an electronic recorder.

When placed against the eye-ball, the tonometer measures pressures exerted by fluids inside the eye. The readings previously were recorded by hand, a time-consuming job.

The new electronic recorder, developed by Leeds & Northrup Co., of Philadelphia, not only has speeded diagnosis, but has made mass examinations practical.

Moisture Meter Aid to Farming

TULSA (UPI)—A Tulsa firm has developed a device to take the farmer's muddy boots and guesswork out of irrigation.

Manufacturer Frank W. Murphy said a moisture meter is buried in the ground. If the soil is too dry, a radio signal notifies the irrigation pumps or canal and the water flow starts. A reverse action occurs when moisture content is good.

Murphy said it takes the human factor out of irrigation and ultimately could mean up to 75 more bushels of corn to an irrigated acre.

Tire(d) Thieves

CRANSTON, R. I. (UPI)—Thieves carted away 22 tires wrapped in paper from outside a service station one night but the proprietor was probably less upset than the thieves, Henry A. Serpa told police the tires were old and valueless. He explained he had used them for advertising purposes.

Gay Signed

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Russian-born actor Gregory Gay has been chosen to play Field Marshal Rommel in "Hitler," being filmed for Allied Artists.

Foreign Students Are Welcomed

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa. (UPI)—Foreign exchange students at Pennsylvania State University's College of Agriculture are encouraged to live for a week with a farm family.

Families who have been their hosts say they've learned more than the guests about the customs of a foreign country.

Trees Travel

KENT, Ohio (UPI) — Just standing still, a large tree covers a lot of mileage. A big spreading oak, for instance, has a total root and rootlet length of many hundreds of miles, according to Martin L. Davey Jr., the tree expert.

Dino Wanting Famous Horse

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Dean Martin wants to buy a horse named "Rusty." However, odds are that executive producer Howard W. Koch won't sell his beloved four-legged star, which has served as mount for John Wayne, Gary Cooper, and other top western stars. Martin rides "Rusty" in Frank Sinatra's Essex production of "Soldiers 3."

Desmond's Plans Another Store

Fred B. Huesman, president of Desmond's, announced opening of a 10th store as part of a year-long celebration of the firm's 100th anniversary, which begins in January, 1962.

Opening of the store is planned for May. It will be a major unit of the huge San Fernando Fashion Square now under construction just off the Ventura Freeway.

Other Desmond's stores are located in downtown Los Angeles, Westwood Village, Wilshire Miracle Mile, Crenshaw Center, Pasadena, Long Beach, Santa Ana and Palm Springs.

New Robinson Hotel Adding More Rooms

Completing the third successful year of operating a "new way of life" for retired folks at the New Robinson Hotel, Harvey E. Miller announced Saturday he is building six additional guest rooms.

And, so successful has the venture been that he has another similar project under way at the Casa Del Rey Hotel at Santa Cruz.

A well known Realtor here, Miller was handling negotiations for the sale of the Robinson three years ago. When the sale failed to materialize Miller decided to buy the hotel and set it up for senior citizens. "I had felt for some time that too many times older folks were forced to live in old homes, not eating properly and missing companionship," said Miller.

In his "new way of life" he provided the retired folks with a furnished room, private bath close to the ocean. Nutritionists were obtained to provide well balanced meals for the guests. Staff members were hired to plan programs so the guests would never be bored or lonely.

The hotel has been running near capacity the past year and with the addition of six more rooms and a stag room for male guests, Miller said the need for guest rooms on the first floor will be filled.

There are no entry fees or contracts. All he requires is one month rent in advance. The price, he said, is within the average retirement income bracket.

State Spending Really Climbs

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI)—State government spending in Ohio during the past year was more than the state spent in the 35 years from 1900 to 1935.

State Auditor James A Rhodes reported spending in the fiscal year ended June 30 was more than $1.6 billion. He figured out this was $6.5 million per working day, or $13,430 per minute.

Musical Tree

KENT, Ohio (UPI) — The spruce trees make some of the world's most beguiling sounds. Antonius Stradivarius used only spruce for the now priceless violins he made. Old time fiddle makers preferred the spruce for its resonant qualities, state Davey tree researchers.

Own Tanker

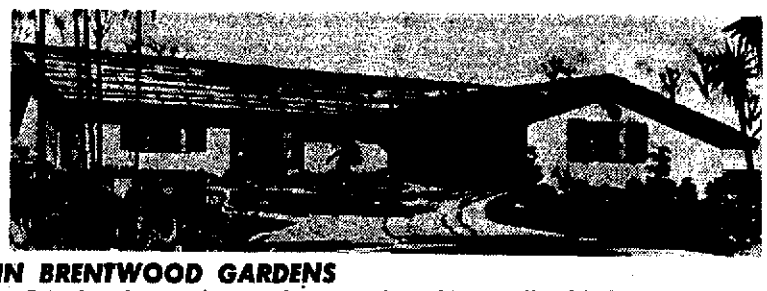

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The SS Lurline, Matson Lines, carries 44,000 barrels of oil in her fuel tanks. It's enough to enable the ship to cruise 21,000 miles without refueling.

New Violinist

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Marie Josee Nat, who portrays Brigitte Bardot's sister in Columbia's "La Verite" (The Truth), liked playing the violin so well in her role that she has taken up the instrument seriously.

IN BRENTWOOD GARDENS
Priced as low as $15.700, homes such as this are offered in Brentwood Gardens to veterans on monthly payments as low as $87, principal and interest. The homes are only minutes from Long Beach.

Monthly payments from $87, including principal and interest, are helping draw crowds of veterans to Brentwood Gardens, situated 12 minutes from Long Beach and 20 minutes from Los Angeles central manufacturing, said Larry Weinberg, president of Larwin Co., builder-developers.

GI move-in costs total $95, Weinberg said, and there are no second trust deeds and no balloon payments.

Early comers may take advantage of minimal $1 veteran's move-in costs on a few credit rejects, he said.

* * * *

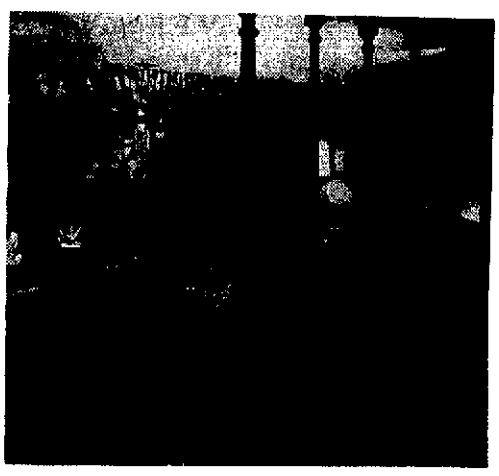

PRICED AS low as $15,700, the homes include three or four bedrooms (or three bedrooms and family room) and two baths.

Weinberg points out that long-lasting value is guaranteed in the new homes by such quality features as expensive Kentile vinyl flooring, customized ceramic tile counter tops in kitchen, distinctive lighting fixtures, lath and plaster walls, acoustic plaster ceilings, decorator-selected wallpapers, forced air furnace, aluminum sliding doors, extra vents for forced air heating and cooling in bathroom, insulated foundation, roof insulation, 100-amp electrical service, and oversized gas water heater.

From Long Beach, Brentwood Gardens may be reached via Carson (which becomes Lincoln Ave.) east to Knott Ave., and the model homes.

ATTRACTIVE FIREPLACE
Homes in Bolsa Park are of sound construction and have many added features such as the floor-to-ceiling stone fireplace pictured here. Near the beach, they are priced from $19,250.

Bolsa Park Homes Lauded by Viewers

Crowds of buyers are expressing pleasure at finding lath and plaster construction in an ocean-close location at Bolsa Park, on Bolsa Chica Road at Bolsa Avenue in Huntington Beach, said builder Roger C. Werbel. According to Werbel, this kind of construction is seldom found so near the ocean.

Bolsa Park homes are offered with new 35-year, 5¼% FHA financing, as well as VA no-down-payment terms and 6% conventional financing. Pricing is from $19,250. Titles are insured.

Four new plans feature custom entry and loggia areas which give access to all rooms, minimizing wear-and-tear on living areas. A four-bedroom plan is proving especially popular with growing families, Werbel said.

OFFERED WITH three or four bedrooms, two full baths, and family-dining room, the Bolsa Park homes are situated on pool-sized lots within an average three minutes' drive of beaches, Werbel said. The homes include such features as: Floor-to-ceiling fireplace, shake, cedar shingle, or rock roofs; custom ash kitchen cabinets with raised panels; O'Keefe & Merritt colored gas range and double-window oven with rotisserie; garbage disposer; range hood with light and fan; automatic dishwasher; floor-to-ceiling sliding glass doors; 75,000 BTU forced air heating; concrete rear terrace, and copper plumbing throughout.

From Long Beach, the homes may be visited via East Seventh St. (which becomes Garden Grove Blvd.) to Bolsa Chica, turning right 2 miles.

FLUID OR FITTED; FURRED OR FRINGED

The Big Fashion Flare-ups for Fall

By MARY ELLIS
I. P-T Fashion Editor

Fashions for fall are nervy and noticeable, vervy and vivacious — designed artfully to change your mind AND your wardrobe.

They're fluid or fitted, feathered or furred, fringed or flounced — always feminine.

With more flair than many a season, the look for fall 1961 has dashing appeal. And there are as many silhouettes as their are personalities to wear them.

* * * *

WHEN BUYING your new fall wardrobe, here are the looks to look for:

The exciting coat — sometimes fitted, sometimes cape shape—over the bland dress. With it: the side-tilt hat, perhaps of fur OR the new sleek-look snakeskin that fashion's so bitten with now.

The little fur necklace or the fur hat to be worn with coat, suit or dress.

Other fur flurries: the little fur jacket that's most of a suit look. Fur hems. Flat furs added to suits.

Inner strength in linings. Once the cheapest fabric in a coat or suit, linings this year strengthen the coat (but weaken the budget) with mink, cat, chinchilla or ermine.

* * * *

THE NOTHING DRESS, a garment that has become high fashion by reduction to its lowest common denominator with subtraction of sleeves, collars and shortened hemline. It will continue barely and shiveringly through the winter months.

Also, nothing colors that swing the fashion pendulum from summer's fad of florid prints and vivid hues to new earth tones. These are murky, mossy, bronze-y and black, or nearly so.

Straight stoles, often fringed; sometimes appearing with their own dresses, suits or coats.

The flip-back jacket, a style newcomer, short in front with a gentle flyaway movement or back flare.

* * * *

FABRIC SURFACES that are ridged, puffed, blistered, double-woven, sculptured and printed. Crepes, this year staging a comeback. Plaids, bold and beautiful, for evening clothes as well as sportswear.

A SWOOP OF RED and green plaided wool, fringed and beaded, gives as-of-now look to evening shaft reminiscent of movie siren days. A slither of black wool, dress has 1961 bloused bodice. By California designer William Pearson; at Chrysteen's, 4518 Atlantic Ave.

'SHIMMER AND SHAPE'

Fashion Shines at Night

"Shimmer and shape" is the most fitting way to describe new evening clothes for fall and winter.

Fabrics shimmer from their own satin and metallic finishes, or with three-dimensional glitter of overall beading, sequins or jeweled embroidery.

The shape for evening is as clingy at the siren dresses of the 30s, when Jean Harlow, Marlene Dietrich and Carole Lombard were in their movie heyday.

* * * *

SOME OF the formals are such narrow columns that to take a long step is dangerous. But some designers thoughtfully have put slits at the sides or center front.

Many formal fabrics have gold and silver threading mingled, and some of the paillette and stone decorations are so dazzling and intricate they look like a jeweler had set them. Many are so sparkling they rival the blinking neons of Broadway.

Also, there are many bias-cut fabrics, especially crepes, in evening dresses reminiscent of the 30s. Other fabrics: chiffon, matte jersey, crepe, brocade and more metallics.

* * * *

FRINGE, FUR and feathers also add to night life spendor. One designer uses beaded fringe to make a tiered, shimmering, silvery sheath.

Another gives a ninth life to that tired old leopard pattern of past seasons—this time sequined and rhinestone-studded, fashioned into a slinky, feline dress.

Hats Reminiscent of the 30s Tilt Like '61

What's the trend that's ahead in hats? Mostly it's the chapeau that becomes YOU. Just so it tilts.

- There are glamorous, bulky hats in beavers, velours and deep-pile or softly-shaggy surfaces.
- Small-brimmed hats that flare back from the hairline.
- Pert profiles and berets that hang on one ear.
- High-crowned hats that are draped and manipulated in many ways.
- Genuine or make-believe furs in big and little silhouettes.
- Evening hats in jewels, feathers, rings of fur or with the glitter of jewels and rich furs.

* * * *

BUT MOST OF ALL, your profile counts when you go shopping for a new fall hat. Because this IS the year for the tilt.

Most of the hats you see will have the tilt built in. Cloche, turban, toque or roller, they'll all make the most of a pretty face. No hat ever invented is as flattering as the profile hat.

THE PILLBOX has departed this fall to be replaced by cloches, profile hats, toques and turbans. Wide-brimmed hat in leopard, left, with crushed crown is by Sally Victor. Little profile cap of plaid wool, by Mr. Arnold, is sprinkled with brilliants. This same designer has done a toque turban, right, in velvet with satin inset.

High soft crowns that have been draped, tucked or arched are typical of autumn. Some have a true global roundness. But all take on character through manipulation.

Fur fakeries spell out a lot of luxury this year. Felts with a fluffy angora surface cannot, at a short distance, be distinguished from its jungle cousin. Even mink and sable have taken on some unusual hues.

BIRDS OF A feather also flock together on new fall chapeaux. Fluffy ostrich is clipped to look like fur. Or it's curled. Coz feathers blend with velvet.

Velvety, blacks and rich browns are, of course, sound fashion. But you may also pick from brick, carnelian, gold, coral, grey, green and orangey shades. Magenta, too, is high fashion.

Altogether, the mood is of the 30s. But the tilt is pure 1961.

What IS Fall Fashion Flair?

- ☆ This fall, flair is flare—especially in short flared skirts; sometimes rippled, sometimes flounced, sometimes funneled.
- ☆ Flair is a spanse of coat that whirls and ripples . . . OR it's a shell of a cover that glides past the body to a widened hem.
- ☆ Flair is the almost-fitted suit, often melted to a fit in front, flared out and away in back . . . or it's a costume with all-in-one styling.
- ☆ Flair is lizard in unexpected places . . . or it's fringe at waistlines, hemlines or necklines; also, glitter for evening from head to toe.
- ☆ Flair is the new day-drop earring . . . the domed pin, flashily fake . . . or it's a necklace of fur riding on suit, coat or dress.
- ☆ Flair is the three-dimensional eye, shadowed above the lid . . . lips that come alive with brighter, clearer coloring . . . also coifs that sweep to the side—and hats that tilt.

For Fall: Like Father, Like Son

It's a well-known fact that little boys like to look like their dads, and fall styles take note of this.

For example, boys like to wear "long pants," and nowadays they also accept sports shirts in "walk" lengths, because dad goes for them, too.

Also, they approve knitted shirts, fashion-collar shirts and boat neck types along with button-down collar models.

Some very popular sports shirts feature a poncho bottom, adding a seasonable note to the Ivy styles long favored by little boys.

Shawl collar models and V-necks rank high among boys' sweaters for fall.

The Flare-Away Coat

RIGHT, split-level costuming, with three-quarter coat that flares out over slim skirt. Its visible asset: a circlet of mink. At Vinson's, 233 E. Ocean Blvd., 4500 Atlantic Ave.

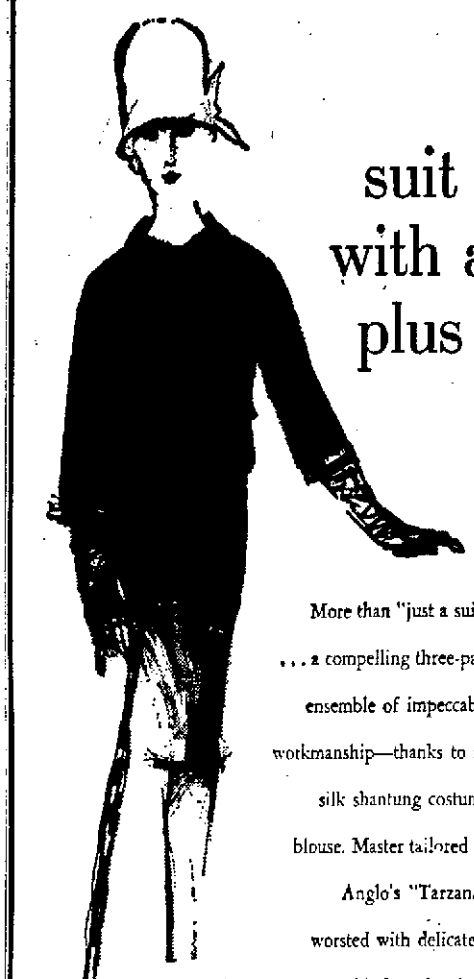

Three-Cornered Shadows

The newest angle on eye makeup is the triangle.

Shadowed in with flaring outward tilt, it draws out the eyes for a wide-set look.

A soft cone of shadow, center eyelid, opens the eyes.

Or, an inward tilt to the new isosceles triangle—based on the lash-line—gives more intense coloring. But the latter is not for women with close-together eyes.

'Foam' Has Solid Fashion Outlook

Laminated clothes are the latest addition to the world of women's fashions.

And this is just the beginning of what one observer believes is a new era in apparel making.

The "observer" is John Paul Goebel, designer and consultant to 15 textile mills serving all the major clothing manufacturers and pioneer of laminated clothing.

* * * *

ALREADY laminated clothes — which started in men's and boys' outerwear —are a $100 million a year business, he said. The potential is staggering.

"I can see the day," said Goebel, "when mills will press buttons and stamp out synthetic fabrics the way a press turns out a newspaper. These won't be knitted or woven. We eventually will laminate paper for high-style clothes, not for throwaways."

* * * *

GOEBEL said laminates have two major advantages: tremendous windbreak qualities and, as a result, warmth with less weight.

His firm recommends a plastic backing no thicker than three thirty-seconds of an inch. The "foam," as the industry calls it, weighs no more than three ounces to the linear yard.

A woman's laminated wool coat with satin lining would weigh from 18 to 20 ounces a linear yard. Before lamination, the weight ran 20 to 25 ounces.

* * * *

FIRST, woven fabrics were laminated. Then, the knits. Now, said Goebel, lamination is possible with almost any fabric. One of his textile firm clients developed a laminated print silk for a New York designer who wanted to make the fabric into overblouses for winter lounge wear.

It is used against mohairs, piles, velours and some designers are pioneering its use in shantungs and velvets for theater coats.

Eventually, the laminates will move into the whole high fashion field," Goebel predicted.

Two (or Three) for the Money

There are fashion bonuses in suit ensembles or ensembles that look like suits!

Take, for instance, classic two-piece suits which often take bona fide coat tops. Handsome coordinated overblouses make welcome third parties.

Also, a slim but well-shaped dress looks like a dressmaker, or even a tailleur suit, when topped with a neat jacket top. Many such tops take fur collars, fur cuffs or both.

NO FUR-ORE, PLEASE

Petite? Then Select Neat, Chic Coat

If you are medium height or petite (and this takes in a majority of American women), shop for your winter coat with great care.

Great gobs of fox or other long, fluffy furs are not for you. They're perfect for the long-stemmed beauties. But they're overpowering on smaller women.

* * * *

SHOP FOR A winter coat in which the fur has been handled with discretion. And since this will be a big winter for fur-trimmed coats, you should have no trouble in finding what you want.

If the collar is flat, wideway, or the fur is set-in, the coat will not appear top-heavy. The ring or circle treatment of fur is perfect for you. Even sable, which can be counted with the fluffy furs, is not too much when it's handled in this fashion.

* * * *

FOR THE REST, look for nearly straight or slightly flared body lines. They'll aid in making you look taller. Rectangular pockets set horizontally also carry out this illusion.

A fabric that is not overly bulky is the right one for you. There are many lightweight fleeces with just enough texture to provide surface interest. Look for these and don't be tempted by those gorgeous, heavy fabrics that look as if they were made of a combination of coal lumps and twigs. They're not for you.

Leather--Whether Casual or Dress

Leather swaggers into town this fall in high fashion costumes and casual separates.

Brilliantly-hued leather coats, jackets, dresses and skirts which follow fall's fluid fashion lines are designed to flash on city streets and suburban lanes.

Light in weight but warm and weatherproof, these ready-to-wear fashions with the couturier look are interpreted in smoth, suede and lustered leathers.

* * * *

FOR TOWN wear there are full-cut, flowing cape coats and redingote costumes in cabrettas, suedes and ranch hides. The lightweight "body" of fall leathers makes them adaptable to coats cut with funnel or bell sleeves.

For evening, leather coats take on a luxurious look in cabretta, cltskin and other smooth leathers. Frequently trimmed with fur and detailed in jeweled patterns, leather coats for after-five wear often sport tuxedo fronts.

* * * *

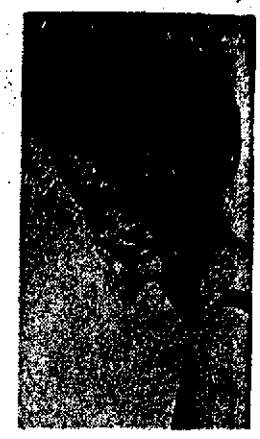

KNIT - AND - LEATHER suits make a day in town a fashion occasion. Cut simply for the woman who likes tailored fashion, they are highlighted with color at collar, cuffs and waistband.

Among leather "add-ons" are bandstand skirts, divided skirts, shorts and shirts in nappy suedes and lightly etched grain leathers.

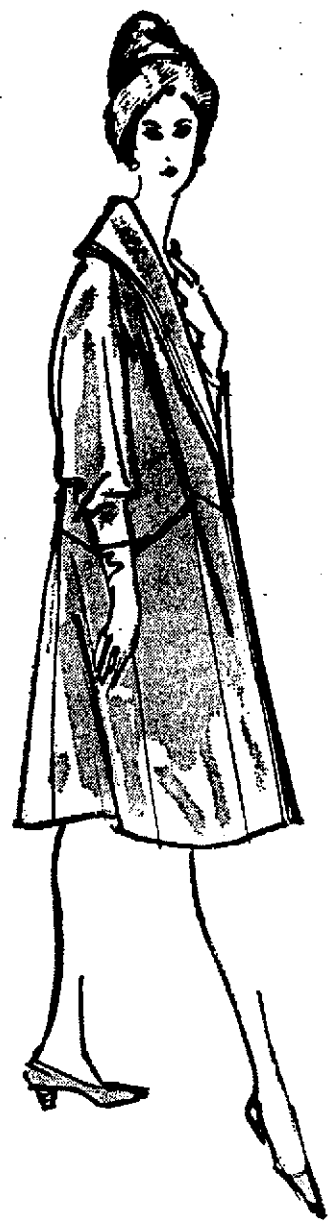

The car coat comes in a whole range of bright leather colors and new styles. Dressmaker detailing—yokes, pockets and cuff designs — add style to utility.

A full range of blued reds and plum into purple are seen in town and casual garments. Combinations of leather and fabrics appear in mauves, lilacs and avocado greens.

HALO NECKLACE, right, with the twinkle of tiny rhinestones doubles as necklace for theater or a tiara for party. By Judith McCann, necklace is feather light.

WRAPPING IT UP for fall: a soft, genuine kidskin leather coat. Wear it free and open, or cinch with self belt. Cleaning? Simple. Just wipe with soap and water. Jo-Kaye, 401 Long Beach Blvd., has it in white, beige and variety of fall colors.

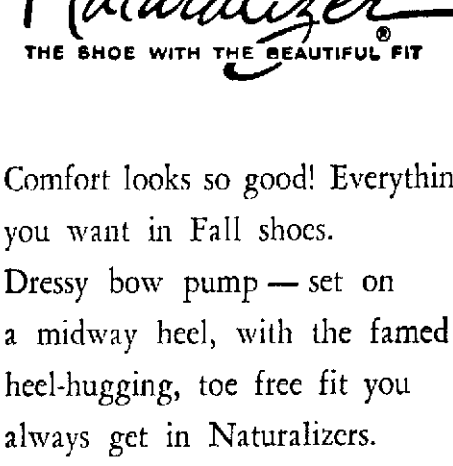

High Style Is Hemmed-In

Detail, rather than length, makes hemline news this season.

Dresses and coats have attention-getting accents at the lower level — godets, pleats that ripple from the knee and the new sudden hemline flares.

For after-five wear, starkly simple frocks have hem interest too.

Examples: fur bands that provide off-beat adornment for chiffon, glittery materials that accent sheer wools and fringes that glamorize silk crepe dresses.

The 'Suitable' Way: 1961

To suit your wardrobe this fall, look for:

- The body-conscious suit, with shaped front and eased back.
- The Chanel suit with jacket cut closer to the body.
- The 22-inch jacket suit, gently fitted.
- The costume suit with matching or contrasting dress and coat.
- The cutaway jacket suit with straight or flared skirt.

THREE WOOL KNIT pieces that add up to an ensemble suit-able for town or traveling. Merino pindot knit suit has solid color overblouse that matches lining, collar and edging of three-button jacket. By Aled Originals; in gold or merengo with cocoa. At Town & Country Fashions, 4129 Long Beach Blvd.

ON FASHION bandwagon, left, a two-piece Italian knit in earthy tones of beige and clay. A touch of now: hem bands that circle jacket and skirt; gold buttons that march down jacket, double-file. An Amalfi Import; at Harris Aire, 4260 Atlantic Ave.

Suits Do a Double-Take

Fall costumes will be doing double duty, day and night.

Looking for all the world like two-piece dresses, many feature tunic-length jackets that double as overblouses. They cover sleeveless dresses that go solo after five.

Longer jackets are often tied with a soft tie sash, but are cut so the belt is optional.

Still another fashion double-take: the belted jackets are often collarless — making them ideal for accessorizing with either gay scarves, bold jewelry or fur accents.

Fancy Leg Work

Hosiery for fall has a new look of color.

There's an emphasis on pale pastels—such as misty golds, greys and apricots, as well as a line-up of deeply-shaped tones of orange-reds, magenta tones and brown to complement fall's exciting palette.

By 'Word of Mouth'--the New Look for Fall Makeup

Beauty experts are doing an about face with makeup changes to keep pace with new clothes colors.

Waning is the wide hairdo, gone is the off-beat, no color look for lips; in are fresh, new hairstyles and bright new lipsticks.

Here are some of the new looks to look for:

* * * *

EYES HAVE IT for fall with paler shadows of misty blue, smoked violet, jewel green, applied in wedge shapes.

Here's how. Start at inner corner of lid, running up from eye to brow, then slanting down to outer corner. Experts say the new shadow shape gives illusion of natural depth to eyes, a new slenderness to the bridge of the nose.

* * * *

THE WORD OF MOUTH is that off-beat, no color lips have gone out of style. In their place: vibrant new lipstick tones—poppy pinks, vermillions, clovery mauves that respond beautifully to grey-lavender eye shadows.

For that happy new look: a lift at the corners, painted on by brush, naturally, in a shape planned on a smile.

* * * *

AND ABOUT FACES, there's a new "neutrality pact" that calls for a faint film of color touched on by foundation — beige with some rosiness, cream with a slice of peach.

This to go with the new soft, not-to-be-pinned-down shades in clothes that shy away, becomingly, from over-intensity.

The new touch of mystery in 1961 faces: eyebrows, sometimes obscured by versions of the new down-drafted, one-sided coiffures, this season casual —but smooth and unfussed.

'Kookie' Mood for Sleepwear

"Kookie" look in fall sleepwear spreads from juniors and teens down to little girls' sizes. Stripes are crazy and colorful, plaids are bold; clash multicolors pair with solids.

Stylings include tunic-like tops over lean pants, and flairing tent tops or tent shirts. Pajamas with bermuda or capri pants come with "espresso" coats slit halfway up each side.

Mainbocher: 'Smarty Smart' Look Outdated

Few of us women can afford a Mainbocher label in our wardrobe. But the designer's advice on how to be chic is free for all.

Says the Chicago-born Mainbocher: "Simplicity and lack of clutter are still my lode star and my compass."

To Mainbocher, clothes should not make a woman look "desperate for attention." They should not make her look "smarty smart — that senseless false chic which today more than ever is not only old-fashioned, but indeed out of fashion altogether."

* * * *

The same heel height showed on black satin evening pumps, too.

One Mainbocher innovation which every woman may want to adopt is the satchel-size evening bag. Same fabric as the costumes, they ranged from black broadtail to embroidered satins.

Big Year: Big Tops Big Hems

IT'S THE BIG THINGS that count—like a huge collar, right, making fashion news on this two-piece dress. Loose-fitting top skims over trim skirt; deep sleeves cut short at elbows. B. H. Wragge fashions silhouette into hedge green, saddle or palomino pink checkered air boucle. At Buffums' Marina and Downtown stores.

BIG HEMS are making fashion news. Here's one version: the "A" line by Phyllis DeTrans for Georgette. Black wool worsted shapes up as casual dress with narrowed shoulders, widened skirt. Three-quarter sleeves have detachable white cuffs; big buttons march single file down front. At Walker's, Fourth Street and Pine Avenue.

HOW TO BE A KNOCKOUT

Hats Pack Big Fashion Wallop!

Speeding along with the jet age, pretty hats are available in the stores for the special convenience of the woman who travels, wants to look well-groomed at all times and likes to travel light.

Today because so many beautiful, flattering hats are made of crushable materials, they can be easily compressed and packed into one small "carry-on" hatbox without losing their shape or freshness.

A SURVEY of business women and entertainers who are generally in transit from one city to another reveals that they are able to carry from three to five packable hats in a 14-inch hatbox; such as a tailored suit hat, a dressy hat for evening, a pretty, all-purpose cover-up for schedules that don't leave time for the hairdresser.

Sometimes a small beach hat and an extra afternoon hat for daytime drama can be included.

Bosoms Will Be Back in '62, Says Authority

By GAY PAULEY
UPI Women's Editor

NEW YORK (UPI)—The fashion pendulum is winging back to the fitted look. By 1962, bosoms will be back, says a young business woman whose job is forecasting styles at least one year ahead.

"By fall of 1962, there will be a definite fit through the waistline and shoulders," said Nancy Hawes who, at 32, is division sales promotion manager for the world's largest raw cotton-to-finished fabric mills.

"Bosoms in other words will be back," she said. "And we'll see a lot of the empire waistline again.

"After several seasons of the sleeveless look, for both winter and summer, sleeves are coming back. They'll be long and rather tight. Look for them also to reach to the wrist again. We'll also be seeing more collars.

"Hemlines generally will stay the same. Or, if they go anywhere, they'll go down slightly. I don't see how they can get any shorter."

* * * *

MRS. HAWES said that by spring, 1961, colors will have moved from the bold of '61 to softened shades of blue, blue-green, green, pink and red.

Spotting the trend is Mrs. Hawes' job because she coordinates all fabrics used in the fashion advertising of her company (Dan River Mills). The ads are planned a year in advance, so if she isn't a jump ahead of trends she could have her company out on the proverbial limb.

She also keeps track of news in the men's and children's wear fields.

"Men are ahead for a blue year," she said. "Colors for the sportswear in '62 will be away from the madras, or murky tones, and into brighter oranges, yellows, blues and blue-greens.

"As for children's clothes, every season they get a little more like the grownups."

HOW DOES Mrs. Hawes play her guessing game accurately?

"I read the trade papers, talk to leaders in the clothing industry, talk to fabric editors, attend color clinics, work with a designer right in the garment district," she said.

She also operates on the belief that fashions run in seven to 10-year cycles.

"The pendulum swings as far as it can in one direction and then swings back," she said. "The silhouette for women got about as loose as it could; now it is reverting to fit."

* * * *

MRS. HAWES, a graduate of Smith College, Northampton, Mass., began her fashion career in retailing at a New York specialty shop, migrated to the editorial department of one of the fashion magazines, and then to the fabrics field.

In three years with the mill, she has visited every major city in the United States because part of her job is working with retail stores on advertising campaigns featuring her company's fabrics.

I asked whether she ever had been wrong about a fashion — say for instance predicting a long life for the chemise only to have it die suddenly.

"I wasn't with the company when the chemise came in," she said.

"Whew! I got out of that one."

'Little Coats' Make Big Splash

Handsome "little" coats are proving to be great coverups for skirts, slacks or dresses—especially here in sunny California.

Cause for note are unusual fabrics—lush brushed wools, the almost-real fur patterns, also deep, bright pile weaves.

Ending at the waist, or dropping to fingertip length, the casual jackets are smartly styled with stitching detail, unusual collars and trims.

Pin Money for Wealth of Fashion

This is a season when every high-style femme will need plenty of pin money.

It's the era of ornate drops, longer "opera" length necklaces, luxurious new simulated pearls—and pins, pins, pins.

Important gliter pins that are frank fakery add genuine fashion to new fall styles.

* * * *

THEY ARE set with blue stones, green stones, nonpearls and rhinestones.

They're worn at the neckline of a suit, dress or coat; at the waistline to accent the long torso look. They're fastened in the center of the bodice or are grouped together on a lapel.

Have your earrings and your necklaces, to be sure. But pin your high fashion hopes on brooches for fall.

ON OR OFF CAMPUS

Flair Needs Schooling

On campus, off campus and in the country, a girl needs a big college wardrobe. Dates and dances, teas and football games all call for special clothes.

Suitcases going back to college this fall will hold the flare in many forms. For dates, it's kept simple, is well cut and often lined.

Other goodies packed carefully in tissue paper will include knickers, the knit dress, stretch pants. Long, hulky tops, of course, and some of those hooded sweaters. Skirts in those bright blanket plaids and some short and flaring skirts.

* * * *

TO WEAR over pants, there are the new rain capes. And slickers, of course. Some are coated in vinyl and some are lined in pile. It depends on the campus and the climate.

Dresses, sweaters, shirts and skirts all take to fringe and ruffles this fall. But not, of course, at the same time.

* * * *

COLORS WINNING top honors on the campus include the orangy shades, russet, emerald green, brassy gold, bright red, some magenta and teal-blue. (They are high fashion shades away from the campus, too, this year.) Gray, beige and plenty of plaids add variety to the scene.

Coeds have always worn clothes in layers to some extent. Usually, the arrangements were artless. This year, the many have the layers designed for each other. An example is the sweater worn with knickers and a plaid skirt that buttons down the front. All are color co-ordinated, of course.

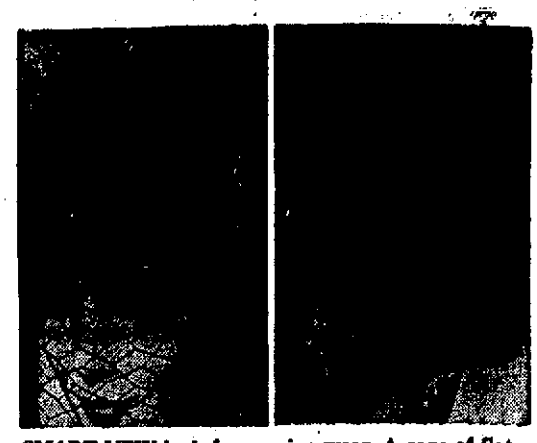

Fashion Goes Fur-ocious

MINK TAKES to cashmere, left, on a clutch coat of beige or bamboo. Milium lining gives additional warmth. From Butler Bros., Lakewood Shopping Center.

FUR FLIES on Lilli Ann's fabulous chinchilla wool wrap coat, sketched at right. Double-tiered natural blue fox collar detaches, solos as shrug. In peacock, magenta or green; at The Columbia, 112 Pacific Ave., and Lakewood Center.

SMART NEW look for evening wear. A cage of flattering net by Carnegie . . . a ruffled flair of tulle by Sally Victor.

THIS YEAR—NO MISFITS

Fashion Cuts Wide Swath

For many a season America's forgotten women of fashion have been the middle-aged, the wide in girth, the slim of purse.

But not so this year—on the first two counts, anyway. Not much has been done to help the lady with slim purse strings—but it's definitely a year for the lady with a well-padded figure.

New long casual lines are waist-slimming and the new swingy, bias-cut skirts provide plenty of hip room—sit-down room, too.

* * * *

IN FACT, designers of some of Seventh Avenue's sexiest clothes, this season have given well-endowed matrons a break. Take Cuban-born Luis Estevez, for instance.

In his line are included long-bodied dresses suitable for over-weights; soft chiffons and bias-cut crepes for mature figures; also three-tiered color effects for too-tall girls.

And he's taken the husband-less miss into account, too, with zippers moved from the traditional spinal area to the side shoulder.

Now she can zip up in back without slipping a disc.

CRISPY tailored gold and silver metallic shirtwaist dresses are designer Larry Aldrich's idea of the right costume for cocktails. A mature woman could wear one without feeling like the star in a Las Vegas night club act.

Scrawny collar bones—a dead giveaway of a woman's age—have been covered by many of fashion's sex-appeal artists. To make up for the modesty: plunging necklines to the waist in back.

Harry Frechtel is another designer who believes in roomy, slightly flaring skirts for figure flattery. He tops these with little coats and suits featuring tiny notched collars or shoulder-framing stoles.

Black, guaranteed to reduce an ample figure to a mere shadow, is much on the fashion scene this season, too.

All in all, the dresses are romantic. And what woman is too old, too wide or too poor for that?

Look Expectingly Chic

This is the year to be expectingly fashionable.

"Free from the body" shapes, pyramiding coats, blousing, bubbling and flaring silhouettes, big face-framing necklines are the style.

And designers have easily adapted these Paris-born lines into the prettiest maternity fashions imaginable.

* * * *

CORDUROY, proven favorite of the maternity wardrobe, is handled with new respect. High fashion colors, exotic prints, velvety pinwales appear in newsy silhouettes for at-home, street and after-five wear.

Tops swing free, as they always have, but look especially fashionable for fall '61. Select them in felt, corduroy or broadcloth — and interchange with a variety of slim-appearing skirts and tapered pants.

You'll find the current look of sportswear translates well into maternity idiom . . . double knit jerseys in little separates, "kookie tops," even stretch pants.

* * * *

THERE IS news in the "basic" dress. Interpretations of the flared princess silhouette will delight the fashion-conscious mother-to-be.

Coat dresses are versatile wardrobe additions — for street wear now, indoors later.

Elegantly tailored costumes look best with big, face-framing hats; jewelry that draws attention to the top. Stay away from "itsy-bitsy" millinery. Invest in frankly fake pins and earrings . . huge and dazzling.

Remember that, at this time, the eye is better than the yardstick.

See Spots? It's a Furry Season

Among the fashion fancies that have lasted several seasons is the preference for spotted furs. According to many designers, this, too, is the Year of the Cat.

The furs—both McCoy and animal fakery—are used extensively as belt material, for huge collars, cuffs on coats and suits, sometimes even dresses.

Newest of all: edging around hemlines.

For those who like the slightly snobbish understatement, precious fur as lining in coats and jackets is considered in.

Ring Around the Collar

Stand-away necklines are stronger than ever, notably with shallow shawl or narrow revers, also collarless, and with standing band collars.

These bring into prominence various stoles and scarves to match the wool of the suit. Small fur trims find favor in much the same manner as on coats.

The Look of '61: Fits and Flares

EVER IN GOOD TASTE, smart shirtwaist by Julia Miller with handsome one-button neckline plunge. In lush raspberry or black, literally irons in the wash. From Foreman and Clark, Broadway at Pine Avenue.

FRINGE BENEFITS from Lanz: deft touches of self-fringe delineating oval neckline and sleeveless arm beauty of slim silhouette. Artful shaping is in whisper-weight pink or black wool with mohair thread. At Bobby's Sportswear, 136 Pine Ave.

White Is Right Teamed With Fur

There'll be a flurry of white this winter — especially in smart coverups.

White coats, so important last spring, have added a new dividend for fall with smart fur trims—especially large and small collars of leopard.

Other fur accents: deep hued mink, black fluffy fox and other luxurious pelts.

Fur 'Necklace' Adds Dash of Sophistication

Most accommodating fashion for fall and winter is the fur necklace. It goes everywhere and with (almost) anything. The touch of fur at the neckline is just what the designers call it — a necklace; a graceful curve of fox, mink — or whatever, to add a dash of sophistication to your wardrobe.

Usually worn as a costume accent, this bit of handsome "jewelry" can go to your head as well as your throat. Some varieties can be neatly circled to form a pert hat.

Available now at better department, women's stores and furriers, you can, if you have the makings, have your own necklace created by your furrier from an old stole or coat. Or, you just might be able to fashion your own — although don't practice on a good piece of fur unless you're sure of your prowess with scalpel, needle and thread.

Yacht Shoe Has Grip; Wont Slip

Now a girl can feel as safe at sea as on shore—at least so far as footing is concerned.

There's a new shoe on the market that comes in white canvas with nautical blue trim.

The "safety" feature: Soles are deeply slashed in a waved pattern for safety on wet surfaces.

SETTING HIGH altitude record for skirt hems, this campus dress is called a shortee-jumper. On warm fall days it's worn as shown. Later it can team up with blouses, sweaters.

WHY GROW OLD?
Ever Since Eve, Weight Has Worried Women

By Josephine Lowman

Ever since Eve bit into the apple, wriggled into a fig leaf and discovered that it was a bit tight across the hips, women have been worrying about their weight. They have followed all sorts of diets, crazy ones as well as sensible ones.

It took Adam a long time to catch up with the reducing bug, but now millions of men have joined the calorie counting brigade. Sadly, many of the boys who so long scoffed at the general inability of women to stick to a diet are not doing much better themselves.

* * * *

MANY experts agree that they psychological need for eating pleasure is one of the main reasons for diet breaking. The aesthetic satisfaction derived from food is important, just as nutrition is. Few people can be deprived of its pleasure for long. Practically any determined dieter can stick to a restricted food intake for a little while, whether it be a fad diet or well-balanced but rather dull, restricted menus, but sooner or later the craving for taste treats becomes irresistible. Therefore, the weight so painfully lost is quickly regained and the dieter has the whole thing to do over again — and again — and again.

The permanent maintenance of an attractive, slender figure is not a "sometime" thing. It calls for permanent changes in eating habits. The method, which does lead to permanent control, is to learn the calorie values of foods, eat a well-balanced diet, but make some slight changes in your eating habits. These slight changes can result in substantial calorie saving without impairing your enjoyment of food, and will assure you a steady loss of weight.

* * * *

USE HERBS and spices to replace the thick cream sauces and gravies; use the broiler instead of the skillet; eat unsugared or fresh fruits instead of rich desserts, eat smaller helpings, drink powdered, fat free milk instead of whole milk, and take advantage of one of the low-caloried salad dressings.

Stylist Caruso Declares Bill of Rights for Hair

From hair stylist Jack Caruso comes a "Bill of Rights for Hair." Here is his declaration for hair care:

"Every hair on your head has a right to the gentle touch. To pull hair or to roll it tightly is to kill it. Tugging breaks the interior of a hair into a million pieces.

"Every head of hair has a right to a wash when it's dirty. Some hair needs washes two or three times a week. It should be washed when it loses its sheen and begins to separate.

"The ends of every head of hair getting a home permanent have a right to be saturated with oil for one half inch to prevent the live-wire look. That is, to keep the ends from standing up."

There's a whale of a lot of corduroy being shown in fall fashions — in all types — from pin-wales to wide-wales.

With new around-the-clock go-power it can be found in the most exciting or matter-of-fact places — on vacations, at the office, out to lunch, in smart shops, on mountain trails, at the theater or on the golf course.

In suits, for instance, there are a wealth of wide wale Chanel types. Often designed in soft autumn colors (cashmere, walnut and pecan), they can be dressed up or down, depending on accessories.

PROBLEMS, PROBLEMS

NOW, It's a Scarcity of 'Gal's Best Friend'

NEW YORK (UPI)—A report from the Jewelry Industry Council will take the sparkle out of your day. There is a scarcity of diamonds.

Not the little ones, but the two carat and up size where they really qualify as a girl's best friend at $4,000 a stone or more, depending on gem quality.

"The market supply of two carrat diamonds and larger is thin," was the way Albert Hase, council president, put it.

* * * *

HASE'S organization represents some 3,000 manufacturers, wholesalers, and retailers in the precious and costume jewelry field. His information is based on talks with four of the largest diamond buyers in the United States, which each year takes about 75 per cent of the world's production.

Hase listed these reasons for the scarcity of the large stones, some of which will sell at $250,000 by the time they are in the 20-carat size.

The demand from Western European buyers has increased sharply in recent months, because of growing prosperity.

Europeans regard the diamond as stable in value, while the currency of a country might be subject to sudden devaluation. And, fears of war have increased purchases because diamonds are an easy asset to transport to any part of the world.

Hase said the marriage rate abroad was only a minor factor in the demand —the American custom of a girl getting an engagement ring from her fiance is just beginning to catch on.

* * * *

IN THE United States, however, more brides are getting engagement rings. Hase said 83 per cent of 1961's brides will wear engagement rings, compared with 76 per cent in 1949—a post-war year he picked at random.

Engagement rings use 52 per cent of the diamond supply in the United States. Other rings account for 24 per cent; diamond-set watches account for another 14, and earrings, clips and incidental jewelry use the rest.

"The larger diamond has become the engaged girl's status symbol," Hase said. "In modern, big offices she can't very well bring her young man around to show him off. But there's nothing to stop her from flashing that diamond."

Her Hair Will Glisten--After Dark

"Dashing simplicity" . . . "unfussed" . . . "the carefully careless look" . . .

All these contribute to the season's cliches on current hair styles.

As carefree and casual as these coiffures may be for daytime wear, they can pose a problem for after-dark dates that call for real glamor.

THE MOST imaginative spirits have devised simple ways of fastening a beautiful big pin in a deep curl. This new trend toward jewels in the hair has been spurred on by the new sleek hairdos.

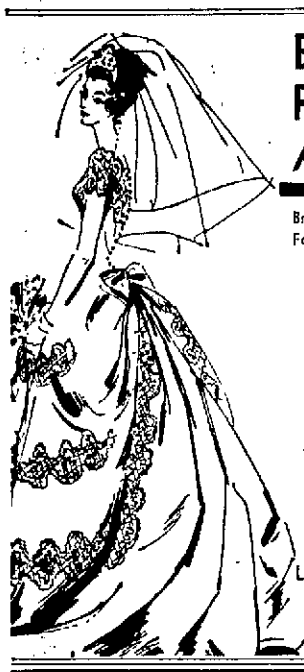

Jeweled crowns are worn for more formal occasions and many long locks are held back from the face with gay, whimsical floral pins.

It's a new trick that takes no time at all. Just take an ordinary hair comb and fasten the pin to it either permanently with glue or temporarily with light or dark thread, depending on your hair color.

Curve-Conscious Corsets Underline Fall's Figure

To underline fall's feminine, curve-conscious fashions, newest foundations are controlling, but also light, sheer and lovely, from the merest wisp of a girdle to the corselet that shapes the fullest figure.

A number of the new brassieres are molded rather than sewn, and their cups are covered with a stretch lace or a soft tricot for a smooth, seamless line under knits, crepes and other soft, clinging fabrics.

* * * *

MANY BANDEAUX have underwired cups, and many long line brassieres feature princess styling, to shape a lifted, rounded line for the overblouse or gently fitted suit.

Bra-lettes generally are designed to fit well over the curse of the hiplines. Some cinch, others ease the waist.

Decolletages vary in foundations as in outer fashions. There are brassieres with wide-set straps, low-cut and strapless brassieres and corselets, and backless foundations.

* * * *

PULL-ON PANTIE girdles have extra controls — curving panels reinforcing or set into the basic garment, for a slim look under closely pleated or gently flaring skirts.

Girdles with dipping waistline are plentiful, for wear with blousons, and high-rising styles are meant for the more body-conscious clothes.

Your Skin Will Betray Your Mood

When you're tired, worried or in a mood to curl your lip at the world, your skin will betray you every time.

With a dismal sort of sympathy it reflects your depressed state by turning faintly grey or accenting tiny lines that normally have the grace to remain hidden. It's at moments like these that a woman loses faith and begins thinking she looks her age . . . a devastating conclusion that shouldn't be given a second thought.

A quick stimulating skin treatment designed to restore natural, healthy color and moisturize lines into hiding, is urgently recommended for the low in spirit. We call this an Instant Ice-Cream Facial—and here it is:

Chill a jar of moisture base on the bottom shelf of your refrigerator. Although this light, greaseless cream feels refreshingly cool when applied at room temperature, chilling lends it a gentle astringent action that stirs the blood, brings vitality back to the skin.

* * * *

TO USE: apply the cream generously over the entire face and neck. Work it into the skin with firm upward, outward motions of the hands, paying special attention to the areas that seem to be dry, flaky or faintly lined.

Massage your skin for five minutes or so, then remove the excess cream with tissues. If you leave a light dewy film on the surface, this can be used as a restorative base under loose or compressed powder—or as a moisturizing night treatment that works wonders while you sleep.

The Wonderful Fit of Knit

One, Two, Three Knits at a Time ...Go Everywhere

SMART GO-TOGETHERS from Bev's Sportswear, 5033 Hazelbrook Ave., Lakewood Center, come in three parts: jacket, striped top, thin skirt. Green and gold alternate with black for the blouse, then outline black jacket. By Gay Gibson.

CLASSIC KNIT that goes everywhere. One-piece California designer original has broad and beautiful horizontal stripes, spaghetti leather belt. In autumn shades, available at Nahas Department Store, 3008 Bellflower Blvd.

Bands and Bows

Headbands never really go out of style. This fall, style with flat bow on top and another with fringed bow. Autumnal colors, of course.

Fashion Stretch

Stretch gloves, longer and more style conscious, make their mark in coordinated sets, consisting of gloves paired to hats, hatlets, handbags, caps, belt and/or boots.

Not Extravagant

Use that expensive perfume. Hoarding it permits time for evaporation, and no one benefits from the lovely fragrance.

Spirit-Lifter

A clean, fresh blouse does wonders for morale—and to your appearance. Keep blouses immaculate and well ironed.

Curls Swirl--but Smoothly, With Less Bubble for Fall

Fashion talk goes to a woman's head—with a new hairdo.

All this news about latest fashion dictates makes a gal think about a head-ier subject, her coiffure. She knows that chic means means more than just smart clothes. It goes from head to toes.

So let's go to the top of the style picture and hear some high-level thoughts on hair:

This is the year of the pouf. Hair is brushed softly out from the head—but with a minimum of bouffance. Controlled half-curls, swirls and side tilts make the difference.

* * * *

ONE STYLE swishes the hair gently back from the forehead and one ear, then invisibly anchors it at the back. A few semi-curls swing far out in the other direction.

Another shaping takes an S-curve, with all the hair flopped to one side. Control comes with deft brushing, a little anchorage and a touch of spray.

Or, if you prefer, try this one: hair parted low on the side, smoothed over the crown and uplifted into half-curls at ear level.

* * * *

NEW YORK'S Jack Caruso, has created the "Jack Thatch," a style supposedly imitating President Kennedy's thatch.

For this, Caruso cuts the hair short in back, long in front with strands brushed down the cheeks in front of the ears. ("It's not authentic, unless the back of the ears stick out.") Topping all is a halo-size roll of hair at the top of the head.

Coiffures Americana tells of the "marriage" of hat and hair for '61. Millinery designers and hair stylists have combined talents to create hats that flatter shapes of new coiffures.

This group sees gently full, easy hair shapes, not hugging the head, with some height and bouffancy on top and always winging out at the sides.

* * * *

THREE BASIC styles by Coiffures Americana are the Blouson Coif, the Wing Coif and the Halo Coif.

The Blouson Coif blouses the hair softly through the crown, then drops it dramatically into deep full bangs far above the forehead. Hair indents sharply at the temples into a wave that circles the head. Side hair is ear-tip-length, with ends flipped up and out. A good style for deep cloches or back-of-the-head pillboxes.

In the Wing Coif the hair is smoothed straight back from the forehead into a high dome. Two side wings spread outward, turning into one big sweep towards the cheek. Global hats perch nicely on the brow, framed and balanced by the side flares.

An angelic circle framing the face is called, appropriately, the Halo Coif. Here a bouffant ruff swirls up and away from the brow. Ear-tip length, its back and sides are gently softened. Perfect for small profile hats or tilting dinner hats.

* * * *

YOU DON'T have to worry about hat smashing these new "do's," says Coiffures Americana. Today's hairdo's are elastic enough to bounce back into shape with a little recombing and a bit of spray.

But there are two words for blondes this season. Don't be. At least that's what some beauty experrts say. They claim blondes are out of fashion. But new "instant" color rinses will help natural mousey hair owners (or on-purpose pale-heads) step right out at the head of the fashion line.

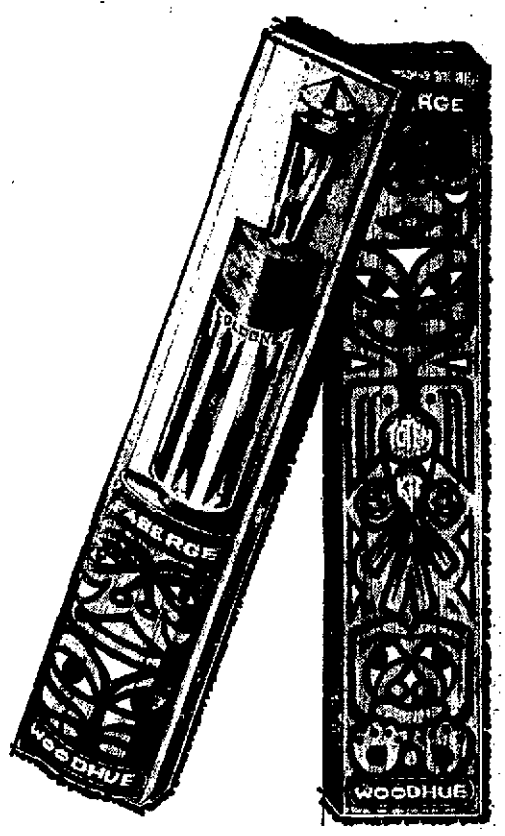

A MINIMUM OF POUF . . . swirls that are casual, but controlled. That's the new look designed to turn all heads for fall. This coiffure and many other up-to-now creations are featured at new Crowning Glory Beauty Salon at Cal Stores, Carson Street and Paramount Avenue, Lakewood.

Arm's Length

The collector's wrist with a grand total of too many bangles and charmless dangles is being replaced by a single big charm on a rigid cuff bracelet.

The reason: a mass movement toward shorter sleeves on coats, suits and dresses, putting bracelets in the limelight.

Suits Shape Up for Fall . . . and the Wearin' Is Easy

This season's suits often give a two-for-the-money fashion bonus that adds up to an all-in-one costume look.

Many have integrated component parts—matching coat with dress or skirt and overblouse, perhaps a detachable ascot or stole, often a ringlet of fur that takes to other ensembles.

Popular among silhouettes is the curve-conscious jacket and fluid-flared skirt, sometimes in partnership with a capey coat. Cutaway jackets and modified versions that arch slightly in front, dip slightly in back, bid for top priority.

FLAT KNIT COSTUME gets approving grin from Mr. Pumpkin and from passers-by, too. Rounded slashes at lower edges and bold pocket flaps accent loose cardigan. Sheath beneath has soft rounded neckline, perfect for showing off jewelry. In autumn shades at Gibson Style Shop, 501 E. Ocean Blvd. Designer's credit: Lofties by Lawrence.

EASY-GOING is this two-piece flat knit by Kimberley. Slim, trim skirt is topped by belted-in-leather cardigan. Mohair and wool, ensemble makes natural travel companion, putting nary a wrinkle in your on-the-go plans. At Fashionette, 3500 E. Fourth St.; in grenadine pink.

Sweaters: New Stretch for Autumn Wardrobes

Sweaters this fall give wardrobes the greatest s-t-r-e-t-c-h in fashion history.

There are sweaters for wearing to sports events, to the office, to a movie — even to a ball!

There are sweaters to wear as a blouse, as a vest or as a coat. They come in every length from cropped tops to below the hips — with sleeves ranging from none to extra-long; with necklines that are decollete or hug the chin.

THEY SPORT exciting trims of fringe, beads, appliques, fur, pompons, buttons 'n bows. They are solid, striped, checked, even floral printed.

They may have collars that convert to hoods, are as large as a sailor's or form a bedding band of fur.

In the knit itself, sweaters range from very fine cotton styles to enormous loops of wooly wool—and, of course, including the wonderful easy-care knits that may appear in many guises.

It's Button, Button---but Why?

Research into the history of fashion reveals several versions of the same basic story. Tailored garments had their origin in England. Clothing was designed originally for convenience and comfort. But chivalry and horsemanship had their influence, too. A man riding on a horse could not be hampered or restricted by his clothes at a crucial moment when he might need to pull a swift saber or a pistol from his holster. To facilitate a fast draw with the right hand from a scabbard at the left, men's coats were designed to button from left to right.

* * * *

MODEST women of those early days wore skirts designed to cover the ankle . . . almost. Because of their long, heavy skirts, ladies found it more comfortable to ride a horse side-saddle. Stirrups were on the left flank of the horse. To protect the lovely ladies from cold and disheveling winds, clothing designers made women's coats so that they buttoned from right to left. Consequently, the winds could not separate the two side-fronts of the coat.

While these reasons seem of no importance today, we are the victims of convention. Men's and women's coat designs have been handed down from one generation to another. It would be a venturesome designer who would violate this time-honored rule, says the Institute. And would men and women accept a change? We wonder!

Wine for Color

With all the sparkle of a glass of fine wine come two important shades for fall—dubonnet blond and dubonnet red.

In suits, dresses and costumes—these colors give a warm glow and depth that's flattering to every woman, especially when interpreted in fall's luxury fabrics and silhouettes.

Flair in Maternity Wear

Designers have taken full advantage of the excellent adaptability of fall '61 silhouettes to the mother-to-be's needs.

Flared and flounced styles, pleated skirts, tunics, casual two-piece knits, coat-dresses, fluid crepes all are suited to the maternity wardrobe, and all are present in fall lines.

* * * *

COLLAR AND sleeve interest, long a standby of maternity styling, now is joined by back interest — especially apparent in draped black crepes with back panels, streamers, fringe trims.

For leisure wear, stretch pants look newest, and are joined by other types of tapered pants.

Liberal use of color provides still more fashion importance for maternity wear.

SLIP-ON STYLING comes from the boys! Stride Rite makes it in nylon velvet—girl-adored forr its rich look; mother-approved for its easy cleanability. Smooth leather vamp for added style; smooth fit for growing feet. From Children's Bootery, 4346 Atlantic Ave., and Los Altos Shopping Center.

New Fashion Is Afoot in Boot Styles

Boots are moving up—and down again—in teenage fashions for fall.

They're UP in popularity; down at the ankle, giving a boot look to the newest leather casual flats.

The discerning teenager finds a great variety of colors in brushed and smooth leather casual boots, with some styles also featuring grained leather.

* * * *

DEEP BROWNS and olive greens are frequently seen in smooth leather boot-shoes, while graphite grays, golden browns and bright reds in nappy brushed leathers also attract the teenage eye.

Forecast: 'Fur Flurries' for All-Weather Coats

The fashion forecast for fall rainwear is "fur flurries."

New water-repellent coats strengthen their claim to fair weather importance with fur or fake-fur linings and trims.

When the lining and/or collar aren't fur or fake fur, they're likely to be pile. Simulated shearling and the new pile that looks like curly lamb lead the way, lining and trimming cotton suede, poplin, corduroy and wool.

* * * *

FOR A lavish look there are rain-repellent coats of velvet or velveteen. These are designed for sun and stars, too.

Such classic styles as the trench coat and officer's coat are joined by cape shapes and fit-and-flare silhouettes.

Lamined, or foam-backed, coats move up a notch in the rainwear field, since lamination makes more fabrics adaptable to flare shaping.

Sculptured Mink Slinks and Swirls to Fit the Figure

Mink is the word in fur fashions for '61.

Mink in all shades—from pure white to deep, rich brown.

And in all shapes—jackets, capes and stoles; wraps that look like trench coats, one-piece coats that look like two-piece ensembles and three-quarter length car coats that put elegance into the driver's seat.

* * * *

THE NEWEST silhouette, whatever its course, is sculptured to compliment the wearer's figure. No more plastered look or enveloping concealment.

Collars are either big or little, but full enough to frame the face. Fullness shows up again in the sleeves, sometimes ending at the elbow and tapering to the wrists.

Hemlines are often slightly fuller, and many of the coats have wider skins worked horizontally. Fluffy contrasting borders, as well as contrasting collar and cuffs, are definitely trends.

* * * *

SAGA MINK, lovely import from Scandinavia, will be a headliner this year. Its wide range of colors, from dark ranch mink to the rarest, palest mutations, make unusual offerings for fur designs.

For instance, Leo Ritter takes this mink in pure white and turns it into a polo coat of dramatic impact.

Ollie of Gintel-Spaulder achieves a look seldom seen in mink with his three-quarter car coat, then tops it with a matching pastel mink hat with crocheted wool trim.

Jackets and capes in a wide range of mink shades come from the House of Revillon. Here, too, you find the two-tone interpretation in a moonstone otter coat with large mink envelope collar and in a leather jacket accented by fur at the hipline.

* * * *

THE ULTIMATE in trench coats comes from Laurence Kay. He has taken black mink and translated it into new smartness with high pointed collar, pouch pockets and optional sash to change the coat from formal to sports wear.

Ben Kahn works wider skins horizontally, emphasizes shoulders and tapers silhouettes toward the hem in an "oval" look. He departs from the mink line with broadtail jackets and tailored trotteurs, sable and chinchilla wraps.

Leo Ritter also shows furs other than mink. He has a big interest in natural seal, Persian lamb and Russian broadtail, using the latter to fashion a sumptuous cocktail costume. He likes the bi-color feeling in fur, too, and combines mutation or white mink with sable, or creates a long cape (divided at the waistline) of two shades of sheared beaver.

Unusual shaping in furs shows up particularly in coats and jackets which have the skins worked vertically at the top and horizontally below, or vice versa for a two-piece effect. Or through diagonal chevron and swirled lines or box-pleated flares.

Schuss, She CAN SKI in High Style

Knee length, hip length or waist length . . . rugged and bold, near and smart—you name it—ski wear this season takes to the slopes extra-warmly and extra-colorfully.

Parkas go to new lengths, many will be up to 36 inches in length. They feature tubular, zig-zag, block, geometric and brick quilted effects.

New is the ¾ quarter length "petit poule" tweed coat, with its 3-button fly-front, belt, and slanted pockets.

* * * *

HIP-LENGTH suede coats with fleece lining will be an important fashion asset. A way out variety of furs trim and line many outer garments in a variety of styles. Making a grand entry for warmth and comfort are laminated knits.

Sweater clasic make a strong returns. Pullover will predominate with zip-front cardigan styles making a close second choice. Destined to be the season's favorite is the polo-type, bold sweater.

. . . Foods NOT Only Way to Man's Heart

By GAY PAULEY
UPI Women's Editor

NEW YORK (UPI)—They say the way to a man's heart is through his stomach. Lori Till, fashion designer, is not so sure.

"I think," said Miss Till, "that the important thing is not what's cooking but how the husband regards his wife. He should think, 'Well, even if she can't boil water, she's pretty.' "

Miss Till is one of the many voices current in the fashion industry determined we women should look as glamorous at home as Marlene Dietrich. It does not discourage her, or the others, that the average homemaker's life is spent more at the kitchen range than on a chaise lounge.

"I think," said Miss Till, "that home is where the ego gets its important tonic. Nothing in the world . . . can lift a woman's drooping spirits, or return her self-confidence, like putting on an at-home costume that makes her look exciting, buoyant, sparkling. And nothing can flatten her spirits like wearing a drab housedress or a dull robe. Or, the duster—that shapeless wonder!"

* * * *

MISS TILL'S latest offering toward glamour is the lounge dress, which she said she originated a year ago as an outgrowth of the beach dress. This fall, however, the lounge dress has caught on with several designers and is THE thing for lolling.

The lounge dress is made in street or ankle length, and usually is a simply cut garment, sleeveless, collarless, unbelted and designed to wear without much underneath. Miss Till dresses it up with the use of lush fabrics —washable nylon velvet for instance—and with embroidery, jewel or ruffle trim.

Her fall and winter collection of leisure fashions also includes a group of "mad" clothes for coeds and others-young-in-heart and years.

These include printed calico variations of grandpa's nightshirt, with rows of ruffles at the hem and down the buttoned front; brightly printed coverall copies of a parachutist's jump suit; a dorm warmer, which is a bulky short robe made of sweat shirt material printed in bold florals; and a "Weekender," which can double as a robe or a coat. The last is in a zebra print, of all orlon pile.

* * * *

LORI TILL, a native of New York, had no formal training in design, but gathered a lot of practical experience in sportswear before she joined Raymodes Inc. last April.

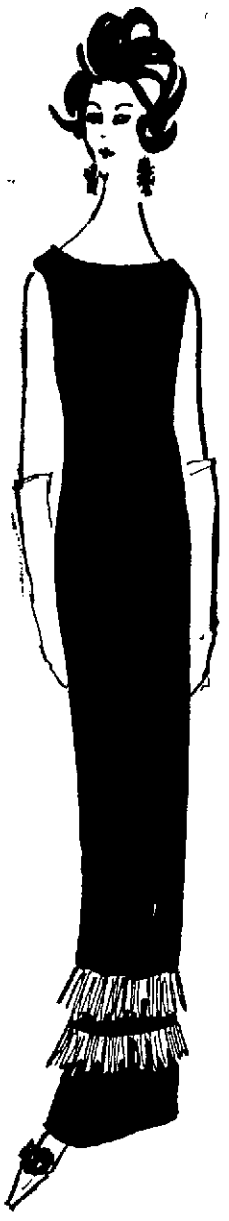

"I've always had this thing about at-home clothes," she said. "Here is where there is room for some exciting, new ideas."

The designer, a tall, striking blonde in her lat 30s, began her career as a John Robert Powers model. She had helped run a dress manufacturing firm and was boss of a sportswear firm, now defunct, before she took her present job.

Miss Till in private life is the wife of Maj. Vernon W. Thomas Jr., a jet test pilot stationed at McGuire Air Force Base in New Jersey. Their two children are Vicki, 12, and Robert, 19. Her son, she said, is a sports car racing fan and pilots a souped-up number which she occasionally borrows to get to Manhattan from their suburban Nnew Rochelle home.

She laughed as she recalled the day recently when she pulled up to pay toll at one of the Parkway booths, and another sports car drew alongside. The driver looked at her and proffered:

"Hey, baby, let's drag."

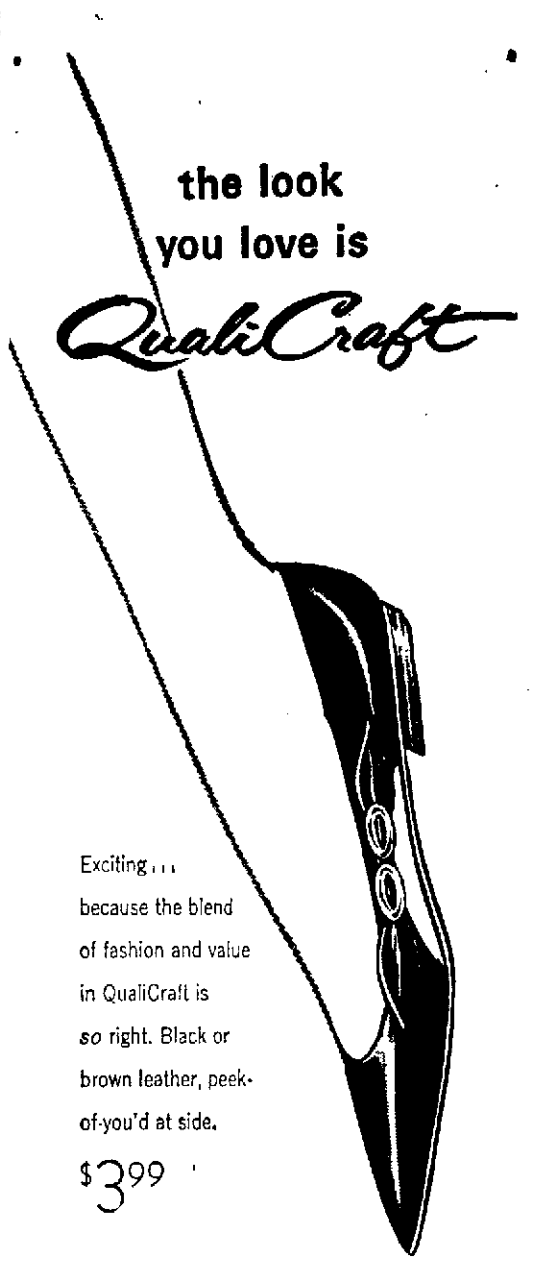

PERFECT for at-home entertaining, a slither of cotton jersey. Shoulders are newly bared; gently scooped neckline invites jewelry. Self-fringe accents narrow skirt. In many colors at La Scarpa, 133 Main St., Seal Beach.

That's a Hat, Lady!

Newest additions to the smart woman's dictionary of hat terms are:

TILT—a new angle on hats, gently slanted to the right. Sometimes the tilt is built in to the brim and the crown remains straight on the head. At others, the crown is draped to a tilt.

CUFF TILT—a flat, folded-up brim that slants to the right. Frequently, the cuff brim is folded against the crown an an angle that tapers and tilts it to the side.

FLARE BRIM—a cloche-type brim, slightly rippled and longer on the right side.

GLOBAL LOOK—a full, rounded beret or crown. Also, a high roller or a cushioned halo, round and full as a balloon tire.

SPACE BLUE—the intense blue of the atmosphere, hundreds of miles above the earth.

CONE CROWN—a peaked crown, rounded at the tip. Sometimes elongated into a CAPSULE. Formed from pleated or petal-like material, it is also known as an ARTICHOKE.

STILL IMPORTANT with 1961 fashions are:

TURBAN—a brimless hat of soft, drapable material giving a wrapped effect. This season, the turban is usually draped high and lower at the right side of the hairline.

BERET—the round, soft crown, usually mounted on a bandeau.

PROFILE HAT—hat slanted to the right, clinging close to the side of the head.

CAP—close-fitting, brimless hat that follows the contour of the head. Shallower, it's a CALOT. Deeper, a CASQUE or HELMET.

TALL TOQUE—high, brimless hat.

BRETON—sailor with a rolled edge. Also the rounder, deeper ROLLER brims.

Dame Fashion Goes on a Fringe Binge

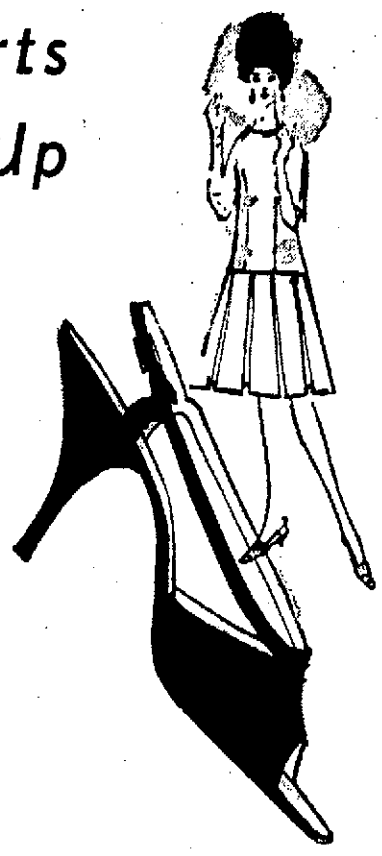

IT'S A YEAR when fringe is swishing everywhere . . . on collars and scarves, around sweaters and crop tops, on hemlines — even on some dresses, from head to toe.

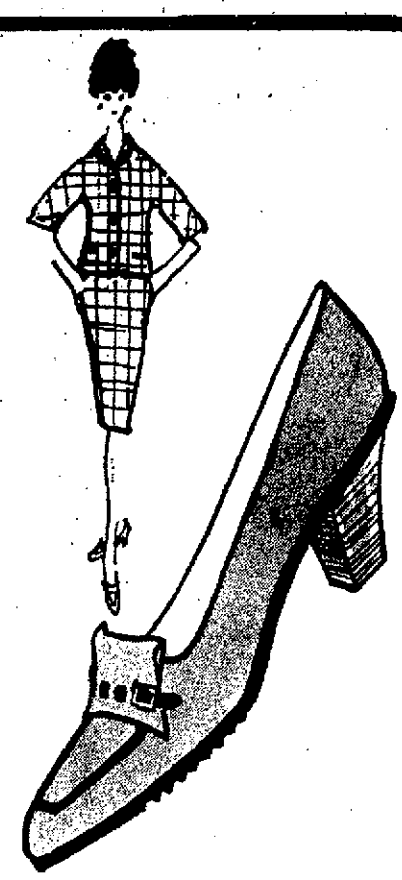

Fall Fashion Starts From the Ground Up

WHERE THE SQUARE TOE is going: everywhere . . . and with everything—city suits, country pants, out to dinner. Here latest toe shape is touched with grosgrain bow. In brown or black, with newest bag shape, long and slender, to match. At C. H. Baker, 325 Pine Ave.

OPEN-AIR SLING is perched gracefully on mid-high heel by Kimel of California. With drape shaping at vamp, "Vanessa" pump is fully cushioned for walking-on-air comfort. In black or partridge brown; handbags to match. At Barnett's Booteries, 207 Pine Ave.

WALK IN FASHION . . . pleasure, too . . . in Red Carpet cushion of comfort. One-half-inch Urethane padding absorbs shock of every step. Shoe has smart stacked heel, chic vamp adornment. Available in wild mink or black. From Tri-Point Foot Relief, 235 E. Fourth St.

Wash 'n Wear Coats High, Wide and . . .

Wash 'n wear is now scoring high in fall outerwear because of a new skillful coordination of shell, lining and trim fabrics.

Scarves and stoles for fall are designed to wrap high and handsomely. Fringed treatment reflects the 30s look.

ITALIAN INFLUENCE shines in Stylepride's new pump . . . in a way it's pleated, roll collared and shaped. Fashioned with high or demi-heels; in black leather or black patent. From Burt's, 335 Pine Ave.

Whimsy A-Foot in '61

Shoe manufacturers have gone all out this fall to provide women with whimsical and pretty slippers to go with the smart, new at-home styles—the tea-timers, hostess pajamas, hostess gowns and lounging ensembles.

Along with jewel-studded open sandals and glamorized thong styles, theer are many imaginative mules.

They are as comfortable as they look impractical, being made of such materials as striped or iridescent silks.

* * * *

BUT THEN, they aren't made for anything but leisure and are more likely to be seen propped up on a sofa than treading the kitchen floor.

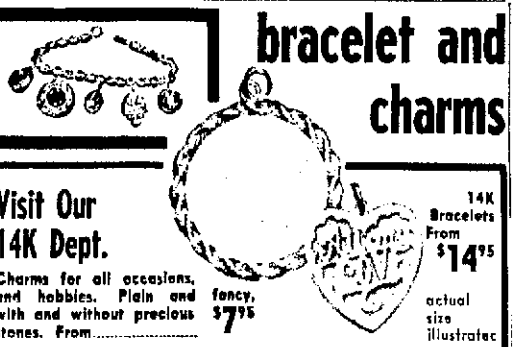

Another favorite: the stretch bootie in a variety of shapes. Often it does live up to its name and comes right up to the ankle, but other times it's cut low as a ballerina slipper.

Materials, too, run the gamut from warm and practical jersey and nylon velvet to gabardine, satin and even lace.

Lookie, It's a 'Kookie' Look for Sleepwear

Conscious of color and conscious of fashion, intimate apparel for fall ranges from romantic to sportsy to "kookie" styles.

Used boldly and interestingly, color lights up lounge and sleepwear, and even slips and petticoats have more color, with emphasis on the softer hues. Color glows in rose and strawberry pink, magenta, blues from soft to royal, clear reds, pale oranges, many greens.

Floral prints bloom in fall lingerie, and there are paisleys, jacquards, stripes and many sportswear-type prints.

* * * *

THE FLARE and the blouson exert a strong influence. Slip fashions flare gently, while petticoats go all out with pleats, flounces, godets. Robes and sleep shifts follow the flare.

Blouson tops are important components for lounging outfits, in partnership with skinny pants.

The muumuu inspires simple sleep shifts and robes, with easy flowing lines.

* * * *

ROMANTIC TREND is evidenced in gowns and robes fashioned of newly elegant miracle fabrics. Ruffles and pleats lend feminine softness.

Sportswear styling reaches its greatest strength in fall lingerie lines. Not only are the styles translated for sleep and lounge wear, but now there are "mix and match" outfits.

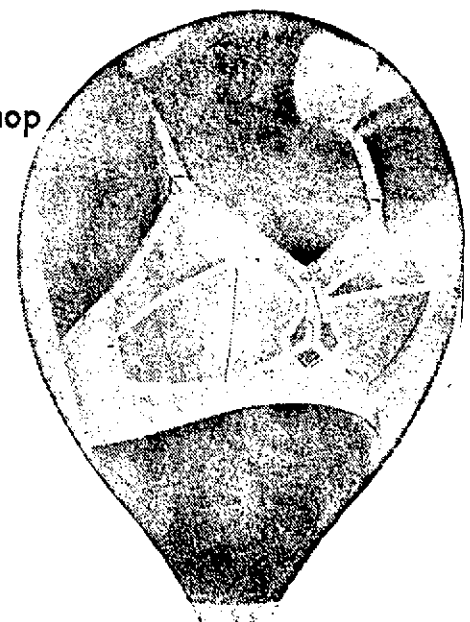

Ruffled sleep shirts come with pinafores and pants for lounging. Vests and cutaway jackets combine with sleep shirts and pants.

* * * *

"KOOKIE" denotes a type of at-ease wear with unique colors, out-of-the-ordinary details. In this category are tent-shaped gowns and robes with bright, imaginative colors and stripes.

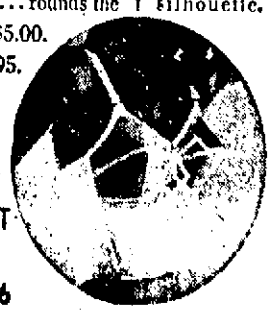

Espresso coats with side slits are kookie-or-not, depending on the coloring. Capes make kookie toppings for sleep ensembles.

Hoods, Hoods

Little Red Riding Hood seems to have created quite a fashion inspiration for fall. Hoods can be found on coats, sweaters, dresses—everywhere.

QUILT-EFFECT patterns smooth calf in three shades of brown, this fall's front-runner fashion color. From new-season dress shoe collection at Leed's, 257 Pine Ave., and Lakewood Center.

NEWS A-FOOT

Stepping Smartly Into Autumn

There's big news a-foot this season. Not only are dress shoes better-looking than ever—they're stepping into new silhouettes.

For instance: the square root to fashion, via new square toes! The captivating crescent toe, rounder, prettier, feminine as all get-out. Sophisticated pointed toes very much in the picture, too.

In fact, there's a toe-type for everyone and for every costume this season.

* * * *

HELS MAKE NEWS, too. The important trend for autumn: little heels with dashing "flare" styling. Elegant wineglass heels are definitely in. Stacked heels are often preferred for daytime wear.

* * * *

AS FOR COLOR, black still leads the list. But not far behind comes the rich brown family — including otter, wild honey and dark brown. Greens and greys are good, and red will be featured in an off-beat spectrum ranging from mulberry to wine.

A hallmark of fall shoe fashion is devastating cobra trim. You'll find this sleek reptile in green, mulberry, otter or grey—often merely suggesting richness at the toe.

There are some unlined styles, but the major emphasis is on softly-lined dress shoes, which offer that walking-on-clouds feeling.

To sum up: new toes, new heel types, repeated contrasts of color and texture —these are the fashion steps to take for fall.

Heels: High in Prestige

If it weren't for poor plumbing in medieval Venice, today's lady of fashion might be wearing flat-heeled shoes!

Four centuries ago, Venetian women wore clogs that added up to 18 inches in height to keep dainty feet high above muddy city streets.

Elizabeth I of England and Louis XIV of France rose above their subjects in high-heeled shoes, which soon became a symbol of artistic birth.

Peasants weren't permitted heels on their shoes!

Flair for Flare: Over and Under

The fall flare has put its stamp of approval on intimate apparel too.

Petticoats take to the flare with bottom godets or bias fullness. Some are stiffened to make firm props for the ready-to-wear flares.

Colors are bright and clear, reflecting important fashion shades. Coorindation between lingerie and foundations is stronger — even including prints.

Color Harmony in Suits, Coats

Colors run rampant in suits, following closely those most popular in coats — with more emphasis on creamy beiges, off-white and blond tones; also on moss and misty greens, taupes and spice.

Cognac, magenta, plum, jade and emerald green, sapphire or royal blues show strength.

Anthracite is a newer name for black, which holds its place. Various shades of browns are definitely increasing in popularity.

Their Magic Is Music

...Long Beach Symphony Readies a Fine New Season of Concerts

Energy, ambition and foresight are three of the prime requirements necessary to raise more than $40,000 each year for good music.

Guaranteeing to provide all of this, plus an added measure of devotion to their cause, are Long Beach Symphony Association and auxiliary organizations, Symphony Guild and Symphonettes.

They will accomplish their goal through ticket sales, contributions and benefits. For 12 days, beginning with an "Overture" coffee hour Monday morning in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lorne Middough, 1121 El Mirador Ave., the story of Long Beach's own orchestra will be told over and over again.

* * * *

THE STORY begins with those pioneers in local community music who met more than 20 years ago to play together under the direction of the orchestra's founder-conductor. Robert Resta. Even with the help of the first president, Dr. Theodore Strang, it took almost two years to arrange for the first concert which was sponsored by the Recreation Commission.

The commission still sponsors the orchestra but now the County of Los Angeles and the Musicians' Association through the Recording Industries Trust Funds also give important financial support. Last season and again this spring, the symphony was the recipient of a substantial grant from the Union Pacific Foundation.

* * * *

FIVE YEARS ago Long Beach was ready for a giant step forward musically. A contributing membership fund was established with the moral and financial backing of such forward looking citizens as Mr. and Mrs. Herman Ridder, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Conrad and Mrs. Rex Hodges and the late Mr. Hodges, and the orchestra began to move into the ranks of important community orchestras.

Under the capable direction of the conductor, Lauris Jones, the season developed from four concerts to

HARRIET WOOD, harpist with Long Beach Symphony Orchestra, holds rapt attention of her youngsters, Marcia and Mark, just as full orchestra does with hundreds of Long Beach children during free concerts each year. In addition to six concerts in regular season, symphony will be heard in seven concerts for children.—(All photos on page by Joe Risinger.)

BUST OF BEETHOVEN stands guard over instruments to be used by Long Beach Symphony Orchestra members when his Eighth Symphony is heard during 1961-62 concert series. Intensive drive for funds to achieve $40,000 goal to support orchestra will begin Monday with coffee hour in Lorne Middough home sponsored by Long Beach Symphony Association.

Women

LONG BEACH 12, CALIF., SUNDAY, SEPTEMBER 24, 1961 SECTION W

BUSINESS CLUBS SPEARHEAD WEEK

Nation To Salute Working Women

Most productive "revolution" of the 20th Century has been the emergence of women into the business world . . . with 23 million women now a part of America's working force.

National Business Women's Week, with the theme "Womanpower—Dimension in Democracy" will be celebrated throughout the United States Oct. 1-7, as a salute to these millions and the part they play in the economic progress of this country.

In Long Beach the week's observances are traditionally sponsored by this city's Business and Professional Women's Club's in conjunction with the National Federation of BPW. Spearheading activities this year are Margaret Ives, Belmont Shore and Manela Nieto BPW Clubs.

HIGHLIGHT of the week again will be selection of a Long Beach "Business Woman of the Year." Companies and clubs are invited to nominate an outstanding woman from their ranks. A distinguished panel of judges makes the final selection after a careful study of the nominees' employment and civic record.

Judges now in the process of naming this year's winner are Attorney Eugene R. Kirkpatrick, serving as dean of the panel; with Anona Buse, Belmont Shore business woman; Oscar Meinhardt, executive producer of International Beauty Congress; Leona Wilson, president of Sierra Mar District, BPW; Fred Sanchez, Lakewood Chamber of Commerce; Malcolm Epley, executive editor, Independent, Press-Telegram; and Dr. Carl McIntosh, president of Long Beach State College.

Winners of the four previous contests are: Vervyl Sumrall, executive secretary to the president of Star Kist Foods; Lois Smith, manager of classified advertising, Independent and Press-Telegram; Nell Gabler, California Department of Employment; and Marie Wells, assistant secretary, Board of Education.

THIS YEAR'S winner will be revealed before an expected capacity crowd of business and professional, civic and club leaders of this city during a banquet Oct. 2 at Lafayette Hotel.

Government endorsement of National Business Women's Week was expressed by Mrs. Esther Peterson, assistant to the secretary of labor and director of the Women's Bureau, who stated: "Qualified women will be wanted in the labor force of the future. Do everything you can to help women workers get the education and training they need. See that they are well equipped and then, see that they are given equal employment opportunities."

POINTING to the ever rising abilities of women employes, the BPW Clubs call attention to current statistics. Nine times as many women received college degrees in 1960 as did in 1920 to qualify for high level employment.

Looking forward, it is expected that by 1970 two out of every five adult women will be employed and that their average age will have increased to 41—promise of a mature, steady and capable labor force.

PAST WINNERS of citywide "Businesswoman of the Year" contest, Marie Wells (1960) and Nell Gabler (1959) "remember when" as they thumb through scrapbook of National Woman's Week, of which contest is a high light. City's Business and Professional Women's Clubs will again coordinate activities of celebrations slated first week of October.

THERE ISN'T ANY question in their minds (and they hope none in yours!) that October's most important dates are Oct. 1-7, National Businesswomen's Week. These three well-known businesswomen (left), Clara Christe, Octava Roquemore and Claris Sutton, are presidents, respectively, of Margaret Ives, Manuela Nieto and Belmont Shore Business and Professional Women's Clubs, sponsoring organizations for week-long celebrations in Long Beach. At right, Eugene Kirkpatrick, dean of judges for BPW's annual "Businesswoman of Year" contest, and Lilly Lee, general chairman of week's events, ponder which prominent local woman will be named as they begin tabulation of judges' votes. Winner and finalists will be presented at a banquet Oct. 2.

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD

Don't Say 'I Do'

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD:

I have two older sisters who are unhappily married because my parents pushed them into marrying when they didn't want to.

I am 17 now, will graduate this year. My parents now are trying to persuade me to marry a third cousin of mine, ten years older than I am, because he has a business of his own and would give my two younger brothers jobs.

They say that with six other kids to support I ought to be willing to help them by marrying this "nice boy."

Mrs. M., I don't want to get married now. I want to finish school and get a job, and make something of myself. Maybe even go to college some day. But you don't know how heavy the family pressure is. Help me. —L.L.L.

DEAR L.L.L.

Listen, my dear, no one can sign the marriage certificate for you. No one can make you say "yes." So stop worrying.

GRANTED that battling the family pressure may be wearisome and worrisome, but believe me, entering unwillingly into marriage can be a darn sight worse.

Stick to your guns, young lady. See if you can't handle some sort of part time job while you're finishing school. This might relieve the home pressure.

But whatever you do, don't say "I do" until YOU want to.—M.M.

* * * *

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD:

My family are the most selfish people in the world. They downright resent my using the telephone. They can't see that it is only by calling up friends and chatting with them that a teenager can keep abreast of what's going on.

How can a girl be popular if she doesn't chat with the boys who call her? And what is wrong with her occasionally calling a boy if the call results in his asking for a date?

My family are old fashioned, narrow-minded, and completely out of step with the times.—MARILYN

DEAR MARILYN:

You are selfish, short-sighted, and inconsiderate. You are too filled with your own puffed-up sense of importance to realize that your family need the freedom of the phone far more than you do—and certainly for far more important reasons.

You, my pet, are both childish and churlish.—M.M.

* * * *

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD:

I came home last night and my wife had locked me out. I had a key but she had the door bolted from inside. And she wouldn't answer the phone when I called. This morning she answered but slammed the phone up in my face.

And do you know why? All because I went to a stag dinner given by my boss for the male employes, and stopped on the way home for late bowling, and had some beers and didn't get home until after two.

Women! They make me sick.—LES

DEAR LES:

You've probably made up by now. And I imagine your wife told you how sick men (you) make her.—M.M.

* * * *

ALL CONCERTS will be given Sunday evenings at 8:30 in the Long Beach City College Auditorium with the exception of the Festival Concert which will be given in Convention Hall, Municipal Auditorium. To Preview Art Exhibit

An event long-anticipated will take place Saturday evening when the Long Beach Museum Association previews "The Museum Association Collects" at the museum, 2300 E. Ocean Blvd. The exhibit will open to the public with a reception from 1 to 5 next Sunday.

Plans originated with the association's former president, Dr. Robert Buffum. The services of Mrs. Emmett Sullivan were enlisted to catalogue the private art collections of the membership. From these lists, Jack Carter, professor of design at UCLA and designer of exhibits at Dickinson Art Center there, was engaged to select those works which will be in the local show and to design the exhibit.

At dinner in the Sunset Room of the Pacific Coast Club before the preview, Carter will address the group and show slides illustrating "What Dictates a Creative Exhibit." Carter organized the Thonet Bentwood furniture show which opened at UCLA last Sunday. Thonet's famous designs evolved from the wood itself and its reaction to steaming and bending. Carter's approach to exhibit design is to use the materials as the theme, rather than imposing one.

* * * *

IN DESIGNING the Long Beach show, Carter selected cool shades of blue as dictates of "The Museum of the Pacific," and, in his words, "in doing this installation, we have tried to create something different within the existing gallery."

Struck with the wide variety of works available in members' collections, Carter made a representative selection which would fit the space and proportions of the Museum's Upstairs Gallery. One hundred and five works were so selected from the several hundreds catalogued.

Works run the gamut of art forms, ancient and modern, oriental and occidental, by local as well as internationally famous artists. Those loaning works for the show are: Dr. and Mrs. Grant Beckstrand, Mrs. George A. Brown, Dr. and Mrs. Robert Buffum, Mr. and Mrs. John G. Clock, Miss Dallas Conklin, Dr. and Mrs. William E. Fogg and Edward Frank.

Also Mr. and Mrs. James Kresl, Mr. and Mrs. Eric J. Laddey, Dr. and Mrs. John W. Olsen, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Person, Dr. and Mrs. Maurice Rosenbaum, Dr. and Mrs. Garland Sinow, Mr. and Mrs. Emmett Sullivan, Dr. and Mrs. Sumner F. Trent and Dr. Eugene Wallin.

* * * *

DR. JOHN W. Olsen, board member of the association and new chairman of the division of speech, drama, and fine arts at Orange County State College, served as liaison with Carter in the selection of works.

Working with the president, Mrs. James Kresl, are these members of the board: Mrs. Llewellyn Bixby Jr., Mrs. Robert Breckenfeld, Mrs. John M. Clark, Don E. Raney, Mrs. Herman Ridder, Mrs. Maurice Rosenbaum, Mrs. Herbert E. Waite and Mrs. Clifford Millspaugh.

* * * *

Preview dinners are a part of the association's program of cultural and social events for members. Anyone interested in participating is invited to contact the membership chairman, Mrs. John M. Clarke, 600 Los Altos Ave., Long Beach 14. A knowledge of art is not necessary for enjoyment of the group's activities.

The Wild Waves Say . .

By IOLA MASTERSON
I, P-T Women's Editor

SOME THINGS we got and some things we don't got and among the latter the later we get 'em the better if, as in this case they are, as I am, referring to hurricanes. (Don't try it in English class, kids; it don't even hardly make sense to the author). Nancy Winston had a letter from her mother, Ann Ruff, this week, advising her that she and Larry had landed in New York after their European vacation. What Nancy is glad she DIDN'T know until after it was over is that Ann and Larry, traveling by ship, were caught out on the Atlantic in hurricane Debbie. "Just awful" is the way Ann described it. Everything that was loose in their cabin, including chairs, hurtled every which way. It jest wasn't a fit night out for man, beast or boat. The Ruffs, now driving across country in their Volkswagen camper they bought in Germany will be here in about a week.

"Some blow"

IN THE REALM of higher learning, that institute of higher blood pressure, Samuel Merritt Hospital in Oakland has two of our cute gals in the freshman class at its school of nursing. Nightingales-in-training are Carol Green, daughter of Udell and Gareld, and Sue Haynes, daughter of Janet Haynes, all of Belmont Shore. Being sick won't be as bad as it used to be when they get through.

* * * *

NOTES ABOUT people and events in this business are as valuable as green stamps in yours! Just because you don't paste 'em in the book doesn't mean you throw 'em away! Here's some leftovers. Everything is included but the dates, to protect the innocent. Virginia Country Club women golfers had a picnic tournament, combining both the 9 and 18 hole players. Ginnie Welch made arrangements for the day. Dixie Millie won the wedge shot contest with Kay Pearson taking second place.

It was on this day that Marge Middleton and Emma Brain won the title of the Gold Dust Twins. Not only did they discover they had bought identical handbags (big, bold ones) but they arrived wearing identical golf hats, wound up playing together and posted duplicate scores. They didn't do so well at golf but can console themselves with the knowledge they're good at hats and bags.

* * * *

ADD TO leftovers . . . . the trip taken by Optimists and families to Camp Oakes, the YMCA Camp above Big Bear, at the invitation of Al McCall. The Bob DeWalts with their guests, the Jack Kennedys, were there, so was Gene Bishop and his boys. Also Opti-Prez Paul Williamson with his dad as well as sons, Lorena and Dan Farnham and daughters, Mary Lou and Ed Sheridan, Marilyn and Hal Levich, Elizabeth and Russ Jackson, all with children, plus Caroline and Harry Moore and Louise and Court Prowell. If it was cold nights then (got down to around 30, they told me) you can bet it's colder now.

DUSTY but unbowed have been the heads of Assistance League Thrift Shop workers as they've manned their Locust Avenue store in and around the debris of tearing out a wall and remodelling. Betty Williams, chairman, tells us that the messy muss is now all cleaned up; the job complete.

* * * *

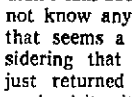

YOU COOK for hours over a hot stove and whaddya get? Compliments, that's what, if it turns out like the dinner Marge Demler prepared when she and Ed entertained at a "Polynesian-Oriental" feast last weekend. Secondarily responsible for success of the party was daughter, Rae. She went to U of Hawaii this summer and took a course in "Foods of the Pacific" (well, lawsy me, what they say about curriculum in that school must be true!) Twelve privileged friends dined on such gourmet home cookery as bird's nest soup, a Korean beef and vegetable concoction (neither spellable nor pronounceable, but delicious!), and ended with a hot fruit soup dessert with homemade almond cookies. Such devotion to a kitchen range.

THE CASE of Lawyers vs. the City of Monterey will be tried and decided this week as the State Bar convention takes place in that coastal spot. Heading the Long Beach contingent will be L. B. Prez Bill Price and Helen. Long Beach Bar will keep a hospitality room open (that figures) under supervision of Norma and George Trammell.

* * * *

SEVERAL shiny reminders why an old Olds or any other old bus just won't do for another year were previewed Wednesday night when Dick Browning entertained (with Verla's help, naturally, at a sales resistance busting cocktail and new car party. Among fender patters present were Otto Boll (Betty was busy elsewhere with their own son and their AFS son, Gert Riethus from West Berlin), Meriam and George Irwin, Gus Walker (he sat in one of those cars an awfully long time, Dick; looks like a live one), Norma and Bill Becker, "Rol" Robbins, Thelma and Bill Bryant, Ruth and Gordon Dougherty, Norma and Bill Harris, Betty and Larry Hunt (making sure for himself no doubt, that the rumor the new models have wings isn't true), and Bev and Dick Matlock.

"End of the Road"

* * * *

BREAK OUT the welcome mats, Helen Young is coming to town. She's due Oct. 3, on her first trip here in three years, to visit her parents, Peg and Fred Wise, plus all other kith and kin. She and Jack, who isn't coming, just arrived back at their Newport, R. I. home about a month ago after three years duty in Italy. A major factor in her coming so soon after arrival from abroad is that daughter, Pamela, has just begun her freshman year at UC, Santa Barbara and Helen wants to check out how this young Young is getting along.

* * * *

HOO, BOY! What they didn't talk about you should not know anyway. At least that seems a fair bet considering that Lou Hosking just returned from a two week visit with Atala Hanbery at Atala's Zephyr Cove resort home at Lake Tahoe. Lots of reminiscing, a little motor touring, mebbe a little wagering.

* * * *

MEMBERS of Peg Akers bridge club were in the pink the other day, literally. She initiated their completely refurnished, now all pink fun room with this party. "House work" out of the way, understand she and Romaine are planning some little dinner parties.

'FORE!' FOR FOUR

This golfing quartet is getting in swing of things for Long Beach City Panhellenic Association party Saturday. From left are Mrs. Frank Courtney, Panhellenic treasurer; Mrs. Willis Blenkinsop, Tracy Brown and Mr. Blenkinsop. Day's activities will start with golf at 12:15 p.m. at Los Alamitos Golf Course. But that's just start of fun. Members and husbands will go on to home of Blenkinsops in Lakewood for a Parisienne Patio Party—including swimming, cocktails, dinner, dancing and bridge.—(Staff photo.)

Soroptimists to Celebrate Club's 40th Anniversary

Long Beach area Soroptimists are joining clubs throughout the United States and in 33 foreign countries in observance of the 40th anniversary of the organization's founding.

The local observance will take the form of a luncheon Friday in Red Velvet Room of Lafayette Hotel with Myrl Cypher, immediate past president, as chairman of the day. Darlene Capouch is president.

Speaker will be Edna Wirt Woods of Ventura, governor of the Pacific Region of Soroptimists which takes in 102 clubs in the southern portion of California and in Arizona, Nevada, New Mexico and Texas. She will speak on "The Future of Soroptimism."

In founding ceremonies, clubs will review services they have provided to their communities and countries.

* * * *

ON THE world-level, Soroptimists have worked for international goodwill and understanding through its Sister Club program, correspondence with members in other countries, financial and medical assistance and fellowships.

Its members have worked for better understanding of public affairs; for a better understanding of good government, for a better status for women at work and in public service.

* * * *

THE CITY of Long Beach has been beneficiary of service projects of Soroptimist Club since it was chartered locally in 1924, the eighth club to join the federation. Scholarships are maintained at Long Beach City and State Colleges; contributions made to Long Beach Symphony Association, Tichenor Orthopedic Clinic, needy families and children and to campership funds.

For the past four years its members have honored newly naturalized citizens of this area at a graduation party, an event which has grown in scope and interest.

Major achievement in recent years was the building of Soroptimist House on the campus at LBSC. Completed this spring, the $32,000 structure is used by the student body for meetings and social activities.

EMPHASIS ON SOCIAL ACTIVITY AT LBCC

Rushing, club organization, football rallies and other typical activities of this season are in high gear at both campuses of Long Beach City College. Textbooks and assignments are definitely in the picture, too—but this is still the carefree interlude before the first mid-term exams loom on the horizon.

Business & Technology

At the Business and Technology Division, all clubs held initial meetings last week to plan fall programs and elect officers. Latest addition to the campus scene is the Technical Publications Club. Presidents of all organizations will hold the first Inter-Club Council meeting this Tuesday.

* * * *

MEMBERSHIP in the Associated Student Body at BTD reached an all-time high this fall. Among the groups serving in the ASB organization drive during registration were Christian Fellowship, Circle-K, Kisab, Norsemen, Sigma and Theta.

First assembly of the year, at 11 a. m. Wednesday in the BTD gymnasium, will feature Haitian calypso artist Jean Durand and his company. Admission is free to student body members.

Liberal Arts

Rushees of the Liberal Arts Division women's social clubs will attend the semi-annual formal rush tea this afternoon on the Carson St. campus. Then comes the biggest event of all, Joint Presents, this Friday night in the women's gymnasium.

At that time, Aurora, Entre Nous, Mahabharata, Ramayana, Tammuz and TNT will formally present their new members in a reception to be followed by the first dance of the year.

Equally busy with plans for the new semester are the men's clubs, the Associated Men Students and the Associated Women Students.

* * * *

FIRST PROGRAM of the year for the Student Forum is scheduled at 11 a. m. Wednesday in the auditorium. Dr. Adolf Stone, City College geography instructor and expert on German affairs, will speak on "The Battle of Berlin." Newly elected Forum officers are Ken Smith, president; Steve Severy, moderator; Terry Bell, secretary; and Diane Barlow, treasurer.

STATE'S ALPHA PHI MOTHERS BUSY AGAIN

One of the busiest of the auxiliary organizations at Long Beach State last year promises to be just that again in 61-62 as we hear from the Alpha Phi Mothers Club that (1) the Pledge Mothers Tea will be held Oct. 1, in the sorority house; and (2) next meeting of the club will be Oct. 4, at 7:30 p. m. in the Soroptimist House with Mrs. H. S. Melvin and Mrs. A. A. Melton as hostesses.

Wednesday we spotted Colleen Logan of Califias (junior-senior women's honorary) looking real perky in Califias' new uniform: gold sweater vest with brown and gold emblem, brown pleated skirt, and white blouse. Colleen says Califias members will be so decked out each Wednesday.

Something new has been added to the planning for the leadership conference next month: no more ex-officio delegates. Instead each person interested in attending the three-day meet makes application and is screened in two interviewing sessions. Result should be a carefully chosen group of students who all are extremely interested in the subjects on the agenda.

We were impressed with the handbook and brochure which SCTA (Student California Teachers Association) is using to spread the word. SCTA does a good job of publicizing its program, and lots of campus groups could do worse than use SCTA as an example.

Parents and alumni will be greeted by Panhellenic President Myrna Hill and Dean Lois Swanson, the group's adviser, before going on to seven receiving lines in the spacious LBSC dining hall, one line for each of the college's six sororities and the newly established Gamma Phi Beta.

Following the presentation of the pledges, there will be dancing at 9:30 p.m.

Unique Collage Neither Painting Nor Sculpture

Collage—that fascinating art form sometimes like painting, sometimes like sculpture—comes to Long Beach next Sunday.

"X: Collage," 10th in the Arts of Southern California series, will have its initial showing Sunday through Oct. 29 at the Long Beach Museum of Art, 2300 E. Ocean Blvd.

Thirty-six works of some two dozen artists will be in this exhibit that will later travel across the country under the auspices of the Western Association of Art Museums.

Collage offers a unique sort of art dimension. Miscellaneous materials, often wonderfully incongruous, put collage into an undefined category that is somewhere between painting and sculpture.

Spanning many modern art movements, it is considered equal to other longer established media. Its form has changed through the years, though, to a point where it has little visual likeness to the original. But artists have always shared the same enthusiasm in synthesizing sundry materials into wider, more original and dynamic fields of expression.

Originally, collage was the application of paper to a painting and was called "papier colle," or "pasted paper." It was first seen in Picasso's "Still Life with Chair Caning" and quickly was made a part of the cubist compositions. Many modern masters, such as Braque, Jean Arp, Max Ernst, Juan Gris, Matisse and Miro, adapted the medium to their own styles.

By 1920, such things as rusty hinges, plants, posters and playing cards were added to collage media. A new visual format had come to old objects, and there was no limit in the use of discards to create designs.

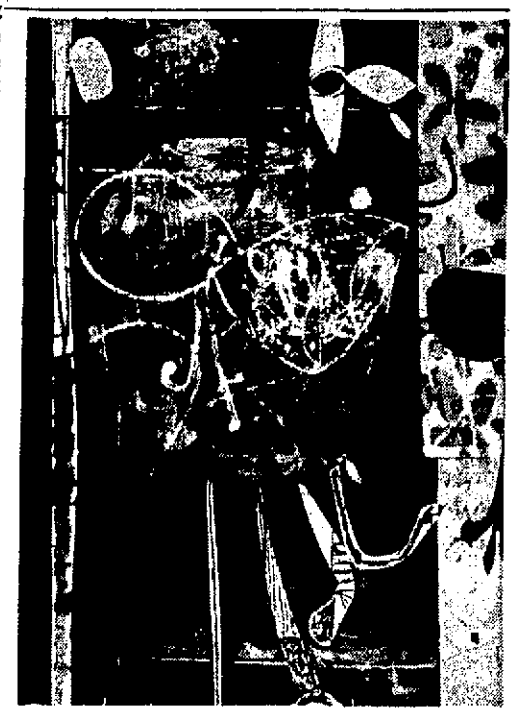

The natural character of the discards was the artist's main concern then. Today, the collage artist may completely obscure the material which he is using. Instead of salvage from the waste basket, he may use materials of such sophistication as hand-made Japanese papers. Generally, too, the pasted shapes fuse into a single image.

Gathered by the Long Beach Museum of Art, the display is sponsored by the Los Angeles county board of supervisors and formed with the assistance of these directors: Warren Beach, Fine Arts Gallery, San Diego; Don Brewer, Art Center, La Jolla; James Foster, Santa Barbara Museum of Art; Dr. Thomas Leavitt, Pasadena Art Museum; and Kenneth Ross, department of municipal art, Los Angeles.

Exhibitors include Jim O. Green and June Lavelle Smith, both of Long Beach; Ro Zabala, Lakewood; Betsy Zill, Seal Beach; Connor Everts, Torrance; Shirley Rousseau-Murphy, Rialto; and John Baldessari, National City.

Also, Clinton Adams, Robert Clutton, James Jarvaise, Agnes Kellogg, Charles LeMaire, Stephen von Huene, Jack Stuck and Elsa Warner, all of Los Angeles; Lucile Brokaw, Pacific Palisades; Gwenda Davies, Altadena; Robert Geiger, South Gate.

And, John Bernhardt, Santa Barbara; Sheldon Kirby, Encinitas; William Lumpkins, La Jolla; Richard A. Morris and Bruce and Mary Van Nostrand, San Diego.

"HONEY FLY," by James Jarvaise, is a colorful design of newspapers and oils on masonite. Like many of collages in the "X: Collage" show at Long Beach Museum of Art, it utilizes only a few elements and is essentially two dimensional. This is in contrast to early works of the 1920's which made such incongruous things as rusty hinges part of compositions.

"OREGON NO. 1," by Shirley Rousseau-Murphy, illustrates exciting possibilities of collage. Her composition, under close scrutiny, is found to include bits of wire, cement, gravel, cloth, burlap and an assortment of refuse mixed with the oil paints. Result is a handsome texturous effect.

Major & Minor Notes

GRACIE FIELDS TELLS OF RISE 'OOP IN WORLD

By RACHEL MORTON
I. P-T Music Critic

Like a veritable "Cinderella" reads the story of Gracie Fields as told in her autobiography, "Sing As We Go." And no fairy godmother ever produced more wonders than did Gracie's hard-working, ambitious mother. But unlike the story book Cinderella, Gracie really loved the humble things of life best. In the end, her Prince Charming came along and today she is a radiantly happy woman in her 60's living on the island of Capri.

Gracie Fields was born in Rochdale, Lancashire, England, in 1898 in a small mill town where her father worked as a mill hand. "With only 27 bob (shillings) a week coming in and with three kids to keep, anyone with less determination than my mother (Jenny) would have seen herself, and us, doomed to the factories and the back streets, but not Jenny," writes Gracie. "We're not stopping like this," she would say, "We're going 'oop in the world. 'Oop! Not Down!' I heard my Mumma say that all my life, right from the beginning," Gracie writes.

Mrs. Stansfield, Gracie's mother, always wanted to be a singing actress and when poverty and family prevented, she concentrated on Gracie. She did washing for the theatrical people so that she could get inside the theater. She and Gracie would watch the shows from the wings, after which Gracie could sing all the songs and mimic all the actors. It was the beginning of her love of the theater.

GRACIE helped her mother carry home the "left-overs" from the kitchens of the big houses where she went to work. She helped with a brush and duster when her mother scrubbed the stage of the Hippodrome and she cleaned outside lavatories for a halfpenny. But she always sang as she worked and one day a woman came rushing out of the house to ask, "Was that you singing, dear? You have a wonderful voice." That proved to be her first opportunity. The lady got an audition for Gracie at the Hippodrome where she won the prize—ten-and-sixpence! From then on, Gracie was in the theater on and off in vaudeville acts, although only 10 years old, with stretches of working at the mill in between and afternoons at school.

Hard work has been Gracie's life. At the height of her career she was not only doing nightly performances at the theater, but night club acts after the theater and making movies and recordings during the day. She amassed a fortune and received signal honors that seldom come to one human being. King George VI made her a Commander of the British Empire and a member of the Order of St. John of Jerusalem and she has had an orphanage and a ship named after her. When she was desperately ill in London the Prime Minister sent her roses.

SHE MARRIED three times. Archie Pitt, the impresario, dominated her and they were finally divorced. She had a happy marital companionship with Monty Banks. But third husband, Boris Alperovici, half Russian and half Italian, whom she married in her mid-fifties, has been the awakening Prince Charming of her life and her fondest dreams have all come true.

Her life was summed up on the last page—"Often we were down to our last ha' penny, but it never made any difference to Mumma. So long as you didn't get soft and give in, you could always have a laugh the next minute, and a bit of a song. And you could always say your prayers and hope for something better."

A NEW ART class is being offered under the aegis of the Artist's League of Seal Beach.

Marjorie Vanderlip, instructor at Long Beach City College, will teach a teenager beginning drawing and painting class Wednesday evenings, from 7 to 10, at the Recreation Center in Seal Beach.

Mrs. Vanderlip, a former teacher at Chouinard Art Institute and at the University of Hawaii, will also give instruction in beginning drawing and in costume and fashion design to adults interested in attending the Wednesday sessions.

More information may be obtained from Mrs. Pat Jones, 632 Sea Breeze Dr., Seal Beach.

GREAT THINGS may be heard one day about a local young artist, Richard White. A recent graduate of Polytechnic, Richard has won a year's scholarship to Chouinard Art Institute and is recipient of Caerulea Art Award. He's also been a winner in the Bank of America zone competitions, given two one-man shows at Poly and had his works exhibited in New York City and abroad by the International Red Cross.

Samples of his talent are now on display in the lobby of the Magnolia Theatre.

Young White plans to major in art at Pomona College, then, after graduation, study architecture.

NEW EXHIBITION space at the Los Angeles County Museum has made it possible to display a large number of new gifts and loans, as well as many works which have been in storage.

The eight 20th Century Galleries of the museum have been reinstalled and exhibition space has been extended into a portion of the outdoor sculpture court, according to James Elliott, assistant chief curator of art and curator of modern art. One of the major galleries has also been completely refurbished.

Loans include paintings by Yves Klein, Larry Rivers, Antonio Saura, Hassel Smith and Clyfford Still. New sculptural works include pieces by Robert Cremean, Herbert Garbe, Aristide Maillol, Mirko and Peter Voulkos.

TWO MORE art classes are starting next week, both under the direction of Virginia Garner of the Boutique Club. She will inaugurate a class Tuesday, 7:30 to 10 p.m. at the YWCA, with sessions to meet every Tuesday evening for eight weeks. Interested parties may register at the YW. Another class will meet, starting Friday, from 1 to 2 p.m. at the Sunset Club.

EXHIBITION of the Long Beach Museum of Art permanent collection and paintings by Noriko Yamamoto will close after today. Museum galleries will be temporarily closed next week for installation of October exhibits.

High-Caliber Exhibit at La Poule Rouge

By VIRGINIA H. LADDEY

An arresting group show is offered at La Poule Rouge Gallery in Seal Beach: Linn Carr, woodcuts; Harriet Wolpin, ceramics; Marvin Saltzman, paintings, prints and graphics, and Marcus White, sculpture. In line with La Poule's standards, the works are of high caliber.

Linn Carr's woodcuts, both hung and in an available portfolio, are very fine. Here is a sincere affirmation of that old cliche, "honest with the materials," employed with tremendous skill and pictorial intricacy. Mrs. Carr is not only a fine craftsman, she creates with intellect as well as great sensitivity.

Harriet Wolpin, whose arresting ceramic sculpture "Equation" is a prize-winner at the current Los Angeles County Museum show, is represented here by several lovely pots of interesting form and unusual colors. A particularly striking one has a candlestick-like lid, incised and applied floral design, and is glazed in soft pink, lavender, green and blue. There is also an abstract Wolpin in the show with interesting views from every side in open and closed form.

Marvin Saltzman, familiar to Long Beach gallery-goers, has added some interesting ink drawings which show a strong command of medium and technique. His work in graphics and the several colorful oils illustrate this artist's versatility.

Shard-like iron forms welded together by Marcus White give witty and intriguing suggestions though they are abstract. These are around 3 inches high. "Vessel of Transformation" is in almost known shapes. "The Sentinel" gives a strong sense of being armed.

La Poule Rouge is to be commended on the consistency and quality of the shows they bring to the local public.

Season tickets will be available during the day at the main General Adult Division office, 4901 E. Carson St.; West Adult Center, 1794 Cedar Ave.; and the Business and Technology Division bookstore, 1305 E. Pacific Coast Hwy.

Hours will be 1-10 p. m. Monday through Thursday at Polytechnic Adult Center and 6-10 p.m. at Lakewood, Millikan, Wilson and Jordan adult division offices.

'Pleasure of His Company' in Premiere Friday Night

"The Pleasure of His Company," a comedy by Samuel Taylor, will have its formal first night performance Friday at Long Beach Community Playhouse, 5021 E. Anaheim St.

There will be an informal opening Saturday, followed by seven weeks of performances Thursdays, Fridays and Saturdays.

Florence Cole and Marvin Cloyd will take the leading roles. They appeared together last year in "Susan and God."

The play, which opened in New York in 1958 and starred Cornelia Otis Skinner and Cyril Ritchard, was released to little theater production this fall. A drawing room comedy of manners, it has been praised for its surface shimmer and underlying sound philosophy.

Others in the cast are Joan Mathews, Dan Baurac, Anthony Savawitz, Keith Houdyshell and Jerome Weyland.

Larry Johns is director.

Movie Showings of 'Il Travatore'

Verdi's grand opera "Il Trovatore" comes to Long Beach via film. This favorite classic will be shown Tuesday through Thursday at the Bay Theatre in Seal Beach.

The movie stars Italian singers Enzo Mascherini and Gianna Pederzini. Overtures preceding the 8 p.m. curtain will be Schubert's "Unfinished Symphony" and Strauss' "Blue Danube."

Classics on Film Series Schedule

Long Beach Museum of Art 1961-62 Film Series gets underway Oct. 13 with the showing of two French films, "Carnival in Flanders" and "The Red Balloon." The twin billing will be filmed at 3 p.m. and again at 8. There is no admission charge.

Past Film Series themes have been determined by the schedule of exhibitions at the Museum of Art. This year, in a change from previous policies, classics have been selected from all over the world and from countries seldom thought of as movie centers.

Ten countries will be represented in the new series, according to Jason Wong, promotion assistant at the museum, and Nina Boyle of the Long Beach Public Library Film Service. The series will run through May.

"Carnival in France," directed by Jacques Feyder, deals with the Spanish invasion of Flanders, charmingly heroic wives and terrified burgher husbands.

Louis Owens in Program

Louis Owens, dramatic baritone, will appear in a benefit program of popular ballads and spirituals next Sunday at 3 p.m. in the Starlight Room of the Lafayette.

Owens, whose voice has attracted the attention of Hollywood notables, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Owens, 1036 Lime Ave. A graduate of Polytechnic High School, where he was a well-known athlete, he has studied at Long Beach State College and the University of Arizona.

Tickets may be purchased at Clef's Music Co., 324 Pine Ave., and at the door on the day of the program.

Opera Funds

A goal of $75,000 has been set for the fund-raising campaign now underway for the 1962 spring season of the Los Angeles Opera Company. Promoted by the Los Angeles Opera Associates, the drive will continue through October.

Park Program

Gabriel Bartold will conduct at a free band concert this afternoon from 2 to 4 at Point Fermin, San Pedro. The program is co-sponsored by the Los Angeles Bureau of Music and Musician's Union Local 47.

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

Grammarian, Junior Grade

DEAR ABBY: I am 14 and have a problem. My mother and I disagree about correcting people when they make a mistake in pronouncing words, or use them in the wrong place. My mother says it is wrong to correct your mother or father or any elderly person in private or in front of others.

I said I didn't think there was anything wrong with correcting people in a polite way in private or in front of people. I don't think anybody is ever too old to learn. Who is right?—"PERFECTIONIST."

DEAR PERFECTIONIST: Your mother is wrong, honey, but she is still your mother. The pride of older people suffers when they are corrected by children, even if the correction is offered politely and in private (as it should be). So drop the practice and remember—you may have a "perfectionist" of your own some day.

* * * *

DEAR ABBY: A rather irate woman wrote to tell you that a child today can name all the players on the Yankee and Giant teams, but ask him who God is and he doesn't know.

If this remarkably well-informed lady will tell me or anyone else just who God is, she will have answered a question that has remained unanswered for thousands of years. Sincerely—LYNNE.

* * * *

DEAR ABBY: Recently my brother passed away. He left a wife and two step-children (when he married this woman she was a widow with two children). She had been married to my brother less than two years, but this is what she did. She had him buried in a plot next to her first husband! When my parents found out where he was being buried they almost went into shock. As though this wasn't bad enough, this plot is a family plot for HER family. We wanted our brother buried with HIS family. Did she have a right to do this? Can we take legal action against her?

—UP IN ARMS.

DEAR UP: Calm down. There is nothing you can do.

CONFIDENTIAL TO E. F.: Gentlemen traditionally prefer blondes—but marry brunettes.

Safety Is Best Policy

North's one diamond response is in accordance with the best modern principles.

Unless South can produce four spades North has no desire to play any spade contract.

Playing at four spades South ruffs the second heart and lays down the ace of spades. Both opponents follow whereupon many South players will simply lead another high spade. If both opponents follow they will make five odd, whether or not the queen drops. When West shows out they will wind up going down three tricks and blame the loss on bad luck.

* * * *

ACTUALLY, it will be bad play. South should enter dummy with a club, lead a spade and finesse the jack. If the finesse loses South will still make four odd. He will refuse to trump the third heart lead and will trump the fourth heart lead in dummy. After that he will be able to pick up the ten of trumps and make all his clubs.

After the finesse wins, South is not hurt by the bad trump break. He simply leads out clubs. East trumps the third lead and will play another heart. South must discard a diamond on this third heart and ruff a fourth heart lead in dummy. Again he will be able to pull the last trump and run his clubs.

GUEST CHEF OF THE WEEK

Women—ALL Experts

By TOM R. GILLIAM
Director Public Relations, Memorial Hospital

Tom R. Gilliam

Women are wonderful. But then I'm prejudiced, I guess.

I've always liked girls. Tall girls, thin girls, chubby, short, blondes, brunettes, red heads and non-descripts.

Seems that with all their good qualities though, women can be obnoxious on this food business. Every woman is an expert.

Here at Memorial Hospital for instance, patients can't complain about the way we take an X-ray, because a great majority of them have never taken an X-ray.

But when it comes to food —Oh, Boy!!

Like I said, these women are experts. They've been eating food all their life—and cooking it, too. They know good food. Whenever we get the least bit away from what they know is top culinary practice, do our dieticians ever hear about it! Wow!

The other day I asked Pat Hill, our head dietician and Erwin Oplatka, our food service manager, what food was moving the best.

Guess? You probably have—good old ground beef on a hot bun served with sweet relish, catsup and crisp chips—in other words —hamburger.

Of course, that's one of the selections at lunch. In the evening grilled chopped steak on a hot bun served with mushrooms and gravy is the best item—which is another way of saying—hamburger steak.

* * * *

AND THIS brings us to our second point.

These women, bless every heart in their little old bodies, are super saleswomen at home.

They have to be. Junior is a hamburger and hot dog aficionada from way back. So's Dad.

What happens when Mom comes up with something besides the same old fare?

She has to be a saleswoman. She has to doll it up and call it by a name that will intrigue Dad and Junior so that they'll want to try it.

Same problem at hospitals.

We just came out with a new menu that gives the patient up to seven entree selections. Now, the dietary department was planning on one of these on a certain day to be tuna fish casserole. So if you're sick and the thought of food doesn't do much for you this doesn't particularly send you.

Solution—dress up the wording. On the menu it comes out "Tidbits of Tuna with old-fashioned Noodles en Casserole." Amazing how the selection of tuna fish casserole has picked up.

Of course, the best liked salad continues to be tossed green salad with fresh fruit cup a popular dessert.

* * * *

WHILE some things move well at the hospital, others are slow. Yet some people like them and we want a patient to have a choice. Slowest mover at the moment seems to be Veal Scallopini—perhaps because many people are not sure what it is.

One thing I would like to point out. If you are a patient it just might be that your doctor has you on a special diet. This is pretty restrictive and can get pretty monotonous. We do our best to make it tasty and interesting but you can get awfully tired of a straight liquid diet or whatever else it may be.

To paraphrase a well-known saying, "You can please all the people some of the time and some of the people all of the time, but you can't please all the people all of the time."

It's an old Long Beach custom to end this column with a recipe, so I picked up one from the dietary department at Memorial. Only one precaution—its for 400 servings, so if you are making it for four people be sure and divide it by 100.

Recipe to serve 400:

BEEF STROGANOFF

100 lbs. tenderloin tails, cut into ½"x3" strips
28 lbs. minced onion
12 cloves minced garlic
2 lbs. bacon fat
4 No. 10 cans tomato puree
Enough flavorful beef stock to cover
5 oz. prepared mustard, pepper, salt
4 No. 10 cans mushrooms
2½ gallons sour cream
1 quart sherry
Chopped parsley

Brown cubed meat in ½ pound bacon fat in heavy bottomed skillet. Saute minced onion separately in 1½ pounds bacon fat adding minced garlic and cooking until onions are golden. Add puree, beef stock, salt and pepper, and mustard and cook for five minutes. Add browned beef and slowly cook until tender. Mix in canned mushrooms and adjust seasoning. Draw off two gallons of liquid and mix in sour cream until smooth. Return to mixture and heat well but do not boil. Adjust color with kitchen bouquet and four ounces of MSG and sherry. Serve over rice sprinkled with chopped parsley.

* * * *

OUR COVER

The twin planes pictured on our cover are new Shinn 2150-A models soaring over Laguna Beach, only a short hop from the factory at Santa Ana, where this remarkable Long Beach-born light aircraft soon will be coming off the assembly line in growing numbers. Designed and originally built in Long Beach by William J. Morrisey, former chief test pilot for Douglas Aircraft Co., the sturdy little ship has met with universal favor among pilots, whether they fly for fun or profit. Primarily a sports plane, it is in great demand by flying schools as a trainer. The complete story about the Shinn plane will be found on Page 7.

Most fickle of the many means of communication used by man are the currents of the Seven Seas. Many and varied are the messages cast into the sea in bottles to tell of love, or death, of piracy, fire, storm, mutiny, to test ocean currents, broadcast religious tracts or just to perpetrate hoaxes. The romance of message-bearing bottles washed onto beaches 'round the world is described in "Ocean Free Delivery" in next Sunday's Southland Magazine.

LA REINA RULE

WHAT YOUR NAME MEANS

Send your name to La Reina Rule in care of Southland Magazine, Independent, Press-Telegram, 604 Pine Ave., Long Beach 12, Calif., for origin, meaning and brief genealogy for reply only in this column.

DEAR MISS RULE: May we have brief genealogy on FERREL. — R. S., Lakewood.

R. S.: FERREL had its inauguration as the Irish clan O'Fearghail meaning "Sons of the most valorous one." This lineage originated in County Longford where they ruled as barons for many centuries. Branches of the family lived in Donegal, Tyrone and Wicklow. Their coat-of-arms has a golden rampant lion centered on a green shield. Four families by this name resided in Floyd County, Ind., during the mid-1800s, descendants of the ancient Gaelic Irish clan.

DEAR MISS RULE: Can you inform us on HEATH.—D.H., Los Alamitos; F.L., Long Beach.

D.H., F.L.: HEATH in English is a term for uncultivated pasture land. Heath family records list descendants of the original owner of the "Heath," such as William Atte (at the) Hethe of Oxford, 1273, and John Atte Hethe of Somerset, 1327. John Heath of London was warden of the British Fleet in the late 1500s. The Heath shield has two black spur-rowels above a golden heathcock on a background tinted gold on the upper half, black on the lower. The Heath motto "Espere Mieux" means "I hope for the best."

DEAR MISS RULE: Would you publish the origin of PERAGINE.—Mrs. J.P., Westminster.

J.P.: PERAGINE is a spelling variation of the Italian surname Peregrine, interpreted as "Descendants of the Pilgrim." This old, dialectically distorted name was descriptive of a pilgrim who journeyed to the Holy Land and to European religious shrines in the Middle Ages. The Peregrine coat-of-arms has a black half-eagle on a silver background for the upper half of the shield; a silver glove on the lower half.

DEAR MISS RULE: Would like the shield and origin of BAMBER, either German or English.—R.B., Long Beach.

R.B.: BAMBER may be

Plant With a Romantic Past

By Vynola F. Limerick

Ancient in ken of mankind, acanthus grows in modern gardens as gracefully as in days of Greek sculptors.

SERENELY indifferent to a romantic past that spans a period of 2,500 years, acanthus grows with modest vigor in many Long Beach area gardens. The plant dates back to one of the most fantastic eras in history and is without a missing link in the long green chain.

Shiny mounds of acanthus leaves are quite common in the sections where the climate is mild; tall, spiny spikes of white flowers tinted with purple and green, bloom high above the verdant bank of deeply notched foliage throughout the summer.

An ancient sculptor by the name of Callimachus was said to have noticed the striking patterns of the broad, lacy leaf after having seen a carelessly upturned basket entwined with acanthus foliage.

GRECIAN architecture of long ago was identified by three orders: Doric, Ionic, and Corinthian. The richest and most ornamental of these was the Corinthian, a style easily recognized by rows of skillfully carved replicas of the great pinnatifid acanthus leaves wreathing the top or capital of the column.

After the advent of the acanthus motif, apparently the prim Doric and the unromantic ram's horn arrangement of the Ionic type of pillar decorating fell into decline, no doubt seeming staid and old hat to the beauty loving Greeks by comparison with the frilly, eye-catching design attributed to Callimachus, an artist who must have thought for himself.

Although these fine workmen knew about the arch they viewed it with dimness and used it only in minor projects. They were column lovers to a bitter and inglorious end. Gracefully tapered and sometimes fluted, these enormous shafts supported and dignified their fabulous civic buildings and temples.

MARBLE WAS plentiful and the Greeks worked with slabs of this gleaming white stone to erect their masterpieces using lines that curved so lightly that they appeared to be straight, an artistic touch that was lacking in building that came later.

The Romans who followed them were column users, too, even copying the popular acanthus decoration.

Today, roofless and forlorn, the once majestic temples deteriorate on desolate plains, melancholy reminders of a richly decadent period of graven image worshiping that has gone into oblivion never to return.

The sturdy acanthus survived the decline and downfall of an idolatrous nation and grows tranquilly on. Somewhere along the way the acanthus leaf became a symbol of Christianity, possibly because of the everlasting qualities of the sturdy plant.

Conceived in Long Beach and now being hatched by the dozen:

New Breed of Bird

By Herb Shannon

BORN IN Long Beach and now being hatched by the dozen in Santa Ana, a new breed of bird is winging over the Southland.

This new, man-made bird is the Shinn 2150-A, a sassy two-place sports plane with a unique "come-fly-me" personality which has proved irresistible to both fledgling and experienced pilots.

After more than 10 years in the development stage, the Shinn is coming off a brand-new production line in increasing numbers. By next spring the manufacturers expect to build one every eight working hours.

First to come under her spell was the designer, William J. Morrisey, who quit his job as chief pilot for Douglas Aircraft Co. in Long Beach to perfect the idea that had been gnawing at him since World War II.

MORRISEY WANTED a light, high-performance tandem seater which would be as safe, stable and sturdy as the Douglas airliners he was used to flight testing.

The prototype was hand-built in one of the Spring Street hangars which recently disappeared from Long Beach Municipal Airport to make way for a section of the San Diego Freeway. Helping Morrisey with this task were a number of local flying enthusiasts, including newspaperman Ev Hosking, now Sunday editor of the Independent, Press-Telegram.

THERE WAS no question about a name for the sleek little ship when it was finished.

"Nifty!" said Morrisey, gazing with affection at his plane.

And that's what the ship remained until operations were transferred to Orange County Airport. There, 10 of the tricycle-gear beauties were built under the name Morrisey 2150 in a hangar set up for limited production.

The only trouble with the Morrisey was that it was too popular. Flying school operators, private airmen, airline pilots, everyone who saw the plane wanted one. They were snapped up as fast as Morrisey could turn them out with his small crew.

The answer was mass production, a group of Santa Ana aircraft industry experts pointed out. They had been watching the progress of the Morrisey with considerable interest. And finally the designer-builder agreed.

MANUFACTURING rights were licensed to the Shinn Manufacturing Co., a combine of engineering and business talents headed by Clifford L. Shinn, a 36-year-old engineer.

Already in the business of making parts for various aircraft, including the Douglas DC8, the Convair 880 and the North American Aviation supersonic B-70 bomber, Shinn was impressed by the Morrisey's design.

And as a private pilot of more than five years' standing, he was further impressed by the fact that the Morrisey had received its airworthiness certificate without a single unfavorable report, something unheard of in Federal Aviation Agency testing.

LAST MONTH the first plane came off the $200,000 assembly line Shinn set up at 320 Dyer Road, on the outskirts of Santa Ana. The first Shinn 2150-A was an exact duplicate of the original Morrisey, with some internal modifications and mechanical improvements.

Among the improvements in construction methods instituted by Shinn are semi-automation in fabrication of some parts, optically-aligned fixtures and machines to insure uniform assembly, and interchangeability of parts and components.

Starting with only a handful of employes under project manager Art Showalter, the Shinn work force is designed to increase gradually in size and productivity until it reaches the one-plane-per-shift pace in about eight months. Then there will be about 40 employes.

SELLING THE plane is no problem, according to Robert Follett, marketing vice president. Orders now on hand will take care of every one the company can build in the next year.

Follett is spending the intervening time building and training a sales staff for the time when planes are available. The best way he knows to impart enthusiasm for the product is to demonstrate it for prospective dealers.

"This plane has absolutely no bad habits," he said on a recent flight, yanking back on the stick to force a stall. The plane simply mushed along with no tendency to fall off on either wing.

"I COULD turn off the engine, hold back the stick and land with my eyes closed," Follett explained. "The plane is built to do it."

Follett also enjoys startling the tower operators at Orange County Airport with the Shinn's near-vertical takeoff. With a light headwind, the plane leaps into the air almost as soon as it gets rolling.

"I see it, but I don't believe it," comes the radio voice from the tower after each of these abrupt ascents.

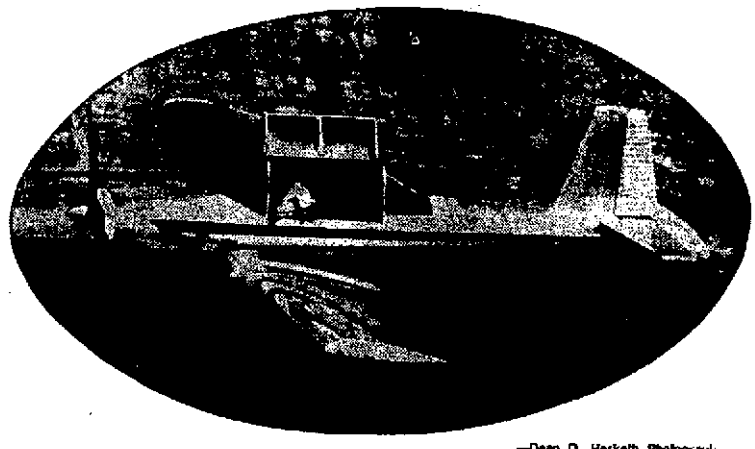

Climbing at nearly 1,500 feet a minute, the Shinn is more than 1,000 feet in the air by the time it crosses the end of the runway. It will make 150 miles an hour with full power of its 150-horsepower Lycoming engine and land in less than 200 feet at non-stalling speeds.

IN THESE DAYS of crowded air space, one of the most reassuring features is the total visibility afforded by the full-view bubble canopy and low-wing configuration. There is no blind spot from either seat except for straight down under the wing.

This safety feature rounds out Cliff Shinn's objective of strength, visibility and performance for the plane now bearing his name.

"What we like to call integrity of the product boils down to just this," he explained. "We're trying to give more hardware and fewer maintenance problems for the aircraft dollar."

Shinn and Follett expect to see 150 of the jaunty planes roll off the Santa Ana production line in the next year. They have plans under way for expansion of the plant when the present one is up to capacity.

He's Glad

John McKay is grid mentor at USC
(The United Society for Criticism)
And he's sure to win the laugh title

He's a Blankety-Blank Football Coach

John McKay, USC football coach, and player confer on sideline. McKay has a lucky sense of humor that carries him over rough spots in his "trade."

By Jerome Hall

IT IS WELL known that everybody loves a fat man unless he is a football coach, so you can see the predicament of John McKay, who is skinny.

McKay has everything working against him. Foremost is his position as head football coach at USC, which is the United Society for Criticism—sometimes also known as the University of Southern California.

In a few hours, all across the country the Monday morning quarterbacks will go into action, rehashing the first full weekend of football for 1961.

It's open season on football coaches for the next three months.

So we cornered the USC coach and asked what would make a man with wife and children put his head on the block week after week in a job often called the worst this side of the sewer.

"COACHING isn't so bad as it's made to sound," says McKay. "This business of stress and strain is overemphasized." McKay, whose 38 years —young for a head coach at a major university—is contradicted by gray hair, leaned back in the easy chair in his second-story office on University Avenue and lit his pipe.

"It's really quite a good life," he offered, though he can't have forgotten the knife-wielding alumni who hooted for his dismissal after the team won only four of 10 games last season But McKay now is working on the first year of a three-year contract, which is something like social security in his business.

"Any other line of work has its stresses and strains," he continued. "I look at it like there are 10 $100,000 deals for me a year. You lose one and you feel pretty bad, just like the salesman. But the next Saturday you try harder to make the deal go through. Sure, coaches have been unjustly fired, but who hasn't?"

IT'S SUCH a philosophy that has enabled McKay to maintain his sense of humor—which is unchallenged. He may be the funniest coach in the business and the only thing that dulled his humor last season was that his team sometimes played funnier.

After his first game as head coach last year he was asked by a serious-questioning reporter the most important thing he learned and McKay replied without hesitation:

"Our defense looks like a Chinese fire drill."

When asked what USC's offense problem was, he said, "Not scoring any points."

McKay is the delight of sports writers' luncheons. He breaks up almost every gathering. Those who know him, almost without exception, find him genial and easy to like.

HE ENTERTAINS with stories such as the one about his friend, Jordan Olivar, Los Angeles insurance man who is head football coach at Yale. "First time I walked onto the Yale campus I was invited to a welcoming party and all the football players sang the Wiffenpoof Song and drank a toast to me," says Olivar. "Then they all threw their glasses at the fireplace. Everybody but one hit the fireplace. He missed a mile. I asked him what he did for the team and he said 'Coach, I'm your passer'."

When the SC team was at its exasperating worst last season, mired in a muddle of mistakes, reporters cornered McKay at lunch one day and asked bluntly: "What have you got to say about all these fumbles?"

McKay, standing at the rostrum with about 50 reporters, columnists, radio and television broadcasters staring at him, raised his eyes toward the ceiling and delayed an answer. This clearly was a crucial moment in his life as an after-luncheon entertainer, because what's funny about a fumble?

But John was equal to the test.

"I have a book home," he began slowly, "that an elderly aunt just sent me and it diagrams special practices to teach the boys how to not fumble. We have tried all the drills and I will tell you this: we do not fumble in practice anymore."

THAT'S THE DAY McKay converted 50 of his critics.

McKay started off the current luncheon season with this one:

"The other day one of my second-string ends came up to me at practice and said 'Coach, I've got a pain in my side.' Now, I'm pretty smart about medicine so I said, 'You've probably got appendicitis. The team trainer looked at him and said no, it was just a cramp.

"We sent the boy over to the infirmary and that afternoon they operated on him and took out his cramp."

McKay's rise at USC has been swift and since the average tenure of the 15 previous Trojan football coaches was just 4½ years, he's assured of staying (or being paid for) at least a normal career.

McKAY HAD been an assistant coach at USC less than a year when his predecessor, Don Clark, resigned because of the pressures of the school's alumni groups. It's likely the Old Trojans wield a power second to no alumni in the country. And when McKay, a West Virginian by way of Oregon U., was named to the head coach position (only one non-USC graduate had held the job since Howard Jones' reign began in 1925) it came as a severe blow to the Old Trojans. They tried their best to get rid of him.

The university perhaps has found the ideal type of man to fit into such a situation. USC's search for "another Howard Jones" to give the school another Thundering Herd has brought a series of embarrassments. One time a Big Ten coach publicly rejected an offer and another time an Old Trojan was selected for the coaching position and then in effect "fired" before he was announced, all because one newspaper reported the selection in a "scoop" and the board of trustees didn't want to alienate the other half of Los Angeles' publishing empire.

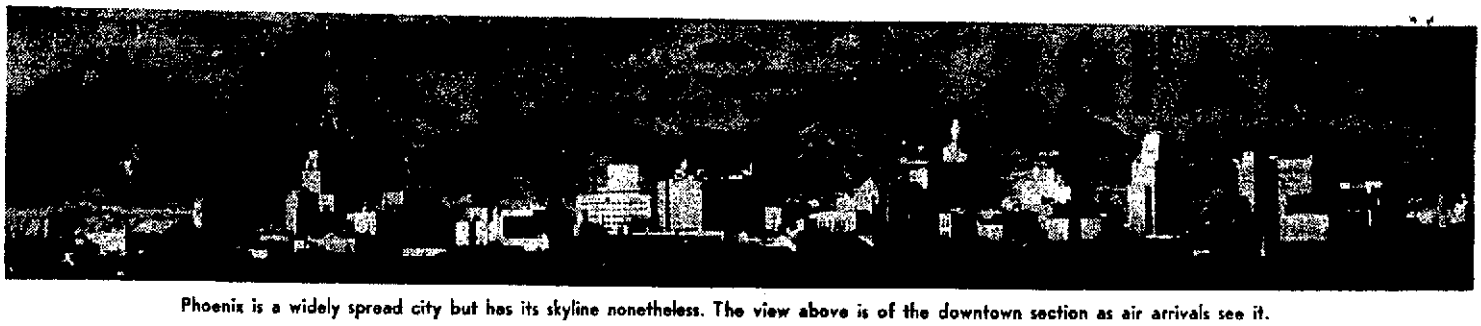

School officials never have admitted it, but the victim of all this maneuvering was Tay Brown, USC team captain in 1932, who recently retired from coaching after climbing to the pinnacle of the junior college football world.

So those who know what kind of a job John McKay took on are glad he can laugh at the world.

SC Photos

Reporters gather for dressing room conference after each game. This one followed a head-bowing Trojan defeat, but before it ended McKay came through with a gag that provided a laugh for the "mourners."

ARIZONA'S CAPITAL, PHOENIX, MORE THAN DOUBLES POPULATION IN 3 YEARS

The Nation's 'Growingest City'

By Robert L. Davis

WHEN SAMUEL E. VICKERS, city manager of Long Beach, went to Phoenix earlier this year to take a similar position, he landed feet first in the nation's "growingest city."

In the last three years Phoenix, air-conditioned, green oasis capital of Arizona, has more than doubled its population and more than tripled its land area.

Over the last 10 years, the record of expansion has been even more amazing. A decade ago, with an area of 17.1 square miles, this hub of the Valley of the Sun resort land had a population of 106,818. Today, sprawled over 190.96 square miles, Phoenix has a population in excess of 464,000. This makes it the nation's 29th largest city, and the biggest between the Rocky Mountains and the West Coast.

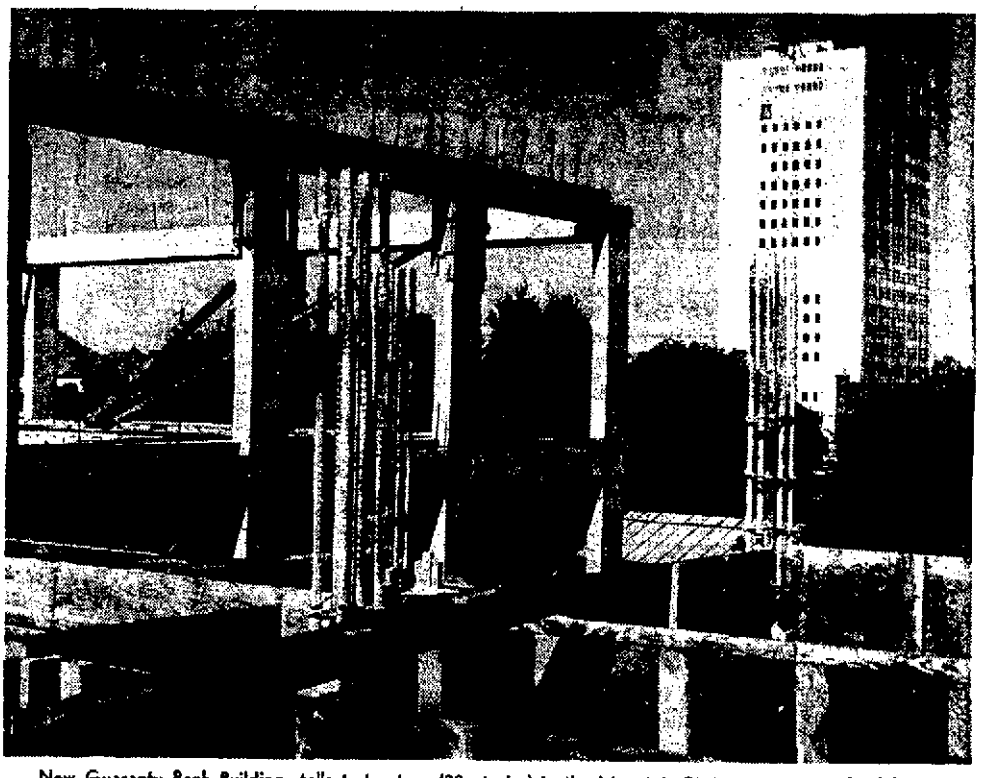

Within another 10 years, officials predict that metropolitan Phoenix will contain more than a million residents.

Why the surge that shows no signs of letting up?

BASICALLY, Phoenix has a batch of built-in appeals that not only entice vacationists who make it a prime tourist center, but also industrialists who have been setting up large plants at an amazing rate. The tourists mean added dollars but the industries also mean added jobs which support a growing population. Especially notable in the industrial surge has been the advances in the field of electronics.

Phoenix's appeals are, to sum up: a favorable, almost ideal climate year-round with clear, dry air; informal living; progressive community spirit; first-rate vacation magnets like good restaurants and hotels plus fine recreation and sightseeing; cultural attributes.

Taken alone, these factors are simple advantages. But taken together—as they are in Phoenix—they mean a tremendous growth which shows no signs of slowing up.

New Guaranty Bank Building, tallest structure (20 stories) in the Mountain States, serves as a backdrop for new construction in the foreground of a new office building in the north central area of Phoenix.

Cabinet-shelf unit helps solve nursery storage needs.

TODAY'S PROJECT: A storage and display unit for the nursery.

NEW YORK designer, Ursula M. S. Dadras, says: There's nothing like the arrival of a new baby in a home to reveal the inadequacy of storage space for so much soft new bedding, so much equipment, so many new toys!

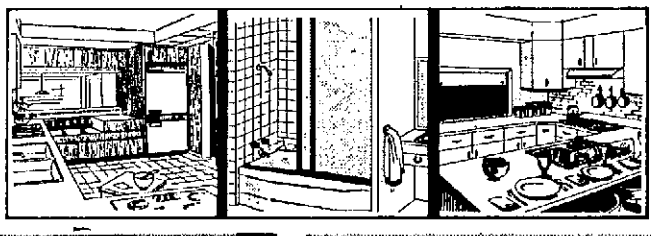

In no time at all the new supplies and gifts have filled the baby's chest. Where do you put the overflow?

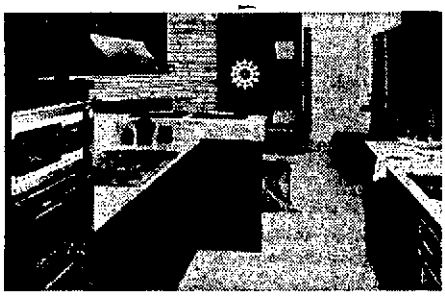

The sliding door storage cabinet and display shelf unit shown in the illustration is designed to take such storage pressure off any nursery. The lower section is 18" high and almost 18" deep. The cabinet top and two raised shelves provide a wealth of additional space for stuffed animals and other toys for tots.

While we show the unit decorated for a nursery, its modern design will permit it to fit into the decor of almost any room in the house where additional storage space is desired. Materials are plywood and standard 1x12. Construction is easy, with no difficult saw cuts and simple butt joints throughout.

To order, specify Nursery Storage Cabinet S-22 and send name and address and 50 cents to Building Editor, Independent, Press-Telegram, 6th & Pine, Long Beach 12, Calif.

Tool Caddy for Home Shop

By Steve Ellingson

COMPACT and portable workshop for the home handyman is a tool caddy that is easily made from the full-size pattern. Use it yourself and/or make one for a relative or friend as a Christmas gift.

The caddy has two sides which will hold as many as 35 tools which are fastened on pegboard with clips which are available at hardware stores. You will notice that the tools are all in plain sight and easy to get at. The saw is inserted between the sides where the teeth are protected. At the bottom, a space is provided for glass jars which will contain screws, nails, bolts, nuts and things of that kind. You will find that it's much easier to take your tools to the job than it is to take the job to your tools.

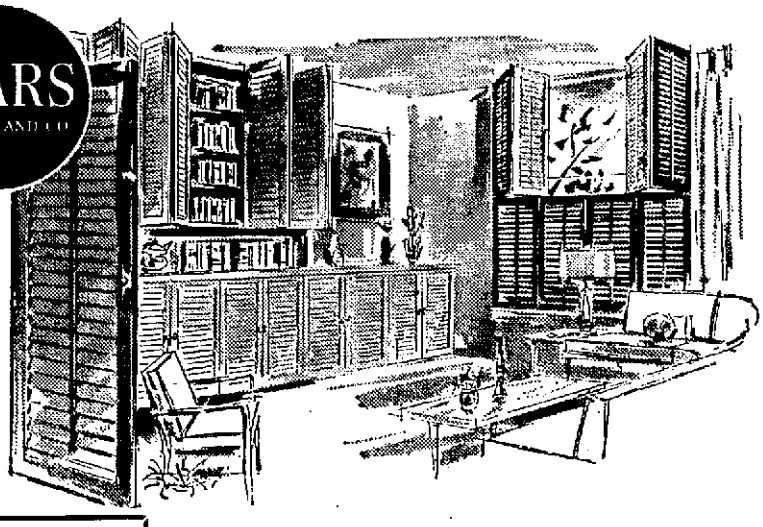

The caddy requires but little storage space. It's good looking and we'll guarantee it's as handy as anything ever invented for the home handyman (or handy woman). You can easily build it in one evening when you use the full-size pattern. All you need do is trace the pattern on wood, then saw out the parts and put them together.

To obtain the tool caddy pattern, specify No. 268 and send name and address to Steve Ellingson, Long Beach Independent, Press-Telegram Pattern Dept., P. O. Box 2383, Van Nuys, Calif.

Tool caddy, a handy article for the home workshop, finds an admirer in Greg Walcott of NBC-TV's "87th Precinct."

Personality Is the Difference

Photos by Joe Risinger

Hearthstone couch (background) forms entry at end of living room in Los Alamitos home of Mrs. Ellen Schwartz and children. Personal touches set up decor of home.

By Stella George

COLOR, built-ins and personal touches make the home of Mrs. Ellen Schwartz and her two children, 3171 Walker and Lee Drive, Los Alamitos, the little bit "different" that sets it individually among others of the neighborhood that are similar architecturally.

The home is of a design that features the center kitchen dividing the family room from the dining room. Clever decorating ideas serve the dual purpose of being functional as well as attractive.

Predominating colors, daring and gay, are blue, magenta, violet, and turquoise—the colors of the chairs surrounding the dining room table. This symphony is matched with the violet chair and magenta couch in the living room, as well as the pictures that bring out the turquoise and violet. A neutral champagne couch and a grand piano are subdued background pieces, lending a quiet elegance to the decor.

In the family room, a turquoise sectional carries out the color theme and is placed for TViewing. Its convenience to the kitchen aids with the nightly problem of television snacks.

There are shades of certain colors that have to be seen in order to appreciate their particular beauty. Words cannot describe such colors; the girl's room in this home, for example, is done in a light, bright turquoise, certainly an artist's creation in every sense of the word. Noteworthy are tasteful furnishings, a mobile in the window and fine carpeting with turquoise blue flecks and the unusual blue of the color scheme.

Built-in cabinet with hanging shelves above is of interest in the family room. In center is an enclosure for sewing machine. Top yields almost 12-foot working area.

Simple, tastefully chosen furnishings, kept to minimum, retain spaciousness and freedom of movement.

BROWN, magenta, and turquoise are used in the boy's room. The Mexican rug on the floor emphasizes these colors and adds a note of interest to the well-furnished room.

In the master bedroom, color again marks the motif. Carpeting is in a charcoal shade, just right as a background for lavender touches in the room. Too, charcoal carpeting does not show soil which might be carried from the garage entrance to this particular room, therefore, it serves its colorful role well.

This livable and lovable home has a fruit orchard in the back yard, including lemon, orange, lime, grapefruit, cherry, and peach trees. In addition, there is a vegetable garden assigned to the care of the youngsters.

Interesting exterior of the Schwartz home provides contrast in textural and architectural treatment.

Here Come Dem Jazz Fireballs!

HALF a hundred of the world's great Dixieland jazzmen will come "floatin' down the river" at Disneyland next Saturday night, trumpets blowing and banjos strumming, when the second annual "Dixieland at Disneyland" show rocks the Magic Kingdom with New Orleans music and fun.

Louis Armstrong, the Yankee Doodle Grandee of jazz (born July 4, 1900, in New Orleans), heads the star-studded list of Dixieland talent that outshines even the first annual affair.

Joining the great "Satchmo" for the jazz festival will be: Teddy Buckner and His Dixieland Band, The Firehouse Five Plus 2, The Young Men From New Orleans, Matty Matlock and His Dixieland All-Stars, the Disneyland Strawhatters and the Albert McNeil Choir.

LIKE THE FIRST "Dixieland at Disneyland," held a year ago, this year's program will begin on the park's Rivers of America with the big "Salute to Dixieland" show.

Each Dixieland band will float down the river on a raft bathed in blue, white and magenta spotlights. Each band will play in its own distinctive style.

For the finale, more than 50 jazz artists board the Mark Twain riverboat. Under a giant display of fireworks exploding on the water and in the air, the sternwheeler, ablaze with lights, will round the bend with musicians playing "When the Saints Come Marching In."

AT SHOW'S END, a torchlight parade will start at the riverboat docks and wind its way through the streets. Bands will play, leading their followers to six locations in Disneyland where they will perform for dancing and listening until 2 a.m.

The entire Magic Kingdom turns out in full operation for the event. An all-encompassing ticket is the only "pass" required for every ride and attraction, from flying saucers to monorail, Matterhorn bobsled, jungle cruise and submarine voyage — every ride as often as desired on the one ticket.

Disneyland's regular daytime operation will terminate at 7 p.m. next Saturday. The park will then close for an hour and re-open at 8 p.m. for holders of "Dixieland at Disneyland" tickets. The river show is set for 9 p.m. with Disneyland remaining open for all rides and attractions, dancing and listening until 2 a.m.

Louis (Satchmo) Armstrong heads the cast of Dixieland at Disneyland next Saturday night at the Anaheim Park.

Teddy Buckner, who got his start with the famous Kid Ory in New Orleans, will bring his band to Disneyland.

Your Name

either German or English in background. In Germany this surname was given to honor a lineage founder who lived in the Bavarian city of Bamberg. The locality name Bamberg deciphers as "beam-tree mountain." The beam is also known as the mountain ash tree. In Britain Bamber had a similar origin, the phrase "Beam-Bearo" indicating "beam-tree grove," the site of the family home. The coat-of-arms from Bavaria has three green tree stumps on a blue shield.

DEAR MISS RULE: Please explain HILL.—E. H., Arlington; V. W., Long Beach.

E. H., V. W.: HILL, a land description source name, was for a family who lived on a hill in England in the Middle Ages. In the year 1220 Walter de la (of the) Hille was a Devonshire land owner. The Hill family of Shropshire, the oldest branch of this lineage, were granted a coat-of-arms in 1315, a silver triple-towered castle centered on a black stripe across an ermine covered shield. Robert Hill of England came to Boston, Mass., in 1635. He had six children and left a long line of American descendants.

DEAR MISS RULE: Would like your analysis of DE BARTON. — Mrs. V.M., Long Beach.

V.M.: DE BARTON ancestors migrated from their English home to Holland and Germany. This name means "From the barley farmstead." There are towns named Barton in Bedford, Devon, Lancanster, Lincoln and Stafford, England. The Barton shield granted descendants in the German Rheinland is the same as that used by this family's Yorkshire branch, a curious symbology of three golden snails centered on a red shield.

DEAR MISS RULE: Kindly give the origin of BALLING. —E. R., Lakewood.

E. R.: BALLING had an old French origin. The occupational title "Bulenger" meant "Baker." Descendants who migrated to England altered the surname to Balinger, then to Ballinger in the 1100s. Balling is a further abbreviation. German records from the Middle Ages also list descendants of this lineage. The crest for Ballinger has a dragon head with a pair of outspread wings behind it, showing family relationship to the German Ballingers. London marriage records of 1670 list the wedding of Audrey Ballinger.

Geyser Within Reach

By Enola Chamberlin

IT MIGHT be a dream-come-true to go to Yellowstone National Park to see the geysers. But if such a trip is out of the question this year, you can see one of these spouting wonders right in your own state. California has one, and it is an impressive sight as it spouts 200 feet skyward.

This geyser located not far from Calistoga and just off Hwy. 29 north of San Francisco marks the southern end of a geyser region perhaps 20 miles in length. The northernmost geysers a few miles northeast of Geyserville on Hwy. 101, have been capped to make America's first geothermal electric power generating station.

But this one geyser remains unthrottled and, like Old Faithful, it bursts forth with a strange regularity once an hour at about 10 minutes before the hour. As it reaches for the sky the steam which rushes from it brings a rainbow of surpassing beauty to crown it.

Steam brought from deep within the earth through wells has begun to spin the turbine of this geothermal plant.

October's the Month in Mexico

IF, like a great many turistas, you plan a trip to Mexico in October, you have planned wisely, in many respects.

For instance, October is a gay festival month south of the border. Everywhere—almost—from the small villages to the capital itself, visitors will find themselves in the midst of some sort of a colorful native procession, Mardi gras, fair, regional dance, pilgrimage, or vivid fireworks display.

And at Mexico City, ahh. The big day is Columbus Day, which marks the start of both professional bullfight and horseracing seasons.

Traditional aficionados appear Oct. 12 to honor the opening of the bullfights, a lusty spectacle for which Mexico has become internationally famous.

IT IS IMPORTANT, too, for turistas to be able to say they were there for the "Day of the Race," which sees horses—and trackside touts—

By Fred Taylor Kraft
Independent-Press-Telegram Travel Editor

in action at the mammoth Hipodromo de las Americas.

The cultural pace of Mexico City quickens at the same time with the opera season opening with a flash of color at the Palace of Fine Arts.

Theater addicts also will enjoy the "little theater" performances—Mexican version. A leader this year promises to be the Anselmo-de Llano production in Spanish of "Where's Charley?" at the Teatro del Bosque, in Chapultepec Park's quaint setting.

ELSEWHERE IN Manana-land:

Folklore, featuring liltingly sensual marimba music, is highlighted Oct. 3-7 in Constancia del Rosario, state of Oaxaca.

St. Francis of Assisi Day, Oct. 4, in all towns and villages of which the saint is a patron.

A fiesta honoring the Virgin del Rosario, Oct. 1-8, in Zapotlan del Rey, with rodeos and authentic versions of the Mexican Hat Dance (Jarabe Tapatio).

An always-colorful Mardi gras-like carnival, Oct. 5-14 in Alvarado, with parades, masquerades, and other hijinks.

The list is almost endless, but that will give you an idea. October is, indeed, a good month to go to Mexico.

JETS WILL WHIZ you from International Airport to Mexico City in something like four hours, or you can go by bus or train. If you plan to drive, routes between here and the Mexican capital are liberally sprinkled with motels charging from $3.50 to $7 per night. Accommodations in first class hotels in the capital run from $6 to $15 per night.

Mexican hotels and restaurants charge — and this info comes from a late survey of the Auto Club of Southern California—about 80 per cent of the U. S. standard. High duties make liquor about twice its U. S. price but domestic wines, tequila and kahlua cocktails are inexpensive.

Figure on paying a cabbie about 10 cents per mile, about 32 cents for admission to the best movie houses.

Tips? 15 per cent along the well-traveled routes; but bellboys in Mexico City, Acapulco and other resort areas expect a little more.

Proper change in pesos saves money when tipping, so play it smart and keep a good supply of small notes and coins on hand.

WEEKEND GADABOUTS:

This weekend marks the first of four during which special events are being held at Catalina Island. Leading off (today) is an art show in which $750 in prizes are being distributed; Sept. 30-Oct. 1 and Oct. 14-15, a troup of 30 American Indian singers and dancers; Oct. 7-8, Lakewood Drum and Bugle Corps.

Newest in Luxury at Sea

The longest passenger vessel afloat—the 12-deck 68,000-ton SS France—will nose into New York Harbor next Feb. 8 on her maiden voyage from Le Havre and Southampton, inaugurating a multitude of innovations in luxury sea travel.

Incorporating the latest in marine advances and bold in its use of marine architecture and design, the France will be a two-class ship with a capacity of 500 first class and 1,500 tourist class.

The ship will be completely air-conditioned; it will have a pair of stabilizers to cut rolling to a mere two degrees; the largest (700 seating capacity) and best equipped movie theater afloat; a unique play area for children; cabins will feature technical innovations in soundproofing, lighting and communications; and two swimming pools—one outdoor and one indoor.

EQUIPPING SUCH a ship to bring the latest in marine technology and decor to today's demanding ocean traveler is an undertaking comparable to designing, constructing and decorating a modern, 1,000-high-cost-home suburb complete with restaurants, theaters, swimming pools and all the other accoutrements of luxury living.

This was reported by John J. Scotto, general agent of the French Line, who has just returned to Southern California from St. Nazaire, France, where he participated in a preview inspection of the ocean giant.

"More than half of the total cost of $100 million," Scotto pointed out, "is being lavished on equipping and decorating this new contender for the transatlantic tourist clientele."

THE FURNISHINGS of the cabins is itself equivalent to designing and decorating a hotel the size and elegance of New York's Waldorf-Astoria. The ship will have its own television studio whose programs can be seen in many of the rooms and from five different lounges.

The kitchen facilities—always the pride of the French Line— are capable of serving 9,000 meals a day, not counting tea and snacks. The tourist class dining room is the largest restaurant afloat. In it and in the other restaudants aboard ship will be served the finest in French cuisine.

It will be the third SS France to visit New York. SS France I arrived in 1872, the second in 1912.

HONG KONG

"We have heard that Japanese pearls are cheaper if you buy in Hong Kong . . ."

NOT ONLY pearls. Japanese cameras and transistor radios sell for less in Hong Kong than on the Ginza.

This is a matter of Japanese export policy—low export prices to get foreign exchange—plus the fact that Hong Kong is a free port. No duty.

Hard to say whether you'll get better prices because of Hong Kong's increasing tendency to make the fast dollar.

Quoted prices don't mean much—except in big, reliable stores such as Lane, Crawford. (Mikimoto pearl agents.) Shopkeepers are caught in a terrible squeeze between tourist guides and landlords.

Landlords are raising rents 100 per cent nearly every six months. The guide is charging 30 per cent of what you spend for bringing you there.

From all sides I hear: "Don't use a guide for anything except sightseeing."

". . . any danger with cholera in the Far East now?"

You should have the inoculations. (Two weeks apart. No uncomfortable reaction.)

I try to drink bottled water any time in the Far East. (Except Japan, where water is okay. The Japanese don't trust OUR water.)

Keep off peeled fruits, vegetables and the small market stands.

Hong Kong has inoculated 2 million of the 4 million residents. But there is no report of control inside China. And it can keep spilling over the edges anywhere.

". . . Can you suggest a good travel-Christmas present for my son and new daughter-in-law?"

If the couple is newly married, I'd suggest a cruise. Depending on what they like, Hawaii and/or the South Seas, the Caribbean, Europe or the Orient.

Matson has a cruise over Christmas and New Year that sounds good to me. On the Lurline. Two weeks, San Francisco to Acapulco, Mexico. Write Matson Public Relations, 215 Market St., San Francisco, for free information.

"Would you suggest a stopover in Fiji? What's it like?"

Depends on which way you arrive. From Australia or New Zealand you'll like it. After Tahiti it's dull.

The best trip out of Fiji is the four-day cruise to the Yasawa islands on the 10-passenger "Blue Lagoon."

CLOYD KIMBALL

A San Franciscan, Cloyd Kimball, has been appointed vice president-transportation for Greyhound's 11-state western division, President M. C. Frailey of Western Greyhound Lines announces. Kimball has been director of transportation since 1959.

Tour Attraction

George Kainapau, known throughout the Islands as "The Golden Voice of Hawaii," will act as tour conductor of the annual "Aloha Week" tour to Hawaii being arranged by Rita Dugan of Belmont Shore Travel. Kainapau, a long-time favorite at the Royal Hawaiian Hotel, will have with him for the tour some noted Hawaiian dancers and singers, Miss Dugan said.

Noted Visitor

A distinguished Southland visitor tomorrow will be Sir John Elliot, chairman of Thos. Cook & Son and half a dozen other organizations known throughout the world. Sir John was knighted in 1954, is a member of the Societe d'Histoire de Paris, and author of "The Way of the Thumbrils," a book about life in Paris during the French Revolution. He is headquartering at the Biltmore in Los Angeles.

Going Places

By SHIRLEY and BOB SLOANE

IT IS DIFFICULT to say whether Cambridge, the ancient English town, is actually so similar to many American campus communities, or whether it just has a natural familiarity about it, like an ancestral memory.

The same overflowing bookshops with their secondhand texts on rickety stands are there. So are the classy-looking men's shops behind paneled glass windows, where one can find bulky houndstooth jackets, formidable caps that go with formidable mustaches and other items of apparel that only an Englishman on a country weekend or an American college student would wear. Inevitably, there are the tea shops, apothecaries and pubs.

Where Cambridge differs from the American scene, however, is in the strange fact that the place jumps. Most Ivy League towns are notable for their decorous quiet, conducive to the summoning of muses and the contemplation of Truth.

BUT CAMBRIDGE teems. The tea-and-crumpet trade booms all day. Not only taxis and cars, but bicycles and pedestrians stream through the streets most of the day, jamming the sidewalks and roads. While American students covet English sports cars, English students have gone a step further in status-seeking and delight in 30-year-old miniature jalopies, mostly Austins, that look like scaled-down Model A Fords.

By contrast, the campus is the peaceful, vine-covered temple of learning you'd expect. Shaded walks and broad lawns spread among the old stone buildings. To visitors, the most interesting of these is the 400-year-old King's College Chapel, whence emanate the voices of the famed chapel choir via short-wave radio every Christmas Eve.

Not far from Cambridge is Eton, on whose playing fields the Duke of Wellington said he won the battle of Waterloo. Upper-class Britishers believe in bringing their kids up the hard way, and these hallowed halls look as if the battle were fought in the classrooms.

SURROUNDING a barren courtyard that looks something like the exercise area of a county jail is an unpainted two-story classroom building. Most of the rooms are dark and many have only long benches and tables instead of desks, also unpainted.

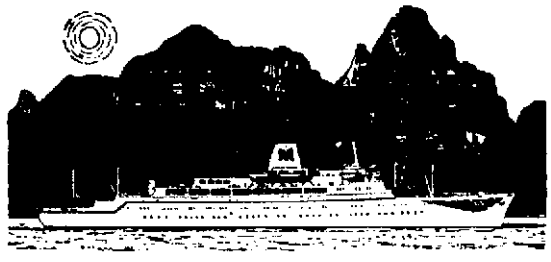

Virtually every inch of wall and desk space is carved with the names and graduation years of most of the pupils who ever labored through the soul-trying Latin, Greek and mathematics curricula. Among those names are most of Britain's famous sons, including a majority of its prime ministers, all carved when each was just another schoolboy.

Shirley and Bob Sloane will be happy to help readers with their travel problems. Address them in care of Southland Magazine, Independent, Press-Telegram, 6th and Pine, Long Beach 12, Calif.

A Fresh Look at Palms

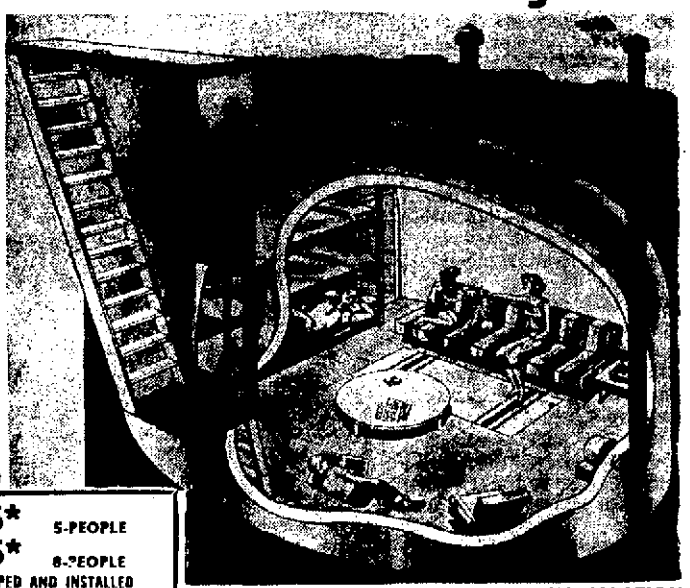

There are 4,000 known species of palms, a number of which are the pride and joy of Southland residents. Undoubtedly others would be if gardeners of the area were acquainted with them. An introduction to a large number of these plants will be found in "PALMS," a paperback book (price not given) written by Desmond Muirhead, Phoenix landscape artist.

Included in the book are methods of planting and pruning for the best results, how to move large palms, diseases, how to identify the various species, and countless suggestions on landscaping with palms.

The publisher is Dale Stuart King, Six Shooter Canyon, Globe, Ariz.

Raiding With Morgan

By Vera Williams
Independent, Press-Telegram Book Editor

"JOHN HUNT MORGAN'S great raid north of the Ohio always has intrigued me as one of the most exciting events of the Civil War," Allen Keller writes at the beginning of his new book, "MORGAN'S RAID" (Bobbs-Merrill, $5.)

He gives an account of the 25 days in the summer of 1863 when Gen. Morgan led 2,000 Confederate cavalrymen through Kentucky, Indiana and Ohio, accomplishing the deepest penetration of the North by any Confederate force during the entire Civil War.

As Keller writes, "Morgan already was one of the South's great heroes. A beau sabreur in the old tradition, with a plume on his hat and a laugh on his lips, his exploits resembled Robin Hood's.

"He had captured Union officers in their beds, whipped forces twice as strong as his own by using tricks and ruses and had a strange way of turning up far inside the enemy lines when least expected.

"A devout man, he once halted his column in the midst of a cross country chase with the Federals close behind and attended services in a small country church."

More than 120,000 Northern militia and virtually all the Union cavalry in the Midwest entered the chase. Yet not one woman or child was hurt and damage to civilian property was held to a minimum.

Says, the author, "It may well have been chivalry's last appearance on war's sordid stage."

WHAT HAS HAPPENED and is happening in Little Rock, Nashville, Clinton, New Orleans and various cities in Virginia is portrayed in "58 LONELY MEN: Southern Federal Judges and School Desegregation," by J. W. Peltason (Harcourt, Brace & World, $4.95). Peltason, professor of political science at the University of Illinois, describes the 58 judges in the circuit and district courts of the South, charged with carrying out the decisions of the U. S. Supreme Court against segregation, and the pressures put on them.

IN THE DEEP SOUTH an 8-year-old boy is convicted of an obviously trumped up charge of rape. Quickly it becomes an international cause celebre. The world publicity spotlight centered on the small town brings out chicanery, selfishness, political ambitions and the warm love of a family. "THE PROUD AMERICAN BOY," by Russell Braddon (St. Martin's, $4.95).

ASK THE AVERAGE person who Lucy Stone was and he answers: "That woman who refused to take her husband's name when she married."

Lucy Stone was a good deal more than that, she was a militant leader in the cause of women's rights, she fought for the abolition of slavery, and she was deeply in love with and deeply loved by her husband, Henry Blackwell.

Elinor Rice Hays—who up to now has written books under her maiden name of Elinor Rice—is the talented author of "MORNING STAR: A Biography of Lucy Stone, 1818-1893" (Harcourt, Brace & World, $5.75).

Lucy Stone's career spanned a turbulent period in American history. With her, through the pages of this biography, move William Lloyd Garrison, Wendell Phillips, Julia Ward Howe and Susan B. Anthony.

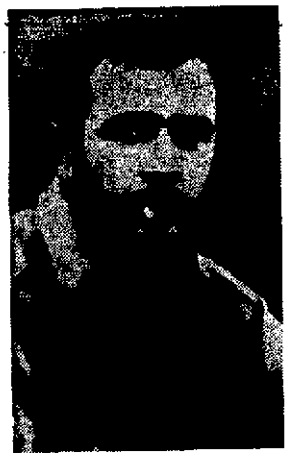

CHARLES F. KETTERING, a modest man, came out of the Ohio hills to change everyone's lives. He put the self-starter in the automobile, invented knockless gasoline, the electric cash register, the safe coolant for the refrigerator and developed the lightweight diesel engine.

It took 14,999 tests to get the knocks out of gasoline.

Boss Ket worked 24 hours a day for five days in a row to reduce the size of a self-starter so it would fit a waiting Cadillac.

In the last years of his life he worked on two projects: how to use the sun's ray to increase the world's supply of food, and how to cure cancer.

"BOSS KET: A Life of Charles F. Kettering," by Rosamond McPherson Young, (Longmans, Green, $3.50).

DON BERRY

A lusty story of the winning of the West, particularly the expansion of the Rocky Mountain Fur Co., is told by Berry in "A MAJORITY OF SCOUNDRELS" (Harper, $8.95).

Revered Zionist

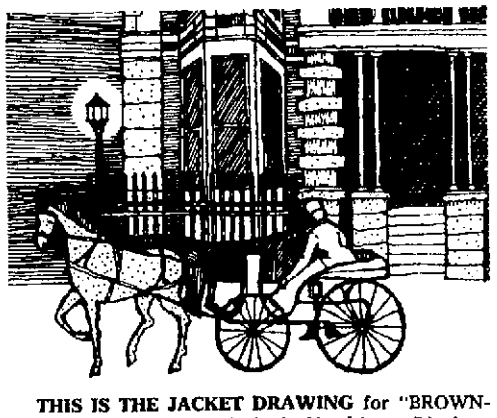

The life of a magnificent woman is recounted in "WOMAN OF VALOR: The Story of Henrietta Szold," by Irving Fineman (Simon and Schuster, $5.95). Founder of Hadassah, the women's Zionist organization of America, Miss Szold is revered as a Zionist leader who helped bring about the establishment of Israel, and saved the lives of thousands of Jewish children.

Few know that these accomplishments were based on heartbreak. At the age of 49 she faced the shattering realization that the one man in her life, a brilliant professor years younger than she, did not love her.

He married another woman and Miss Szold went on a trip of healing to Palestine. There she realized the purpose of her life: to find a way in which women might help make real the ancient dream of a Jewish homeland.

When Hitler rose to power, she went alone into Berlin, at the age of 74, to rescue Jewish children from the Nazi regime and bring them to Palestine.

Fineman writes with compassion, a lively sense of the significant, and keen insight into the lonely heart of a brave woman.

CAMERA ANGLES

New Aids for Lens Fans Readied

By Irving Desfor

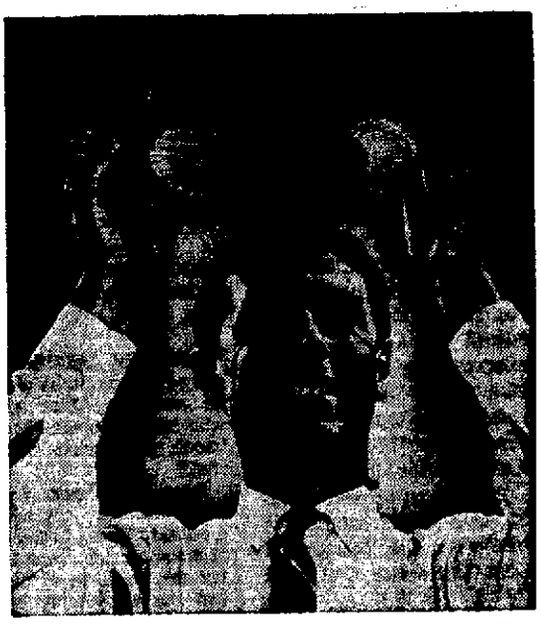

A DIVERSIFIED assortment of new products, designed to make photography easier, better or more viewable, was demonstrated recently at press showings. They will be available shortly for camera fans.

Among the items that evoked spontaneous interest is a revolutionary new slide projector, the "Carousel." Its unique feature is a circular, 80-slide revolving tray which sits atop the machine and which cannot be jammed according to the Kodak engineers who designed it.

THIS PROVED an irresistible challenge to the assembled critics who thereupon did their durndest to disprove it. The machine, however, outwitted them. It went on its appointed automatic rounds, changing tempo, direction and focus at manual or remote control command with nary a slip, skip or jam.

A switch control cuts the light output from 500 to 300 watts to match the needs of dark or light slides.

The Carousel's circular slide tray slips into place, and is changed for another batch of pictures, somewhat like a phonograph record. Slides are numbered, can be edited instantly — yet are locked in place securely even if the tray is turned upside down. Each tray is stored in a book-like indexed case for shelf filing. They accept 35mm, 828 bantam and super slides.

Upside down, but not out! New circular tray with 80 slides held by inner ring. It revolves, and is jam proof.

A "NEW LOOK" has also come to the indestructible box camera. In its newest version, the Brownie Super 27 camera has an unusual horizontal format with the shutter release a finger tip on the top. The large, bright viewfinder is at one edge, alongside the 3-element f/8 lens. On the other side is a recessed, built-in flash unit covered by a hinged lid which pops open at the touch of a button.

The normal shooting speed of 1/80th is automatically changed when the flash unit door opens to a flash-shooting speed of 1/40th of a second. A tiny AG-1 flashbulb can be left in the flash unit with the lid closed. It will be fired only by opening the door.

This 6-ounce gadget can be placed up to 25 feet away from any camera using a midget flashbulb with no connecting wires between them. When the camera flash is fired, the remote flash goes off simultaneously, triggered by a tiny electric eye.

This inexpensive slave unit accepts M2, M5, M25, No. 5 and No. 25 flashbulbs. Several can be strategically placed to produce dramatic side- and backlighting or to provide even illumination for large group or interior shots. Their light must never bounce back into the camera lens. Properly used, they add a professional touch to pictures.

Slices of bologna, salami, cheese and tomato slipped between buttered Italian bread slices fill this loaf.

FOOD

Snack-Time Loaf

By Mildred K. Flanary
Independent, Press-Telegram Home Economics Editor

TAKE A GROUP of young people, add some back-to-school activity, and you have a recipe for appetites which are completely boundless. To meet the situation try Cotto Bologna Sandwich Loaf.

This snack-time treat is easy to make and fun to serve. Tucked between slices of Italian bread are favorite sliced cold meats, lettuce, tomatoes and cheese. Zesty cotto salami and mildly seasoned all meat bologna are popular.

To assemble the sandwich loaf, slice a loaf of Italian bread nearly through and brush every other pair of facing slices with melted butter. Fold slices of bologna and cotto salami in half and tuck between the buttered slices. Add crisp lettuce, thin slices of tomatoes and cheese.

Dogs Will Strut...And Run, Too!

By Eleanor Avery Price

Afghan in a hurry! New sport of Afghan racing will be a special event at Santa Ana Valley Kennel Club benched show, obedience trial today.

SANTA ANA Valley Kennel Club today presents its anniversary benched show and obedience trial at Orange County Fairgrounds, 20391 Newport Blvd., Costa Mesa. Always on its toes to give spectators their money's worth, the club will run Afghan hound racing under the supervision of the Orange County Hound Coursing Assn.

Afghan hound racing was founded in California by Earl Stites in the northern part of the state in the late 1950s after Stites had become enthusiastic over whippet races seen at a Del Monte Kennel Club show at Pebble Beach. A number of problems were involved including obtaining suitable muzzles, a satisfactory machine to pull a lure, and electric starting boxes. But eventually race sessions began, with Afghans performing outstandingly well.

A TALK to Southern California Afghan owners by Stites intrigued the fanciers and, under the leadership of Bill and Gini Withington (Stormhill Kennels), Pasadena, the Afghan Racing Association was formed, the first trial races being held in Stormhill's fenced "west 40." Results were both hilarious and spectacular and since then regular races, complete with hurdles, have been held in San Fernando and Flintridge.

In early 1961, Stites was transferred to Santa Ana in Southern California where he interested Afghan fanciers in this area in the new Orange County Hound Coursing Assn. Hounds other than Afghans are welcome to come to the practice trials at Orange County Fairgrounds.* This new sport appears to be here to stay. It is run for fun, with scraps of fur as lures, no betting, and lacks the cruelty of races in some other states where dogs, usually greyhounds, are exterminated if not the fastest.

VARIOUS BREEDS of hounds, being built on different lines, have different racing abilities. The Afghan, for example, with his big, thick pads and high, far apart hip bones, can pivot and execute maneuvers that would snap a greyhound's leg, and Afghans can leap around craggy terrain with the agility of a mountain goat, their tremendous coats protecting them from rocks and their endurance staying with them long after other hounds become exhausted.

Of course, any hound used in coursing should be in top condition. Hearts and lungs must be able to take the grind. A fine way to build up a dog for racing is to take him on long steady walks once or twice daily, going up eventually to 8 miles for large hounds. Also, the dogs need to frolic in clear spaces such as a tennis court or isolated beach. When the hound is conditioned, and he must be kept that way with regular walks and exercise, he is ready for trial races.

*Contact Betty and Earl Stites at 18672 Dodge Ave., Santa Ana, KImberly 3-2265.

FALL FUTURITY and match of the Basset Hound Club of Southern California will be held Oct. 1 at Cortez Park, West Covina. Entries taken at the park until noon.

GERMAN Shepherd Club of Long Beach will have a puppy match Oct. 1 at Recreation Park, Tenth St. and Federation Ave., judging to start at noon.

YOUR GARDEN

Camellias are prized among Long Beach area gardeners for their decorative foliage as well as floral color.

Camellias Pay Off

By Joe Littlefield

EXCEPT for one minor factor, japonica camellias would be the number one evergreen shrub selection for all gardens. This limitation is the exposure factor; in most cases camellias should have some shade.

Certain varieties need more shade than sun, but over all, they'll stand up to a half day of sun and half day of shade, excepting in dry, hot, and desert areas.

Plants in dense shade flower less abundantly, and sometimes, not at all.

A WELL KNOWN wholesale nursery company states that japonica camellias will stand cold down to 20, even 10 degrees above zero. They'll grow better if watered only when thirsty. Camellias on north and west sides of house may be watered two to three times a month, where the soil is medium heavy. Soil should be soaked two to three feet deep. Between waterings, shower foliage a couple of times a week. Feed camellias three times a year, with camellia food.

Gardeners who water their camellias several times a week eventually create sodium alkali condition, and plants eventually suffer. Plants show this condition in the leaves, first in small brown spots. Later the spots enlarge, finally merge together to form brown edges along leaves.

MRS. GOLDIE DOVALIS
Not a Nickname

MOST PEOPLE think Goldie Dovalis' first name must be a nickname. But it isn't.

Curious about it, friends and aquaintances sometimes ask: "Were you a blond baby? Is that where your name comes from?"

The answer, surprisingly, is no. She was born with coal black hair and has been a brunette all her life. The name was supplied by her father who decided before she was born that Goldie was a perfect name for a little girl whether she was blond or brunette.

Mrs. Dovalis is as unusual as her name. She is unquestionably one of the hardest working professional women in Long Beach. Co-owner of the elegant Currie's Santa Fe restaurant, 1735 W. Pacific Hwy., she arrives there at noon and remains until midnight, working this long and difficult 12-hour shift seven days a week. Thanks to such devotion to duty, she and her skilled husband, Gabriel, have turned Currie's Santa Fe into one of Long Beach's finest dining places.

When Mr. and Mrs. Dovalis took over as owners 14 years ago, Currie's Santa Fe consisted of one fairly large room with 16 tables. Down through the years the couple has enlarged and redesigned the place until now it has seating for 250 persons in two dining rooms, two banquet rooms and a spacious cocktail lounge. A few weeks ago, the restaurant's exterior was completely restyled with brick and a low slanting roof, adding fresh interest.

Hundreds of satisfied customers rate Currie's Santa Fe as definitely one of the city's best steak houses. Featured are superb charcoal-broiled T-bones and Kansas City steaks as well as filets, sirloins and New Yorks priced from $2.85 up. The restaurant also has a reputation for outstanding sea foods.

TRANQUILIZERS

Dr. Frank Berger

Is it safe to take tranquilizers? Do they really help you? Today, answers are important because since the "mood pills" have come into wide use, misconceptions and a careless public attitude have grown up about them. Yet, 17 million or more prescriptions for tranquilizers are written in the U.S. each year. They now rank second in sales to antibiotics. To get the facts about these drugs, PARADE asked 21 questions of Dr. Frank Berger, discoverer of Miltown (chemical name: meprobamate), one of the earliest tranquilizers. He is president of Wallace Laboratories, Cranbury, N.J.

by ROBERT P. GOLDMAN

Q. Tranquilizers have been used increasingly in the past five years. Is there anything new about them?

A. Yes. We have learned a great deal about whom they can help, whom they cannot help, their strengths, limitations and what might be developed in the future.

Q. Aren't people overusing—and doctors overprescribing—these drugs?

A. In my opinion, no. Of course, the drug can be abused in individual cases. However, in general, the normal healthy individual avoids dosing himself with pills. As for doctors, they generally prescribe tranquilizers for people they believe can be helped by them.

Q. Can these drugs really cure mental illness?

A. They do not cure anything. They may alleviate symptoms and open the way to more complete treatment and understanding of the problem.

Q. Do tranquilizers create a feeling of happiness?

A. No. However, they can make your problem seem less forbidding by removing or decreasing unreasonable anxiety. This is a basic virtue of the drugs.

Q. What is their actual effect?

A. They relieve anxiety, calm you down, make you better able to endure the situation you find upsetting. The "situation" may involve anything from visiting the dentist to sweating out a new job.

Q. Are there emotional conditions for which tranquilizers simply don't work?

A. Certainly. If a mother is anxious because her child is sick, she's not likely to be helped by tranquilizers. Hers are normal, healthy jitters. Tranquilizers work best when there is no real cause to justify emotional distress.

Q. What kind of anxiety does yield to tranquilizers?

A. Doctors call it "free-floating anxiety." The individual is always on edge, but cannot tell why. He feels vaguely uneasy. Added stress becomes the final straw that makes him extremely nervous and excitable.

Q. What types of troubled patients gain benefits?

A. Those who are extremely jittery or overexcitable and psychotics who have delusions and who fall out of touch with reality.

Q. How many different tranquilizers are available today for prescription use by disturbed patients?

A. More than 40. They fall into three basic chemical categories: meprobamate, chlorpromazine, reserpine.

Q. Do these drugs produce any ill effects?

A. All drugs, tranquilizers included, may have harmful effects when taken by people who cannot tolerate them. However, when carefully prescribed, tranquilizers do not produce serious side effects.

Q. Is it dangerous to take an overdose?

A. An overdose of any drug is dangerous. Skin blotches, weakness, drowsiness and changes in vision have been reported as occasional effects of ordinary tranquilizer doses. In rare cases, blood disorders have developed.

Q. Should you drive a car after taking a tranquilizer?

A. Most people can do so safely. However, a few may find that their efficiency is somewhat impaired. Such persons should be cautious about driving or operating any machinery which can be life-endangering.

Q. Can you take tranquilizers safely for life?

A. I believe that the majority of patients can—providing they are closely supervised by their doctors.

Q. You hear that tranquilizers are good for almost everything from overweight to heart trouble to ulcers. Do they have that wide a range of effectiveness?

A. They are not "good for almost everything." They can help in cases where anxiety arises from physical illness. Thus, tranquilizers are prescribed often for symptoms of menopause, certain types of headache, chest pain associated with heart trouble, insomnia, some menstrual disorders and muscular spasm.

Q. Are there conditions, strongly associated with emotional problems for which tranquilizers do little if any good?

A. Yes. I don't think they can be of much help in getting the overweight individual to lose unwanted pounds. Nor can they do much to clear up certain skin conditions which are thought to be caused by mental unrest. I doubt also whether they can do much in ulcer cases, because ulcers, I feel, are caused not by tensions but by chemical factors in the body.

Q. Can tranquilizers make you outdo yourself on the job or in an emergency?

A. I doubt it. I doubt that they can make a slugger out of a mediocre ballplayer. These drugs don't increase your natural capacities. They may help you to realize them.

Q. Haven't tranquilizers changed the mental hospital picture?

A. They have helped. Since tranquilizers and psychic energizers have come on the scene, mental hospital patient loads have decreased slightly, reversing a trend of many years.

Q. What is a psychic energizer?

A. A drug which, unlike the tranquilizer, can lift the patient out of the doldrums of depression.

Q. Will research produce more and better drugs to combat emotional disorders in the years ahead?

A. We hope so. We need new and effective drugs to treat criminal behavior, which I'm sure results very often from brain abnormality.

Q. Is there any new evidence to that effect?

A. Yes. Doctors in England have found that in 90 per cent of certain groups of convicted criminals, there are abnormal wave patterns as shown by standard measurement techniques. Perhaps drugs of the future might be able to make these brain waves normal and thus prevent the individual from committing crime.

Q. Are there any other frontiers for new drugs in this field of emotional well-being?

A. There are experiments with drugs aimed at improving your performance in tasks which you know produce anxiety and tension. ■

A new way to train your dog

by RICHARD A. WOLTERS

TODAY IS THE BEGINNING OF National Dog Week. Authorities say that the 26 million dogs in this country are largely affectionate parasites living off the land. Yet it takes little time, knowledge and skill to make a pet of your dog, not a pest.

Now experts at Hamilton Station, an animal behavior laboratory in Maine, have revised our timing about the mental development of dogs in a way that simplifies the training job.

For hundreds of years it was believed that the comparison of dog and man was a ratio of 1 to 7. That is, a 1-year-old dog was like a 7-year-old boy, a 3-year-old was like a 21-year-old man and a 7-year-old was like a man in middle age. According to the new information, this ratio is strictly physiological, without bearing on the mental development of a dog. We now know that a 7-week-old pup has attained his full mental capacity.

The new research has shown that the dog's mental growth divides into five critical periods:

FIRST PERIOD (0 to 21 days): A dog's brain in these three weeks is likened to an electric circuit completely wired but not connected to the current. A puppy's needs now are food, sleep and warmth.

SECOND PERIOD (21 to 28 days): His brain and nervous system start to develop. He has an absolute need for his mother.

THIRD PERIOD (28 to 49 days): The pup starts to investigate the world around him. He will now recognize people and respond to voices. He now starts to learn simple things.

FOURTH PERIOD (8 through 11 weeks): Here's where you must enter the picture. Research has proved that at no other time in a dog's life will he establish as strong a bond with man as he will in these next four weeks.

The dog must get a sense of security from his new home. He must have daily play periods with his trainer, must also learn to put up with such irritations as wearing a collar and walking on a leash.

At this point the command of quiet can be taught:

HEEL: Command is given with sharp slap on instructor's leg. For finishing touch use a stick.

firmly grab his snout, squeeze a little, stoutly giving the command and repeating it.

FIFTH PERIOD (12 to 16 weeks): This is where the pup has a strong desire to please, but also declares his independence. Now man and dog determine who will be boss.

Commands in this period are one-word affairs. Use a brisk voice, remembering that it's not a request you are giving. Don't call your dog by saying, "Come, Fido. Come on boy, over here."

Class should be held off by yourselves, without distractions. Have him on the leash. Don't feed him every time he does something good. Let his brain work, not his stomach. When his tail goes down and his head starts to droop, he's had enough. But end the lesson on a happy note. Play with him and give him some loving.

Most important is your stance. Don't tower over the pup, it's a threat to his animal instincts. Lean over, show him you want to be friends.

To teach* sit, put him on the leash. Place him on your left side. Command sit. With the leash in the right hand, gently pull up, hold up his head. At the same time the left hand pushes his hindquarters down to the ground. Keep repeating this until the only pressure needed on his hindquarters is the touch of the fingers. Within a week, he should do it on command.

To teach* stay, first command him to sit. With the leash in the left hand, step around in front of him. Continue to hold his head up. Place your right hand in front of his face, palm out toward him. Command stay. Take one step backward. Motion with the hand to stop and command stay again. If he breaks, start over. Gradually you will be able to go the full length of the leash. In a week he should do this without the leash.

To teach* come, have the dog sit, stay. Get a few yards in front of him, turn, run away from him, clasp your hands and command come. He should respond and run to you with enthusiasm. Gradually reduce the running and he will come on voice command only.

To teach* heel, hold the leash short, keep him at your side. Teach your dog to walk with you, not you with him. If he's reluctant and holds back, bring him along gently. When he gets used to this he may soon want to bolt ahead. A sharp yank will stop him. At the same time command heel. Hold him on the leash where he is, walk up to him, start over. If he really wants to lead, carry a stick, hold him back with taps on his chest. He will get the idea.

To teach* down, don't step on his back paws when he jumps up, as some trainers suggest. Instead, bring your knee up sharply against his chest. Knock him off balance, commanding down at the same time. This is such a surprise to him that he learns fast.

By the time your dog is 4 months old you will know each other well. Many times you will think the dog is almost talking to you and you will have to stifle a temptation to bark back. ■

STAY: Place right hand on dog's face, palm out toward him. This may be learned in week's time.

by BILL CULLEN

A RESTAURANT specializing in exotic foods offered $1,000 to anyone who ordered a dish which the eating place could not supply. One customer requested an elephant tusk sandwich on French bread. The waiter left and returned a few minutes later, sadly reporting that he could not fill the diner's request.

"Aha," said the man. "You don't have any elephant tusks?"

"No," said the waiter, very much embarrassed. "We have an entire freezer full of elephant tusks. It's just that we're out of French bread."

A NEWSPAPERMAN interviewed a gnarled, grizzled old man sitting, with his hands folded in his lap, behind his farm house.

"Sir, I'd like to know the secret of your long life," asked the reporter.

"I drank a gallon of whiskey, smoked 50 cigars and went out dancing, every day of my life," said the man.

"Remarkable!" said the reporter, "and exactly how old are you?"

"Twenty-seven," was the reply.

IN AN OFFICE which displayed one of those enormous signs reading THINK, someone carefully scrawled underneath: OR THWIM.

A YOUNG MAN from the city found himself completely lost on a lonely country road. He reached a crossroads where, providentially, an old rustic was leaning against a fence.

"Does this road take me to town?" asked the baffled urbanite.

"It might," said the farmer.

"How about the other road?"

"Can't rightly say!" replied the farmer.

"You don't know much, do you?" said the young man angrily.

"I guess not," agreed the farmer. "But at least I ain't lost!"

THE WIDOW EXPECTED to inherit all her late husband's wealth. Instead, she learned from the lawyer that her husband had left her $5. Everything else went to his secretary.

Naturally the widow was furious. She drove to the tombstone establishment and summarily ordered the inscription on her husband's monument changed.

"I'm sorry," said the chiseler. "You told me to inscribe 'Rest in Peace' on the stone, and that's what I did. I can't change it now unless you want to buy a new stone."

The widow thought for a moment, then said, "Right after the words, 'Rest in Peace,' you just chisel in, 'Till We Meet Again.' "

SITTING QUIETLY in a bar, a man was suddenly amazed to see a British colonel, in full regalia, only 2 inches tall. Convinced he'd had one too many, he closed his eyes, then re-opened them. Sure enough, at the other end of the bar was the two-inch colonel.

He called the bartender over. "Am I going crazy or is that fellow two inches tall?"

"The colonel?" said the bartender. "Yeah, that's right."

"How can that be?" asked the man.

"Say, Colonel," the barman shouted to the British officer. "Tell this fellow about the time you dated the witch doctor's daughter."

YOU'VE HEARD, I'm sure, about the husband who one morning at shaving time started shouting from the bathroom at the top of his lungs.

Finally his wife awoke and dutifully inquired, "What's wrong, Herman?"

Screamed Herman: "It's my blankety-blank brand-new razor. It won't cut."

There was a momentary pause and then the wife's irrefutably logical answer: "Don't be foolish, Herman. Your beard can't possibly be tougher than the kitchen linoleum."

If the worst should happen

WHERE THE WORLD LEADERS WOULD HIDE

by JACK ANDERSON
Parade Washington correspondent

IN DAYS OF OLD when knights were bold, wars were courteous affairs, at least for the kings and their captains. True, some conquerors, like the Huns, Moors and Mongols, had a disagreeable habit of lopping off heads. But among the more civilized warriors of the Dark Ages this was frowned upon as bad etiquette. Thus England's Black Prince, after seizing France's King John the Good, waited personally on the vanquished monarch and bent his knee every time he brought in the meat platter or wine jug.

But unhappily for monarchs, such amenities went up in the smoke of World War I. World War II was even rougher. Rulers found themselves ducking bullets and bombs along with their subjects.

Today the great hope is that peace and sound judgment will prevail. But if the worst should happen, no man, no matter how exalted, can count himself safe. Thus the world's leaders have been digging in. In what may go down as the beginning of man's return to the cave, they have built some magnificent bomb shelters.

Nikita Khrushchev has probably the most elaborate of all shelters. It is fitted out like Noah's Ark to survive another world catastrophe. Comrade K has Stalin to thank for this underground refuge.

Stalin picked the spot, in the granite crags of the Caucasus, after an elaborate search. He ordered a survey of a legendary cave where supposedly the irate gods bound Prometheus to the rock and left him to be clawed by an eagle. It was too inaccessible. Jason's cave, also famed in legend, was discarded for the same reason. Finally the old tyrant settled on the Uplis-Tsikhe cavern, five miles from the town of Gori in Southern Georgia, where he lived as a boy.

The cave presents a view of breathtaking beauty. Below are the misty marshes and pistachio groves through which the Kura River wends its way to the Caspian Sea. Around its entrance are stands of cherry laurel and, higher still, groves of pine and aspen.

Stalin dug new tunnels and chambers, turned the cave into an under-the-mountain city with its own power plant, communications system, stocks of food, wines, medicines. He even installed a small collective farm where fruit and vegetables are grown in artificial sunshine, and a pasture where cows can graze and provide fresh milk. There are 300 chambers in the Uplis-Tsikhe cavern.

Khrushchev's subterranean hideaway is too far from Moscow to reach in an emergency. Intelligence reports claim the dictator has prepared himself a handier Ubezhishche, a deep bomb shelter of reinforced concrete, within easy running distance from his office.

Mao Tse-tung of Red China, an experienced cave dweller, has prepared an emergency headquarters in a series of caverns in the Hsi-shan, or West Mountains, 10 to 15 miles northwest of Peking. From this secure redoubt, Mao is prepared to contemplate the loss of half of China's 700 million population. This is the number he has said China could afford to sacrifice in a nuclear war.

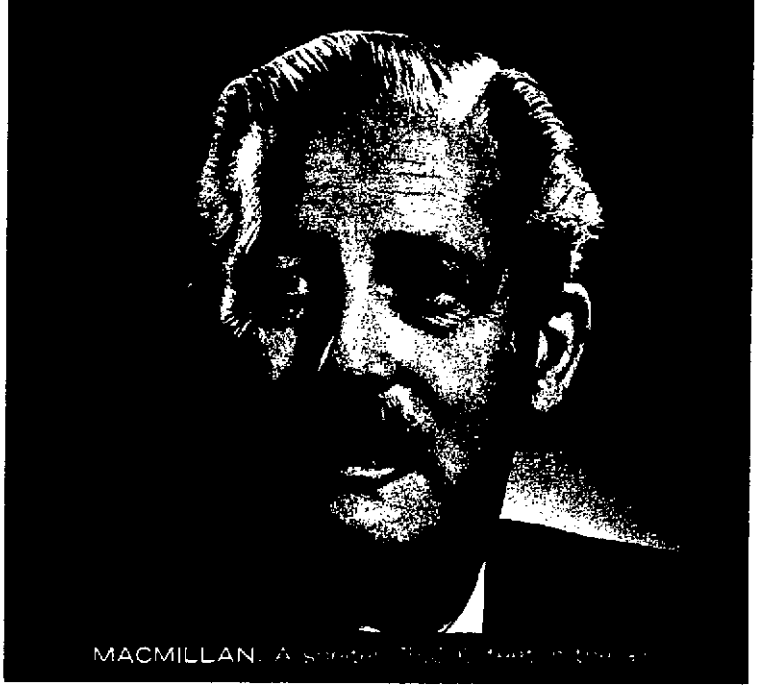

When Mao started his Red rebellion, he holed up in the squalid, lice-infested caves of Yenan. But the old rebel, after a decade in power, has become soft. His new cave dwellings, while not as elaborate as the Khrushchev retreat, are cozy and vermin free.

Konrad Adenauer, West Germany's chancellor, inherited his nuclear hideaway from a man he detested —Adolf Hitler. It lies under the Berghof Pavilion, better known as Hitler's "Eagle's Nest," at Berchtesgaden in the Upper Bavarian mountains. Natural caves have been blasted out to make an air-conditioned underground fortress for 60 people, complete with stocks of food, water, tools, medicine and arms. There is also a secret getaway passage through the mountains.

Adenauer also has a bomb shelter near his office in Bonn. Constructed of reinforced concrete, the roof is covered with layers of soil to minimize radiation.

Charles de Gaulle, France's President, probably would sit out an attack in a deep dungeon under the historic Ile de la Cité, right in the heart of Paris. The island was first built into a fortress in 358 A.D. by the Roman Emperor Julian the Apostate, who used the dungeons to store silver coins.

MACMILLAN. A

alive those within. The shelter has its own oxygen plant, so outlets can be sealed.

The granite roof is 80 feet thick. The 50-ton doors are set at an angle to be blast-proof, and the walls are honeycombed to reduce the blast force. The furnishings are futuristic. Among the supplies are books on archeology for King Gustav, a bug on the subject, who might want something to read during the attack. With typical Swedish thriftiness, the invulnerable hideaway has a peace-time use as a royal garage.

Elizabeth II and Harold Macmillan, Prime Minister of Britain, both veterans of the London blitz, haven't gone to extremes. The Buckingham Palace wine cellars have been reinforced; there is Churchill's old bomb-proof headquarters near Admiralty House; several huge underground radar stations are also available. These are reasonably safe, except from direct hit.

PARADE understands, however, that the Queen and her ministers have been thinking more in terms of going up than down for safety. The royal family and chief ministers would take to the air in Vulcan or Victor bombers which would soar to 75,000 feet. The government could even be transferred in hours to Canada to fight on from there.

President Kennedy and our own leaders have the great underground Pentagon that has been established in the hills of West Virginia. Only the precise location is secret. The President, his family and chief aides can be whisked there in less than 30 minutes by helicopter. Here, invulnerable to nuclear attack, a government in miniature is ready.

Under the White House itself is an emergency bomb shelter encased in four feet of solid concrete, reinforced with steel. Built originally for the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt, it has a sloping entrance and an emergency exit. This presidential dugout is not furnished for plush living. The President and his aides would sleep on metal cots, sit on straight chairs, work at plain wooden tables. Simple meals would be prepared in a tiny kitchen.

Though it measures a modest 100 by 50 feet, the shelter is equipped with its own heating system, power plant, communications network and water supply. All facilities are completely independent of the city overhead. Should surface Washington ever be demolished, its heart could keep on beating below ground.

VESTAL, N.Y.

THE WHITE CLAPBOARD HOME of Lee Carpenter, his wife and two children looks like any other on Woodlawn Drive here. But under the backyard is an 11'-x-11'-x-6½' fallout shelter. Why did Carpenter, a computer expert who has worked on defense systems, build it? Should you do the same? His answer:

"My profession first made me aware of the danger. As far back as 1958, I became convinced that the Soviet aimed at dominating the world and would use force to do it. In this situation, with no real defense against missiles, the only course left is to dig. I owe it to my children to give them a chance to survive.

"I built my shelter in 1959. My neighbors were, well, tolerant of the idea. The shelter consists of about 60 tons of concrete and cost me about as much as a medium-priced car. That's high; ours could keep eight to 10 people alive three to four weeks. Most cost about $500.

"We largely followed the Civil Defense specifications. We have specially-designed ceramic filters that are supposed to filter out radioactive fallout, an emergency air supply, canned water, a chemical toilet—all the things people have heard about.

"This is no game we're playing. I know people shy away from the subject, or say they wouldn't want to survive in 'such a world.' But who knows? If enough of us had holes to hide in, we could put our civilization back together in 15 years. It's the people we've got to save."

THE LANGUAGE BATTLE

The U.S. is in high gear now—but did we start too late?

by ED KIESTER

HERE'S WHAT THEY'RE SAYING in U.S. schools and colleges this fall:

In Bountiful, Utah: "AH-nah bah-T'AH-lehm LOH-hah gah-DEE-dah."

In San Francisco: "Woh tsai sheh sheeng-teh hwa."

Translated, each sentence means, "I am learning to speak a new language." Respectively, the languages are Arabic, Chinese, Swahili, Russian. In other schools, students are learning Swedish, Portuguese, Norwegian, Hebrew, Czech and Greek—as well as the common standbys of French, Spanish, German and Italian.

For the U.S. is suddenly off on a language kick. It extends to all ages, to all states—and to a whole babble of tongues. Although statistics are elusive, more than 5 million Americans may be mastering new languages this fall. And this buildup—with its heartening implications for the cold war—has come about almost overnight, without most people being aware of it.

Here's what is happening in and out of schools:

ELEMENTARY SCHOOL: Most dramatic developments have come here: enrollments in language classes have jumped 700 per cent in six years. Today 2 million grade-schoolers acquire a speaking acquaintance with another tongue. Most programs aim only at teaching good accent, basic vocabulary, leaving fluency for later. Most taught languages: Spanish, French.

HIGH SCHOOL: Language classes, up 20 per cent in a year (1958-59), now total over 1½ million. Even more encouraging is the striking gain in four-year students, who thus achieve real language mastery.

COLLEGE: Numbers in language courses are increasing twice as fast as college population. Studying languages this fall: more than 600,000. Included are would-be language teachers, badly needed in schools, and students in little-known, exotic tongues.

PRIVATE INSTRUCTION: Enrollments at Berlitz, best known private language school, have tripled in five years — largely because of U.S. business expansion overseas. Sales of self-instruction records and books are swelling.

All this is encouraging news for the U.S., since language is a key weapon in the struggle to win over the uncommitted peoples. And it may likewise affect our relations with the Soviet itself. "We cannot understand what is in the minds of other people if we cannot even speak to them," President Kennedy has warned.

A few years ago, language was the most neglected subject in the curriculum. The narrowing gap is due to Sputnik, the James B. Conant study of the high schools—and a $43 million federal crash program.

But has the increased pace been fast enough? Many experts fear it has not. "I wish literally millions of Americans would study Spanish and Portuguese," former President Eisenhower declared after his Latin-American tour.

The Big Push at Creve Coeur

But dramatic changes are being made. Take, for instance, what has happened in the Parkway schools, in the St. Louis suburb of Creve Coeur (see photo). There you are as likely to be greeted with the Russian "Dobrey den" as "Good morning." More than 850 students between 8 and 13 are learning Russian. Nowhere else is the subject being taught so intensively to so many young students.

This start-'em-early program isn't unlike the Soviet approach, where 10 years of second-language instruction begins in nursery school. And the hope of better relations between Americans and Russians is one reason for the Creve Coeur project.

Says C. W. Farnham, Parkway superintendent: "We hope, through the language, to study the history, geography and customs of a nation with which it is increasingly important to maintain sound relations."

After a year's study, a Parkway student is expected to know 150 Russian words. After four years, his vocabulary should be 600. Comparably, three years in nursery school English gives a Russian 300 words. PARADE observed one of these classes in action (see cover) and can testify to the language abilities of the 5- to 7-year-olds.

Parkway students responded so well to the program's first year that it has been expanded. Last year it was taught in third through sixth grade, in four schools. This year it has been initiated in seventh grade and will begin in all schools. In 1962 school officials plan an eighth-grade course, and they will keep expanding until 10 years' study has been set up.

Gregor Breitberg, 42, a stocky, amiable refugee with a University of Moscow degree in languages, is the entire faculty, teaching five hours daily in five schools. He also instructs an adult class, briefs the classroom teachers to assist him and draws up teaching materials.

Each student sees him only a half hour a week, but it is a lively period. Breitberg, an accomplished violinist once with the St. Louis Symphony, often brings along his instrument and his two musical sons and teaches Russian songs. The students' first-semester repertoire is apt to include harvest melodies and Christmas carols. Breitberg finds singing a good way to put across new words, especially with younger students.

He doesn't strive to build big vocabularies, however, aiming more for good pronunciation. He also tries to instill a working knowledge of Russian's difficult 33-character alphabet. One early lesson is how to count the Russian way. In the halls of Parkway schools, you hear the chant, "Adeen-dva-tree-chatyri-pyat . . ."

What's Russian for "Blackboard"?

When Breitberg isn't teaching, classroom teachers (most of whom never heard a word of Russian until two years ago) conduct drills. They also use Russian words for classroom objects such as "blackboard" or "desk." And each has on call a tape recorder with refresher tapes of Breitberg in action.

And perhaps the tipoff on student enthusiasm came this year. Given an opportunity to pull out of the program, only a handful did.

"Think what this kind of program could do!" exults Assistant Superintendent Arthur Mallory, echoing the sentiments of language teachers — and government officials across the U.S. "Suppose we could turn out 25 or 30 youngsters who could communicate — really communicate — with the Russians. Think what that might do for America and the whole world!" ■

JELL-O BRAND GELATIN DESSERT

Mitzi Gaynor and husband Jack Bean made deal for $40,000-a-week night-club act—and possible starring role for Mitzi in the film The Fanny Brice Story.

MITZI GAYNOR

Famous role for Mitzi was Nellie Forbush in South Pacific. She sings medley from movie in night-club act.

Why she's worth $40,000 a week

by LLOYD SHEARER

LAS VEGAS, NEV.

LAST MONTH MITZI GAYNOR, 30, finished a six-week stint at the Flamingo here.

She was paid $40,000 a week, one of the most astronomical salaries ever paid any entertainer in Las Vegas' high-priced history.

Amazingly enough, this was Mitzi's first night-club job, and her primary reason for taking it was, "I didn't have anything else to do."

Translated, this means Mitzi Gaynor was unemployed. In Hollywood there was no call for her acting services. In fact, prior to her Las Vegas stint, this peppy, well-formed, bouncing beauty hadn't played in a motion picture for two years.

How, then, could she command $40,000 a week from hotel-owner Morris Lansburgh?

The answer lies in the shortage of available name-entertainers in America who have talent.

There are plenty of entertainers, you understand, such as Jayne Mansfield, Zsa Zsa Gabor, Marlene Dietrich, Jane Russell, Mamie Van Doren and Ann Sothern who have "names"—but their talent, as displayed on supper-club stages here, may be called microscopic.

Mitzi Gaynor was paid $40,000 a week because she was new to Las Vegas and has genuine talent. She can sing, dance, quip, impersonate. She gives an audience its money's worth.

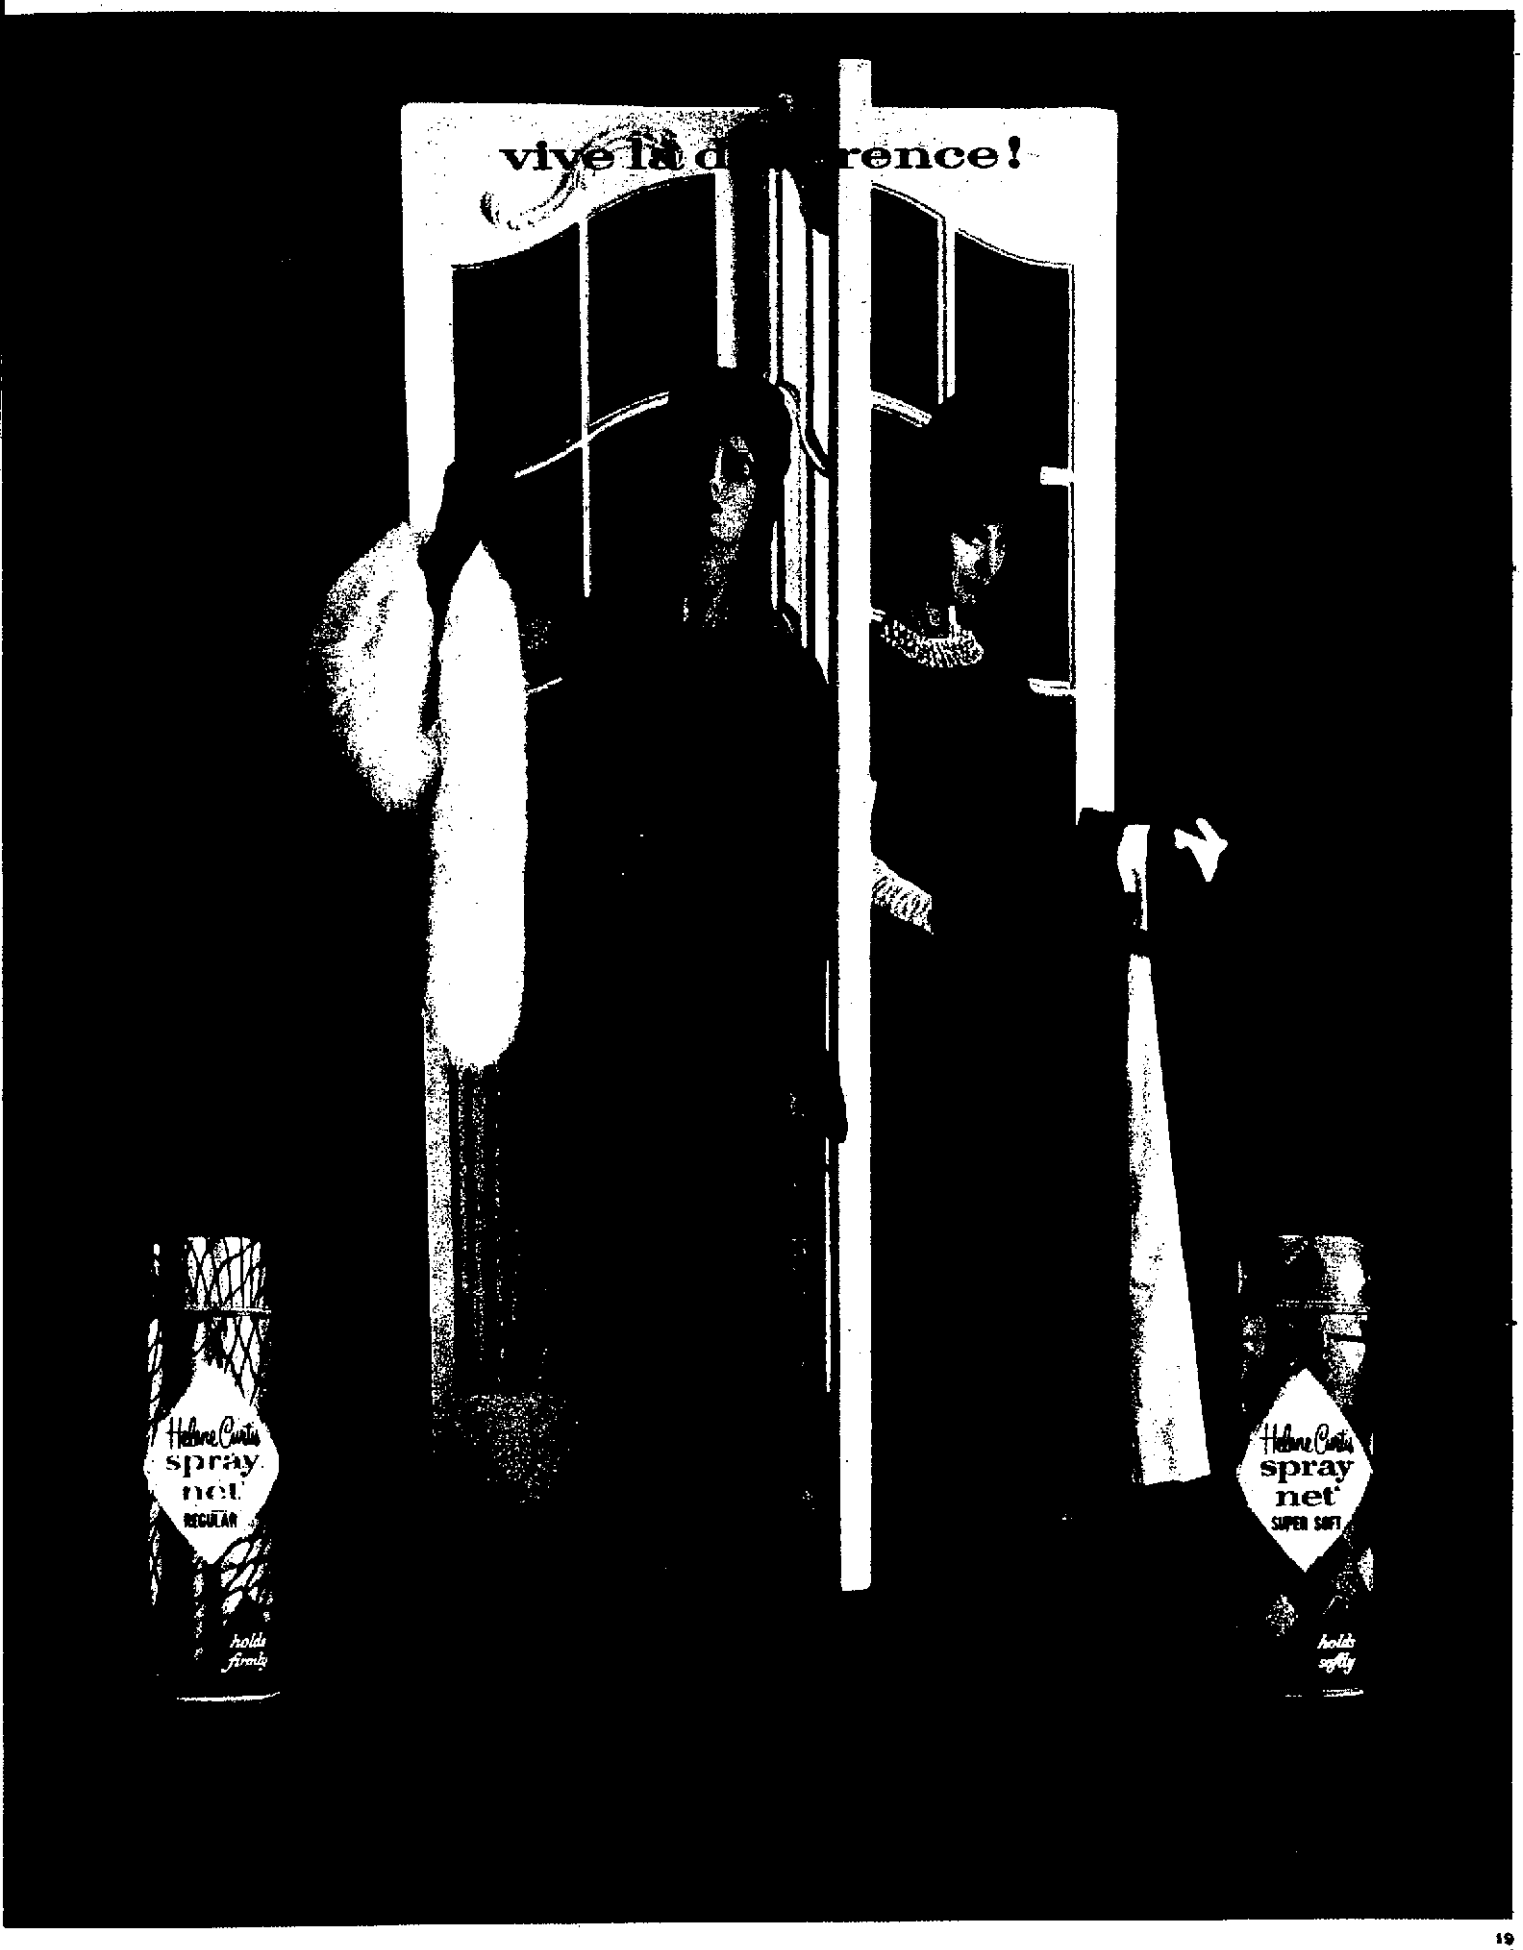

She doesn't slink on stage, sing a few off-key numbers and say in effect to the cash customers, "All right, take a look at me. I'm a Hollywood movie star. Now that I've satisfied your curiosity, go home, dear people. Go home."

Mitzi works hard. She stays on stage almost continuously for an hour, offers an imaginative song-and-dance sketch called "Hollywood Cavalcade" in which she imitates film queens from the silent flickers, the roaring 20s, the sultry 30s, the sexy 40s and the patriotic 50s. Then she performs a devastating imitation of a foreign star (Marlene Dietrich), goes into an arduous dance routine with four young men, sings a trio of "happy songs," ends by belting out a medley of the tunes she sang in South Pacific, a movie in which she expected to hit it big but somehow didn't.

Costume changes are her only respite during the show, and when it's over, Mitzi is as limp as a rag doll, the audience is applauding loudly, and the applause is punctuated with cries of "more, more, more."

In Las Vegas such cries have become relatively rare as the customers over the years have become more

In 1950 (above) Mitzi was a little on the hefty side. She since has reduced, now has a perfect figure. Below, she does imitation of silent flicker queen as part of her night-club act.

'There's something about a live audience that gets you'

knowledgeable and jaded. In the past 10 years they've seen Frank Sinatra, Dean Martin, Milton Berle, Sophie Tucker, Joe E. Lewis, Harry Belafonte, Sammy Davis, all the other show business veterans so many times that they know most of their routines by heart.

What they want is newness, and that's what Mitzi Gaynor gave them.

In the process she opened a new chapter in her career —the supper-club chapter. She considers this fortunate, "because Hollywood just isn't making musicals any more, and let's face it, although I consider myself a pretty good actress, most of the producers in Hollywood think of me as a song-and-dance gal."

The reason is that Mitzi Gaynor (real name—Gerber) first broke into show business as a dancer. When she was 14 she left Detroit, came to Hollywood, found a job dancing a comedy-bit in a local production of Roberta. She worked other musicals, was eventually spotted in The Great Waltz by a talent scout from 20th Century-Fox.

The studio signed Mitzi at $250 a week but failed to capitalize on her fantastic figure—one of the best in Hollywood, a firm 36-22-35 on top of perfect legs.

Explained one studio executive, "She generated more schoolgirlish appeal than sex appeal." Says Mitzi's husband, Jack Bean, "The guy who said that is obviously blind."

Mitzi Is Bypassed

In truth Mitzi was under contract to 20th Century at a time, 1950-57, when Betty Grable was peaking and her replacement, Marilyn Monroe, was targeted for the all-out buildup. Two sexpots in one studio are enough, so Mitzi was bypassed and given feature roles and secondary leads, until South Pacific came along.

After South Pacific was released and became a big hit, the studio dropped Mitzi.

This past March, Mitzi and her husband flew to Las Vegas for the Ray Robinson-Gene Fullmer prize fight. They ran into Morris Lansburgh, 42, a hotel man from Miami Beach who had recently bought the Flamingo.

Aware of the big-name talent shortage, Lansburgh offered Mitzi a deal. Mitzi's husband countered with the following proposition: $40,000 a week for Mitzi for four weeks, two shows a night, a joint production company in which Mitzi and Lansburgh were partners, possible film production of The Fanny Brice Story with Mitzi as star. Lansburgh agreed.

Opening night in Las Vegas found Mitzi super-charged and sensational. In successive weeks she broke all the house records, attracted so many people that Lansburgh offered her a lifetime contract.

Convinced today that she can make a go of it in the saloon circuit, Mitzi is currently mulling over offers to play Lake Tahoe, Miami, the Palladium in London. Several weeks ago she was signed for a role in Broadway's upcoming The Night They Raided Minsky's.

"There's something about a live audience," she says, "that gets you. In movies you try, but you can't really talk to the audience through a camera."

Her husband claims, however, that what Mitzi wants most is a family.

"She loves to cook and clean and take care of people," Jack points out, "but after seven years of marriage, I'm still the only one she has to take care of. What we both want most are babies."

At $40,000 a week, Mitzi and Jack will soon be well-enough endowed to take care of a hundred. ■

A candy-like pear dessert

by BETH MERRIMAN Parade food editor

IT'S NOT REALLY a pie, nor is it a pudding, but Crunchy Pear Dessert combines the best features of both and is truly superlative. Line a pie pan with a mixture that is almost like candy—sweet, crunchy and rich. Fill with a smooth custard, swirl on whipped cream with a lavish hand, crown with a circle of plump pear halves dipped in cinnamon and sugar.

Crunchy Pear Dessert

½ cup butter or margarine
¼ cup firmly packed brown sugar
1 cup sifted enriched flour
½ cup flaked coconut

Heat oven to 400°. Combine all ingredients; mix with hands. Spread in oblong pan, 13" x 9½" x 2". Bake 15 minutes. Remove from oven; stir with spoon. Press 2 cups hot crunch against bottom and sides of 9" pie pan, using a fork. Cool.

Filling and Topping

½ cup firmly packed brown sugar
⅓ cup enriched flour
¼ teaspoon salt
¾ cup pear juice, from canned pears
¾ cup milk
2 eggs, slightly beaten
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
½ teaspoon vanilla
¾ cup whipping cream
6 canned pear halves, well drained
¼ cup sugar
1 teaspoon cinnamon

Combine brown sugar, flour and salt. Blend in pear juice and milk until smooth. Cook over medium heat, stirring constantly, until mixture thickens and comes to a boil. Boil 1 minute. Remove from heat. Gradually stir hot mixture into beaten eggs until all is added. Return to heat. Boil 1 minute longer. Blend in butter and vanilla. Pour into crunchy crust. Chill thoroughly. Just before serving, whip cream; spread over top. Mix sugar and cinnamon; dip pear halves in mixture; arrange on whipped cream. Sprinkle extra crunch over all, if desired.

FROM PARADE'S TEST KITCHEN

British truck driver Jimmy Collins gets his regular permanent in London hairdressing salon for men, run by Michael Sherman.

Permanents for men

LONDON, ENGLAND.

ONE OF THE ARMY'S most famous retired generals dyes his hair. A well-known Hollywood star gets his bleached before each color film. A popular Broadway matinee idol finger-waves his locks every month.

This hairdressing is performed on a hush-hush, top-secret basis.

Why? Because in America anything done to man's hair over and beyond the conventional haircut and shampoo is considered not quite masculine.

In the past eight years salons have sprung up all over London where men receive permanent waves, finger-waves, hair-tinting and complete hair restyling. And it's not regarded as sissy-ish either.

MICHAEL SHERMAN, 23 (see photo), opened his hairdressing salon for men eight months ago and claims, "Business is so good I'm thinking of establishing a chain of these salons throughout Europe. There's no reason why a man shouldn't get a permanent wave if it helps his appearance; every day more and more men are coming around to that way of thinking. And these men are real men, not dandies."

Case in point is Jimmy Collins, 19, a truck driver who visits Michael's salon for his monthly permanent. Says Jimmy, "The girls like me better with wavy hair. Matter of fact I like myself better."

COLLINS PAYS $7 for his permanent, insists, "It's a great morale-booster," claims his fellow truck drivers know all about it, never razz him.

Young hairdresser Sherman points out that to date most of his customers have been "elderly gentlemen who come in for dye-jobs, say 'Might as well get a permanent, too.'"

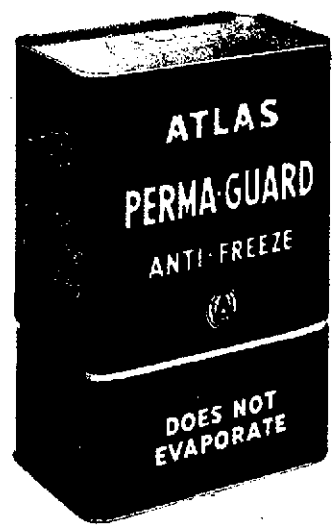

"Women," he declares, "have no monopoly on vanity, which is why this business has caught on. I'm sure there are millions of men in America who want to look younger than they really are, who would welcome the same type of hairdressing salons we have here in London."

If American men are going to do this sort of thing in the dark, and apparently some of them do so in the privacy of their homes, why not bring it out in the open, as the British are doing?

CARS on PARADE

by KEN PURDY

Cool idea, man! In the Scandinavian countries, automobile-racing on frozen lakes is an old-time sport. Devotees claim that it's about as much fun as anything that can be done with an automobile, and, oddly enough, when one considers the surface, it's not wildly dangerous. If a driver "loses" the car he just sits and waits until it stops skidding, a quarter of a mile or so down the lake. You can see ice-racing in Wisconsin and Minnesota and in the East one of the best courses is at Lake Naomi, Pa., in the Poconos, where the ice is often 30 inches thick. (Eighteen inches is safe.) Almost unbeatable at Lake Naomi, and probably the best ice-driver in the country, is a retired electronics engineer named Allison Stout, who admits that his 60th birthday is some way behind him. Stout has been timed at 115 miles an hour on glass-smooth ice. He has used big cars, but he usually drives a SAAB, a potent three-cylinder car made in Sweden and famous for its ability to negotiate snow and ice. Incidentally, European ice-racers often use chains or steel-knobbed tires. The American rule is regular road-tires only. Makes things much more interesting!

Dingle-dangles. Baby shoes, yo-yos and similarly distracting gimmicks hanging over the windshield are considered so dangerous that they are grounds for failure in New Jersey safety inspections. A fat 44.4 per cent of cars inspected last year failed. Sobering thought: most of them had bad brakes, bad steering, or both.

What, no mechanics? Is the filling-station mechanic on the way out? Could be. The trend toward cars that need no maintenance is growing steadily. Comes now from France the Renault 4L with two startling features: 1) The cooling system is permanently sealed at the factory. The owner never adds water, anti-freeze or anything else; 2) All joints are filled with grease and permanently sealed when the car is built. For the life of the machine, no grease-job is necessary. Automation in the matter of oil and gas purchase is perfectly feasible now, so what's left for the filling-station attendant to do? Windshield cleaning? Nonsense. Any bright engineering student could design a gimmick to do that. There's just one thing left: Somebody will have to rig up a machine that can answer the question, "You know a fella named something like Zoftenburg lives around here?"

How many? There are 79 million American men and women qualified, at least in theory, to drive automobiles.

Toughest race. The most difficult automobile race in the world may be the Argentine Production Car Grand Prix. It lasts eight days and covers 3,000 very mean miles. A Volvo won last time. Drivers who enter this one are not kidding: one Pedro Sancha lost his left front wheel and drove the last 15 miles without it. He came down the road streaming sparks from the brake-drum, which was ground flat from being dragged along the concrete, but he finished.

All clear in front. A Swedish optical expert has demonstrated a means of giving a driver a clear field of vision through 180°. The Heimer System replaces the standard front-door windows with thick prism-cut glass, which enables the driver to see "through" or "around" the specially thin windshield posts. He thus has a complete field of vision all the way around, from a point opposite one shoulder to a point opposite the other.

Skidding like this is called fun in ice racing.

The easy way. Ettore Bugatti, who designed the famous Bugatti automobile, was an inventor of extraordinary range. His main life-work was the production of 70-odd different models of Bugatti automobiles, some of them considered to have been 20 years ahead of their time. (His best period was 1919 to 1939.) But he designed any number of other things, from trains to sewing-needle holders. Some were successful, some never caught on. Among the latter: an electric-powered reel, for sportsmen who wanted to catch big fish but found it tiring to haul them in! ■

BERT'S EYE VIEW

Steve Allen Back Without 'Name' Guest

By BERT RESNIK
TV and Radio Editor

Steve Allen, whose new show debuts 7:30 p.m. Wednesday on channel 7, is abandoning his big-name, guest-star policy of yesteryear.

"That doesn't mean I wouldn't put on Marilyn Monroe, Marlon Brando or Cary Grant if I could get them," he said.

"But we're not going to book somebody just because they're in a movie. The emphasis of the new show is going to be on fresh talent and more comedy."

Steve said the day of booking names just because they were "names" is past.

"That may have been front-page news in 1954 or 1955, but not any longer."

* * * *

THE EMPHASIS on "more comedy" is Steve's idea because that's what he thinks television presently needs.

"My show has always been the best one for comedians," he said. "No comedian ever died on my show because we always gave him a chance to show his stuff."

Members of Steverino's "Old Gang" will be "sprinkled throughout the year" on his new program. All of them will never be back at one time.

Two of his shows have already been taped and Steve, disdaining modesty, labeled them "very funny — better than the old program."

* * * *

THOUSANDS of his fans thought there wasn't much of anything that was better than his old program and protested when NBC-TV took him off TV last year.

They rejoiced when ABC-TV announced it was bringing Steverino back for a regular run.

I asked Steve what his victorious return to television represented.

"Hundreds of thousands of dollars," he answered.

"In addition, it makes me feel very happy."

BIOGRAPHY OF BULLWINKLE MOOSE

(A handy reference for writers, students, TV columnists, fan clubs, scandal magazines, and collectors of trivia. Also useful for lining garbage pails and wrapping sandwiches.)

The star of "The Bullwinkle Show," which debuts 7 p..m. today (Sunday) on channel 4, is more than just a moose. He is the finest example of the great North American Clod. Having been born and raised in Frostbite Falls, Minn., he attended the Philpott School for Exceptional Children (he was the only student with antlers, which would tend to make him exceptional) and MIT (the Moose Institute of Toe-dancing).

AFTER DISTINGUISHED service in the armed forces as a destroyer radar mast and an officers' club hat-rack, Bullwinkle decided to study acting under the great student of Stanislavski, Francis the Talking Horse. Early in his training, Bullwinkle was alternately determined to become an animated duck, a bunny rabbit, and an iguana, but a singular lack of interest by casting directors persuaded him to abandon this approach. After several off-Broadway roles (in Laos and Yucca Flats, Nev.), Bullwinkle hit the Great White Way in "Irma La Moose" and "Charley's Antlers." (The Great White Way, incidentally, is the main street of Frostbite Falls, which is snowed in 11 months out of the year.)

AWAY FROM THE Jay Ward Productions Studio (where "The Bullwinkle Show" is filmed and de-contaminated), Bullwinkle likes nothing better than curling up in front of a fire with a pile of good books.

"They burn so nice and slow," he says.

Part of Bullwinkle's success has been due to his animal intelligence. "He has more brains in his little finger," says Producer Ward, "than he has in his whole head!"

★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★

But He Won't 'Holler' or 'Blow His Top'

By VERNON SCOTT

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Five years have passed since Leon Ames last stormed into the nation's living rooms as the terrible-tempered Clarence Day in "Life With Father."

At 9:30 p.m. Friday on channel 2 he returns to the TV wars minus dyed red hair and Day's peptic personality.

But Leon remains a father.

The veteran character actor stars in "Father of the Bride," a new family situation series taken from the old MGM movie hit which featured Spencer Tracy and Elizabeth Taylor.

Inasmuch as a video series including Tracy and Taylor would cost roughly a million dollars a week, MGM and the Columbia Broadcasting System settled for Ames and pretty Myrna Fahey.

At first blush it may sound like a road company version of the original, but Tracy and Taylor are too old for the roles anyhow.

Ames is delighted to be playing a TV parent again and hopes viewers won't confuse his character of Stanley Banks with that of Day.

"THERE IS ABSOLUTELY no similarity between the two men," he said, spearing a tomato from his noontime salad in the MGM commissary. "Day was a one-dimension character. This man has many facets.

"All father Day did was yell and holler and blow his top.

"He was easy to play all right. He was a big ham and I got away with murder for years playing him as broadly as possible."

Mother Day (Lurene Tuttle) will appear in the new series, too, but not as Ames' wife. She will portray the mother of Leon's son-in-law.

"I requested that they give Lurene a role in the show," he explained. "At first a lot of people connected with the program said her presence might remind too many viewers of 'Life With Father.' But from what I've seen of the shows so far, we have nothing to worry about."

AMES NEED NEVER ACT AGAIN. He owns a successful automobile agency in the San Fernando Valley in addition to other investments.

"I love to work," he explained. "It's my hobby.

"I don't hunt, fish or play golf. I hate golf. All you do is hit that little ball and spend the rest of the day looking for it.

"Hunting is worse. I went out deer hunting once, but the other hunters were such idiots they'd shoot at anything—including me. So I stayed in the car all day."

Ames says his role in the new series requires more acting ability than he has had to exercise in television for many years.

"He's a sensible, hard-working, frustrated father," he concluded. "He solves his problems with maturity. That's much more difficult than blowing your top and yelling 'eeegads' at the top of your lungs."

Do you know that accidents are more dangerous than diseases in the age group from 1 to 24 years?

It's not hard to figure out why! Every day youngsters do many things which are dangerous...with never a thought to the possible consequences.

Running out from between parked cars, falling from bikes, playing hazardous games, scraping knees, climbing over fences...all this is part of an average day to an active boy or girl.

Youngsters get hurt twice as often as their parents. That's why more and more parents are taking out this insurance for each one of their children.

In these days when it costs so much to be laid-up by an accident, you cannot afford to let your children be without this protection.

HERE'S HOW TO GET A POLICY

FOR FIRST POLICY IN FAMILY—Fill out and mail the simple application below. Send no money. After you receive your policy, pay 50c premium at the same time you pay for the paper.

I apply for "Accumulative" Accident Insurance, to become effective day policy is issued and dated. I understand that it takes about 10 days to issue a policy and agree (1) to pay the premium of 50c per month; (2) designate person who collects for my newspaper as my messenger to deliver premium to above office; (3) that policy will automatically expire if I fail to pay premium when due. Insurance does not cover persons who have lost both hands and feet, or the sight of both eyes.

☐ FOR FIRST POLICY IN FAMILY — Send no money. Pay carrier 50c each month at the same time you pay for paper.

☐ FOR EACH ADDITIONAL POLICY IN FAMILY — Enclose $6.00 Annual Premium with each application.

IF EACH OF THE MILLIONS OF EGGS SPAWNED ANNUALLY BY MEMBERS OF THE FROG FAMILY DEVELOPED INTO AN ADULT WE WOULD BE LITERALLY KNEE-DEEP IN AMPHIBIANS
BUT FROM THE MOMENT THE TADPOLES HATCH THEY ARE UNDER CONSTANT ATTACK

FISH, TURTLES, SHREWS, INSECTS, BIRDS, SNAKES AND EVEN THEIR CANNIBALISTIC RELATIVES GOBBLE THEM UP BY THE HUNDREDS
AND LATER, AS THEY LEAVE THE WATER TO BEGIN LIFE ON LAND, THE "FROGLETS" ARE MET BY TEETH, CLAWS AND LONG SHARP BEAKS
SO THAT ONLY ONE IN THOUSANDS SURVIVES TO REACH FULL GROWTH AND PRODUCE THE NEXT GENERATION
FROGS AND TOADS, THE TAILLESS AMPHIBIANS, ARE DIVIDED INTO ABOUT 99 SPECIES AND SUBSPECIES
THOUGH THE TOADS AND FROGS ARE NOT EASILY DISTINGUISHED AS TWO SEPARATE FAMILIES, THE TOADS USUALLY HAVE WARTY SKIN AND LIVE MAINLY ON LAND, WHILE FROGS GENERALLY HAVE SMOOTH SKIN AND REMAIN NEAR WATER OR MOIST AREAS

Sacramento dogs check new dog food claims

SACRAMENTO, Calif.–Local dogs turned out in force recently when General Mills held dramatic, informal dog food tests at Sacramento's Country Club Centre. This test, held in West Coast cities, confirmed earlier kennel tests in which 2 out of 3 dogs switched to New Surechamp Meal Ticket from their regular dry dog food.

2 out of 3 dogs switched to New Surechamp Meal Ticket in General Mills' Kennel Tests

$1.00 GUARANTEE OFFERED

One of America's leading food producers, General Mills, has created a new dog food called Surechamp Meal Ticket with such an appealing and different taste that:

- 2 out of 3 dogs tested switched to it from their regular dry dog food in scientific kennel tests.
- In a series of public feeding tests 2 out of 3 dogs also chose new Surechamp Meal Ticket over their owner's choice of five leading packaged dog foods.
- General Mills guarantees dogs will enjoy the new food and backs the guarantee with the offer of a $1.00 coupon, good toward the purchase of any dry dog food.

Meal Ticket is a greatly improved formulation of Surechamp, a food long popular among West Coast dogs.

Tests prove theories

The feeding tests, General Mills spokesmen say, gave scientific proof to widely held theories that dogs, like people, welcome exciting new flavor in their diets.

Discoveries about the importance of a combination of ingredients, cooking, shape and texture in the enhancement of dog food flavor produced the taste triumph.

Unique new shape

The product's unique new roll shape is of great importance, General Mills officials say. Kennel tests show dogs are especially fond of this new form.

And, certain ingredients not only enhance flavor but add vitamins and proteins to an already completely balanced canine meal.

"EATIN' GOOD" GUARANTEE

Following are details of the product's guarantee, believed to be the most daring in the history of the dog food industry.

New–guaranteed eatin' good. Your dog will eat and enjoy Surechamp Meal Ticket. If he doesn't, send the certificate of guarantee from any package of New Surechamp Meal Ticket and a letter describing your dog's reaction to: General Mills, Inc., Box 37, Minneapolis 60, Minn. We'll send you a $1.00 coupon good on any dry dog food at your grocer's. Limit, one coupon to a customer.
